U. C. W. FIRST MEETING OF FALL SESSION

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick U. C. W. met in the church hall on September 3rd after a two-month recess. Owing to the busy harvest season attendance was small.

President Mrs. Gascoyne opened the meeting with prayer, following which Mrs. W. Hallam gave the devotional. Minutes were read and adopted. Two letters from ex- Korean foster-child were read, as well as a letter from the city worker who is responsible for her, stating that the little girl is doing well, but living conditions in the area are certainly not the best.

The manse committee reported on the redecorating at the manse, and the purchase of a new kitchen suite.

After a lengthy discussion it was decided to change the meeting date to the second Wednesday in each month at 8:00 p.m., which means October 9th for the next meeting.

An interesting program is planned with films to be shown. Any ladies interested are most welcome.

Operation Outlined — Alberta's First
New Hospital Complex Nearing Completion

The new Killam Hospital Complex comprising a 30 bed General Hospital and a 30 bed Auxiliary with a common service wing is now nearing completion. The general contractor has indicated that the November 1st completion date will be met. This complex is the first in Alberta wherein a private General Hospital and a District Auxiliary have been constructed adjacent to each other with a common wing for shared services. The Sisters of St. Joseph will operate the Auxiliary under contract to the board of the Flagstaff - Beaver Auxiliary District. For maximum efficiency and economy of operation the heads of certain departments will share their services between the two hospitals. Otherwise each hospital will have its own staff of nurses, aids, housekeepers, etc. Sister Lauralea, present Administrator of the Killam General, has been appointed Administrator of the new Complex.

The Medical Staff for the Auxiliary Hospital has been formed by the board with all doctors presently practicing within the bounds of Flagstaff Municipality and Beaver County invited to join. Meetings of the medical staff have already been held at which various committees were formed and preliminary plans laid to receive patients into the hospital upon completion of construction and arrival of equipment.

To clarify certain points regarding the operation of Auxiliary Hospitals the board of the Flagstaff-Beaver District in the following paragraphs briefly outlines some of the important features of the Auxiliary Hospital program. In addition members of the board will be happy to meet with interested groups desiring more detailed information.

The primary objective of the Auxiliary Hospital program is to provide hospital care; thus an Auxiliary Hospital is a care, treatment and discharge centre. The aim is to provide service to the maximum number of patients in the province requiring auxiliary hospital care and to prevent the institution from becoming a custodial care unit (nursing home). They are hospitals like any other hospital, only "in slow motion" offering medical care and treatment to those who need it, for as long as they need it, whether it be for rehabilitation, restriction or terminal professional medical care.

Under the Hospital plan residents of the province have free choice of hospitals. A hospital may give admission priority to residents of its own district only when it has a waiting list and there are insufficient beds to admit all persons seeking admission.

From the experience of Auxiliary Hospitals and with the development of medical assessment committees the Hospitals Division of the Department of Public Health has revised the procedures and report forms with respect to the admittance of patients to Auxiliary hospitals throughout the province. Briefly, to be eligible for admittance a patient must be one who requires and will benefit from professional medical and nursing care as a result of chronic illness, disease or infirmities. Those requiring only custodial nursing care would be referred to a nursing home as they would not be eligible for auxiliary hospital care under the Alberta Hospitals Benefit Plan. Eligible patients receive attended ward care for $1.50 per day with private room accommodation available upon request at a slightly higher rate. Non-eligible patients in auxiliary hospitals are liable for a charge of $15.00 per day.

Application for admittance under the plan will be made by a physician on behalf of his patient. The completed application should be sent to the hospital administrator for presentation to the hospital's Medical Assessment Committee. This committee reviews all applications to ensure they come under the auxiliary patient category as stated by the Department of Health and then indicates on the form either that application is approved or not approved. All approvals are subject to review after 3 months to ensure the need for continued hospitalization. Copies of all admission and assessment forms are sent to the Hospitals Division of the Health Department. All Doctors in the Flagstaff-Beaver District will shortly be supplied with the application forms for their patients who may be eligible for admission.

Weekly Newspaper National Meeting

MURRAY BAY, QUEBEC —Charles H. Nolan, a weekly newspaper editor and publisher for the past 26 years, was elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at convention here.

Publisher of the Stouffville, Ont. Tribune, Mr. Nolan penned the paper as a partner with his father, the late A. V. "Bert" Nolan and has been publisher since his father's death.

Mr. Nolan appointed Yves Gagnon of the St.-Jean le Canada Francais as liason commissioner between the CWNA and the French weeklies.

CONFEDERATION

Quebec Provincial Secretary Bona Arsenault told members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association that confederation could come apart within "the next couple of years" unless constitutional problems are solved.

"We French Canadians are even more concerned over this possibility than are English Canadians," he said, "for we love this country, but from Gaspe to the Ottawa River but from Newfoundland to British Columbia." He warned other Canadians that "those who feel that this latest surge of Quebec Nationalism will do away" will be sadly mistaken.

WHATS BUGGING YOU

One of North America's leading authorities on weekly newspapers, Dr. Howard Long of Cornell University told the convention that weekly editors should no longer be concerned exclusively with "bond issues and street improvements." Arguing for a strong editorial page, Dr. Long claimed that the weekly editor should be prepared to write editorials on whatever topic is of interest to its readers.

"As a rule of thumb. Just write an editorial on whatever is bugging you today," he said. "Whether it is international, national or local." Dr. Long claimed that changes in population in North America are causing "new vacuums", particularly in suburban districts. He said that the weekly was better equipped than the dailies to fill this vacuum. "The golden age of the weekly newspaper is coming." he said — and weeklies should rise to the occasion."

GHOST RIDERS IN THE SKY!

It would appear that humans have an unhappy faculty of cluttering up everything they touch. Not satisfied with their activities here on earth, they have migrated to to outer space, and apparently are doing a bang-up job of cluttering up the atmosphere with all manner of junk. It has become the usual thing when motoring today, to pass "material graveyards" literally jammed to overflowing with the remains of man's ingenuity and his total disregard for things expendable. Cars & trucks by the hundreds are piled up on vacant lots throughout the country, grotesque monuments to man's foolishness. Not content with defacing the landscape with these skeletons and meaningless piles of scrap, man has now taken off into outer space, and with the same disrespect for orderliness, is cluttering atmosphere with the hulks and remains of vehicles of all kinds. It is predicted by N.A.A.D. that with in the next decade there will be over 10,000 objects out in space orbit around the earth. The traffic out there is now getting to be terrific. Since 1957, when the first Russian Sputnik was hurtled into space, the population in space has increased to 348. Actually 621 satellites have been "pushed" into robit, but 273 of them have disintegrated, and observers have seen all manner of old missile casings and pieces of satellites, broken off during orbit, flying about. There is all manner of junk in outer space.

With a little imagination one can visualize that within ten years or so man is going to transform outer space into just as weird a state of confusion as he has created on earth. He can envision traffic cops housed in flying police stations, directing traffic and handing out tickets to offenders. He can see men in red space suits fining and directing speeders to the upper freeways, and laggers to the one-lane airways in the lower stratosphere. He can see himself being stopped and fined for too-wide a wing spread or using the wrong colored atoms in his combustion chamber. And then of course there will be the inevitable tow-planes to haul the wrecked space ships off the beaten path to be turned loose as junk to orbit forever, silent reminders that even in space man cannot behave. Then naturally there will be the drunken orbiter who insists on his half of the airways but can't decide which half he wants.

All it takes to see this is a little imagination, but the actual participation will be for those who will be fortunate enough to be alive 20 years from now. It's going to be quite an experience, but we wonder how much intelligence man will pick up along the route.

CONTROL OF THE PURSE STRINGS!

It has been predicted that Alberta will be heading for a 25 million dollar deficit in 1964. The reason given is the rising costs of education, health and welfare. These three items, it is estimated, are going to account for an overwhelmingly large percentage of what will probably be an annual budget of $400 million. As long as the current trend to increased population continues, the cost of education is going to continue to rise, and this increase must continue to be one of the main interests of governments. An educated population is one of the most necessary luxuries that Alberta can afford. We cannot be too miserly in providing educational standards of the highest calibre But too much of our educational costs are being directed toward "luxury" palaces, and in providing extra-curricular equipment. The man who provides the money has little to say on these matters. The taxing body has little control over the purse strings; and the day is not too far distant when taxing authorities are going to demand more say on capital expenditures.

Health is a matter where the needful must be taken care of, for society dare not turn aside; nor would it be humane to let the unhealthy deteriorate, but it is still the contention of this writer that governments should not die for people what they are able to do for themselves. If we want a virile and strong society man must be able to stand on his own resources and ingenuity.

Welfare is probably our biggest offender in the area of spending. It is included in it is man's insatiable desire to get something for nothing from society. Our basic problem is an unquenchable propensity for spending more than we make, for the most part on non-essentials, leaving nothing for the absolutes, which we then expect society to take care of. As long as this trend continues and grows, humanity will face rising welfare costs.

Recipients of pensions and welfare payments, in some instances, fail to grasp the fact that these payments are primarily based on the theory of supplementing, and not providing the full living requirements. Such people, where they have contributed no payments to such a fund, should thank God, the government and society for their cheques instead of continually crying that payments are too low. People who have age on their side, physical and mental capacities to do work and earn, should, wherever possible, get to work at something, if only seasonal; earn their own way through life ,put a little aside where possible, for the advent of old age. In any case many of our able-bodied men and women should get off the welfare wagon and stand on their own feet. Society is capable and willing to look after the needful, but is getting impatient with those who go through life "swinging the lead".

★ MACDUFF REPORT
Pension Paradox

OTTAWA — Miss Judy Lamarsh bump of optimism has grown considerably since her recent return to Ottawa.

Arriving at the airport a fortnight ago after studying pension plans in seven European countries, Canada's Welfare Minister said she "honestly didn't know" what was going to happen to her proposed Canada Pension Plan. Premier Lesage had just pushed through a resolution in the Quebec Legislature empowering to a provincial pension plan and had notified Prime Minister Pearson that this would present an "obstacle" to the Federal plan. Premier Roberts had also written to Mr. Pearson offering cooperation in setting up the Federal plan off the ground but then putting in so many qualifications as to make his offer meaningless.

In the light of this, Miss Lamarsh had good reason to look dour her pension scheme would ever see the light of day. But, more recently during a visit to the Canadian National Exhibition she was talking quite a different tune. Quebec and Ontario would have to back down because, come hell or high water, the Federal Government was going ahead.

Was Judy's mind changed by her cabinet colleagues or by none development which got generally buried? Federal-Provincial talks about pension plans in Ottawa on September 9th and 10th will give the answer. Meanwhile the Minister's statement could be put with slightly different emphasis because Quebec and perhaps Ontario will have to back down if the Federal plan is to be constitutionally valid.

When the Provincial Governments in 1951 gave their consent to the amendment to the British North America Act extending Federal jurisdiction to old age pensions they insisted on the proviso that no Federal legislation must conflict with Provincial. It is hard to see how any compulsory Federal plan would not conflict with a compulsory Provincial plan.

Meanwhile suspicion is growing that, if the Federal Government could successfully lay the blame on the shoulders of Mr. Lesage and Mr. Roberts, some Cabinet Ministers would be glad enough to scrap the whole thing and start over again.

The bugs in the Canada Pension Plan stem, not so much from the plan itself, as from the way it has been presented. It is being called a pay-as-you-go contributory plan that will not increase taxation. Its initial cost to the worker and his employer is two per cent of earnings and a maximum of $200.00 and, since the Government is keeping the figures on which the basic plan under wraps, we have to take it on faith.

However, to suggest that this is a contributory scheme or that it is not increasing taxation is ridiculous, if not politically dishonest. In 1964, when the old age security plan was drafted, Prime Minister St. Laurent insisted that this too should be contributory. Someone thought up the idea of increasing sales tax, corporation tax and personal income tax by two per cent and establishing with these revenues an old age security fund out of which the old age pension would be paid. Maximum additional income tax was $60.

It remained the promise of the decade. In the succeeding budget Finance Minister Abbott announced a reduction in income taxes and for a night of glory got the credit. But the next morning the people of Canada awoke to the fact that they were paying higher taxes. Nor, was there ever an old age security fund. It was merely a bookkeeping item. Earmarked taxes were taken into the consolidated revenue fund and pensions paid from it. If pensions exceeded the amount of earmarked taxes the difference was called a loan from the Treasury but, a loan that was never repaid. Today earmarked taxes have been increased to three per cent and the maximum payment to $90.

It is sign. It is significant that the present Finance Minister, Walter Gordon, has dropped the pretence and takes old age security revenues and payments into account in calculating his budget deficit.

Contributions to the new Canada Pension plan are no less a tax. It will be paid by every employed person in Canada and by his employer who must either add it to the costs and prices or deduct it from future wage increases. One way or another they are merely another burden on the taxpayers of Canada as workers and consumers, merely another transfer payment to redistribute the wealth.

This is no reason in itself to condemn the pension plan and, it can be taken for granted that Premier Roberts, with an election on his hands, will not do so out of hand. But when Mr. Diefenbaker declared that the Liberals could not put their Pension plan into effect without increasing taxations by 60 to 80 per cent he deserved better than the jeers he got from his opponents. Miss Lamarsh quoted him jubilantly when she presented the plan to the House of Commons and announced a contribution of two per cent. But what does that mean?

For the first ten years of the plan the Government will take out of the earnings average earnings of the nation) $4,800 an additional $80. Assuming the average earner has a wife but no children he will pay an additional income tax of 25 per cent.

At the end of 10 years, taking Miss Lamarsh's own figures, and all else being equal, his additional tax on income will begin rising to 60 per cent.

MORE PETS

As if cats and dogs were not enough to keep two boys busy and happy, the two little lads wanted a colt, EACH (we had never had any colts on the place). One day Lyonel came up with the idea of using a couple of calves for draft animals. At first Dad was not in favor of it in the least, declaring the calves would be ruined being pestered all day, then likely as not, fed and watered regularly, if at all. But the lads wanted them so badly they made all sorts of promises to care for them, and to see that they were never neglected. So at last, as usual, Dad gave in to them, but threatening all sorts of dire punishment if he found they had not kept their word. So the lads went out to pick out a calf each from the herd, and immediately tried to break them in by riding bareback.

Of course the poor little calves, not knowing what it was all about, bawled and bolted, going faster and then backward, finally throwing the lads to the ground, and leaving out pell-mell across the pasture. What tireless patience those little lads must have had, what determination to succeed in breaking in those two little calves. Many times I stood and watched and helped them to assemble a harness of ropes from odds and ends of scraps and bailer twine (he had seen the lads trying to use an old horse collar by putting it behind the calves' front legs).

Every day from morning to night those little lads spent with their calves. They used their little stonebeat to draw wagons in from the field to feed their "toons," built special stalls for them, carried and combed them 2 or 3 times a day. In fact those two calves were in better shape when winter set in than any of the others in the barn.

What hours of pleasure they had that summer and fall and part of the next year too. Since the lads have reached manhood, Peter made the remark one day that the fun & pleasure they had with those calves would always stand out in his memory. Naturally the calves soon grew to quite a size. But the lads did not want to give them up and train another pair. Lyonel and Peter could jump on the calves backs and ride all over the place, guiding them by bits and lines. They had even taught them to jump from with the boys on their backs. Both lads had a number of painful experiences during these performances. Seems at first the calves would "ll-a-s", head for the barbed-wire fence with their heads down, and go through, between the wires. Hanging on for dear life, the lads went through too, not only tearing their shirts, but scratching up their backs as well.

I would scold and remonstrate to no avail. Then one day the lads announced triumphantly, "Our calves can now clear 3 fence rows", (it may add that teaching the calves to jump fences was the worst thing they could do, as when they were in pasture there was no fence built to keep them, if they chose to roam).

However the lawn of Rolls, North Dakota, was putting on a 50-year of progress celebration, and wanted to get a team of oxen for the parade. The sponsors were in our town one day, and remarked that so far they had been unable to find one. They wanted one that would pull a Red River Cart. Knowing of our pair of oxen, one of the town members elected the man to our farm. Of course our lads were keen on the idea, assuring him that their "toons" could easily fill the bill. So we all, that is our family, as well as several neighbors, went to Rolla. Our two little rods on the calves' backs, the calves pulling the Red River Cart.

Numerous pictures were taken of them, including mine. Those pictures were used in the Manitoba Public Schools for years, showing how oxen were made to pull carts, etc. in the early days.

"We need it now, the bank said yes, so..."

Many a household purchase like this starts with a bank loan. People find that the simple, natural thing to do is to borrow where they save — at the local bank. In fact the chartered banks are the largest single source of consumer credit loans, both in number and value.

Through the years the chartered banks have made it increasingly easy for people to borrow, at reasonable rates, for almost any worthwhile purpose: the purchase of a car...a new home heating system...a son's or daughter's education...a family vacation...

Three out of four bank loans are to individuals for their personal credit needs. And the total amount of such loans has almost doubled in the past five years...further evidence of the way bank customers are relying more and more on their local branches for borrowing as well as for all other financial services.

Feed Grain Policy

OTTAWA — Measures by the government and the Canadian Wheat Board to ensure an adequate and orderly supply of western feed grain to supplement local production for the growing livestock and poultry industries of Eastern Canada were disclosed by the Hon. Harry Hays, Minister of Agriculture, and the Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mr. Hays stated that the government will request authority of Parliament for a broadened feed grain policy to replace the present policy of freight assistance on western feed grains.

The new policy will provide for the payment of accrued storage charges on eastern feed grain in licensed manufacturers during the period October 16 to April 15. It is also proposed that freight assistance rates be related to the cost of water movement, plus an allowance for inland transportation by rail or truck to provide more uniformity in cost to feeders in different areas, both in British Columbia and Eastern Canada.

Mr. Sharp also announced that the Canadian Wheat Board had declared to institute at once a provisional pricing policy for oats and barley moved from the Lakehead to eastern elevators. It is the intention to the provisional pricing policy now in effect for feeding wheat.

The purchase of winter supplies by Board agents on a cash basis from the Canadian Wheat Board at the Lakehead will continue, Mr. Sharp explained.

Under the new policy, agents will have the alternative of purchasing on a provisional price b is, with the option of settling the final price at the time of re-sale and, in any event, no later than the date of removal of the grain from licensed eastern elevators or April 15, whichever is the earlier.

The Ministers said the policies are intended to correct difficulties associated with the fact that western grain for winter feeding must be brought east from the Lakehead by water before the close of navigation or bear the much higher cost of rail freight.

The measures will encourage an earlier and more orderly movement from the Lakehead and the piecing of adequate stocks in eastern position before the close of navigation. By removing the storage cost factor eastern buyers will have the opportunity of obtaining their requirements without the costs normally associated with the closed storage season.

Livestock and poultry producers in Eastern Canada and British Columbia now use about 85 million bushels of western feed grains annually. Projections of future requirements indicate that 120 million bushels will be required by 1970 and 150 million by 1975, the Ministers pointed out, adding that this represents an important and growing market for western feed grains.

The Ministers expressed confidence that the new policies would ensure supplies being available in the deficient areas and that they would encourage production of feed grains as the anticipated demand develops.

10 New Stamps In 64

Ten new stamps will be issued by the Canada Post Office in 1964, it was announced by the Honourable Azellus Dennis, Postmaster General.

The First new stamp to go on sale to the public will be a regular stamp of the 7 cent denomination, intended basically for air mail postage, Wednesday, February 5th has been tentatively set as the date of issue. The seven cent stamp will replace the present "blue goose" air mail stamp which has been in use since November 1952.

"Unity in Canada" is the subject of the second stamp of the year, which is scheduled to go on sale in March. This issue will be followed by four stamps bearing provincial floral emblems. The Postmaster General said that present plans call for the flower stamps to be produced in several colors, probably by lithography. Within the next few years it is planned to issue a stamp carrying the floral emblem of each of the ten provinces, Mr. Denis stated.

A special stamp on the theme of World Peace is included in the 1964 program. Designed to give prominence to man's desire for peace, this stamp is to be released in June.

Two stamps of special historical interest are scheduled for release in September. The stamps will commemorate the Charlottetown and Quebec conferences which were held in 1864 and which led to Confederation three years later.

For the first time in Canada a Christmas stamp will be issued in 1964. Final date of release for this stamp has been decided, but it will be in time for use on Christmas mail. Mr. Denis said that the decision to issue a Christmas stamp was made after a lengthy study and after taking into consideration the requests and suggestions of many individuals and organizations across the country.

Designs for the 1964 stamp series will be announced as they are completed.

MONTREAL — The number of people looking for work in Canada can soon be expected to increase greatly, but the increase will come mainly from a group of young people who will be better educated and equipped to meet the changing needs of the labor market.

This view is expressed by the Bank of Montreal in its Business Review for August, just issued.

The B of M says that it is "a source of satisfaction that the expected sharp increase in the numbers seeking employment will come to a large extent from a group whose entry into the labor force was deferred while they were acquiring more education.

"They should, therefore, be better equipped to fill the jobs available and to make a further contribution to Canadian output," the bank says. But it points out "a continuing effort is required to adjust our educational and training institutions and methods to meet the changing occupational needs of the economy" to make the best use of the expanding labor force.

LABOR TRENDS

Noting that the Canadian labor force rose in July to over 7,000,000 for the first time, the B of M cites immigration as a major factor contributing to the remarkable growth of employment in the service-producing industries.

At the same time, changes have been taking place in the skills and knowledge required by members of the Canadian work force. And, the bank says, "There is ample evidence to suggest that in general the fastest growing occupations are the ones requiring relatively high levels of training and education. Conversely, the semi-skilled and unskilled occupations are growing at substantially slower rates, and some of them are actually declining numerically."

Employment Seekers To Increase

number of people in agriculture declined by 250,000 between 1962 and 1963, while there was a "phenomenal growth" of employment in the service-producing industries.

Traffic Toll Mounts

EDMONTON — Alberta's traffic fatality toll is running 12 per cent higher than last year, despite a relatively improved record in July, the Alberta Safety Council says.

The toll for the first seven months was 142, with 30 of them occurring in July. Last year, the comparable toll was 127, with 30 occurring in July. The chief declines last month were reported by the R.C.M.P. and Calgary city police.

The injury toll for the year (4,081) is running 15 per cent higher and the accident total (18,886) is up six per cent.

The council said estimated property damage to the end of July is $6,160,226.00.

A survey of police records, the council said, showed that drivers led the year's death toll — 84 fatalities. Passengers accounted for 52; pedestrians for 24, and bicyclists for two. The July toll counted 15 drivers, 10 passengers and five pedestrians.

Passengers, however, led the injury list in a survey of urban traffic reports. In 1,557 cases reported to the end of last month, 731 were auto passengers. Another 611 were drivers; 244 were pedestrians; 87 were bicyclists; and 44 were motorcyclists. Another 19 were motor scooter injuries.

Of last month's 30 fatalities, the R.C.M.P. listed 14 as drivers, nine as passengers and three as pedestrians. Calgary and Edmonton accounted for the remaining four. In Edmonton, a passenger and a pedestrian died. In Calgary, it was a driver and a pedestrian. All other points were fatality free. In July last year, the R.C.M.P. reported 21 deaths, Edmonton one and Calgary seven.

In a new trend, the council said, the age category 40-44 years is becoming a major "trouble-spot". To the end of July, that group accounted for 17 traffic fatalities, rivaling the late teens and early 'twenties in dominating the death toll. In the first seven months, 12 persons aged 15 to 19 years died in traffic mishaps; 23 died in the 20 to 24 age group. At the same time last year, the 40-44 group counted only five fatalities. The late teens counted 14; the 20-24 age group counted 22.

During July, the council said, an injury occurred — on the average — once in every three accidents. And a life was lost in every 36.5 accidents.

In a survey of the incidence of accidents and injuries in July, the council said the R.C.M.P. reported 644 accidents (772 a year ago) and 849 injury cases (466 a year ago).

Lois Lane and Dennis Fisher Wed at Hardisty United

HARDISTY — On Friday, August 23rd 1963 at 2.00 p.m. the Hardisty United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding when Rev. Zwicker united in marriage Lois Charlotte Elizabeth Lane, only daughter of Mr and Mrs. Clarion Lane of Lougheed, and Dennis Herbert Fisher, youngest son of Mrs. Thelma Fisher of Hardisty, in a double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with beautiful flowers from the garden of Mrs. Joseph Lane. They were married with small bouquets of sweet peas from the garden of Mrs. Wylie.

The bride looked charming as she entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of wedding music played by Mrs. J. Edworthy of Hardisty. Wearing a floor-length dress of white with a full skirt and seed pearl decorated bodice with lily-point sleeves, the bride carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The shoulder-tip veil was held in place by a white cabbage rose. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by her sister in-law Mavis Lane, and the groom's sister-in-law Shirley Fisher. Both were short mauve dresses of nylon chiffon over taffeta, and carried bouquets of mauve carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Ray of Viking and the bride's brother Sherman Lane. Gary Bone of Hardisty and Gary Thompson of Camrose were ushers. Mrs. Perry Powell sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lane chose a two-piece dress of floral tri blue material. She wore a corsage of pink roses and pink accessories. The groom's mother wore a deep mauve dress with pink rose corsage and pale mauve accessories.

A reception for 79 guests was held in the Anglican Church hall. A 3-tier wedding cake with a 2-tiered groom's cake, both baked by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Richard Lowther, graced the head table, along with white tapers and bowls of pansies. Rev. Zwicker asked the blessing. Richard Lowther, M. C., proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Mrs. Lowther gave a reading entitled "Lover's Lane". Dennis's grandmother Redmond arrived in time for open house which was held at the home of Mrs Lowe.

Miss Marion Runnells, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the [illegible]

For going away the bride donned a duster ensemble of sky blue, with white accessories. After a wedding dance at Bellshill, the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Jasper and Edmonton. They will reside in Hardisty.

Out of town guests were from Edmonton, Tofield, Drayton Valley, Calgary, Panaka, Red Deer, Olds.

Kinsmen Open New Year

SEDGEWICK — The Kinsmen Club of Sedgewick held their first meeting of the new year on Wednesday evening and plowed through a long agenda of business. After the two-month summer recess the Kinsmen found that there were many home ends to be picked up.

Even though the Club didn't hold regular meetings during the months of July and August, they were busy all summer. The three main projects were: The Kinsmen assisted the Hall Committee with the July 1st Sports Day, at which they operated the game concession as a service to the community and the hall; the second activity, and the largest project to date, was the Ranchman's Bingo which was held on Aug. 12th at the Recreation Centre. This bingo was held in partnership with the Carlsog Club, and was a success in every way. Another three on the list of summer activities was the Lake north of town, on which the Kinsmen have been working for several summers. This year considerable many work was done, and on August 12th the third annual Kinsmen Swimming Lessons started. The lessons this year enjoyed very good weather and the talents of an exceptionally good instructor were obtained, resulting in a large percentage of the students passing their examinations.

KINSMEN HONORED

The Sedgewick Kinsmen Club, and especially one of its members, received an honor which is seldom bestowed on a club so young. At the Alberta Provincial Kinsmen Convention held at Lethbridge last spring, the Past President, James Tindall, was elected as District Deputy Governor for some three of Alberta. This zone includes clubs as far north as Bonnyville and Grand Centre, with Sedgewick and Provost on the south edge.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Shown in the accompanying picture is new president John Patten, receiving the gavel of his office from D.D.G. James Tindall who was the installing officer. Included in the new executive are vice-president Tom Sparrow; Sec. Blervin Lewis; Treas., Lyle Metz; Directors Cecil Gould and John Brandigan, and the Bulletin Editor Julius Kesnick.

Mrs. Huston Will Speak To U. C. W.

KILLAM — The U.C.W. of Killam met for the first session of the new term at the home of Mrs. A. Child. There was a small attendance due to the harvest season. Following a devotional period, Mrs. Davison was in charge of the study period.

A wedding had been entered for in the summer. The day following this meeting the group was to serve a dinner for the Ministers and other delegates from different parts of the Presbytery.

It was decided to hire a janitor for the church.

As no one could find time at this period of the year to attend the Workshop for Women at St. Stephens College, it was agreed to invite Mrs. Huston to the next meeting to explain the work done there.

Two ladies were named as members of the Council of Women, to help entertain and aid patients of the Auxiliary ink of the hospital.

Four ladies were appointed to read the film strips and to be in charge of the children for the balance of October.

OPEN LETTER TO RECKLESS DRIVERS!

One of the problems confronting our towns and villages these days is the increasing number of irresponsible drivers who "wheel" their cars around the streets as though they were on a drag strip. The situation has reached the stage where we either have to "crack down" on offenders or give up and let them take over. Village policemen are, it seems, unwilling to get out and nail these offenders and so the day is fast approaching when the citizens are going to demand action or else. However, into every dark picture, it seems, there enters a bright ray. The other day I was an eye-witness to what might have been a tragedy on one of our streets. A car driven by a man who, thank goodness, knew that he had a responsibility in being behind the wheel, who had control of his car all the way, narrowly missed crushing the life from a small child who was too young to realize the dangers of playing on roads and streets; too young to know that irresponsible people are found driving cars sometimes. What the result of this incident might have been had one of these criminals of the road been behind the wheel, I hate to even contemplate. To these fools (for we have have such drivers), to drivers who fail to realize that a car is a machine built and meant for comfort, pleasure and convenience, and not a thing to be abused, to drivers who do not know, or at least do not care that traffic laws are designed for just such people as they, I submit the following taken from the Hartford Star. It will bear repeating now that school has once more begun and the danger are multiplied tenfold:

"I saw you miss a little boy on a tricycle yesterday, and heard you yell, 'Get the hell out of the way; don't you know any better than ride on the streets?' He didn't answer because he hasn't learned to talk very well yet. So I am going to answer for him.

"No the little boy doesn't know any better than to ride his tricycle on the street. He has been warned not to, but little boys don't always heed warnings. Some adults don't either, especially traffic warnings, for example the one limiting the speed of automobiles.

"I am going to tell you something about that little boy. He has a mother who endured considerable inconvenience, anxiety and suffering to bring this little boy into the world. He has a father who has worked hard and made many sacrifices to make him healthy and happy. The supreme purpose of their lives is to have him grow up to be a good useful man.

"Now stop a minute and think. If you should kill a child, how would you feel like facing his parents? What earthly excuse could you give them for having robbed them of their dearest possession? More important: What excuse could you possibly offer Him whose Kingdom is made up of little children?

"Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobile were thought of. All the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy. We don't know what that little boy may some day be, but we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on this street".

★ MACDUFF REPORT

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD . . .

OTTAWA — Real Caouette, fiery and outspoken, Quebec lieutenant of Social Credit National leader Robert Thompson, made a bold move to oust Thompson from the top job and take over. But it appears to have backfired.

He opposed with an attack on the national leader. Accusing Mr. Thompson of being "lukewarm" to Social Credit principles and of "running a deaf ear" to Quebec's demands. He planned to emerge from a three-day convention of the Quebec wing of the party in Granby Quebec, as the undisputed leader of the Social Crediters.

Mr. Caouette predicted that the Granby convention would present the national party with an ultimatum "Either you do it or else". Of the 26 Social Credit members in the Commons, 19 are from Quebec. One Social Crediter Guy Mercuri, 39-year-old physician from Quebec City sat in the pre-summer session of Parliament as an independent.

Following the Granby convention it now appears that Mr. Caouette will have only slightly more support than he holds. Support for the Thompson leadership. Gilles Gregoire, Social Credit member for Lapointe is ambitious. If Mr. Caouette's health should force him to take a less active role politically then Mr. Gregoire is ready to step forward.

Meantime Mr. Caouette has been taking verbal potshots not only at Mr. Thompson but at Premier Manning of Alberta, and can expect no support from the provinces' Social Credit organization. In B. C. the Social Credit leader in that province Premier Bennett has ruled off on Mr. Caouette having previously backed the volatile French Canadian in Mr. Caouette's bid for the national leadership.

While Premier Bennett was not a strong supporter of Mr. Thompson at the time of the leadership convention he is not likely to take any sides in the current struggle. He is too busy with a Provincial election.

The situation will see two Social Credit groups from Quebec sitting in the next session of Parliament. Le Ralliement des Creditistes under Mr. Caouette will go their own way, detached from the national leadership of Mr. Thompson. The Secret members under Mr. Thompson's wing will follow his lead.

Mr. Thompson has indicated that he is against an early election, indicating that he is prepared to go along with his support of the Liberal minority government unless it makes some blunder that will force his party to seek to turn it out of office. While the Liberals have made some mistakes, they are not such that would warrant the Social Creditors seeking to force an early general election.

At this stage Mr. Thompson does not wish an early election as the only change it could bring would be to put Mr. Diefenbaker back in as Prime Minister. He makes no secret of the fact that he had had a surfeit of Mr. Diefenbaker's administration. It the P. C's. select a new leader then Mr. Thompson may be inclined to take a different view about defeating a Liberal government.

The Liberals have 129 members in the House. The Conservatives 95 members and the NDP 17 members. There are 24 Social Creditors in the House, including Dr. Mercuur. Even if the P. C's. and NDP group joined in a want-of-confidence motion they could not succeed so long as it has Mr. Thompson's or Mr. Caouette's and their respective followers support. Early in the fall session the Liberal government will face at least 10 confidence motions. It will be challenged on its bilateral nuclear agreement soon after the house re-assembles Sept. 30. The NDP has said it plans to introduce a motion regretting that the agreement was signed before it was brought before Parliament.

On the question of the old age pension both NDP and P. C's have stated they will challenge the Liberals to act immediately to raise the pension by $10 a month. The Liberals contend that although they promised, during the election campaign, to raise the pension as part of the Party's over-all Canada Pension program, this did not mean an immediate $10 increase in the pension. This would likely be introduced very early in 1964. The Grits may face a confidence motion on this issue too.

At this time it seems that the Government will ride the current storms, but all other parties are watching the developments in the Social Credit camp with more than passing interest.

SO DROP DEAD

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

I had my annual injection of culture in't week, and am now ready to resume my normal condition of boorish bourgeoisant. The shot, we want, was painless physically, producing a feeling of mild stimulation, painful financially, producing an afterreach of hollow depression.

Because we plan to attend a convention at a certain spot next week, that ancient and honorable lament, "I haven't a thing to wear" preyed its heavy head. This gave birth to the inevitable tetter: a visit to the hairy manager and a trip to the city.

The latter, in turn, demanded that we take in a show. The only show in town was a "brilliant" British revue called "The Establishment," direct from their rave reviews in New York. It stank.

This may not be quite the cultural way in which to review a revue, but it's an honest opinion. The critics probably burbled that the thing was "refreshingly frank" and "delightfully irreverent." I thought it was disgustingly frank and childishly irreverent.

The show did have a couple of amusing skits, including a clever parody of Queen Victoria and her speeches, but the remainder was labored and tasteless, short a jump and a bushel of English accent ahead of a college annual show. However, the audience, to prove its broad-mindedness, applauded wildly, while I sat glumly on my $3.50 seat, glowering like a true-blue royalist.

Just to make a proper mish-mash of the excursion, my wife, who was supposed to be shopping for some stunning isle-summer clothes, came back to the hotel with nothing somethead but a winter coat which she couldn't resist.

Things were a little brighter on the week end, when we took a flyer to the Stratford Festival, that peculiar Canadian monument toward which we bow with reverence, humor with pride, and point with honest indignation when people say, "Ah, you Canadians got no culture."

Ten years ago, when the festival began (it was in a tent), we stayed, for three dollars, in a private home whose mistress turned out to be a nut, and our six-year-old son was left at home with Granny.

Things have changed. The festival is now in a handsome theatre, we stayed, for ten dollars, in the room at the top of the shabbiest hostelry this side of the Atlantic, and our guest, garrulous boy-crowd went off after the theatre to jour the folksingers at a coffee house and didn't get back to the room until 2:30 a.m., at which point he heard some real folk singing from his own flat.

Stratford itself is unchanged — a pleasant mixture of ugliness and beauty in the town, sophistication and simplicity in the audience, professionalism and amateurism in the performance. We enjoyed it thoroughly as always.

I liked the hotel. Found the manageress in the lobby, after waiting vainly at the desk for a while. She tried about eighteen skeleton keys before finding one that would open our door. Carried our own bags up three flights. No tip. Went down to the kitchen and got a bucket of ice. No charge, no tip. Used the phone in the lobby. No phone bill. Used the bathroom at the end of the hall. No paper.

Saturday night we saw Cyrano de Bergerac, with John Colicos in the lead. It was a grand Stratford spectacle, a grand swirl of color and motion and poetry. But either I'm getting old and hard, or Colicos is not quite living it. If you're supposed to bawl like a baby as the gallant Cyrano dies at the end, and the audience doesn't, I was impatience that he took so long about it.

Sunday afternoon, we "took in" a Schubert concert, featuring pianist Rudolph Serkin. He needed a metronome, but he could really make that piano sing. He even enjoyed it himself so much that he started, at the concert, to sing along with Serkin. Booming and humming away. I thought at first that it was some old fan at the back of the audience, carried away by the tune.

I could tell the concert was a big success, because a lot of insurance salesmen and tourists who had seen too many movies stood up and cried "Encore!" at the end, something I could not quite bring myself to do should Queen Elizabeth and President John Kennedy do a surprising soft-shoe shuffle on stage.

SHATTERED IMAGE. Social Crediters will be sitting in two blocs in Parliament minus six Members of Commons reconvenes, and this symbolic photo shows the result of the split. Most Quebec Socreds, led by Real Caouette, disowned national leader Robert Thompson, at meeting of Le Ralliement des Crediticnes. Break came only five months after Thompson, left, and Caouette had campaigned together in federal election—

THROUGH STRANGE DOORS. It was a big step for this young fellow—the step that took him for the first time through those big school doors and into his first day in kindergarten. But before entering those frightening school corridors, he turned at the threshold to wave a tearful goodbye to his mischievous playmate, who was yet too young to go to school. And after a last look at his faithful pup, he gulped, then marched bravely to face his first day in school.—

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

THE BOYS ALL RETURN

Since having the two articles entitled "War" and "News From Overseas" printed in this column recently, I have been asked by several people why I didn't follow up with the Lads' return. So the following is a brief account of same; just some of the high-lights that stand out in my memory more possibly than most.

Peter, our youngest lad, who had been training for Pacific Warfare at Camp Borden, just finished his training and was home on embarkation leave when peace was declared.

Andy, who took part in the "Salerno Beach-head" episode, as well as severe fighting in Italy (further inland), North Arabia, and deny only knows where else, had arrived home one day unexpectedly. He was the first to go and the first to return. He was so anxious to get back home that he paid his ticket to New York on an earlier boat, rather than wait for the troop ship. Oh, how thankful we all were for the care God had bestowed upon him while he was "over there". He hadn't even been seriously wounded.

We were living in Brandon, Man. at the time but I was at Camp. So were my eldest daughter & family.

It was just at dinner time The table was set and waiting for us, and everyone was ready to sit in. I was coming down the gate from visiting with a friend, when I saw a soldier coming toward me (seeing soldiers was a common sight by now as they were returning by the very thousands). However as I drew nearer and I recognized my own Andy, well, can you imagine my re-action?

Andy still declares that when I first saw him I gave a whoop-whoop, threw my purse into a patch of Poison Ivy and fell into his arms, crying and laughing at the same time.

When Bob, our eldest daughter, saw him, she gave a scream and fell across the table right smack into a plate of soft butter, in a dead faint.

Of course all of these demonstrations were highly unusual Andy, who wasn't given much to showing such feelings himself, sat with a grin on his face, enjoying every minute.

Dan was the next to return, and lastly, Rowland.

We still find ourselves wondering, at times, why all of OUR sons were spared & returned to us, not too badly scarred (except Lynton whose back was broken in 3 places when he was shot down over St. Pelr riew, between Belgium and Freuse), while thousands of homes were bereft of loved ones. Could it be that they were spared to serve one God, who watched over them so cessingly through it all, and answered our unwavering faith in Him?

However, we shall never cease from declaring that "Truly, God does honor the trusting heart".

COMBINE ADJUSTMENTS!

Most grain losses during combining occur in the straw-walker, according to R. T. Stephenson, Agricultural Engineer at the U. of A. This is usually the first part of the machine to become overloaded.

Too high a speed rate, too large a mesh and cutting too low are usually responsible for this overloading. When the straw walker is overloaded the grain does not have a chance to be shaken out. Consequently it comes out at the back of the combine with the straw. The correct amount of agitation of the straw walker is also important for separating grain.

Mr. Stephanson says many farmers are inclined to overload their combines without realizing it because the cylinder is often used as the measuring stick of efficiency. This is not an accurate measuring device because the straw walker can be overloaded without the cylinder or the shoe being in the same condition. Also it should be remembered that the straw walker is the first part of the combine to become over loaded and is responsible for the highest losses.

Grain losses from the shoe are connected with volume and the amount of cutting sustained by the straw. If the straw is cut into short lengths, the volume of material in the shoe at this time may reach the point where grain and chaff separation is hampered.

The sieve and screens need to be opened fairly wide, says Mr. Stephanson. It is not uncommon for combine operators to close them too much. A good blast of air at the front of the shoe will lift the whole layer of grain and chaff up, allowing the grain to drop back through the sieve.

Grain losses from the cylinder are generally quite small. If the cylinder is losing some grain in the bends, it may need speeding up, or the clearance may need closing down. Care should be taken however not to close the cylinder so much that the straw is cut into small pieces, making it difficult for the straw walker to separate the threshed grain from the other material.

Losses sustained with the pick-up or during straight combining occur when the speed of the pick-up or reel is greater than the speed of the conveyor taking the grain into the machine. The flailing action scatters the grain which cannot be recovered.

Mr. Stephanson strongly advises operators to study their instruction manuals and to pay particular attention to recommended speeds for the cylinder, straw walker and so on. These should be checked with a speed counter.

HARDISTY HI-LITES

Jack Thorp, Ed Stagg and Barney Matthews represented the Hardisty Branch of the Legion at the golf tournament at Camrose on Sunday, with Jack bringing home a trophy. The boys report a most enjoyable day, ending with a fine banquet catered to by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

At the Hardisty Stampede last June, a good many slices of watermelon were consumed, let the seeds fall where they may. This week workmen at the stampede grounds discovered a fine watermelon patch, with several of the melons of a size and ripeness for eating.

Pauline and Jim Cavanagh will be holding open house at their home on Sunday, Sept. 22nd from 3.30 to 6.00 p.m. on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. All friends and relatives will be welcome.

A Few Hardisty Flakes

(By Postie)

I have a little time to spare, so methinks that I will pack out a few lines and take up some of Art's valuable space. The end always fits it in file 13 if he runs short of space, and there wouldn't be much loss.

The weather looks very unsettled. Could be on the change, but I hope not, as the harvest is slow in spite of fine weather. Guess the yield has something to do with the slowing up of combining. Here is hoping that you farmers get it all under shelter without further delay, and still enjoy Indian Summer.

Speaking of fall, I would say that it has arrived. The geese are overhead, the deductables are back in school, and everybody is wondering how and where the money went during the holidays. Here's hoping that those of you who were able to get away on holidays, had an enjoyable time, and those of you who were unable to take time off, will get some leisure days this winter.

My shot this week will be aimed at those boys who have dropped out of school, especially those who were not forced to drop out due to financial reasons. and I honestly do not think there are too many of those cases in this day and age. I think some of you lads expect to have everything right off, and the immediate paying job looks like the answer. I'm so afraid that as you get older you will find employers demanding more skill and training, and you will find yourselves by-passed for a better educated or trained man, with whom you may have attended school.

I read a very interesting report in the Journal sometime back, where some educationists reported that generally speaking, lower marks were turned in by boys who had unrestricted use of the family car, and even lower marks by those youths who owned and operated their own cars. The article went on to say that although the foregoing was not true in all cases, there was a distinct relation with poor marks and unrestricted use of a car. I would suggest that this situation is due entirely to a student foregoing homework, and running around more in the evenings and during the night.

I had an enlightening conversation with Chief Hill the other day, and in reply to a question I put to him in regard to the percentages of minor violations in connection with the highway traffic act and the liquor act, he advised that the greater number of cases in this respect involved youths who had dropped out of school at the grade 8, 9 and 10 level. I would further suggest that these figures all bear out one glaring fact, unconcern and lack of interest at the home level.

Well boys, there it is. Not a picture to be too proud of is it? There is still time to enroll in this year's term, so how about giving it some serious thought. It will take guts to pick up those loose ends, but perhaps not too much effort and sacrifice as it may take later on. The row can be very hard to hoe. I only got a small taste of it, and it could be much tougher for you.

I must cut the gab for this go-round and get this in the Post. Good hunting and sharp shooting.

F.U.A. Prepares For Annual Drive

● Preparations for the big FUA Membership Drive, which is set for November 19th are gaining momentum. Some FUA District Boards have already met, and the others are expected to meet soon to make the necessary arrangements. The 1962 membership of the organization was 34,731 farm units. This has grown in 1963 to 35,987. The goal for 1964 is a membership of 36,000. Leaders strongly believe this to be a realistic figure. District 13 in the southwest corner of the province, for example, increased its membership this year by 27 percent. During the coming Drive the organization will try to convince every farmer in the province. Two sub-districts of each of the 14 FUA districts will again have the right to appoint the top canvasser so participant in a here to Eastern Canada, where Ottawa & Toronto will be visited. Last February such a tour was arranged for the first time and it was an outstanding success.

● For the four month period of April to July this year Canadian butter production was 3.3 percent below last year, while consumption was up 3.5 percent. During the heavy producing season the Stabilization Board purchased 5 million pounds less than a year ago and the sales of Board stocks to some areas started earlier and have been in greater volume. In the same period Canadian cheese production increased by 18 percent. Strong domestic and export demand has taken up all the production and the Stabilization Board has not had to purchase any cheese. Board purchases of skim milk powder are well below those of last year. Though Great Britain may seem to be an outlet for Canadian butter in storage, the British government controls butter imports through a quota system. There is no quota for North America, so the British market for Canadian butter is effectively closed.

● The pool rate for delegates attending the FUA Convention in the city of Calgary from Dec. 9-13, has been set at $16. Delegates whose travelling costs are below this sum will have to pay the difference between the real costs and this amount into the pool. Others with travelling costs exceeding $16 will be reimbursed for the difference.

● The Junior Camp at Gold Eye Lake has completed a successful first season. The Camp operated from June 30th to August 28th, during which period 240 students attended at 6 week-long camps. The facilities proved most adequate and these young people have returned home with a much greater understanding of the problems of economic living. Plans are already underway for an improved program for next year by the Farmers' Union & Co-op Development Association.

FALL CLEANING

Whether you believe in a big clean ing spring and fall or a little house cleaning as you go along, now is the time to take a look at your draperies and curtains and either wash or have them cleaned before winter. Draperies should be cleaned often (at least once a year). Imbedded soil can cause light backgrounds to discolor.

Washing is probably preferable for most drapes or Orlon, Terylene, Fibreglass Cotton and linen if you have a guarantee that the fabric is colorfast and preshrunk. Never machine wash glass fibre fabrics. Wash and rinse with minimum agitation, no wringing, hang on smooth rod or line to drip, needs no pressing.

Dry cleaning is probably wise for Viscose, Acetate, Fortisan & Silk. If your drapes are labelled as Celapern or Chromspun, it indicates an acetate color fast to light and cleaning. Coloring indicates the name for Viscose.

Send your draperies and curtains to a reliable dry cleanser or launderers. Inform them if your fabric contains glass yarns, as they require special handling. Also advise them if there is synthetic fibres.

If your drapes just need to be freshened up a bit, try this trick. Tumble them in your dryer at the Air Only, or Low Heat setting with a large damp bath towel. You will be amazed at how much fresher they will look.

HARDISTY — The Hardisty and District Home and School extended a warm welcome to all the new families in the community, at their first meeting of the new fall term. President Aimee Moody gave a hearty invitation to them to come back to future meetings, and stated it was very gratifying to have such a large attendance at the first meeting.

Following the reading of the minutes, correspondence and treasurer's report, Principal Miller asked for a vote on school pictures, individual or group. Group pictures were favored by the majority of parents. Mr. Miller also suggested the Home and School take the school playgrounds as a project this year. It was felt that accidents were more numerous in our school yard than other schools due to the rocky condition of the area. At an executive meeting held later in the week, Bob Wood was appointed to investigate the matter & report his findings.

Two new members of the teaching staff, Mrs. Anderson (grade 1) and Mr. Fyzas (vice-principal) were introduced. Mr. Fyzas gave a few highlights of the developmental reading course in junior high this year.

The next meeting will be October 21st at 8.30, and will be the annual guest night for last year's outstanding students in Junior high. Several very interesting speakers have been invited to attend this meeting. Be sure on parents, mark the 21st of October on your calendar and plan to attend and show the young people we're proud of them.

Football

Central Footballers Lose Opening Game 43 - 7

Despite their 43-7 defeat at the hands of Camrose Lutheran College in their North-East Central Alberta H. S. Football League, the teams were more evenly matched than the score would indicate. The four College touchdowns in the first half came from breakaways around the ends, after the Central defence had more than held its own This inability to deal with and reflects both Central's lack of time for practice this year due to the late opening of school, and the fact that this was the first time Central had been on a full-sized football field this season. This was born out in the second half after a reshuffle in Central's defensive team effectively dealt with College attempts to run the ends.

Central made a spectacular start to the third quarter, with Coulson booting the Camrose kick-off on the centre stripe. In the following play Central's offence made a hole for McGowan to break through and run the distance for a T.D. Bolstric kicked the extra point. In the third quarter College added 2 touchdowns, one from an interception and one on a punt return in the 2 yard line, with College going over for T.D's.

The 4th quarter was evenly fought with College adding one T.D., after a penalty against Central. During the game College was penalized for 154 yards and Central 85.

Game highlights were the blocking of Pasko at defensive half, the running of Hayghie, and the officiating of the four officials of the Edmonton Referee's Assn. who had charge of the game The control of these officials was largely responsible for the lack of injuries and the improvement in the standard of football. Officials of this Assn. will be in Sedgewick on Saturday to referee the game on the Recreation Centre Grounds between Central & Camrose Composite at 2.00 p.m. It is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand to support a greatly improved Central team.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker for the evening was The Rev. Hart Cantlon, Principal of Alberta College.

Mr. Cantlon took the word "Graduate" as his theme and around it he built a speech pointing the way to a more fruitful citizenship, contentment, and a career giving a sense of usefulness to society. G for gratitude, for the opportunity at Eldred school and have economic security; R for Responsibility, not to do as you please, but a responsibility to life itself; A for Assurance, that there is a place in life for each one, and only YOU can fill that place; D for Determination, to hang on and to make a success of life; U for Uprightness, in that you will do what you say you will do; A for Aspiration. The real purpose of your life are your desires, and they will be granted by God, good or bad. Choose well your desires. For Trust. Trust in your fellow men, without which life can be wasted; E for Eternal Things. Life is not lost by dying, but life may be lost from day to day by wrong actions. The things you do will live after you.

Following Rev. Cantlon's inspiring address, he was thanked by Mr. Stuve, and presented with a gift by Jack Slimmon.

TRASH IN THE NEWS OF OUR DAY!

We were down to banff a couple weeks ago to attend the annual convention of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers and besides enjoying the tangy air of the high country, had the pleasure of renewing acquaintances with numbers of Editors we had not seen in some time. One of the highlights of the convention, outside the informative business sessions, was one of the guest speakers, Premier Manning, whose pointed addresses, mixed with wit are always most informative and interesting. While Mr. Manning did not dwell on one of his favorite topics, Welfare, in which he has emphasized as follows, "A popular fallacy of our day is that if you can get the government to pay the bill for your hospitalization, or your medical care, or any one of a hundred other services that we used to provide for ourselves as individuals, it's free to you a citizens of the country," he did deal very lightly with the subject, and preferred, in view of the fact that he had nearly all the weekly press listening, to deal with another matter that appears to be disturbing him somewhat. He took the occasion to lace into the radio, T.V. and Daily Press for the large content of "Trash" in their news releases The fact that he did not take a "crack" at the weekly press, was not because of any deference to those present, but rather, I think, because he realizes that the weekly press on the whole does not go in for the sensational, the shocking and and criminal activities of its readers. Rather they go in for the happenings of their districts purely as newsy notes and informative articles; the social and business activities, and the local economy.

You could not help but agree with Mr. Manning as he built up his case, for there is nothing more annoying than to turn on your radio for a newscast, only to get a series of crashes, bangs, and as the Premier said, "to a bedlam of music a savage of the jungle wouldn't tolerate in his community". But the very thought of listening to this jungle of prehistoric, over-loud musical (?) noises all day, as the teenagers do, would drive a mature and sane adult right straight into the root cellar. While the stale, smutty shows we see on T.V. may be sensational to the immature, the solid citizenry is pretty well fed up with the junk, and find relief in switching to something more culturel, or to a nice cleanly-fought ball game. The Premier did not spare the daily press either, taking them to task for playing up the sensational, the lewd, and the gangster-like activities of what they want, completely ignoring many decent acts of wha they want, completely ignoring many decent acts of mankind, or shoving them back on page thirty.

Mr .Manning brought back to my mind the many times I have seen circulars of various kinds cluttering up Post Office floors and waste paper baskets, when he remarked that the hometown weekly paper is the most thoroughly read news media on the market today. Even the classified ad section gets a complete scanning.

He urged the weekly editors to take the lead in bringing the country back to sanity so far as educated news is concerned. This is a job that I believe the weekly press is doing quite commendably.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Grains Of Hope

OTTAWA — There hasn't been much good news to report coming for many moons. Just when the new Government, battered over its bookings, looked like a certain Premiers, was beginning to think there was no tomorrow, massive help came, and from an unexpected quarter.

The Government and the Wheat Board negotiated a vast sale of wheat to the Soviet Union, 236 million bushels of it. It was the largest sale of wheat in Canadian history. The sale of wheat in separate this crop year to something like 550 million bushels, 140 million bushels more than the previous exporting record set in 1957-58.

When the deal was signed in October by Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp and the Canadian negotiating team did not attempt to conceal their joy. And why should they? After all, it was like manna from heaven. A year ago the thought that the idea that the Soviet negotiating team had any such fabulous purchase in mind.

When the Soviets signed on the dotted line, and in one stroke, the Canadian Government has gone a long way towards solving at least four of its major problems.

First, the Government saw a large and unpopular wheat surplus melting away before its eyes. This year's crop is expected to be close to 700 million bushels, only a few bushels short of the record. Instead of being stacked unsold in elevators and on farms throughout the Prairies, the wheat will be moved as fast as possible through all Canadian ports.

Second, transportation of the massive amounts of wheat will keep the railways and ports busy most of the winter, a most welcome alleviation of unemployment.

Third, the huge wheat sales may all but wipe out Canada's chronic deficit in international payments this year. This deficit, the amount by which the outflow of funds exceeds the inflow, has been a major cause of weakness in the Canadian dollar. The deficit in 1960 was $1,494 million. Assiduous effort has pared that deficit, and it was running at an annual rate of $600 million for the first six months of this year.

The wheat sales to Russia will bring in more than $1,000 mil-on in foreign exchange, most of it in this fiscal year. This should wipe out the foreign exchange deficit.

The fourth stream of good fortune stemming from the wheat sale relates to the Government's own political future. It's too early yet to predict exactly how much credit will redound to the Government from Western votes. But the sale will scarcely do the Government harm.

In the last election, Canada's bread basket, the Prairie provinces, conferred only crumbs upon the Liberals. Of the 48 Prairie seats, the Liberals won only three, and of these were in urbna areas. John Diefenbaker and former Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton were swept in the West so came for dissatisfaction, & plenty of cause for contentment.

With this wheat sale, however the Liberals hope to contend that anything Alvin can do, they can do better. Of course there's still the small matter of the Liberal campaign promise of $2 a bushel wheat. Liberal tap brass are wishing they could forget this now, but the Prairie farmer is not likely to let that happen. Huge sales are all right but a promise is a promise.

Besides, Trade Minister Sharp has no illusions about the wheat sale to the Soviet Union. It's quite possible, under the new Canada-Soviet trade agreement, that a regular market for Canadian wheat will be found in the Soviet Union.

But it's totally unrealistic to expect that the Soviet Union, normally a wheat exporting country itself, will continue to import wheat inasch large quantities. Bad weather will not ex! Russia's crop every year.

Furthermore, some of the wheat being bought will be diverted to Eastern European countries to which the Soviet Union obviously has delivery commitments.

The Canadian wheat purchases are even a part of the Soviet's foreign aid program, as is obvious from the fact that 225 million bushels will be delivered directly to Cuba.

It is interesting to note that Canada's big new wheat sales in recent years have been to Communist countries. Canada recently signed a second agreement with Communist China to supply up to 136 million bushels of wheat over a three-year period.

This agreement was similar to the one negotiated by the previous Government. In this crop year at least therefore, Canada's wheat sales to the Soviet Union and to Communist China will exceed its sales to all the other countries combined.

There are still some Canadians who cringe at this, feeling somewhat guilty that they are aiding and abetting the enemy.

The official view of both the Conservative and Liberal parties is that trade is being accepted now for the business point of view, Canadian feed should be sold to anyone that wants or needs it, anywhere.

It is also argued that friendly trade relations can prepare the way for friendly political accomodations between nations. So the wheat sale is a cause for rejoicing, an instrument of international diplomacy, a step towards an East-West rapprochement. That may very well be true. But to the Liberal Government back home it looks simply like the best luck they've had so far. The wheat sale is good economics, and it's good politics. And that's an almost unbeatable combination.

GREEN ACRES

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF STRAW?

Combine straw and stubble, properly incorporated into the soil will ensure the productivity of land for many years to come. In addition to the large valuable plant nutrients, straw replenishes depleted organic matter.

A. W. Cootsel, Asst. Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture says good physical and chemicel composition is maintained in the soil by properly incorporated straw. It improves the water percolation, holding capacity and aeration of the soil as well as mellowing hard compact soils and providing body in light & sandy soils.

Since organic matter or fibre is rapidly depleted with repeated cultivation, most agriculturist such as Alberta have a medium to low level of organic content. The addition of organic matter in the form of barnyard manure, green manure & straw will greatly improve this condition. One research group indicates that straw is worth $10 an acre from the point of view of organic matter.

Regarding plant nutrients, Mr. Cootsel says wheat yielding fifty bushels per acre produces straw that contains about 25 pounds of nitrogen, 6 pounds of phosphorus and 30 pounds of potassium. At present fertilizer prices the value of these nutrients is about $4.50 per acre. If this stubble was burned, most of the nitrogen and phosphorus would be lost and the value of the remaining nutrients would probably be about $1.00 per acre. In other words, a farmer who burns his stubble loses more than $3 an acre in plant nutrients & the priceless value of the straw remains the matter.

Are we going to have a civil war in Canada? You may laugh at the question, but a lot of people in this country don't find it hilarious.

La Belle Province is sick and tired of her Cinderella role. She has had enough of being the bright and beset ital, but bedraggled and badly neglected sister in the family.

Since Wacked Godmother Duplessis kicked the bucket and Prince Charming Lesage rode up on his white charger, a new life has dawned for La Belle.

She has realized that her wicked godmother was diddling her out of her inheritance. That some of her sisters, especially that Ontario, who was always a bit of a snob, were looking down their noses at her, and that the much inherit the wrath only when everybody else has stopped it.

As a result, she has lost her inferiority complex. She has dropped her submissive obedience. She has lost her faith in friends. Her eyes are blazing. Her fists are up. She has a chip on her shoulder the size of a chunk of cordwood. And she is very definitely going to the ball, whether the rest of the family likes it or not.

Readers of this column probably don't realize how lucky they are to have the whole French-Canadian revolution explained to them from time by an expert who just spent a week visiting La Belle Province, travelling on an English-Canadian shipping line, and staying in an English-Canadian-owned hotel.

First, let me say that the girls in Montreal still knock you stiff. They have a flair, a style, that makes old guys like me step dead in their tracks and turn slowly, mouth open, until a vicious poke in the ribs from wife or small daughter shatters the illusion.

Secondly, the traffic in Montreal is still the most frightening, the citydriving the most hair-raising. And the fares the most reasonable of any city in Canada.

Thirdly, the majestic bulk of Quebec, brooding over the St. Lawrence, with the hoarse whet memories, is still probably the most imposing city in North America.

Fourthly the price of booze in Quebec province is fierce. Fifth, I can't stay up all night any more. Sixth, it was good to meet old weekly-editors and assorted friends and find out their golf is lousy, too. Seventh, after a week of dressing up & eating salmon mousse and sipping everybody in sight, it's wonderful to sit in the backyard like a bum, sweltering, to eat hot reel food that only the Old Girl can prepare, and to get up from the table without having to fish for a bill.

We enjoyed our trip thoroughly, and even the kids arrived home utterly exhausted, sure sign of a fine convention. It was tempting to devote this week's column to a "cute" travelogue.

But I came home with a deep feeling of unease concerning the mixed marriages which has, for almost one hundred years, confounded the experts by being apparently a happy one. I'm afraid one of the partners wants a divorce, or if not that, at least a completely new deal.

"Has the lady grounds for divorce?" you ask. Perhaps not, legally. Getting a divorce in this country has always been almost as tough as getting into heaven.

And like all ladies her real reasons

MRS. JACK BUTLER, REPORTER

HELPING THE FARMERS WIFE AT THRESHING TIME IN 1916

I was born and raised in a small town, and up to the age of 20 I had never had the occasion to become intimately acquainted enough with any of the farmers' families to merit an invitation to any of the farms that surrounded the town in which I lived, at that particular time.

At the age of 14 my brother was hired out to help one of the district farmers harvest a really bumper crop. After working all week he would come home for a bath, change of clothes and a needed rest.

The mode of transportation in those days for most of the farmers was the old reliable work horse, so of course my brother had to come into town late on Saturday night, returning to work Sunday evening.

One Sunday at breakfast my brother said, "Say Sis, Mrs. Haley would sure like some help out there. She's milking ten cows night and morning, besides cooking for the bunch of us, with just the help of her youngsters. There are 9 of us to cook for now, and when threshing starts, there will be about 25".

"And am I supposed to be interested?" I callously asked (You see I little understood the drudgery that the average farm woman had to go through in those early days).

"Oh well," answered my brother, "I thought I'd just mention it. I don't maybe you'd have a heart and go out and help her".

So after giving it considerable thought, I decided to go out and give this poor over-worked woman a break. I do not know what I expected, but I do know that I had my eyes opened as to how that part of the world lived in early days.

Their house was very modest (to house a family of 8 and the hired man) containing 2 small bedrooms, a main, all-purpose room, and a lean-to, where the cream separator was kept. To accomodate them all during night time, Mrs. Haley improvised some sort of sleeping arrangements up in the "Corner," above the main part of the house. It still remains a mystery to me how Mrs. Haley managed to keep such crowded quarters as clean as she did. Guess the old home-made lye soap, pails of water and lots indispensable "elbow grease" did the trick.

I sometimes wonder if the present generation, handicapped as it were these early pioneers, with no conveniences whatsoever, would live as consistently as our forefathers did, and still find time to be neighbourly.

The "Corner" was reached each night by hanging on a ladder and placing it against the wall, the ladder climbing up to bed and in the corner, the last lad down was told to take the ladder outside, to be brought in and used the next night. Accordingly I never did get up there to see that part of the house, but have wondered many times if I had managed to crawl up there to tidy it up.

But back to my arrival.

It was supper time when we drove up to the door. Mrs. Haley was just going out to milk her cows, with a 12-quart pail on each arm, so she was so pleased to see me (she did look played out). Mary, a 15-year-old daughter, took me in one of the small bedrooms where there were 2 three-quarter-sized beds, and one end to end with a crib across from them, leaving a narrow lane to between. There, as evidence of Mrs. Haley's cleanliness, the bedding all as clean and the floor spotless (what you could see of it).

I got an apron out of my suitcase, and coming out into the big room where Mary was getting supper, asked her if I could help. She put a huge pan (skillet) as the old range, and putting in a large piece of a pound of home-churned butter to (makes my mouth water to think of it) Mary asked me if I would slice some potatoes into the pan. Mrs. Haley was still at the barn, and I figured she would be at some time yet, as the cows were milked by hand.

Never-the-less here was Mary frying the potatoes (for our Sunday supper was now to me too) I ventured to ask her how long before we would be sat down to supper. "Oh," she answered, "I'm not sure. Anyway I will put a lid on the eggs and pull the pan back on the stove. They'll be O. K." Presently I ventured to take a peek at these eggs. Mary had broken at least 10 or 11 eggs into that pan, all squeezed up together, and still frying and bubbling away like mad. Well, when the family finally sat down to supper, these eggs were more like rubber than eggs.

Everyone went to bed real early, or it seemed early to me, but we were all up at the crack of dawn, and the hum of activity was soon heard, inside and out. I helped with breakfast, washed dishes, swept floors, etc., while Mary washed the cream separator, made beds and so on. Mrs Hisley was busy at making cakes, biscuits, pies, etc. It was extremely hot, and I was wishing that we could prepare the vegetables and in the shade of the house, but as they did not mention it, I said nothing.

Whether it was the extreme heat, or the commotion and confusion in which I was unaccustomed, or too much fried food, I will never know, but my head started to ache, and in a short time I knew I was in for a bad "migraine" to which I was subject. However I carried on until the next morning when Mrs. Hisley noticed I was really sick and suggested I lie down until after dinner, then she would have one of the horses taken off the land and take me back home. So it turned out that instead of HE helping HER, she had to take time off to take be back to town. I felt so guilty and ashamed that I couldn't "take it."

Years later I lived with my husband and family on a farm quite near to their home, and we became lifelong friends, their children chumming with ours, attending picnics, parties, S. S., church services together, with our little ones; helping each other when sorrow, trouble and adversity struck. In short being just plain neighbourly.

When the news reached me that Mrs Hisley had been laid to rest at a ripe old age, I felt I had lost a real friend, a "Comrade" and a neighbor, in the truest sense.

The RED X Means TIME TO RENEW

1908 — FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR — 1963 SEDGEWICK, Alberta, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3RD, 1963 Volume 54 — Number 24

WEATHER and CROPS Are Near Perfect

We've lived too long in Central Alberta to make any weather statements more than 24 hours in advance, but at the time of writing, September 30th, the weather has been almost perfect, and the crops throughout the area the best in some years. There has been little or no frost, and the weather has been dry and warm, ideal for harvest.

It has been estimated that harvest is progressing rapidly, with 80-85 percent of the crop being finished.

Yields results gathered from various locations in the area indicate wheat yields from a low of 20 to a high of 55 and 60 bushels, many fields surpassing high expectations. Oats, Barley, the main coarse grains, are running out all the way from 60 to 80 and 90 bushels per acre, with the Mustard and Rape seed crops going right along with the trend.

Growth of cover crops has been exceptionally good, Alsifa and the other feed crops being combined to grow nicely, and second cuttings are producing good returns.

A drive out through the countryside brings to the eye beautiful sights, such as the beauty of the foliage with its fall mantle of many-colored beauty; lakes and sloughs teeming with wild fowl; and the summerfallow a deep rich black in readiness for next year's planting. An unusual sight this fall is the fields dotted with granaries of all kinds and sizes, with wells bulging with the fruits of the land.

Farmers, enthralled at this date, with the harvest, are working great time to beat the winter, and those finished are working the land with cultivating implements, preparing the land the 1964.

LITTLE GIRL, BIG PUMPKIN! — Little Miss Marguerite Galletly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Sis" Galletly of Sedgewick, is almost hidden by the huge pumpkin she proudly poses with here. The pumpkin was grown by Marguerite, and is the largest of several grown from a 10c package of seeds. This is the largest we have seen this year, and invites competition. Can you top it?

Champs

Local man on world's champion threshing team

Mr. John Kvill of Sedgewick was one member of a Dale-Gina Alberta team that captured the World Championship threshing title this past summer at Pion-ere in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Kvill is principal of the Sedge wick Elementary School, and is also a member of the Sedgewick Lions Club. Threshing competitions are not his only interest, however, as he is also a keen curler, and golfer, and has been for many years. Curling, however, is a hobby.

He and his two partners, Mr. Gus Gould of McLennan, Alberta, and Harry Tate of Montville, Alberta, entered the competition using a 60-inch Case Threshing Machine and a 75 H.P. Sawyer-Massey Steam Engine. It was the only steam operated rig in the contest, the other machines all being gas driven.

One of the surprises of their win was the fact that some of the three is a farmer, but operate threshing machines strictly as a hobby.

The threshermen's contest is held each year at the Pion-ere fair, the purpose of seeing how quickly the sheaves can be loaded in the field, hauled to the machine and threshed.

The rules provide rigid penalties for any sheaves that are not threshed or if the separator is plugged.

Mr. Kvill and his teammates received the Western Producer Trophy for winning the contest, and were invited to both Manitoba and Wisconsin to put on shows.

Deaths total one - a - day during the summer months

Thieves again active in Village of Strome

STROME — During the night of Saturday September 21st, thieves broke into four premises in Strome. A car and welding outfit were stolen from Rak's Garage. Tools were taken from Brewer's Hardware; the safe in Driedger's Assurance Agencies was cut open and small change taken. In the Co-op Store the safe was opened and a considerable sum of cash and cheques taken.

A welding cutting torch had been used to open both safes.

Entry was made at the Co-op by a rear window, and the break-in was not discovered until about 9.00 a.m.

Last month's police report of thefts in Strome was the highest monthly report since the Village was incorporated.

The Alberta Safety Council has released figures which show that a death occurred almost daily on Alberta roads during July and August, bringing the year's traffic death toll to 171, up 2 percent from 1962.

In reporting this, the Safety Council said the traditional holiday season nonetheless were not as black as last year. For the first time since February, the highway death toll in July and August was sharply below last year's figures. Fifty-nine lives were lost, 30 in July and 29 in August. A year ago, it was 39 and 40.

Substantial increases in the preceding four months, however, more than offset summer's improvement. Moreover, accidents and injury rates increased last month to bring the year's accident total (19,482) up six percent from a year ago, and the injury toll (4,916) up by 14 per-

THE POWER OF SMALL THINGS!

In scanning through some old papers and magazines the other day, I read the following:

"Forty-five years ago there was a strike in an Ohio coal mine. A group of enraged coal miners took a car of coal, set it afire and pushed it down into the mine. That fire is still burning under ground, spreading many miles, destroying valuable coal deposits and rendering hundreds of acres of surface ground sterile. Today it threatens to destroy a school & some homes in the village. Burning beneath them it is undermining the ground and may cause them to collapse. The fire that anger started 45 years ago turned out to be bigger than the men who started it ever imagined".

As I finished reading I concluded that there was a moral to this incident which might well be heeded, for, after all, it is but an illustration, and a very spectacular one, of almost every day happenings. The moral of course is, that a small act may have far-reaching consequences, either for good or for evil.

I remember hearing about the cow that kicked over a lantern which resulted in the great Chicago fire. A student assassinated an Austrian Grand Duke and his wife, and the Great War was an immediate outcome, with the loss of ten million lives and billions of dollars worth of property. An employee is dismissed in anger, and perhaps unjustly, and a nation wide strike follows, bringing suffering and ruin in its wake. A careless or dishonest contractor fails to put in a sufficient quantity of cement in the foundation of a building, and disaster follows taking a toll in human lives. A faulty rail is laid and a train is wrecked; a careless camper neglects to put out his fire and a forest is wiped out.

And how often has a hasty word, an insulting remark, led to a family and business estrangement with dire results to all concerned? How often too, has the peace and friendliness of an entire community been destroyed because of the whispered scandal, the unguarded reflection upon the honor and integrity of another, the prejudiced utterance casting aspersions upon those of different ideas or beliefs?

All little things in comparison to their effects and disastrous results.

Fortunately for the human family, the reverse is also true.

A little Dutch boy stuck his finger in the small hole in a dam and saved his country from inundation. Great men and great women have been started on their careers by kindly, encouraging words from a friend. The mighty oak from an acorn grew. It was in a single kernel of wheat that the hundreds of bushels of Marquis wheat annually harvested in Western Canada had its origin.

If we would remember, and give heed to the fact that, just as a pebble thrown into the water causes ever-widening circles of waves to sweep its surface, so does every word and act of ours create little circles of influence radiating out into our homes, our offices, our communities and the world at large, and, for good or ill, affecting the lives and future of others and of our country, then perhaps we would be more careful, more considerate, a little less hasty and impatient of others, and more inclined to extend that degree of sympathy and tolerance to others which we naturally expect will be displayed towards us.

THERE ISN'T TIME!

How often are people heard to exclaim "I haven't time," or "There isn't time," uttered by way of excuse for not doing something which ought to be done. And how false and shallow such an excuse can be. The necessary time can always be found for the discharge of one's duties and obligations if the will to do is in evidence. But on the other hand, it is perfectly true that "there isn't time" for many things upon which, nevertheless, countless people expend an enormous amount of valuable time, resulting in pure waste.

Time may appear long and slow when measured by centuries and the history of nations, but it is fast and fleeting when gauged by the life of individuals. Men who have lived long and active lives, have at the close of their careers, expressed regrets i nthe words, "So much to do, and so little done!" Time and good health are the most precious gifts to mankind. Because the span of human life is brief, each single moment should be put to use. Time is necessary to keep the mind alert and active, and the body capable of the work it may be called upon to do. But, let me repeat, that there isn't time in even the longest life, for some things. Sorrow comes to all at some time or other, but, "there isn't time" to waste in brooding over one's sorrow and loss. To do so merely means to further shorten life. There isn't time in this life for worry. Worry kills. It accomplishes nothing, but is destructive and undermining. It is right, proper and sensible and also prudent to think of the future, but many people confuse this desirable trait with needless, senseless worry. "Life is too brief to hunt for grief, for thorns among the flowers". Hurt we may be today by what others say about us. We may be misjudged, our actions misrepresented, our words distorted.. We may be maligned, slandered, and made the victims of false rumor. These things cut and hurt, but "there isn't time" to let them long annoy. Along with them there are many things to make us happy and glad, and we need all the time there is for the bright and joyous things of life.

Life is too short for continued thoughts of malice, hatred and revenge. Wrongs may be inflicted upon us, but by pursuing the even tenor of our ways, the mouth of the slanderer will be closed and his evil words answered. "Life isn't long, just time for song, and love, and things sublime. Be not concerned with the thoughts that burned, good friends, there isn't time. Spend more time laughing awny your troubles. It's good medicine.

"Despair is never so deep,
Grief is never so great—
Trouble can never conquer the hearts of men, so long as there is laughter".

The WAINWRIGT Star-Chronicle says: It is surprising how many farmers between here and Edmonton are having the crops handled by the old fashioned method—and we saw a number of threshing outfits working on Sunday as we travelled highway 14.

The NANTON NEWS: Trading with nations—food in particular—is more likely to lessen tension between them than to heighten it. Another argument might be that if the communist countries have to spend huge sums of money on food, they will have less to invest in weapons of war.

The CAMROSE CANADIAN: As we understand the law, cars and trucks must have a muffler in working order, or be guilty of an infraction. Doesn't the same law apply to the broad range of motor scooters so familiar around town these days? Drivers of these vehicles seem to get a vicarious enjoyment out of revving up their motors as many times as possible in any given block, so that everyone within a quarter mile radius will know they're around.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Stormy Session Ahead

OTTAWA — With the summer full behind them, a busy fall and winter faces both Parliament and the Liberal Government.

While there does not appear to be much chance of the minority Liberal government being overturned during the balance of the current session of the House of Commons, it can look forward to some stormy hours.

Although the Liberals might take some comfort from the further division of the Opposition with the split of a wing of the Social Credit party into Le Ralliement Des Creditistes during the recess, the move could further intensify the political instability within Parliament.

One of the first orders of business will be the legislation to impose government trusteeship on the five Canadian maritime unions in an effort to end the labour warfare that has raged on the Great Lakes for the past five years. It is probably one of the few measures to be brought before Parliament this session that will win approval from all corners of the House of Commons.

What could be the last shot in the battle that has raged across the Nation for the past five years over the acceptance of nuclear armaments for Canadian forces may also be fired this fall. New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas has served notice that his group will challenge the agreement signed by the Government with the United States on the supply of atomic warheads during the summer recess. But with the die now cast, the NDP is doing nothing more than going through the motions of opposition. Even Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker has indicated his party intends to drop the issue, leaving the forces of Real Cossette as the only probable supporters of the NDP.

The most prolonged and intensive controversy is likely to be sparked by the Government's legislation to establish a Canada Pension Plan, and a parallel bill to provide for an immediate increase in the universal old age pension from $65 to $75.

The proposal to set up a supplementary contributory old age insurance scheme based on incomes has already become a subject of partisan warfare not only in the House of Commons, but also in the recent Ontario election campaign.

With insurance and trust companies mounting a massive campaign against the pension plan, which presents a real threat to their vested interests, it can be expected the program will receive a thorough working over before it comes out of the mill. Here the various parties will line up on the issue is still not clear, but it seems safe to predict that while they may have a few deals in it, the insurance and trust companies will get nowhere in their efforts to kill the program.

The long awaited overhaul of unemployment insurance legislation based on the recommendations of a committee headed by E. G. Gill of the Canada Life Assurance Co. is almost certain to touch off fireworks from opposition members. If they are to be effective in restoring the soundness of the unemployment insurance fund, the changes are bound to be politically unpleasant in some respects.

Another bill to provide for a far-reaching overhaul in Canada's railway system along the lines recommended by the Macpherson Royal Commission on Transportation will present Parliament with a heavy burden, but the general nature of plan is expected to be supported by all parties.

There is a long list of other legislation as well to keep Parliament going for many months to come. There is a bill to broaden the urban renewal provisions of the National Housing Act, and possibly to provide NHA mortgages on older houses as well. There is a special commission to be established to oversee the re-distribution of House of Commons seats. A program originally put forward by the Conservatives to help labour and industry adjust to the demands of automation is expected to be revived by the Liberal Government in different form.

Apart from getting its legislative program through Parliament, the Liberal Government faces several important decisions of its own in the months ahead.

High on the list is the question of defence, with important questions to be resolved which could effect Canada for years to come. Defence Minister Paul Hellyer is currently wrestling with the problem in an effort to come up with a defence policy that has some meaning in Canadian terms.

Most pressing is a decision on what to do about the eight general purpose frigates which the Royal Canadian Navy wants built at a cost estimated up to as high as $460,000,000. There is little doubt that Mr. Hellyer considers the program to be a waste of money, but unless he can come up with a fast substitute that will keep shipyards working out of the public purse he has only a small chance of persuading the Cabinet to scrap the frigate plan approved previously by the Conservative government.

In addition to a defence policy, there is also the need to draft a civil aviation policy that will define the position of Canada's two major airlines at home and abroad as well as that of regional air carriers across the country.

Far months now the Government has been wrestling with plans for ordering Canada's auto manufacturers to cut back the heavy import of parts from the United States, a factor responsible for causing a deficit in Canada's balance of trade of over $500,000,000 a year. The question now to be decided is whether or not to proceed with the program in the face of the strong opposition voiced by the Kennedy Administration during recent meetings of the Joint Canada-U.S. Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs.

The negotiations scheduled to take place next year on the reduction in world trade barriers proposed by the United States require a number of important decisions to be made by the Federal Government. It must determine what concessions tariffs it is prepared to cut and by how much following a lengthy round of consultations with Canadian importers. It must also determine what kind of assistance is going to be forthcoming, if at all, to help Canadian industry adjust to more intensive competition in certain sectors.

From the Liberal party's point of view, one of the most important tasks facing the Government is to re-furbish an image badly tarnished by the inept performance of Finance Minister Walter Gordon and the extreme partisanship of Health Minister Judy LaMarsh. Since coming to office, the Liberals have displayed a tendency on occasion to play politics on the level practised by the former Conservative Government, which events subsequently proved to be poor politics. In fact, the best politics may for some time to come be nothing more than dull, good government.

JUST ROWLAND

There is a clown in just about every big family, and we were blest (?) with two who fit the bill perfectly — Rowland and Dan. Rowland was so droll about it too, which added to the fun.

When Rowland and Andy were of pre-school age, we would often remark about the differences in their characteristics, the chief one being that Andy was ALWAYS asking the "why" and the where-for" of everything, and Rowland would ALWAYS volunteer the answer We sometimes dubbed Rowland as the "Bureau of Information."

One day the whole back end went out of our model "T" Ford car, that necessitated Dad sending for a complete set of new gears. He brought the gears home one night a week or so later, and had put them on the kitchen table. Next morning, true to form, as soon as Andy spied them he asked, "What is this Dad? What's this for?" "Oh, don't be so stupid," answered Rowland (he always professed his information to Andy with that phrase). "Alright Rowland," said Dad, "What IS it?" wondering if Rowland really did know. "Well, well," stammered Rowland, swallowing hard, "It's a-a-a Thing-A-Ma-Jig for a What-you-may-call-it". Never let it be said that Rowland was ever afraid to admit he was in fact ever so vague. Nor did he ever let anyone down when it came to giving information on any subject.

What's that row of grass down the middle of the road for, huh?" asked Andy one day (that was at the old gravel pit mine). "Oh, don't be so stupid," again answered Rowland. "That's for the radiator cap to follow the road so we don't fall into the ditch."

One evening they were watching the cattle come up from the pasture. Suddenly Andy asked, "Why do they call some of the cows Sherry?" "Hey are you ever stupid," exclaimed Rowland, "Those are the cows because they steer the others around the pasture."

Ironically, I think Andy believed, unquestioningly everything Rowland told him. I think Rowland did too. Innocent childhood.

When they were school age, some of the teachers complained that they were at their wit's end to keep Rowland occupied and busy, as no matter how much work they gave him, he was finished in no time, and with nothing to do would get into some kind of mischief.

One of her teachers, during the day, thought up a job for Rowland to do. Three of an afternoon. Can you imagine her amusement when she read the following:

"One day when I was hunting wild animals in a forest, I suddenly saw a big lion coming right at me. coming, with his mouth wide open. I dropped my gun, because, of fear, and as he came up to me, I stuck my arm in his mouth, clean through his body, grabbed his tail, turning him inside out. That way he couldn't bite me." (I may have the narrative a bit mixed up, but that's the gist of the story). I might add, Rowland was just 9 years of age it the time)

When Rowland was in his teens, like all growing lads, he was always hungry, eating man-sized meals, then eating lunches between meals. I had been canning apricots, and had just finished cleaning things up when Rowland came in, hungry as always. Seeing a little fruit dish in the cupboard, and thinking it was a cooked apricot in juice, he tipped it up and swallowed the whole thing, before realizing it was a raw egg He knew when the yolk broke in his mouth. As if that wasn't bad enough a few days later, after being on the tractor for a few hours to the buildings, he came in declaring that he "was starved," and proceeded to make himself a lunch. Having kept a saucer in the cupboard on which I put what I called my "grease rag" used to grease my bread pans. Seeing this, and thinking it was a slice of meat, he slid it into his bread and sandwich, proceeded to eat it. Needless to say, it did not go down. Poor Rowland. The laugh was once on him, but being a good sport, he laughed with us.

One grand characteristic of Rowland was, and still is, his tender heart. He could not bear to see anyone suffer, and, as I look back to those awful war years when he was "in the thick of it," how he must have suffered, inwardly, every time he saw some one hurt or wounded. And I am sure he saw plenty in over three years. To this day he stays away from hospitals where there is suffering. He can't bear to even take his own children to the Dentist for fear he might hurt them.

Museum branch erects signs

As part of a continuing program to mark places of historical interest close to provincial highways, the Museum Branch of the Alberta's Department of Provincial Secretary, has erected four more historical signs bringing the total to nine new signs. A total now has 61 of these signs marking places where the province's history was made in the last hundred years. The new signs are all in the same style and were erected at the following pieces:

One, entitled "Trading Post" is located on Highway 16 just west of the town of Lac la Biche, now read as follows:

"In 1798 David Thompson built a North West Fur Co. fur trading post on the south shore of Red Deer Lake (now Lac la Biche). The following year he built another post, Peter Pond, built a third. Hudson Bay Co. trading post nearby. They were strategically located near the Churchill River Systems.

The two companies were fierce rivals in the West until their merger in 1821."

Another sign, entitled "Rebellion" is located eight miles east of Viking on Highway 14 and reads:

"Three miles south of here is two large stones curiously carved with designs resembling the ribs of a buffalo. For centuries unidentified they had a sacred meaning to the Indians in this area for more than 1,000 years. When the first white settlers arrived in this area, the Indians were still leaving gifts of beads, tobacco or meat near the stones each time they passed.

The Alberta Government cairn has been erected at the site and the area designated a Provincial Historical Park."

"Fort Lennigan" is the title of a sign erected on Highway No. 2, near Pullerton, which reads:

"Four miles west of here on Willow Creek is a viewpoint overlooking the site of an early fort called The Lennigan. Here, Henry Kountz, a whiskey trader and buffalo hunter built a cabin in the early 1870's. After Fort Macleod and Fort Calgary were built in 1874-75, it became a popular stopping place on the trail.

An old Mounted Police stable may also be seen from the viewpoint which is situated near a small museum operated by the Willow Creek Historical Society."

On Highway 16, just west of the Fort Saskatchewan bridge, is a new sign entitled "Fort Augustus - Fort Edmonton", which reads:

"Three miles north of here is the site of the first Fort Augustus (North West Co.) and Fort Edmonton (Hudson's Bay Co.). They were both built in 1795 and abandoned in 1802 when they were moved 20 miles upstream. A Dominion Government Cairn is situated near the site of the forts on the river road, which may be entered east of this sign. This road follows the old Winnipeg Trail route and may be traveled as far as Pakan, Alberta."

WIND BAFFLES!

J. L. Reid, Extension Engineer of the Alberta Dept. of Ag., reports that an effective wind baffle to prevent open trucks losing grain and scattering weed seeds, has been designed by the Agricultural Engineering Dept. of the U. of Saskatchewan.

Simple in design and costing less than $5 to make, this wooden baffle is easily installed or removed from any truck box. During tests to evaluate its efficiency as a windbreak, wheat, which had not moved while the baffle was on the truck, started to blow off on a calm day when the vehicle's speed exceeded 35 miles an hour. With the baffle in place at the front of the box, the speed could be increased to 60 miles an hour before the wheat started to blow. At the speed of 60 a wind baffle would save enough grain in 10 miles to pay for itself.

The wedge on the baffle were found necessary to protect the grain from crosswinds. They permitted a forward speed of 40 miles an hour without loss of grain even when there was a crosswind of 25 miles an hour. Although tests were not done on other types of grain and the actual speeds at which losses occurred would probably be different for each, it is reasonable to assume that a comparable increase in velocity could be obtained without transportation damage.

Information on wind baffles for trucks & an accompanying plan can be obtained from the Extension Service of the Alberta Dept. of Ag. at Edmonton.

STRICT PENALTY!

Don't be careless in handling and storing treated seed. Anyone who delivers treated grain to an elevator, is violating the law for which fines up to $2000 may be imposed.

Alberta's Field Crops Commissioner A. R. Wilson points out that the penalty for this offence is very very strict because of the seriousness of contaminating the feed chain. Also the delivery of a small amount of treated seed to commercial elevators could cast suspicion on the millions of bushels of Canadian grain which are sold annually at home & abroad.

Seed treatment with mercury compounds is recommended for destroying the fungus which causes smut & for eliminating other organisms that are injurious to seed and seedlings. However, if treated seed is used for animal or human feed it can be very detrimental to the health of both.

A little thought and a little care in all that is needed to prevent any possibility of mercury contaminated food products. No alibis will be accepted, says Mr. Wilson. There must be no mistake.

4-H CLUBS REORGANIZING!

The time is fast approaching when the 4-H Beef Clubs reorganize, the month of October. Anyone interested should contact the closest 4-H Club Leader or last year's members, and let it be known that they are interested in joining this year. Also the members should be selecting the calf they want to feed in the club. Watch for the announcements of the reorganization meeting.

THIS COAT COULD BE COSTING YOU MONEY

Are you clothing your home with an inadequate coat of insulation?
A properly tailored coat of insulation is as essential to your home's comfort in winter as your own coat is to you. The pattern is easy to follow: the insulation in your attic must total 4" in thickness and must be "buttoned up" around pipes, joists, etc.
Measure your attic insulation today. If it's less than 4" thick, see us for Zonolite loosefill insulation. We'll show you how easy it is to pour Zonolite right over your inadequate insulation to solve the problem permanently.

WEDDING BELLS

CHRISTENSON — TINGEY

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday evening the 14th of September at St. George's Anglican Church, Penhold, when Phyllis Mary Tingey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tingey of Penhold was united in marriage to Kenneth Gary Christenson, youngest son of Mrs. Elsie Christenson of Sedgewick, in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. A. Bell.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of white satin with a nylon organza overskirt and a sequinned bodice with lily-point sleeves. Her shoulder tip veil was held in place by a cluster of white flowers. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Jo Anne Hedong, friend of the bride, who wore a yellow street length dress of nylon organza over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of mauve carnations.

The groom was attended by Bill Tingey of Kinuso, brother of the bride. Ernest Archenault and George Christenson were ushers. Only the immediate members of each family were present.

The bride's mother wore a wine suit with pink corsage. Mother of the groom wore a rose basic suit with white accessories and corsage in pink.

The reception was held in the Club Cafe at Red Deer, Alberta.

After a short honeymoon the happy couple will make their home in Calgary where the groom is attending Calgary Tech.

F.U.A. Newsletter

● Two suggestions, repeatedly coming from important public figures in Canada, and dealing with the recent sale of wheat to Russia, are causing some concern in farm circles. The first suggestion is that the price received for this wheat is too low. The Farmers' Union just points out that the price was determined by the worlds wheat markets. The Canadian Wheat Board does not and cannot control this price. The job of the Board is to sell wheat, but the price is always controlled by what the buyer will pay, and what other producers will sell for.

Canada has no monopoly on the wheat surplus. If our price was set unduly high, we would not have made this sale. It is not correct to say that the price was too low. It was undoubtedly the best that could be obtained under the circumstances.

The second suggestion, coming from the same source is that wheat prices on the world's markets will go up, and that Canada sold too soon. This statement is equally irresponsible. Canada will be able to sell, but it is very doubtful that it could be moved in likewise before next August, even if it is sold. Our rail and port facilities will be strained to the limit to meet present commitments. In other words, Canada, one of the world's great wheat exporters, is almost out of the market for the next year. The result may very well be that wheat prices will go up, but if the sale to Russia had not been made, world wheat prices, would in all likelihood, have come down over the next year.

The Farmers' Union deplores such statements, obviously made for political reasons, and designed only to create discord.

MEASLES VACCINE NOW IN CANADA

Canada has moved another step towards the eventual eradication of measles, the highly contagious childhood disease which in 1962 was responsible for 81 deaths. The step was taken with the announcement that measles vaccine, under development for the past four years, is now available in Canada. The vaccine was licensed by the federal Food & Drug Directorate early last month, and there are now on hand commercial quantities which will be distributed immediately.

The initial distribution will provide enough vaccine for one, 0.5 cmm injections, with additional quantities marketed as required.

Measles, which most often strikes youngsters under 15, has been labelled by some doctors as "the harmless killer" because while most of its victims recover uneventfully, some die and others develop serious complications, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, of those who died last year 24 were children under five years of age.

The inactivated vaccine, first against measles to be licensed in Canada, was clinically tested in 15, 000 children during studies carried out here and in the U. S. A. Tests showed development of protective antibodies in up to 98 percent of the children who received, at monthly intervals, either three injections of inactivated vaccine or two inactivated followed by one shot of live attenuated vaccine. The inactivated caused virtually no side reactions such as fever and rash.

Russians will Empty Our Granaries

From The Financial Post
(By J. R. Edmonds)

WINNIPEG — It's almost impossible to overestimate the impact on Western Canada of the giant wheat deal with Russia. This single sale of 220 million bushels to a new customer takes care of the "excess" wheat produced by good weather in Western Canada this year. What's left is a normal crop, which can be disposed of through normal channels such as Japan, Germany, Britain & China.

Stipulation of delivery within the year means that, provided grain-handling and transportation facilities can handle the job, the equivalent of two crops will be moved into commercial channels at once, and delivery quotas (now one bus. to the acre at most points) will move up rapidly. This means a high rate of farmers' marketings, which is the figure to watch if you're planning to sell in the West.

The psychological effect of two big bulk sales, coming just as the Western farmers are harvesting a semi-record crop, is certain to produce a boosyest atmosphere in Western Canada.

COLD CASH

But the cold cash effect is even more important. There's no sign of this stage that the Russian deal involves any drop in export prices. If the grain farmer gets sustained prices and fast delivery on top of high yields, the return per dollar of grain expense should reach record levels. Sales of farm machinery, cars, and farmstead improvements, already high, are likely to go even higher.

FRUGAL FARMERS!

Paradoxically, one result of the big sale could be a decline in the rate of decline in the number of farmers in Western Canada. Farmers operating marginal or subnatural farms may get enough cash shock to move off the farm, and farmers who want to add to acreage to achieve the economies of large scale production will have more land to buy.

The trend to fewer and larger farms tends to accelerate in years of high yield and sales.

Plans to reduce acreage planted to wheat and grow more feed grains may be altered by the big sale, although by next spring farmers may be concerned about:

● The possibility of another big crop and no duplicate of the Russian sale which is a result of a short crop in other export points.

● Trouble in other wheat markets, especially Europe where Common Market farm policy will hurt Canadian wheat.

If either of these worries looms large at planting time, the cut in acreage is likely to take place on schedule.

One certain beneficiary of the sale is the Saskatchewan government. Even in average crop years, wheat accounts for 60 percent of the gross provincial product. This is far from an average year for wheat in Saskatchewan, and the crop there will set an all-time record.

a matter of interest
Some people let their savings lie idle or put them out at low interest rates when they could obtain a better yield. Often the reason is that they are not sure about selecting investment securities. We recommend Canada Savings Bonds as an ideal savings instrument.
● The 1963 Series bears an average interest rate of 5.03% for 12 years.
● It is a risk-free security—readily cashable at 100% and accrued interest.

By Bill Smiley

Rock Hudson, the morals of Sir Galahad, the loving kindness of St. Francis, the sense of humor of Stephen Leacock, and the backbone of E. P. Taylor, to name only a few of the required attributes.

As I wrote down their suggestions checking them one by one against my own characteristics, the heavy pall with which I had begun to write the list turned into a sort of paper.

My wife had been telling me for years that I'm a lousy father, and I've been retorting: "I just not. I may be a lousy husband, but I'm a perfectly good father. Ask the kids."

And they, depending on whose side the treacherous young devils feel like throwing their weight, would answer: "He's not so bad, Mom, there must be less yours fathers than Dad!" Or: "He's right, Dad, you're not much of a father."

But here was proof, from outside the family. I had only about four of the 39 qualities required by those teen-agers in The Ideal Father. It hurt. I won't deny it. For a moment I toyed, bitterly, with the notion of turning in my 16-year-old union card in that great society of BOOBS the Benevolent Order Of Bewildered Slaves — whose membership is made up of the country's finest, to boot.

Fortunately, no old BOOB. I have great resilience. We come back faster than a cheque marked N.S.F. Just as I reached the bottom point in my disillusion, I remembered that we were discussing, not me, or any ordinary BOOB, but the Ideal Father.

Immediately, I brightened. As I looked back over my life, I realized that I had never been an I.eal child, student, fighter pilot, prisoner of war, weekly editor, columnist or school teacher.

I admitted to myself that I had been a disgusting child: a lazy student, a frightened fighter pilot, a happy prisoner of war, a slapdash weekly editor, a columnist by sheer accident and a school teacher because there was a shortage of same.

And as I pondered the matter further, I remembered that most of the people whom I had considered ideal in these various capacities, over the years, had been a sharp pain in the arse, and, moreover, hadn't had one-quarter of the fun I'd had.

So cheer up, fellow BOOBS. It doesn't really matter whether you are kind, considerate, thoughtful, loving, generous, rich or well-groomed.

Be honest. Dads. Do you really care whether you wear the pants, whether you are industrious, ambitious, intelligent and brave? Does it pain you that you are not good looking, sports-loving, steady, reliable, a pillar of the community, and "full of fun"?

Don't give it another thought. Those teen-agers are just like us — dreamers. We'd like our children to be ideal, polite, obedient, clever, handsome, quiet, thoughtful, kind, decent, thrifty and so on.

We'll have to accept our kids just as they are. And a good thing too. Who, after all, wants to be an Ideal anything?

ERRYTHYNGE

One last controversy that is likely to revive is the matter of added loading facilities at Pacific ports & other export points. Two likely questions needing early answers:

● Can existing facilities handle the proposed rate of shipment?

● If not, who can be expected to provide more, in view of the single-shot nature of the Russian order?

Unless the effect of the Russian deal is offset later by bad news in traditional markets (and there's no sign of that at present) the political arithmetic of Western Canada may be affected by the sale.

As the Conservatives found out at the last election, Western farmers hesitate to vote against the government when wheat is moving off the farm.

Meteor Custom 4-door sedan, one of the Ford Family of Fine Cars made in Canada. Certain features shown or mentioned are optional at extra cost.
In size, in performance, in luxury, in value, METEOR makes it big for '64
To understand the difference between the '64 Meteor and all other cars in the low-price class —you must understand one thing. Meteor is a bigger car. It is bigger in size, bigger in performance, bigger in luxury and bigger in value.
Its big 215.5 inch length straddles the bumps better—to eliminate regular dip and dive. Add to this the only suspension in the low-price class that lets wheels move backward and forward as well as up and down and you really get big car riding comfort.
Meteor's extra wide stance means better stability—you don't have to fight with the car when you're cornering.
And all this extra size means more leg and knee room, more hip and shoulder room—more headroom.
In luxury, Meteor really makes it big with the most distinctive roofline in the automotive world. Notice the way it's tucked in out of the weather. As a power option you can have the window go up or down to give you Breezeway ventilation all year 'round.
Meteor's power is bigger this year—ranging from an exciting 200 cubic inch V-8 down to a really energetic six.
All these big features and many more like big wide opening doors, big stronger frame, a big 24,000 mile or 24 month total-car warranty—make Meteor the big value standout for 1964. See it now at your Mercury dealer.

RAMS RAMBLE

Beat Camrose St. Pats 13 - 12

CAMROSE — Central Rams showing great determination and persistence, came from behind twice to win a thriller over the Ostrich Shamrocks 13-12, and gain their first league victory in five years.

St. Pat's, strengthened by the inclusion of seven ex-Camrose players, took a first quarter lead of 6-0 on an end run. Early in the second, Munro intercepted a pass on the St. Pat 1st and John Muirhead connected with Sorenson in the end zone to tie the score. Bernie Hopkin added the convert to give the Rams a 7-6 lead at the half.

In the third quarter St. Pats regained the lead when Ken Rose fumbled a punt in their end zone & St. Pat recovered for a T.D. Rams fought back hard but ended the 3rd quarter down 13 to 12.

The fourth quarter was fought at a terrific pace, with the Rams pressing hard to regain the lead and St. Pat's putting up a stiff defence. With less than three minutes to go, John Muirhead faked to John Tyrrell who promptly disappeared into a Shamrocks, while McGowan went over for the major to give Central a 13 to 12 victory.

The Rams showed a marked improvement over their performance of the previous week, despite the slippery field conditions. A feature of the Ram play this year is their great team spirit and determination, and Saturday's victory was due in the main to good teamwork.

For the Rams offensive squad John Tyrrell gave a good performance in his first game as fullback, and was hard to stop. Ken Rose, Grant and Beairsto ran strongly and made good yardage. John Muirhead and a good first game as quarterback, and Sorenson showed he had a real pair of catching hands. On defence Coalmont, Hergabe and Bonnie were quick through the line; Funke, Munro, Cumberland, Dave Muirhead and Bradley turned in some good tackling. Another feature of the game was the strict control exercised by the officials from the Edmonton Referee Association.

Central's Cheer-leaders, defying the cold, rain, damp and mud, are to be congratulated for the entertaining and continuous encouragement of the Rams.

Last week's success will encourage the Rams for their next encounter with the strong Wetaskiwin High Sabres at the Sedgewick Recreation Grounds at 2.00 p.m. this Saturday. The game will be officiated by the Edmonton Referee Assn. This game should attract a large crowd of local supporters.

Buildings, feed lost in farm fire

KILLAM — What may be termed a four-alarm fire broke out on the Farm of "Dick" Kisner just East of Killam on Monday night of last week during the supper hour. Four fire engines answered the call, two from each of the towns of Killam & Sedgewick.

Cause of the blaze is undetermined, but is known to have broken out at or near the fuel shed and feed bins. Some thirty tons of hay were destroyed, along with the fuel shed and other small equipment nearby. Also destroyed was a granary, and some damage resulted to the wheat which was stored inside the bin.

Fire engines left for the scene as soon as alarms were received, and managed to hold the fire to the immediate vicinity. A nearby barn was saved and adjoining granaries filled with grain were undamaged.

The farm yard and adjoining area was quickly filled with cars and trucks as fire-fighters and curious onlookers were attracted to the scene. The congestion of traffic, while not hindering fire trucks and fighters in their work, did require the assistance of the R.C.M.P. in keeping the entrance road cleared. Damage has been estimated in the neighborhood of $2000.00.

CURLING NEWS

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick curling club has completed the insulation of the rink, ensuring against crip and cold. Canada is turning on the heat next week. All individuals wishing to enter please leave names at Cooper's Drug Store, as the carry committee will be drawing lots soon.

Approximate date of the Mixed Spiel is October 26th.

F.W.U.A. cook book "selling like hot cakes"

Thanks to an FWUA best-seller, the good food found in Alberta farm kitchens is being made famous all over the world. The FWUA Cook Book is finding its way around the globe. At last count, some 65,000 copies have been distributed, or are on hand. This includes a book a day on which are in daily use in Pakistan.

According to the staff in the FUA Central Office, who handle orders and mailing, the books are going like hot cakes. One order leads to sell another, and each year the demand for copies goes up.

Back in the mailing room they tell the story of how one cook book was sent as a gift to a certain address in Winnipeg. Two weeks later, a whole flock of orders came in from that same street.

This just proves again that nothing succeeds like success. The F. W. U. A. Cook Book has been around for many years. Slowly but steadily it has been revised and improved, until today it is a sure-fire best seller. Each copy sells for $1.50. Last year, 54000 worth were distributed. To date 58300 worth have gone out this year.

The Associated Country Women of the World have had quite a bit to do with the book finding its way overseas. And it's through their word of mouth advertising that lots of copies have been sent throughout the United States and Hawaii. Several ACWW members in Pakistan have obtained copies through this world-wide body. Through their cooking, the Farm Women of Alberta are conquering the world.

Fire prevention week Oct. 6-12

by A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner

We are out on the attack to crush the enemy — unfriendly fire. We know fire hazards will not go away simply if we ignore them so we must seek them out, expose them and do everything possible to destroy them. Our efforts on the average records reports of 16 fires a day. In some fires the damage is only a few dollars but even the smallest fire is a potential fire disaster.

We tend to become complacent about fires when they do not involve us personally but each we say where fire will strike next? Here are a few examples where fire went on the attack and took the family by complete surprise.

The first case deals with a survivor escape by a woman who was alone in her house and who was awakened shortly after midnight by heat and smoke in her bedroom. She ran out after hastily pulling on a pair of slacks. The house and contents were quickly all aflame and nothing was saved since there was no fire department in the hamlet to respond. Neighbours were summoned but they could do nothing. Apparently the fire originated in the basement. It is believed that the furnace became overheated and that the rapid spread of fire was accelerated by leakage from the oil fuel supply. Oil furnaces must be installed according to particular regulations and serviced regularly to assure there are no fuel leaks and that heat limit controls are working properly.

At a farm location recently kerosene poured in a wood burning stove to freshen the fire exploded, seriously burning the farmer and resulting in a fire that destroyed his home. Fire spread so rapidly that other occupants of the house had to climb out the second story windows to escape. Lack of water hindered the rural fire fighters from saving the house.

In another district a rural dwelling and post office were extensively damaged by fire started by an intoxicated man smoking in bed. He was alone in the house and was aroused by heavy fires a fire he had caused to the degree that after he escaped from the bedroom, he collapsed in the living room near the door. He was rescued from the building by his son-in-law but he had died from shock and suffocation before he was removed from the house.

These are facts from our records and certainly true stories such as these attest to fires' potential to kill and destroy in the home. There is good excuse for all of us to go on the offence against possible causes of fire in our homes.

We need to improve our fire loss record beginning this Fire Prevention Week.

Be A True Sportsman!

The shooting season in our Province is at hand and young and inexperienced sportmen are vieing with seasoned old hunters in taking toll of wild ducks, geese and other game birds, as well as the bigger game. In many respects the West constitutes the amateur hunter's paradise. In other provinces, to a very great extent it is necessary to travel far afield to enjoy the hunting season, but in the Prairie West the wild duck are to be found on almost every pond, slough and lake, while the other birds feed in the lush grain fields and in the wooded bluffs which dot the farming community.

These birds are one of the assets of our Canadian West, and an asset worth protecting. Apart altogether from the sport of hunting, these birds have a high food value and are a delicacy much enjoyed by all. During the closed seasons their presence adds to the picturesqueness of Western life and call forth expressions of interest and delight from permanent residents, visitors and tourists.

It is in the interests of all, therefore, but perhaps more particularly in the interests of the sportsmen themselves, that restraint should be exercised by all hunters at the opening of, and throughout the shooting season. Laws have been enacted restricting the period of the "open season", limiting the size of the daily and seasonal "bags" and imposing penalties for infractions of these ordinances. Violations of these laws are, however, not always easy of detection, but it should be a true part of every sportman's code that he observe these laws which have been enacted for his own and the public good, and that he should actively interest himself in seeing that such laws are obeyed by others, and offenders brought to book.

Some men may think it smart and in evidence of great skill and marksmanship to bring down an unusually large number of birds, and to boast of their achievement, but it is something over which they should hang their heads in shame rather than boast out loud.

Shooting for the mere sake of shooting is not sport, and the man who indulges in such a practice is not a true sportsman. Most assuredly he is not friend of sportsmen, because sooner or later the inevitable result will be to deprive everybody of a legitimate means of sport, and to rob this country of what has already been described as a real asset.

Game guardians should be accorded every possible support by all true sportsmen and lovers of our wild life. Instead of assisting offenders against our game laws to escape detection and the just penalty for their infractions of the law, people generally should co-operate to expose these lawless ones and bring them to justice.

The West can ill afford to have our game birds go the way of the buffalo, the beaver and the sockeye salmon. Strict observance of existing game laws by sportsmen, and the exposure of the few who consider their momentary pleasure to the rights and interests of others, and who by their acts jeopardize the future, will assure to the Western Provinces an ever-continuing pleasure and guarantee a retention of one of the picturesque features of the country—its wild bird life.

Of Editors and Preachers!

Considered by the public at large, the newspaper editor is a benefactor and a bloomin' nuisance. A benefactor in that he freely (though perhaps reluctantly & against his private conceptions of what constitutes charitable assistance) inserts notices of benefits, bazaars, dances and shows absolutely free of charge. A nuisance because he eternally and everlastingly intrudes the point of his professional proboscis in other people's private affairs and makes them matters of public importance. One of the fundamental prerequisites of the editor's job is that he be familiar with every avenue of human learning. This position he must maintain despite his waywardness, Yet, if the poor sap fails,through the physical impossibility of discovering the well concealed secret, he meet=ify the community with the thrilling information that John Jones started work on the land March 10th, he is at once heralded near and far as an ignorant boob who ought to be cleaning the streets. An editor is not always ruthless and rabid as one might judge from the shape of his head. Don't judge for a moment that he goes his limit in purging the community of crime and its citizens of sin. Why, if he'd publish just a suggestion of some of the stuff he has on you, your safest retreat would be "somewhere in Mexico". But he doesn't and he won't. When you get to warping it to him so hard that he decides to show you up, his wife will lock him in the woodshed and plead with him to spike his spleen, and so once more he will refrain.

While an editor is supposed to be the most criticised man on earth, we believe the minister has it just about as tough. The preacher has a hard time of it. If his hair is gray he is old. If he has ten children he has too many. If he has none, he should have, and isn't setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir she is presuming; if she doesn't she isn't interested in her husband's work. If the preacher reads from notes he's a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home he doesn't mix enough with the people. If he is seen around town he ought to be at home preparing a good sermon. If he calls on some poor family, he is playing to the gallery. If he calls at the home of the rich, he's an aristocrat. Whatever he does some one could have told him how to do it better. Next to an editor, it's an awful life.

Viewpoints

The PONOKA HERALD: It is possible that theenormous food surpluses of western Canada may become a decisive weapon in an undeclared war between the world's two major Communist Blocs. It is not likely that the United States will sell wheat or food to Russia for fear such supplies would go to Cuba or some other undesirable destination. Likewise the U. S. will not sell to Red China. That leaves Western Canada's bulging grain bins as the most likely source of supply for this food weapon. The whole world gets a bit complicated and cock-eyed at times.

The NANTON NEWS: If people feel that a certain law does not contribute anything to the general good, they should seek to have it altered by a combined effort directed into the proper channels.

The CAMROSE CANADIAN: Prime Minister Pearson must have enhanced his stature among the voters of Canada on Saturday night, as he informally chatted with them from the fireplace in his home. Mr. Pearson was sage enough to realize that realistically facing up to some of the problems was better than trying to "soft-soap" his way out of them, and so faced squarely up to a number of difficulties confronting Parliament in the weeks ahead.

The BROOKS BULLETIN: What would the pipeline and oil people think about moving four or five hundred million bushels of wheat a year through their facilities?

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Backbench Jungle

OTTAWA —When Mr. Diefenbaker precipitated the first vote in the recovened session of Parliament with a proposal for making the increased old age pension retroactive to the date of the last election, April 8th, it was not with any hope of defeating the Government but merely to lay a groundwork for any future campaign.

The resulting vote, 111 to 90, is as near as the opposition is ever likely to come in forcing a new election, if, indeed, any of the opposition groups wanted one. If the Pearson Government was safe before the summer recess it is now as safe as a church. To conquer, there was no need for Mr. Pearson to divide his enemies. Mr. Caouette did that for him, providing four opposing groups which can never combine on any issue. And with the support of any one of them Mr. Pearson can command a majority.

The only question - and for Mr. Caouette it is a $4,000 one - whether his Ralliement des Creditistes is to be recognized as a national party under his leadership. If not his hope of $32,000 a year instead of $16,000 is dead. Speaker Alan Macnaughton has wisely left the decision to a Parliamentary committee.

But if Mr. Pearson has clear sailing in the House of Commons he has troubles among his own followers. The two-day Liberal caucus that started the recuperved session of its long way exhibited a weariness and lack of confidence among back-benchers. The Prime Minister was forced to break long established precedent and deny categorically that caucus had demanded the break of two of his ministers, Finance Minister Walter Gordon and Health Minister Judy LaMarsh.

Official denial or confirmation of newspaper reports of what happens in caucus constitute, in themselves, a breach of the supposed caucus secrecy.

Regardless of any demand for a cabinet reshuffle, the discontent among private members was too evident to conceal. Nor would it be fair to blame it on either Mr. Gordon or Miss LaMarsh. Contributing as much as anything else was a mixup over the pay increases which members voted themselves just before adjournment.

In its effort to get unanimous consent for the move, the Government took opposition whips into its confidence on the amount which it intended to propose. As a result, Liberals alone had no official knowledge of the boost to $18,000 until the bill was introduced.

But Liberal backbenchers want more assurances that such incidents will not be repeated. The genial chairman of caucus, Dr. Guy Rouleau, announced plans for caucus votes on Government legislation and policy. Resolutions would be moved and in some cases made public after their adoption.

This is not only a precedent but a dangerous one. More often than not Governments will outline coming legislation to their followers. If there is opposition within the party this is the forum for battle and Governments which refuse to listen to caucus criticism are likely to find themselves in trouble. But all this is done behind closed and guarded doors.

If legislation is changed or shelved as a result of caucus discussions this cannot be admitted outside caucus. Under a long established Parliamentary system Ministers of the Crown are answerable only to Parliament for their actions. So long as they command the confidence of the House of Commons they rule supreme.

If party caucuses should start making decision by majority votes these could only be recommendations to Cabinet. Anything else would be negation of responsible Government. There might be no very great harm in this although caucus pressures after Cabinet has made its decision should be kept within bounds.

But now, apparently, caucus is holding the threat of publicity over the head of Cabinet. Under such a system every private member becomes a potential target for the lobbyist just as they are in the United States Congress. Unless Mr. Pearson stamps this one out quickly he may find his Government will no longer have 102 followers in the House of Commons but 102 blackmailers.

GREEN ACRES

By A. E. EDWARDS Dist. Agriculturist Sedgewick, Alberta

FREEZING GAME BIRDS:

If you intend to freeze game birds this season, be sure they are drawn and chilled soon after they are shot. Always spread them out to cool in the car rather than piling them up in a heap or putting them in a sack. Donna Westendorf, District Home Economist for the county of Sturgeon and Leduc, says, any game birds will keep for 6 to 12 months if they are frozen in proper wax wrappers. Polythene bags are recommended for whole birds. Good quality vapour-proof wrappings or waxed-freezer cartoniers, lined with moisture-proof paper, are ideal for birds which have been cut in half for freezing.

Never skin birds which are going to be frozen because the meat will dry out and lose its flavour during the freezing process. A good way to remove pin feathers is to dip the bird into a container of melted wax and hot water. One and a half cakes of wax in 2 quarts of hot water is sufficient for three birds. A serrated knife is an excellent tool for removing the hardened wax.

Never stuff birds before freezing them, because of the danger of food poisoning. Wrap the giblets separately from the birds.

More in formation on cooking and freezing game birds can be obtained from the Home Economics Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture in Edmonton.

FALL TREATMENT OF LAWNS!

Here are some "do's" and "don't's" on the fall treatment of lawns from P. D. McCalla, Supervisor of Horticulture with the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Dead leaves and branches should be removed from lawns. When left on they can smother the grass. Contrary to some people's belief, dead leaves do not provide winter protection for the lawn.

As far as cutting the lawn is concerned, Mr. McCalla says it should be cut when it needs it. Similarly it should be watered when it needs it. At this time of year a lawn will not need nearly as much water as it did in the summer because the nights

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Bought a new car this week. Never had one before. And about ten years from tonight, it's probable I'll never have had one since.

Both the dealer I bought itfrom and I were disappointed, I think. I expected him to give me a chance to "dicker," something you're always supposed to do when you buy a cawr. And he expected me to try to beat him down on his price, something you're always supposed to expect when you sell a car.

Nothing happened. He offered me more than I had expected for my old car(and I was so flabbergasted, I just said, "O. K.", leaving him flabbergasted. The entire transaction took 19 minutes. It could have been in nine minutes. The remaining 10 was spent in standing around waiting for the other fellow to do some dickering.

My wife let me down rather badly. She was there, and I expected her to do most of the talking — you know, raising hell about the color, price upholstery, mileage. I thought she'd go over the car with a magnifying glass, as she used to do when we'd buy one of those $495 specials. I fully anticipated that she'd find a bubble in the paint, or a smudge on the floormat, and raise cain. She didn't say a word. She didn't even want a different color.

Maybe we're both getting old. Even I' who have never cared very more about a car than I have about a lawn mower, used to have a bit of the old horse-trading spirit. I used to kick the tires. I used to look under the hood, though I hadn't a clue as to what was there. I used to slam the doors a couple of times, and look in the trunk.

This time, I just leaned on the counter, across from the dealer, both of us embarrassed, waiting for some action. In common decency, I drove the thing for three miles, when he insisted — I didn't feel a thing. No ecstasy. All I wanted to do was get home for dinner.

We clinched the deal, with him thinking that a lot of fun had gone out of selling cars, and me thinking that it was going to be a pretty awkward session with the bank manager.

Do you kno somethiwng? Those banks have got old and lazy in the last 10 years, too.

I'll never forget the first time I applied for a loan. I felt exactly as I used to feel in the air force, when I'd gone over the fence for an unauthorized week-end leave. Up in front of Air CO. Mercy me. Not a leg to stand on, and about to get it in the neck.

The bank manager used to greet me you sidled in the door. "Sidle-in," he'd snarl, scribbling furiously on documents obviously designed to send you up the river for six years.

You blurted your carefully planned story: that you absolutely had to have $200 to put a new roof on the house, because your smallest child had almost drowned during the latest rainstorm.

"Got any security?" shaking his head gravely. Of course you didn't have. People who need small loans never have security. You told him your grandmother had mentioned that she planned to leave you $300 if you never married, or stopped drinking, or some such.

The interview ended with you on your knees, thanking the bank manager, and promising to cherish him forever, he came to had loaned you $200 out of what seemed his own pocket and some wild caprice of generosity in his nature.

Nowadays, you walk into the manager's office, and he treats you just as though you were a human being. "What can we do for you?" And "Oh, I think we can manage that." And "Let me see. If there's anything else you need—a new stove or refrigerator — you know where to come."

Anyway, we got delivery of the car Sunday. Everybody ran out and circled it. The kids were overwhelmed. "Hmp. Kinda small. No radio? These six-cylinder jobs don't have much pickup do they? Oh, well, at least we have the first '64 in town." Piper and Playboy were no more impressed. She tried her claws out on our new whitewall tires. And you can imagine what Playboy did to them.

In the old days men loved their horses because they were alive and couldn't talk back to them. Today a man buys the equivalent; his kids mock his miserliness; his wife drives it; and there's a note at the bank that sneers: "Three years at $96 a month." I should live so long.

OTTAWA — The Federal Department of Labour estimated employment at 6,746,000 in August. An annual, there was little change from July. Unemployment declined by 23,000 between July and August to 270,000. The decrease in unemployment was concentrated among teenagers, who had entered the job market in large numbers in June and July. The estimated labour force in August was 7,016,000, an increase of 184,000 from a year earlier. Employment was 184,000 higher and unemployment slightly lower than in August 1962. Both farm and non-farm employment remained stable between July and August. However within the total, there was a mixture of gains and losses for individual non-farm industries. In comparison with a year earlier, non-farm employment in August showed an increase of 197,000, or 3.2 per cent. The number employed on farms was lower by 23,000 or 2.5 per cent. The largest employment gains over the year occurred in the service and manufacturing industries. As usual, much of the seasonal pickup in employment during the summer months has been among teenagers. However, the major year-to-year gains were among persons aged 45 years or more, particularly women in this age group. Unemployment decreased by an estimated 32,000 to 270,000 between July and August. Nearly all of the decline was among persons 14-19 years of age, mainly reflecting reduced participation by students who were temporarily in the labour force during the summer months. The August unemployment estimate was 10,000 lower than a year earlier. Of the 270,000 unemployed in August, some 186,000, or 70 per cent of the total, had been unemployed for three months or less. An estimated 39,000 had been seeking work from four to six months and 52,000 for seven months or more. Unemployment rates in August represented 3.8 per cent of the labour force, compared with 4.1 per cent in August 1962 and 4.8 per cent in August 1961. Seasonally adjusted, the August unemployment rate was 5.6 per cent, down from 6.0 per cent in July

JUNIOR CITIZEN AWARD WINNER

RONNIE LEIREN
BAWLF, ALBERTA

It was the Easter holidays, and Ronnie and his brother and sister were initiating their cousin from the city into the mysteries of farm life.

It was a week though, that turned out to be almost tragic!

The afternoon was lovely, just meant for exploring - and when they found some logs in the drainage ditch, the temptation to use them to cross proved too great.

Returning back across the drainage ditch three of the children crossed safely, but Ronnie's six year old sister slipped and fell into the water. Ronnie jumped into the water and grabbed for the parka his sister was wearing. The parka had come off over her head and the girl was floating downstream. Ronnie swam after her and pulled her to safety. But for his quick action his sister would have drowned.

Not only did he save her life, but also showed the presence of mind to remove her wet clothes and wrap his dry jacket around her before carrying her home.

The editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers join with us in congratulating Ronnie - a member of the Bawlf Scout Troop.

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. James Thirsk of Kelsey, Alberta and to the Editor of the Camrose Canadian who nominated Ronnie for the award.

The Government's decision to increase only the personal income tax by 1 per cent to finance the increased old age pension will add another $65 million to Mr. Gordon's deficit for the year. If corporation tax had also been raised by 1 per cent the Old Age Security Fund would have been in balance. If 1 per cent had been added to the sales tax there would have been a comfortable surplus. Unless the Finance Minister gets an unexpected windfall in revenue he could end up with a deficit of $200 million or more, highest on record.

New look at agriculture

By D. A. Coupe-Arnold
In The Financial Post

The voice of Canadian Agriculture is too often a discordant mixture of voices in which it is hard to make out the words, much less draw from them many meaningful and worthwhile conclusions.

The average Canadian, therefore, knows more about the perils of outer space than the problems of our agricultural community; more about astronauts than agrologists. This is a sad commentary on an industry that provides 35 percent of the jobs in Canada and accounts for 60 percent of the GNP. When I say 40 percent of the GNP I am obviously taking issue with those statistics which assessly purport to show that agriculture accounts for but 8 percent of the GNP. Such narrow measurements tell us little of agriculture's real contribution to the Canadian economy. This contribution cannot be seen when considered in isolation with all the industries that serve agriculture a wholly primary source product.

I suggest we stop equating Canadian agricultural economics solely with the farming element. Canadian agriculture amounts to much more today than just food and fibre from the land. It is inseparably linked with a complex of industries which rests far into the overall Canadian economy — in their impact on employment and consumer purchasing power. Despite our industrialization, agriculture remains Canada's biggest and most important enterprise.

Most farmers are basically little different from city people. They too are reaching for a higher standard of living. Through business management they are achieving this objective. More and more they are accepting and adapting to the stresses and strains of competitive enterprise.

The rise of these business-minded farmers as dominant figures in the agricultural community is the dynamic counterpart of the rapid acceptance of farm mechanization. But the economic and technical advances in Canadian agriculture have not been accompanied by a corresponding improvement in communications.

This has led, naturally, to a lack of co-operation, understanding and a realization of mutual problems. If there is to be a co-ordinated attack on the problems in the industry there must be a clearing house of ideas to bring the best brains of every agricultural community together. Such a pooling of intelligence is necessary if Canadian agriculture is to become a truly mature element in our economy.

We cannot much longer persist in the notion that farming is a somewhat backward economic cousin, only distantly related to the ever-all economy. By the same token, if agriculture is to advance with the rest of the economy, parts of our farming community must cease to cling to causes and traditions which are outmoded. Such action often appears to the public—who is at once the consumer and the voter—little more than a form of obstruction to real economic progress. It also distorts in the public's mind the fundamental significance of the agricultural issues in dispute. The end result is usually public apathy and indifference—or antagonism.

The farmer has demonstrated he is not unresponsive to progress. In many sectors directly related to his farm operation he has shown his awareness of the need for up-to-date equipment, seeds and fertilizers. Canadian farmers are now investing in equipment at the rate of $200 million a year.

More and more farmers are realizing they are part of the national business economy and not somehow remote from it. What they produce they must sell, just as is the manufacturer, tailors and oil companies.

All segments of Canadian agriculture must become consumer-oriented. Many traditional agricultural products are commodities that call for a change. Too much effort goes into resisting change instead of finding ways to make advantage of it. There is no place in today's competitive world for an industry or part of an industry which clings to itself cut from the main stream of events and cling to traditions that have no value in the present.

A. P. CROP REPORT

Harvesting has again been in full swing this week and, except for odd stations on the western and northern fringes of the area, most will be completed this week. Average yield per acre for the local area is: Wheat 30; Oats 50; Barley 46; Flax 17; and Rye 17 1-2. Barley yields are considerably heavier in the southern half of the province than in the northern half. South of a line thru' Red Deer, barley averages 50 bus. to the acre, while in the north the average is 36 bushels.

Harvesting in Alberta is now almost completed except for the Peace River district where continued damp rainy weather has prevailed since the middle of August, and less than half of the crops are harvested. The yields are light in the Peace River, and somewhat below normal in comparatively small areas in the Edmonton and Lethbridge districts, but on the whole the Alberta crop has been large and of good quality.

A very important point to remember regarding watering a lawn at any time is that a light sprinkling is worse than not watering at all. It brings the roots of the grass to the surface of the ground where they are much more susceptible to both drought and frost damage. A thorough watering just before freeze up usually toward the end of October in Alberta, is strongly recommended to help prevent winter killing. It also helps to bring the lawn through the winter in good condition.

Should one fertilize a lawn in the late fall is a common question, to which the answer is no. For one thing there is very little value to fertilizing after the end of August or at the latest the early part of September. Secondly, a warm spell in the weather after the early part of September could make fertilized grass very susceptible to winter killing by starting it growing again.

Spraying lawns for weed control in the fall is not recommended. Spraying should be done in the early spring when the weeds are actively growing.

Snow mold can be controlled on golf courses, bowling greens and in parks by treating the grass with a mercury preparation. A 2:1 mixture of Calomel and corrosive sublimate at the rate of 2 to 4 ounces per 1000 square feet is recommended by Mr. McCalla. The preparation, which can be mixed with dry sand for easier spreading, should be applied between the middle and the end of October.

Walking paths, ski trails and skating rinks on lawns are definitely out for those who want a nice lawn next summer. Ice and packed snow cause the grass to winter kill from lack of air.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE

Canada's international accounts are in much better shape. For the first time since 1950 there is the prospect that tourist spending in Canada will be larger in the calendar year than Canadian spending abroad. In the first half of the year the deficit on travel account was 293 million, $46 million less than the first six months of last year. With a record breaking tourist season since that time and little, if any increase in Canadian spending abroad there is little doubt that last year's $80 million deficit will be replaced by a surplus. This added to the Russian wheat windfall could produce the balance of payments deficit from $646 million last year to as low as $260 million.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

WHERE ARE THOSE FLIES?

Remember years ago how the flies were such a horrible nuisance, especially on the farms? Now-a-days we do have modern ways of eliminating them with sprays and insecticides. It could be that the sprays used on crops, trees, weeds, shrubs, etc. help to do away with the larvie, not only of other harmful insects, but of flies as well. What a difference these sprays have made to all, especially to farmers and families.

I recall so vividly those fall days 20 or 25 years ago, on the old farms on the prairies when the weather began to cool off at night. The flies, feeling the heat, and possibly also sensiting the food, would swarm into the kitchen every time the door was opened, which, with a house full of youngsters, was pretty often.

A fly-swatter was of no use whatever. I remember the first one we bought. It was a stick with a piece of wire screen on the end, the wire bound around the edge with a strip of cloth. Our kitchen ceiling was papered with white paper, as were all the other kitchens then. Imagine swatting a whole group of flies on white paper. I'm telling you those swatters were really wicked weapons for the job.

However we farmers' wives were never at a loss to get rid of those filthy pests. Just before supper we would commandeer every available member of the family who could flourish a towel (sometimes we would tack strips of brown paper on the end of a lath or stick) and then, with the outside door braced open, we would start from the far end of the kitchen and, all together we would "shoo" the flies out. That, at least rid the kitchen of flies while we ate supper. But they just parked on and above the door-jam, waiting for a chance to come in again just as soon as the door was opened.

I've sometimes gotten up in the wee, small hours of the morning, while the house was still cool, and, with one of those new old-fashioned coal-oil lamps in my hand, would go around the kitchen holding the lamp close to the ceiling under the flies. When they felt the heat they would drop into the flame and burn.

Life has been made so much more pleasant, and I might add, healthier, by our tireless scientists who almost daily come up with new and better ways and means of meeting the challenges of every day life.

Notice

It is with sincere regret that I must, after fourteen happy and successful years, leave Sedgewick. The memories of associations and experiences will always remain with me and my family. The years have taken their toll in such as extent that I feel I can no longer supply the service I have attempted to maintain.

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce my successor and your new Veterinarian, Dr. John Hebert, who has been an Associate Veterinarian at Lethbridge for the past 18 months. I am sure that Dr. Hebert will supply good, efficient service, and I trust that the farmers of this district will tender him the confidence I have enjoyed over the years. — Dr. M. Urban. 25 1 p

Are you clothing your home with an inadequate coat of insulation?

A properly tailored coat of insulation is as essential to your home's comfort in winter as your own coat is to you. The pattern is easy to follow: the insulation in your attic must total 4" in thickness and must be "buttoned up" around pipes, joists, etc.

Measure your attic insulation today. If it's less than 4" thick, see us for Zonolite loosefill insulation. We'll show you how easy it is to pour Zonolite right over your inadequate insulation to solve the problem permanently.

PLEASE Mr. Why Did You Kill My Dog?

STROME — If the motorist who ran over a dog on the highway recently this, we would like him to know it belonged to a little boy who now has a broken heart; a boy who cried until there were no more tears; who was so upset and sick he was unable to attend school for a few days.

What possible excuse can you give? Can you truthfully say that it wasn't deliberately done? Or are you one of those careless drivers who is not fit to sit behind the wheel of a car? One who couldn't miss a dog in a 32-mile zone? It could just as easily have been the little boy who had gone for an ice cream cone, followed by his dog.

How do you feel Mr.? If you are the one, are you proud of yourself, or do you feel somewhat of a heel, knowing a little boy will go on wishing and wanting for a dog that we'll never come home because you killed him?

St. George's W. A.

KILLAM — The regular meeting of St. George's W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Tom Robson October 10th. Each member agreed to bring a gift next meeting for the Mental Home at Oliver. It was decided to have a Hallowe'en bake sale in the Co-op. Everyone agreed to help with the grand opening of the new Hospital.

The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Collins on the 14th of November.

Mrs. Chevrean gave an outline of the meeting to the formal opening of the new Hospital Complex in the near future, and the part that the Council can take to help.

The election of officers resulted in Mrs. E. Chevrean being elected president, Mrs. Wm. Matthews, Vice; Mrs. Amy Robinson, Sec; Mrs. Gwyn Alcock and Mrs J. Felgate as two Councillors.

A motion was made that a committee of five and one member or alternate from the organizations, with the Executive, consist of the General Council, and meetings be held in the Town Hall. The year will be from the 23rd October to September 30th.

To make up the time sheet for the Visitor Workers, the comitee of Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Lockey, hope to have it posted by opening date. It must be remembered that when your name is posted you cannot attend, you must get a substitute yourself. Also, any person outside of Killam or more than one can be given time to the above committee for volunteer work in the Auxiliary Wing. The men may also give their names.

From the last meeting a report was asked for from the Administrator of the Hospital as to what Volunteers you may be called upon to do. This report was given by the President of the Active Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. M. Gibb.

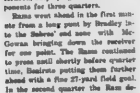
Volunteers are a group of unpaid helpers in the unsatisfying role of giving their time and energy. The volunteer provides for the patient an important link between the hospital & the community. They undertake to perform certain services that are designed to make the patient's contact a little more pleasant.

Some of the scope may be centered around Visiting, Reading, Providing Personal Services, Entertaining, Handling communications for the Patients, Evening Snack Time, Help to Feed those who need help, and many many little things.

Uniforms, short smocks, will be provided for the Volunteers to wear over their street clothes while they are on duty.

There will be many Volunteers needed for assisting in the preparation of the opening ceremonies, also for morning duty. Let us all join together. We may need help some day.

SPORTS



SEDGEWICK — The Central Rams were unlucky to lose a great game against the league leading Wetaskiwin Sabres on Saturday at Lacombe, outplaying their heavier opponents for three quarters.

Rams were ahead in the first minute from a long punt by Bradley into the Sabres' end zone with McCowan bringing down the received for one point. The Rams continued to press until shortly before quarter time, Beairsto putting them further ahead with a fine 37-yard field goal. In the second quarter the Rams defensive unit pressured, with Wetaskiwin only succeeding once in crossing the centre line, and then being tossed back for a 20 yard loss on the next play.

The pace picked up in the third quarter, with the Rams having all the advantage until the last minute when the Sabres charged down a field goal attempt, recovered the ball and went the distance for a T.D.

The fourth quarter was fought at a terrific pace, with the Rams going all out to regain the lead, only to be blocked time after time on the 25. A couple of unfortunate penalties took the ball just out of field goal range at crucial times. With three minutes left the Sabres broke out of their own half to go 64 yards in 4 on a beautiful 50-yard pass and run. The Rams never gave up, and returned to the attack, but could not penetrate a fired up defensive unit. In almost the last play of the game the Sabres added their third T.D., going right through a tired Ram defence.

This was the best game seen at Sedgewick for many years, and was enjoyed by the largest crowd ever. The fans enjoyed the brand of football the Rams are now playing.

For the Ram offence, the J. Muirhead-Bradley combination was very successful. Beairsto, Mathews and Gross ran well, and were well supported by a light but courageous front line. On defence, Peake, Harris Cookson and Mazure were quick to go through the line, with Steve, D. Muirhead and Hayghe playing a real stout defensive game.

If the Rams can produce the same form against their visitors next Saturday, Alberta College Pioneers, they have a fine chance of winning.

Thanksgiving!

While Monday, October 14th was set aside officially as Thanksgiving Day, the present time of year is one that should be especially set aside by all our people as a time of general thanksgiving. It is more than a time when schools and businesses are closed for a day. Canadians should not find it too hard this year to feel truly thankful. Conditions throughout the entire nation are vastly improved over even that of a year ago. For the first time in some years the west has been favored with a truly bountiful crop, yields being one of the largest in western history. The result of this return by nature to the labor of the toilers of the soil is already seen in the steady improvement in business.

What does a national Thanksgiving Day mean to the people of Canada? It is a purely formal recognition by the Government that Canada is a so-called Christian nation and as such recognizes the blessing bestowed by an all-wise Providence? And is the day thus set apart Merrily accepted by the people as one of a group of national holidays when children do not have to go to school, and stores and offices are closed? If this is all Thanksgiving Day means, then it is a mockery.

Or is Thanksgiving Day an occasion for sincere expressions of gratitude for benefits and blessings bestowed? If it is, then people will express their thanks in acts and deeds, as well as in words. Those who have been favored with a full and goodly share of comforts and prosperity will show their gratitude by extending as sistance to others less fortunate. The sick and the suffering will be remembered.

Give thanks that you are able to live as you do live; give thanks that you live in Canada; that you are able to go about your daily activities without fear, and the cruelties of oppressors; give thanks that you have freedom of religion, freedom of speech and all the other freedoms that are so amply bestowed upon us who live in this vast land of the free. Yes, give thanks that you are alive, and healthy and happy. Life can be beautiful.

Why Prohibitory Laws?

Unquestionably there is a considerable degree of resentment among people over the enactment and subsequent enforcement of prohibitory laws of one kind and another. We have heard the comment, "there will be a law against breathing soon". People kick about liquor laws, the game laws, speed laws, just to mention a few, but do people who so vigorously object to these repressive laws ever stop to ask themselves to what extent they are themselves responsible for their enactment? Prohibitory laws are always the result of excessive over-indulgence, lack of self control, or self-denial. This holds true not only in regard to liquor legislation, but in regard to practically all laws of a sumptuous character. For example, the laws passed prohibiting the killing of certain animals and game birds were made necessary because some trappers and hunters would not deny themselves the pleasure and profit derived from the killing of them.

Some farmers in a given community will not exercise the self-denial, or take the precautions necessary, to keep their land reasonably free from noxious weeds, with the result that the whole district is threatened and suffers loss. The inevitable result is the passage of laws to compel everybody to destroy weeds.

Sunday observance laws are passed so strict in character as to make that day one which thousands of people loathe, instead of hailing its coming as a day of joy and gladness. Yet these laws have been enacted in order to prevent Sunday becoming even less restful and sacred than the other six days of the week.

It is not the moderate drinker, the man who really enjoys a glass of beer as a beverage who could bring about prohibition. Such a man is not a menace to the whole community. It is the man who drinks to excess and in his drunken state disturbs the peace of all, who causes revulsion of public opinion which leads to the demand that the sale of intoxicants of all kinds be rigidly prohibited.

It is an old adage that the innocent will suffer with the guilty. It is a maxim that we must make provision in law, and in law enforcement which will result in the greatest good to the greatest number. Hence the passage of prohibitory laws, for the advancement of the public good, and to prohibit the majority from the selfishment of the few.

Hand in hand with the passage of such laws, and even more important and lasting in the results to be achieved, is the need for proper training of children in the duties, the obligations, the restrictions involved in good Canadian citizenship. There is a crying need today for the inculcation of the principles of self-control, self-denial, and a true conception of the gain to be derived from the practice of conservation in the true sense of the meaning of the word.

Public Spirit!

Village councillors as well as Municipal councillors are right now very busy with their duties of office, and it might be in keeping with public sentiment to give a certain degree of credit to the spirit that prompts any private citizen to accept a public office. As the old saying goes, any person who allows himself to be elected as a representative of the people, should do so with the avowed intention of enacting, and supporting, such measures as will result in the greatest benefit to the greatest number. Anyone who's policy is not imbued by such a principle is a traiter to those who have reposed confidence in him. , and a detriment to the best interests of the community. Every public office-holder is subject to criticism, but the public is lenient and forgiving of unintentional errors, or errors of judgement. Let our public men ever bear in mind that they are not acting for themselves, but for the people. Many of our best citizens remain in private life through fear of criticism. This should not be, as it is every person's duty to best serve his country and his community. In this matter a little remark by Lloyd George is very apt: "In spite of the attacks on politicians and public men, every sensible person knows that they are a nessential part of the machinery of good government in every democratic state. I know of many highminded men who have shrunk from public life, but somebody must face it — nay, more, if it is the obvious path of duty for any man, it is not the right to shirk it. Public men are essential to bridle the excesses of selfish strength. They are priests of humanity."

Remember? — Bulging sleeves, attached hoods, capes, shawls scarves, vests, patch pockets, etc., are to be dropped from the women's clothing fo rthe duration of the war. — There's a chance too that skirts and dresses will be shorter — well, that's O. K. with us Mabel.

THE LONG DARK SHADOW OF AUTUMN

Sharp Selling . . .

OTTAWA — Canada - U. S. relations were strained over the recent massive wheat deals made by this country. The Americans were annoyed at the price of wheat established by the Canadian Wheat Board in its deals.

With short crops in Europe and the Russians and Chinese obviously anxious to buy as much wheat as they can put their hands on, the U.S. authorities were eager to capitalize on the world situation and boost the price of wheat. They hoped that by a big jump in the world wheat price they would be able to realize some good returns on sales of the surpluses of wheat they have accumulated in American bins.

But Canada faced with orders from Japan and the British in recent weeks has been anxious not to appear to be gouging its regular customers. Canada sells wheat regularly to Britain, Japan and Germany. It did not want to boost the price to these customers and accordingly held down the price.

While the Wheat Board never discloses the price at which it makes a deal it is known that Canada recently agreed to sell about 800,000 tons of wheat to Japan at a price that was about five cents higher than the price paid by the Soviet Union in its $500,000,000 deal with Canada. The British too are reported to have made a deal to buy at about the same price as the Japanese paid.

The Americans were angry because they would have liked to see the price charged by the Wheat Board raised by 15 cents more than was charged the Russians, informed sources said here. The U. S. officials took the position that with the world demand for wheat the world price should go up and the increase should be a substantial one. The U. S. officials charged Canada with seeking to peg the world price of Wheat and with damaging U. S. world wheat marketing efforts.

However, the Canadian authorities resisted pressure. Politely but firmly they said "no" to the U. S. suggestion that the price be allowed to soar. The quarrel had repercussions in the Commons House of Commons.

Trade and Commerce Minister Mr. Mitchell Sharp explained that the Wheat Board was responsible for the pricing and sale of Canadian wheat in foreign markets. He reported that suggestions emanating from Washington that the Wheat Board had altered its methods of selling wheat for forward delivery and the pricing of such sales were inaccurate.

He told the House that the Wheat Board has continued to follow its normal marketing policy this season as in the past. The Board's quoted price for wheat has advanced approximately eight cents per bushel since the sale to the U.S.S.R. and contracts with traditional customers have been completed recently at the Board's quoted prices then current for shipment during the crop year which ends next July 31st. There is nothing new or unusual in that procedure. The Canadian Wheat Board has always been prepared to sell to buyers wheat for forward delivery at its current daily quoted prices.

One of the factors that aroused the anger of the U. S. was that it had hoped to make substantial sales of wheat to Japan. The Canadians moved in and completed a substantial sale to that country thereby doing the Americans out of a large slice.

Japan has been the third largest regular customer for Canadian wheat and Canada was determined to make its sale to Japan at a reasonable price above the Russian price, but not at the high level the Americans wanted to see established.

The controversy between the two countries arose because the Americans said that Canada in effect had sold a large amount of wheat to the Soviet Union at five cents a bushel less than the world price and then sold best to the Japanese at the world price level. But the Canadian officials denied that the Russian deal was made under the world wheat price. Mr. Sharp told the House of Commons that the deal was made with Russian at going world rates.

Canada contends that the later sale to Japan was made at a price set by the Wheat Board, which was determined to restrict price increases despite pressure from the U. S. The Canadians acknowledge that they are trying to peg the world wheat level.

But in pleading guilty to this charge, they point out that the Wheat Board when prices sagged to a low level, sought to hold prices at at fairly reasonable level. It carried out that price stabilization successfully. Now that the pressures are on to let the prices skyrocket the Canadian Wheat Board again is operating to maintain a stable world price, and hopes to be equally successful.

Meantime there was concern in Ottawa circles that the longshoremen's strike on the St. Lawrence might interfere with Canadian deliveries of wheat. The Federal Government was determined to act, if it became necessary, to ensure that wheat continued to move abroad through the St. Lawrence and other eastern ports.

Hon. Alvin Hamilton, former Minister of Agriculture, voiced concern in the Commons about the danger of the strikes stopping Canada's deliveries of wheat. He called on Mr. Sharp not to depend just on the Wheat Board officials and other public servants to get the wheat moving but suggested he call a conference of all interested organizations. Mr. Hamilton said such a procedure had worked for him in 1961 when he had to get large quantities of wheat moving through the Pacific ports to Red China. He was confident it would work for Mr. Sharp.

FROM CAPITAL HILL!

A national power policy that provides for the establishment of a national power grid and exports of large blocks of power to the U. S. A. on long-term agreements was announced in the Commons recently by Mr. Sharp.

In the past there has been a very strong body of public opinion opposed to the export of power. But the minister said that large exports of poor are now feasible and desirable because of improved technology and changing economic factors.

The policy announced by Mr. Mitchell Sharp is believed to be a prelude to final swification of the Columbia River Treaty.

Discussions are underway at official levels between the British and Canadian governments over the adverse effect of Canada's anti-dumping regulations on British exports to this country. It warries the British that there is such a large balance of trade in Canada's favor. The deficit had been widening instead of narrowing over the past 12 months. But Britain's export trade with other countries, especially European nations had been booming.

The wounds, all from shrapnel, were not serious, and except for the fact that loss of blood and hospitalization brought his weight down from 195 to 155 pounds, Lorne says he feels fine.

A gun layer 3rd class, Lorne joined the Navy a year ago and was posted to the Assiniboine last June after completing a gunnery course at Halifax. The action with the German submarine subsequently rammed & sunk, was his first of the war.

Phillip Pen of Edmonton, visited over Thanksgiving with Mr. & Mrs. Perlie Wong at Sedgewick. Phillip Pen was visiting the scene of his old school days, having arrived in Sedgewick in 1910 from China, and was the first Chinese boy to attend school in Sedgewick.

Some 70 guests sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the United Church basement Saturday evening, the event being the institution of an Eastern Star Chapter at Hardisty.

I (Fred Rogers) stopped to watch Paul Sax hitting down the smooth highway mounted on a tractor at 25 to 30 m.p.h., and trailing a load of grain about half the size of a box car. I couldn't help but compare it to my early homestead days, when it used to take all winter with an ox team, hauling 40 to 50 bushels to a load at 1 1/2 mph over a rough rutted road. No, farming is not what it used to be in those good old days, but somehow people had more time or took more time to be friendly.

Local men attend Banff conference

Five hundred and fifty United Church men and other Christians have just completed an inspiring experience designed to promote lay leadership with a new conviction, to commit themselves as a company of Christ's followers.

Challenged by one of the most provocative preachers in America, Rev. Donald L. Benedict, the gathering was stimulated by revelations of the inhumanity of technological progress. People have become impossibles to the Christian love which they must share with one another to survive, Mr. Benedict declared. He cited shocking instances of in difference to human understanding and suffering, arising out of the impersonality of the great and expanding metropolis. Describing these attitudes as "the depths of urban culture", the theme speaker urged that we risk 'newness' in the church, so that in using the church as a rock it will not become an anchor.

The primary objective of Jesus Christ is to redeem the world and the men in it, but this requires human urgency and compassion, Mr. Benedict said. We can both need and kill more people than at any time in history, but our capacity to destroy always increases faster than our capacity to construct.

Among the major revolutionary forces which are changing the shape of the world is this sheer fact of continuous technological change and social caste system the world has ever seen. We have created an endless chain of economic degradation which impels educational and social degradation, especially in the great metropolis which presents the foremost challenge to modern church.

The members of this conference call themselves the Company of the Committed, representing the world institution known as the Christian Church. This raises the question of how we carry out our commitment.

We are calling people into the church for the wrong reasons, Mr. Benedict charged. The church has developed a doctrine of institutional competency, in which the organization is more important than the function. We want the church to "take care of our spiritual needs" and especially to have that right kind of activity program, a good men's club and proximity to our home.

The original call of Jesus had nothing to do with any of these considerations, Mr. Benedict explained. Jesus visualized the church as reaching out into the world. This is the significant element in our church problem, that we have made so timid to turn outward into the role of servant to the world & the community.

Being a servant to the world stimulates questions in people's minds. When the church loses the urban world it claims the services of competent and discerning laymen to help in everything but this responsibility to God. The modern urban church is almost totally dependent on laymen, the speaker said, because the clergy do not know the world as the laymen do; they are bound to the brick and mortar of the church structure.

Arising out of this, Mr. Benedict continued, is the obligation of the church, through its laymen, to take part in the corporate political structure. It must start to deal with the urgent questions of political and economic life. It must recognize how it can help in a different way from the traditional ways, in a rapidly changing urban life which makes it hard to help individuals directly but easy to help them through political and economic action.

We must broaden our outlook towards the church's function, Mr. Benedict declared. We have split our personalities between job and home, so that our church and clergy have been bound into a residential ghetto. The church must break out of this residential trap into the world of business and economic decision, to fulfill its historic function. The emergence and renewal of our faith depends on you men addressing yourselves to his problem.

STEPHEN KOVACS

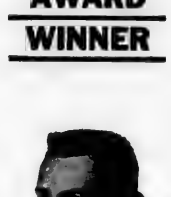
JASPER PLACE, ALBERTA

At a recent meeting of the Jasper Place Chamber of Commerce a well deserved tribute was paid to our sixteen year old award winner. It was an award carrying the fitting title "Young Giant" - given annually to a citizen of Jasper Place for outstanding achievement.

Stephen as you can tell is no ordinary boy. A victim of the tragic Hungarian Revolution, Stephen and his parents fled Hungary and eventually came to Canada.

Stephen knows what it is like to overcome the bitterness of having to leave his homeland. This knowledge stands him in good stead to help other new Canadian boys and girls.

He is secretary of the Senior Male Platoon of the Order of St. Michael - a position that enables him to help many teenagers with their problems by enlisting them in the educational, cultural and recreational activities of the Order.



He excells in swimming, and last year was awarded the Junior, Intermediate and Senior Bronze Medallion and Award of Merit. He is a Senior Leader in swimming and last summer entered all swimming meets in and around Edmonton.

He has completed his first year of training in a recreational leadership course and is a Recreation Commission instructor at the Jasper Place Swimming Pool.

He's a good student too, and a boy who knows what it means to give of himself to his community.

We join with the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in extending congratulations and best wishes to Stephen Kovacs.

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledges the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mr. St. Jean de Brancsevile, Grand Master of the Order of St. Michael and to the Editor of the Jasper Place Suburban Times, who nominated Stephen for the award.

WINTER MAINTENANCE OF BEEF COWS!

Mature beef cows can be wintered on a ration completely devoid of hay providing they have an adequate amount of phosphorous & Vitamin A

This conclusion was reached after two winter studies had been carried out on over 60 cows at the Beaverlodge Experimental Station. According to A. Redden, Livestock Supervisor with the Alberta Dept. of Ag., group 1 of the control group received a roughage allowance of two parts oat straw to three parts mixed hay at a level of 2 to 2 1/2 pounds for every 100 pounds of weight. In addition, they were given Vitamin A, basicmeal and salt with free access to water.

Group 2 received a 11:11 ration of barley, oats and legume screenings with oat straw at the rate of three pounds per head per day. Water and minerals were the same as for 11 controls. The vitamin A intake was doubled to allow 30,000 IU pa ranimal per day.

Although the protein intake in the grain-straw ration was only about two-thirds of the amount recommended by the National Research Council for beef cattle, the animals did not appear to suffer any ill effects as long as they received enough phosphorous and vitamin A. The only noticeable affort was that they took longer to lose their winter coats than the control group. This was indicative of an inadequate protein intake.

Mr. Redden reports calf birth weights in the early and late spring were all within the normal range of 65 to 70 pounds. The calf crop was between 85 and 90 percent in all the cattle regardless of the ration fed. The daily cost of feed was estimated at 35c a head per day for the animals in group 1 and 31c per day for those in group 2.

SYSTEMIC INSECTICIDES FOR LOUSE AND GRUB CONTROL!

This is the time of year to treat cattle for grub and louse control. Once the cold weather sets in, wet treatments are difficult to apply and hazardous for the cattle.

Although warbles and lice may not be very apparent at this time, they are prevalent to a certain extent on most western cattle. As the winter advances the fly becomes more numerous and the grubs increase in size. One systemic insecticide treatment in the fall will control the lice & grubs before they have a chance to damage the cattle.

J. R. Gerbe, Supervisor of Crop Protection and Pest Control with the Alberta Dept. of Ag., reports that Co-Ral and Rusvene are two recommended systemic insecticides which are commercially available. They can be applied in various ways, depending upon available equipment, the size of the herd and so on. According to Mr. Gerbe, spray and the pour-on treatments are the most popular. Dry systemic applications are not too effective.

Where high pressure sprayers are available, the spray method provides very effective control. Many districts in this province have formed co-operative spraying groups which are proving that a community effort can practically eliminate warble flies and lice. The pour-on method of application requires no special equipment and can be easily carried out on any stock farm.

Mr. Gerbe stresses that label recommendations regarding rates and dosages must be very carefully followed with any systemic insecticides. Important precautionary measures are also listed on the labels. These state that systemics must not be used on milking cows or calves under 300 pounds. They also give instructions regarding the wait periods to be observed for fleshening & slaughter animals.

The following publications entitled "Control of Livestock Insects," "Control of Cattle Grubs in the Prairie Provinces," and "Control of Cattle Lice" give detailed information on this aspect of cattle management. They can be obtained from district agriculturists or from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture in Edmonton.

CAREER STAKED ON PENSION PLAN. Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh is in the spotlight in the present session of Parliament after announcing she will end her political career if the Canada Pension Plan is rejected. She blames rich private insurance lobbies for trying to scuttle the contributory pension scheme.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR EYES!

Any person with a serious eye defect which may lead to blindness, is entitled to assistance from C. N. I. B. Treatment may be provided if the individual is in financial need, and is not eligible for assistance through a Government agency. About 50 p.c. of blindness in Canada results from carelessness and eye accidents, and is, therefore preventable. The CNIB carries on an active programme to prevent blindness through the news media, speaking engagements, and distribution of literature stressing the importance of eye care. Eye charts are distributed to schools and public nurses at no charge.

Failure to be certain about eye health can be tragic. About 100,000 canadians over age 40 have glaucoma today; fully one-half of them are unaware of their condition and many will not find out until it is too late. Be thankful you can see.

The Sedgewick W. I. will be conducting the annual house to house canvas for the CNIB on Friday evening, October 18th.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

What did you do, old friend, on Thanksgiving week end? Whatever it was, it could not have been anything but pleasant on this odd, pagan holiday, so peculiarly Canadian.

I know. We imported it from the States. But we have made it very much our own, and it has a flavour that is purely Canadian, much different from the Thanksgiving observed across the line.

Figure? Yes, indeed. It should be a religious time, with the entire population on its knees, giving thanks with full hearts.

The percentage of the population that is on its knees on Thanksgiving day could probably be accomodated in a couple of truly cars. The rest are on their wheels, their feet, or their tails.

Thanksgiving week end makes the last gay, mad fling of the Canadian people before they get down to the serious business of trying to stay sane through another winter.

It's the week end to charge about the country, visiting relatives and friends, gaining weight to the last furious fling of color in the trees, making the last nostalgic trip to the cottage, getting out in the boat for one, final burn.

It's the week end to tramp the lush, fall fairways for that last, blasphemous game of golf, to stroll the muted woods with a gun, to wade the navel-deep ice-water for that last rainbow trout.

It's the week end to sit in your favorite chair, cold beer to hand, and watch all the football games on television, your peace broken only by the maddening sreams of roasting turkey.

Or, if you're the domestic type, it's the week end for quiet pleasures, deeper satisfactions: putting on the storm windows, raking and burning leaves, bringing in your bulbs.

Not exactly a religious holiday is it? I think there's a great dumb feeling of thankfulness in Canadians at this time of year, but it doesn't manage to break through the pagan rituals with which we have surrounded the occasion.

I'm not complaining; merely observing. But every year, at Thanksgiving, I make personal and lonely effort to take an hour off from the fun, compose my features into a suitable solemn expression, and think about the things for which I should be thankful. I don't have to search. Sometimes I can do it in 10 minutes.

The first thing for which I am thankful is being alive. Hundreds of millions aren't, and look at what they're missing! The second is food. I have been hungry, and it's the most degrading, demoralizing, soul-destroying illness in this world.

Another reason to be thankful is for freedom. In this country, we have a personal freedom to speak, work and worship that is beyond the wildest dreams of the majority of our fellow humans.

Health is a reason for raising thanks. I am no longer entirely a gazelle, but I can outrun a 55-year-old lady with arthritis. I can't swim five miles any more, but I can swim farther than my wife. That's good enough.

Work you like is reason for thankfulness. I like mine. It's too hard, & I don't make enough money, and I'm always behind in it, but I like it. Environment is another source of thank fulness. I wouldn't trade my oak tree and my black squrrels, my favorite trout stream and my partridge-haunted woods for the Taj Mahal with Liz Taylor in residence.

There you are. Out of space, and I've barely started. Try it. You don't know how rich you are until you begin to count.

"I'm going across to the bank for a minute"

Wherever Canadians live and work, a local chartered bank is nearby—a familiar, friendly source of financial services. Banking in Canada has been brought to people as in few other countries—the proportion of banking centres to population is among the highest in the world.

Every day more customers become aware that a chartered bank can not only guard their savings, cash their cheques and make loans, but help in many other ways too. They find new banking services being introduced, others being changed, improved or enlarged. For example: personal money orders, life-insured loans, company payroll plans, night depositories, banking by mail, safety deposit boxes—the list could go on and on.

The local branch of the bank is the one place where you'll find complete banking facilities—all under one roof.

Wheat deal explained

OTTAWA, October 4, 1963 — The signing of the Canada - U.S.S.R. wheat agreement on September 16, has created an all-time record for wheat exports, to match the same record crop produced this year. The Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Trade and Commerce, points out that Canada's total sales of wheat will be in excess of 550 million bushels during the present crop year. For the first time in eleven years, wheat is once again Canada's number one export commodity.

These enormous sales will represent fourteen times the quantity of over $1 billion between now and next July 31. These sales are of such a magnitude that they may well wipe out Canada's current deficit this year for the first time in more than a decade.

Along with its beneficial effect on the economy, the Russian wheat deal has faced Canadians with a challenge, the challenge of carrying out the largest single movement of goods over undertaken in this country.

The estimated 550 million bushels of export wheat represents a movement 35% greater than the previous all-time high, and some 79% greater than the five year average 1958-59 to 1962-63. Speaking at a meeting of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union in Moose Jaw following the Russian sale, Mr. Sharp gave some indication of the size of the job ahead when he pointed out that if the extra railway boxcars required to move the 220 million bushels of Russian wheat were coupled together they would form a train more than one thousand miles long. In addition handling facilities and storage space must be gotten up quickly for the extra 11 million cubic yards of grain that will be moving out of Canadian ports this year. For the first time in history, commented Mr. Sharp, the limiting factor is neither supply nor demand - it is transportation and handling capacity.

The Russians too have their work cut out for them. More than 600 shiplands, averaging 10,000 tons, will be required to complete the movement of wheat and flour.

Nor are they wasting time in getting started. On September 26 just ten days after the contract was signed, the first Russian freighter had loaded in Montreal and was heading East with 10 thousand tons of Canadian wheat aboard. The following day two more freighters arrived, the forerunners of a veritable armada of fifty ships reported heading for our shores.

In Canada, the benefits of the enormous transaction will permeate through the entire economy. The Western farmer will, of course, benefit most directly. In his Moose Jaw address, Mr. Sharp estimated that the average wheat producer would achieve an added income of $2600 during the current crop year. The additional cash income will in turn mean a great boost for manufactures and retailers in the West and, indeed, throughout Canada.

The flour milling industry, which has been operating far below capacity, will be all-out to handle the 375 thousand tons of wheat flour included as the agreement, thus increasing activity and employment in this industry. The railways will, of course, require all available men and equipment to facilitate this record movement, and terminal elevators and ports, both East and West will be working at full capacity until next summer.

Along with benefits come responsibilities, and Mr. Sharp has called for the co-operation of all concerned to make a success of this undertaking.

From the wheat producers he has asked for as prompt delivery as possible of their wheat to country elevators. He has asked their understanding if, of necessity, wheat quotas do not open up evenly throughout the West.

From the railways, the port authorities, the grain exporting firms and labour, he has called for a maximum effort to facilitate the smooth and efficient movement of grain from country elevators to ocean going vessels."

Given a reasonable break in the weather, and the co-operation of all concerned, Canadians, by next July 31 will be able to look back with satisfaction on the most spectacular export venture in the country's history.

The Bible Today

While the fashionable phrase "population explosion" is on everyone's lips today, too little thought has been given to the impending "literacy explosion" and its implications for the Christian world, the Most Rev. and Right Hon. F. D. Coggan, Archbishop of York and President of the United Bible Societies, declared in the course of a luncheon address recently to members and guests of the Canadian Bible Society in Toronto.

"UNESCO'S plan is to reach 350 millions of the world's 800 millions of illiterates to read and write within five years. We are concerned with what these newly enlightened people will read," His Grace reported. "Communist countries are spending 1 1/2 billion dollars a year on literature to spread their "religion" among the people of the world; the temptations of grossly materialistic literature will be available not to mention the wares of the dealers in pornography.

"Christians must see to it that the Holy Scriptures are put in the hands of those who are becoming acquainted with the written word, and to this end the objective of the Bible Societies throughout the world is now to treble the printing and distribution of Bibles in every possible language, in every land. The challenge of the literacy explosion is to distribute 150 millions of copies of the Scripture annually throughout the world where the number now is some 50 millions each year."

Most people do something special for their Silver Anniversary. Mercury creates its most luxurious cars in 25 years.

For 1964, all eight Mercurys are special Silver Anniversary cars. Special in the sense that even if you don't intend to buy a car this year—they may make you change your mind.

Mercury offers two rooflines this year. The fastback model in the foreground typifies the spirit of the Montclair Marauder. Mercury's famous Breezeway hood (the rear window lowers) is available on both the Montclair and the ultra-sophisticated Park Lane, in the background.

These cars are special inside, too. Stretch-grained vinyls feel like handrubbed leather. Box-pleated fabrics are rich and elegant. Bucket seats are of a special shell-type design. Carpeting is deep pile. Doors are finished in walnut-grained panelling and soft suede. The rear seat has a big pull-down arm rest. Even the foot pedals are accented with bright metal.

It takes a big car to give a truly luxurious ride — that's why Mercury is built on a big 120 inch wheelbase.

Mercury also has a suspension that allows wheel movement backward and forward as well as up and down. You drive the level line of luxury — powered by your choice of big Mercury V8's.

But above everything, there's an intangible something extra that makes the 1964 Mercury a car to remember. It is the anticipation with which you'll look forward to driving it and even seeing parked in front of your home.

Silver Anniversary Mercury for 1964, be sure to see it soon at your Mercury dealer.

Sherwood - Blaeser Wed At Camrose

St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in Camrose was the scene of a lovely wedding on August 20th, when Doreen Agnes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blaeser of Camrose became the bride of John Fred, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sherwood Jr. of Killam. Rev. Father MacDonald performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin, styled with fitted bodice, bouffant skirt and lily-point sleeves. The lace-trimmed bodice was accented with a scooped neckline, decorated with sequins. The bride's fingertip veil was held in place with a crown of sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Attending the bride as maid of honor as her cousin, Miss Lois Blaeser of Strome, and Miss Jeanne Sherwood of Edmonton, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. They were identical dresses of green crystalline with green sheer overskirts & match leg great fabric rose headpieces. Their cascade bouquets were of pink carnations and lilies of the valley

The groom was attended by Larry Blaeser of Camrose, brother of the bride, and Robert Barth of Killam. Ushers were Doug Sherwood & Jack Blaeser. Mrs. Fred Duggan of Camrose was the organist.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Nonis Motel in Killam. Jack Gair proposed a toast to the happy couple. Robert Barth proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded.

On their return from a honeymoon the happy couple took up residence in Killam.

THE FALL OF 1905 — "FREELY YE HAVE RECEIVED, FREELY GIVE"

In the year of 1905, fall set in about the middle of October, not with snow, but with cold, bleak days with grey skies & freezing North-West winds day after day. The ground was frozen as hard as a rock, the trees completely bare, the geese and songbirds had all gone South, and the farmed animals had hibernated long before. In short fall was here with a vengeance and it looked very much as if we were in for a long & cold winter.

That year had been exceptionally good to the prairie farmer. The crop was bumper, the gardens had yielded abundantly and even the wild fruits and berries were more than plentiful.

So, as we viewed the results of long days of hard labor in the cold wet spring, the long, hot summer & the always unpredictable fall days, we truly thanked "The Giver of all good and perfect gifts," and we sort of "smuggled deers" to Free winter.

Why shouldn't we be thankful! Our field crops had all been garnered in, the shelves of our cellar fairly groaned under the weight of quarts of produce from garden, as well as the wild fruits made into jams and jellies, and the vegetable bins were full of potatoes, beets and carrots.

The men had butchered a beef which had been cut up and stored in the outside meat cupboard (shelves with pegboard sides, stuffed up high on the north side of the house) The chickens had been "culled" and the old hens and roosters killed, cleaned and stored in the cupboard with the beef. In short, we were really prepared for winter come when it may.

The "Man of the House" had prevlously taken a load of wheat to the mill and brought back a year's supply of flour, rolled oats and grits (Cream of Wheat as it is called today). Outside there were stacks of feed for cattle and horses; the feed bins were full of feed grain and the big loft full of hay. What more may one ask for? True, it had entailed hours of hard work, incessing toil from daylight to dark, but Oh, the satisfaction of it all, and the independence.

But when we are young, healthy and hopeful, it is a joy, and not a drudgery, and we can say at the end of each day, "Something accomplished, something done, we've earned a night's repose". True, we are aware of the too often "bad" years that the Prairie farmer has to go through — the fears and worries of impending frosts, drought, dry winds, grass hoppers, hail, etc., but I still maintain that the western prairie farmer is blest with the optimism which is seldom if ever found elsewhere; the faith and trust in a land which ALWAYS comes back and produces, sometimes BIG, sometimes SO, and on occasion even 100 percent increase.

This year, the prairies have again proven themselves "The literal basket of the World," and millions of bushels of wheat are pouring into the elevators every week.

But as we read of the needs in the other less fortunate countries; of the little children going to bed day after day cold and hungry; of older people dragging themselves around trying to find sustenance to keep body and soul together for yet another day, can we, as Christians sit back and callously ignore their pitiful pleas for help? Surely, in a country as rich as our glorious Canada, we can, and I might add should, share the bountiful with we have received. Aren't we too inclined to feel a bit smug over our fortunes? We might shrug off the responsibility by saying, "With the millions of needy in the world today, the bit that I may give wouldn't be more than a drop in the ocean." That might be true, but remember that 2-like verse we learned when we were, oh, so small? Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land." So, let us not be little the small amounts we can give. Who knows? Maybe the "bit" you may give will be the means of saving the life of a child, who, incidently has just as much right to live as our own precious child.

So, dear farmer-friend, when we do have a crop like the one I mentioned at the beginning of this little article (and also like the one we are harvesting this year) why not share it with our less fortunate fellowmen, remembering, "Freely Ye Have Received, Freely Give".

PASTORAL CHARGE OFFICIAL BOARD MEETING

HUGHENDEN — The melodious strains of the Hughenden choir greeted the 27 members of the official Board of the Hardisty Pastoral Charge of the United Church of Canada on Wednesday, October 16th.

The meeting was chaired by Rev. W. G. Zwicker, who reported that since coming on July 4th, there have been eight weddings and 6 funerals.

Gordon Homan, chairman of the manse committee told the Board that a chesterfield and rug had been added to the manse furniture, and 12 shrubs planted. Howard H. Carson of Hughenden and Frank Budayan of Hardisty were appointed to the manse committee, representing the Board of Stewards.

Mrs. Aimee Moody, Supt. of the Junior Sunday School of Hardisty, pointed out the adjustment, cost and challenge of the new Curriculum.

W. T. McCourt, Supt. of the Hughenden Sunday School explained the experiment being tried of the pupils going straight into a class period at 10.30 a.m. instead of 10 as formerly and then taking part in the public worship 11 to 11.25, when the youngest classes leave before the sermon.

Harold Moody presented the financial report in the absence of Ben Rempel, and which showed considerable need for improvement. A resolution as passed in which it was unanimously agreed that all points on the charge make a real effort to conserve up to their responsibilities.

The benefits of a Prayer Vigil and Partnership in the Gospel Plan to the spiritual life of the congregation, were pointed out by the minister.

At the close Mrs. Alex Redman of Hardisty moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of Hughenden for the delicious lunch.

An official reminded that this was the largest Board meeting in twelve years, and that a friendly and optimistic spirit prevailed.

SPORTS

For the first time this season the Central High Rams were held scoreless in a game, when they were defeated by a heavy Alberta College Pioneer team, 25-0, after an evenly-fought first half.

Pioneers went ahead early in the first quarter when they had the Rams defence running the wrong way, to go over for a 6-0 lead. Rams fought back strongly and worked the ball to the Pioneer 15 yard line, where the field goal attempt failed.

Rams maintained the pressure in the secondh second quarter, but were not able to penetrate the powerful Pioneer defence. During this first half, Rams were strong with the blocking of Pyra, and made good yardage; Sorenson pulled in some fine passes from John Muirhead, and Cookson, Harris and Stove on the defence were consistently quick thru' the line, Cumberland and Forster doing some fine tackling.

In the second half the Ram defence was disorganized by injuries to Muirhead, Cookson, Farmanek & Heyghe, and the Pioneers gradually pulled away, scoring two T. D's. to go ahead 19-0 at the end of the third quarter. The fourth quarter was a grim struggle, with a tired Ram team yielding one T. D. to make the final score 25 to 0.

Alberta College is one of three clubs in the league who have been permitted by League President to play ineligible players this year due to enrollment difficulties, with the result that they outweighed the Ram team by a heavy margin. The other clubs to receive this advantage are Camrose Lutheran College and the Camrose St. Patricks. It is not very clear at present whether any of these three clubs will be eligible for the playoffs.

The Alberta College was entertained to a supper after the game in the United Church hall.

The Rams would like to thank all those who prepared the food or contributed to the meal, and the ladies and girls who served supper to the gathering of 160. They also thank the United Church for the hall.

Moderator addresses local meeting

CASTOR — When the general council elected the Rev. J. W. Mutchmor, M.A., B.D., to the highest office of the United Church of Canada, that of Moderator, many members and even Ministers, Elders and Church Councillors were wise or foolish. Dr. Mutchmor had made many friends and few enemies in his term, but he had also made some enemies.

So, when the tall, silver-haired & cantorvman Moderator faced three hundred and eighty-five of his flock in Coronation Presbytery in the Castor High School auditorium on Oct. 8th, many wondered if he would arouse cheers or inward groans. When Rev. A. L. Angle had pronounced the benediction, all had applauded heartily, although some may have dissented deeply.

Direct questions from the Moderator's address: We owe a great deal to Pope John 23 for the more favorable climate for peace. — In the conduct of world affairs we must beware lest the tools take over the tool-maker. — The United States De fense Dept. wants to arm Canada with nuclear weapons. Let us drive a good bargain. Our axe in the Lole is our great expanse of territory. Let us use this to get the greatest economic advantage from the U. S. A. — The historic role of the Protestant Church is to be conscious of the State. — The biggest crop the West has ever produced with the largest profitable market we have ever had, brings into modern focus the Parable o f the rich farmer, who said, 'I will build larger barns'. This was alright but when he said 'Soul take thine ease' he was on dangerous ground spiritually. — The United Church was the first church in Canada to recommend recognition and trade with the People's Government of China, and its admission to the U.N.

We were the first to bring high ranking officials in the persons of Patriarchs of the Greek Orthodox Church of the U.S.S.R. to meet Canadian officials and citizens. — On National Unity, we must be patient. Quebec is emotional. — On Lord's Day Observance, it is a free day. Let us keep it that way. It is a day for the family, visiting, worship. Don't let our Sunday become organized by commercial and secular interests.

Dr. Mutchmor also spoke in the Daysland United Church on the evening of October 9th, where he was introduced by Rev. C. N. Powell, Supt. of Missions for Northern Alberta. Rev. McNeil conducted the service.

The Convenor of Evangelism and Social Service for the Presbytery, Rev. McCurdy of Stettler, presented the claims of the Gospel.

Mrs. E. B. Brundage of New Norway reported for the U.C.W. One hundred and ten women had attended the Fall Workshops held in the Presbytery. The UCW feels confident of reaching its allowance.

Rev. Morris of Killam, reported on a Rural Life Conference at Saskatoon in April, and World Missions was the concern of Pastor W. Krandendonk of Hallkirk. Rev. Lewis from Sedgewick was appointed Convenor of Communications, and Rev. W. G. Zwicker of Hardisty was appointed as Press Representative. Rev. Soul of Forestburg brought Pension matters to the attention of Presbytery, and also dealt with Youth Work.

A resolution was passed urging the Alberta Government to do its share in building the line against lotteries.

Good Citizenship!

There are two fundemental principles of good citizenship which must be possessed by every true and loyal citizen. These are loyalty and moral obligation or responsibility. The greatest resources possessed by any country are its citizens, and no country can be truly great and maintain greatness without good citizens. A true patriot is above selfishness and sectionalism and is not inspired by narrow motives, but looks outward to others and the welfare of his country first. These are the principles of true greatness in the citizen, and it is on these kind of citizens in public and important positions that the security of our country depends.

The voter, so far as his moral responsibility goes, should consider his franchise as a sacred obligation and vote for what he considers right. Had this always been done we would not see the vice in politics that we do today. We must make a sacrifice for principle. A cause always demands a sacrifice, a price.

I have very little patience with the class of people who refuse to vote on any matter of local, provincial or federal importance because of some notion they have that by so doing they are mixing in those things which are worldly. Such people, while they are willing to live under the laws that afford them protection, are not willing to help see to it that the best and most honest men are put into office. They are willing to live in the country where I do my part to see that they are properly governed, yet condemn me for doing so.

People from all over the world come to Canada and become Canadian citizens; those of the best blood of all the nations are making this their home, and along with them also come the worst types of citizens. A moral responsibility rests upon all good Canadian citizens to keep this country as free of vices as possible. Canada is young; she is in the making. It can be kept as we desire if its citizens recognize their moral obligations. If the citizens of a country are good, its statutes will be good, elevating and progressive. Good citizenship. Upon this depends the future of Canada.

Citizens of a high character are the most valuable asset any country can have. The schools are the making of good men and women; no country ever became prominent that did not encourage education, but pupils should be taught their sacred responsibility to their country, thus laying the foundation for good citizenship, as well as able men. No country can become great until moral indifference has been overcome. Policemen may suppress crime but cannot instil uprightness into citizenship; this depends upon a different source that at present is not recognized by law as filling an indispensable part in the making of a nation. The law states what must or must not be done, and provides a penalty, but school and missionaries of the Gospel have a work to perform in laying the foundation of all good citizenship — moral responsibility.

Tolerance!

Unquestionably, with the growth of education and a more widespread enlightenment of the people, there is a lessening of bigotry, and a larger degree of toleration in the world now than ever before. However, there is lots of room for greater development of this spirit, not only internationally but within the bounds of each nation.

Today it is perhaps timely to urge the necessity for the display of a more tolerant attitude in matters of a political nature. As individuals we may differ on points of law, but that is no reason why one person should denounce those who do not see eye to eye with them, as disloyal to Canada or the Empire. East and West may hold opposite opinions on national policy, and both be perfectly honest and sincere, but such difference of opinion certainly provides no reason why the West should denounce the East as desiring to bleed the West, or for the East to accuse the West as selfish and ready to ruin Eastern industry. Unity of opinion on such a question is impossible, but it is possible that there be a tolerant attitude of each other's views.

There is a very real need still apparent for a constant preaching of the gospel of tolerance; a very real need for combatting the still too prevalent tendency of people to adopt an intolerant attitude toward all persons and all questions with whom or with which they are not in agreement. This "I alone am right, and you are wrong and must therefore be supressed" attitude is the cause of more national and community quarrels than almost any other thing in our civilization today.

Intolerance, nothing more, has split many a village and small town into factions not only to the detriment of each individual, but to such an extent that all community spirit and enterprise has been killed. And after all it is the most futile and nonsensical of human weaknesses. On the one hand, respect for other people's opinions, and encouragement of a spirit of charitableness, makes for peace, happiness and contentment in the home, for helpful co-operation in community life and effort, and for strength and unity in the nation. Intolerance aims at suppression of truth but truth cannot be suppressed. It is mighty and will prevail, and all that intolerance in thought and action can accomplish is to create discord and retard the onward march of progress.

The Chief Aim!

Second only to the perverted view held by a vast number of people that the chief aim in life is the amassing of money and the enjoyment of those fleeting pleasures and luxuries which money can procure, is the gullibility of the public in snatching at get-rich-quick schemes that unscrupulous but clever promoters and swindlers dangle before the people. The idea that there is something fine and noble in work itself, in worthy ambitions realized, in service well rendered, and that a monetary reward is not the be-all and the end-all of existence appears to be fast dying out, and a person's success or failure in life has come to be measured by the stand ard of his success in amassing money. The truly successful people are those who can point with conscious pride to some real achievement benefiting themselves and their fellow men. A man once said to me, "Give me all the money I want, by whatever means I can get it, and I don't care whether or not I have a friend in the entire world". The desire to get money not honestly earned, which can only be gained through another's loss, and to get it quick is the bait used and the trap set for the unwary, and for everyone who gains in this way, there are hundreds who lose. There are many men travelling the highways today who offer as high as 50 percent profit in 90 days. These are generally frauds and will be uncovered sooner or later. The only safe road to wealth is along the cultivation and practice of habits of industry, frugality, perseverance and care. And even this road may not lead to the desired haven. But if it doesn't, there need be no regrets for you will have the satisfaction of accomplishing something, and of leaving the world better than you found it, and that's something.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Price Is Right

OTTAWA— In the future, it's going to cost quite a bit more money to be a Canadian.

This is the one certainty in the current turmoil in federal-provincial relations, in the arguments over remaking confederation and the realigning of federal and provincial jurisdictions.

It always has been costly to be Canadian of course. A meagre population in a vast land pays heavily in taxation to provide itself with roads, communications, health services, education and defence — more than is economic, in fact, if strict economic arguments are used.

Now it appears that the price is going up. This has not been generally recognized yet but it should become clear after the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa next month.

The conference will deal with how the tax dollar should be divided between the Federal Government and the provinces. On the surface this looks like an argument between the two levels of Government. The provincial premiers, particularly Lesage of Quebec, Robarts of Ontario and Bennett of British Columbia, want greater access to tax sources. And in this age of provincial ascendancy, they're likely to get it.

The theory is that the Federal Government can vacate certain tax fields, leaving the provinces a larger share. It would be the same tax dollar, in other words, divided up in a different way.

It would be nice if it were that simple. But it isn't. As one federal tax expert remarked, "somebody is going to have to raise taxes."

He pointed out that not only the Federal Government, but most of the provinces, have been operating at a deficit for several years. The plain fact is that it's costing all Governments a lot more to operate than they're taking in from taxation and other revenues.

The surge towards provincial autonomy has no relation to Government economies, to cutbacks in service or spending. On the contrary, the provinces want more revenue because they are hardpressed to build the roads, the schools and to provide the health and welfare services their populations are demanding.

And here can the Federal Government, faced with another $700 million deficit, contemplate the possibility of reducing its revenues? After seven massive deficits in a row, federal tax people regard the thought with positive horror.

The federal-provincial argument, of course, has already resulted in a decision to raise federal taxes. Most Canadians will begin in January to pay up to $20 a year in additional income taxes to finance the $10 increase in the old age pension.

This is a direct result of the Canadian federal system and a good illustration of the cost of being Canadian. Had the federal Government been able to proceed immediately with its national contributory pension plan, the direct tax increase would not have been necessary. The $10 increase would have been paid out of contributions, based on earnings, of participants in the contributory plan.

This is only the beginning, of course. The Federal Government has ambitious plans for revising national defence, the costliest item in the federal budget. It has plans to expand aid to underdeveloped areas of the country; to provide university scholarships; and to expand family allowance payments.

And the provinces are not sitting back counting their money. They're spending it even before they get it. There is not a single province which has not found its resources strained by the multiplying costs of providing universal education.

Quebec and Ontario have multi-million dollar road-building programs. Who can estimate the cost of Quebec's determination to recapture control of the province's basic industry? Ontario has a new pension plan and a new educational program. British Columbia has its vast power development on the Columbia and Peace Rivers.

Millions of dollars must be found to meet new urban problems everywhere - slums, redevelopment, rapid transport, suburban services, housing. This problem has scarcely been touched.

It all adds up to higher taxes. It may not be good economics. Making Canada work never has been. It is even less so now when the needs of two levels of Government are so demanding; when Quebec, an important segment of the land, is determined at least on semi-independence, a sort of "togo" separatism.

There are some who answer this by advocating economic and political absorption with the United States.

There are others, including some in the present Federal Government, who seem to hold the view that if Quebec does split from the rest of Canada, the automatic result would be absorption into the United States.

This is a fatuous view; Canadians have always been willing to pay the price of being Canadians. The United Empire Loyalists of the 18th century were willing. The Canadians of 1812 were willing when they fought for this country.

From the Fenian raids a century ago, through the conscription debates in the early 1900's, to the most recent expressions of Canadian nationalism, the price of being Canadian has always been high. But it has always been paid.

In a way, the price nowadays may even be lower than it was in the days when battles had to be fought. Then Canada was little more than a collection of weak and isolated villages.

Now it is not Quebec, nor any other section of the country, which will determine whether or not Canada survives. Canada has survived, because most Canadians have paid the price, and will continue to do so.

The Bible Today

Dr. Francisco Cuevas Cancino, Attorney-at-law in the Supreme Court of Mexico and Professor of Law at the National University, addressed the American Bible Society annual meeting recently when he was presented with a copy of St. Mark's Gospel in Rincon Zapotec. His excellency commended the Bible as the inspiration of a new and better relationship among nations on the American Continent and spoke of it as the vehicle by which what is best in modern Western life is conveyed to backward peoples.

He said that the Bible helped them to make the transition without losing the sense of spiritual values. Speaking more specifically of the Rincon, Dr. Cuevas linked it with the work of the early Franciscan missionaries, who found it necessary to preach to the Indians in their own language.

In the case of Rincon much care and trouble had been taken by Mr & Mrs Earle to create a written language for this ancient and proud people who had preserved their individuality through many centuries.

Those Scripture translators, said His Excellency, were typical of "the kind of North Americans we like to see in Mexico. You do not import your standard of living, you do not pretend to live as strangers in our midst, but you come and share our community life — We wish to see more people of your sort."

Dr. Cuevas concluded with a warm tribute to the work of the Bible Society.

FEEDING NEW BARLEY DANGEROUS?

Apparently not, says the Alberta Department of Agriculture. From trials conducted at the Lethbridge Research Station, there appears to be no danger of poisoning from feeding steers newly harvested barley.

The Lethbridge experiments the steers were fed old and new barley (rolled), free choice and hand fed, with and without roughage. All the steers made satisfactory gains with no signs of disorders. A suitable balance between grain and roughage seems to give the best results.

BEEF CATTLE SITUATION!

Good prices for Canadian fed cattle have resulted from a record rate of beef consumption in the country during the last few months. With the national economy expected to remain steady, reasonably strong prices are predicted for choice and good slaughter steers for the rest of 1963.

R. E. English, Statistician with the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture, reports the potential supply of feeder cattle and calves is greater than it has been at any time in the past. A bumper crop in Western Canada will result in a heavy demand for feeder replacements.

Cattle exports are likely to be sharply reduced from figures for the last two years because of an increase in the number of feeder cattle available in the United States. However, Canada will require to export markets when animals going on feedlots this fall are slaughtered. This change from the present self-sufficient market will result in pressure on prices but most observers indicate that price reductions will be moderate, owing mainly to a further increase in the consumption of beef.

The growing competition in the United States for beef from Australia and New Zealand will be reduced when freight rates on the Pacific shopping routes go up, as announced recently, on November 1st.

The main problem in cattle feeding concerns forecasting the price of fed cattle at a future date. While price trends can often be clearly predicted for a considerable length of time in advance, they are frequently interrupted by a violent short-term fluctuations, says Mr. English

A cattle feeder undertakes a bigger financial risk in buying heavy cattle when the market is unsettled than he would if he bought young animals. With young animals he may realize a profit when the market falls during the feeding period. The heavy cattle, purchased just before a price rise, will return a big profit but if the price drops an equally heavy loss will be sustained.

According to Mr. English we are still on the upward trend in the cattle cycle. The pressure of voluntary marketings is not expected to lower prices sufficiently to bring about liquidation for at least two years & perhaps longer. Pasture limitations are, of course, an unpredictable factor. General drought conditions could increase ingredients of cattle and sharply reduce feeder cattle prices. If this happened, however, restrictions of cattle numbers would quickly follow the return of good grazing.

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period of time . . . you've got to win their confidence and be convincing.

CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

JUNIOR CITIZEN AWARD WINNER

STRATHMORE, ALBERTA

Bob was out in the farmyard doing his usual chores. He looked back towards the house and noticed smoke was coming from the back door. What was even worse, he knew his brother Jackie - an unfortunate victim of multiple sclerosis, was in the house alone unable to help himself.

Bob rushed to the house and carried his brother to safety. He went back to extinguish the fire which was already burning well into the ceiling.

He called the nearest neighbour two miles away. By the time the neighbour arrived, fifteen year old Bob had everything under control and was still checking throughout the house for signs of any smouldering fire that might burst into flame.

There is no doubt that Bob's prompt and courageous action saved the life of his brother - and saved the family's farm home.

Bob is a most worthy winner of the Junior Citizen Award - not only for this heroic deed, but by the day by day concern and help he cheerfully extends to make his brother's life easier.

We join with the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in wishing him every success in the future.

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspapers, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to the Carstairs Lion's Club and to the Editor of the Strathmore Standard who nominated Bob for the award.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There are certain months of the year in which I would gladly shake the snow off my boots and walk out of this country, never to return, with out a backward glance. But September is not one of them.

At this time of year, it would take a regiment of heroes to drag me kicking, screaming, and cursing "O Canada." across the border, out of my home, my native land.

Twice, Poet John Keats expressed it, though he never saw this Canada of ours. He spoke of "the season of mists and mellow fruitfulness." This is our September. He spoke of "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." And this is our September.

Winter is all very well in its place. And its place, as far as I'm concerned, is in outer Siberia. Spring in Canada is a flash in the pan, a flood in the basement, a cold in the head. Summer is a desperate effort to accomplish, in too brief a time, all the things we've been waiting all winter and spring to do.

In most countries of the northern hemisphere, spring is the time of joy, of waking to new life, of a fresh stirring of the blood. In Canada, spring is merely a muddy interlude. Completely whacked after five months of winter, we drag ourselves through it, only to tumble into the clammy, feverish embrace of summer; shameless, exhausting wench.

In this country, autumn is the time when the pulse begins to quicken, the imagination to soar. The whole nation comes alive, recaptures some coherence after the chaos of summer, and makes plans to be happy and rich.

But thanks to a benevolent deity, the transition between the madness of summer and the scrambling activity of fall is a painless — nay, a glorious — experience.

We are given a time for dreaming. We are given a chance to sharpen again our senses, dormant by sun and sand and water. We are given golden sunlight, filtered through the greatest massed of foliage in the world. We are given water so blue it makes our eyes ache, and sky so high we can almost see heaven.

We are given, just for a month, new eyes, eyes that suddenly see the splash of colour the simmias make against the fence, the thrilling sweep of browns and greens across valley and ridge, the red purple of distant hills.

I am sooo forlorn to weep with joy when I think of the glorious gifts of taste with which September rejuvenates our palates, jaded by hamburgs and hot dogs, mustard and relish, charred steak and shrunky beer.

Juice-spurting sweetness of red apples, golden corn. Tangue-tingling tartness of huge, cold tomatoes, tawny peaches. Earthiness of scrubbed new potatoes, running with butter. Faint, crisp bitterness of cucumbers. Spanking of faint, I'm about to. I haven't had my dinner.

September sounds: storm rattling off the roof; squirrels back in the attic, gibbering and muttering and scrabbling; the thuds and whacks and hips and hops of football practice; and the vast, soft sighs of the earth, delivered of her finest, oozing milk and honey and satisfaction.

September smells: hot dogs frying at the fall fair; new apples — there's no smell like this one; the first acrid smoke of the exhausts from school buses; wood-smoke in the fireplace; the soft, heavy sweet scent of summer replaced by a thing like printer's ink and fresh sweat and champagne, rolled into one.

You take it, whatever it is: Paris in the spring, summer on the Riviera, Japan in cherry blossom time. I'll take Canada in September.

The worst thing I can think of, including my wife running off with the milkman, my kids turning into no-good-nike, is to die early in September. This would kill me. Literally, as they say.

Mrs. F. Sherwood Feted at Killam

KILLAM — Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood was guest of honor at Jive tables of bridge at the home of Mrs. George Stewart. Mrs. York, on behalf of the ladies, presented Mrs. Sherwood with a set of stacking stools. Mrs. Sherwood expressed her sincere thanks, with regrets on leaving her Killam friends to make her home in Edmonton where her husband is a hospital patient. A dainty lunch was served.

MUCH WORK AHEAD. It's going to be a busy session for U-N Secretary General U Thant, left, and newly elected Assembly President Dr. Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez, of Venezuela. There are 82 items facing the 18th session of the General Assembly, one being the demand to admit Red China. But it was Albania and not the Soviet Union that put forward this resolution, reflecting a further split with the Peking regime.—

Cry of the Honker

(Dedicated to all Goose Hunters by Bill Campbell, Delia, Alberta)

In a frosty old goose pit
On an October Morn,
Three hunters lay shivering
And passing the corn.

Their fingers were numb
And their bodies were cold,
But they wouldn't move
For hunters are bold!

The call of the goose
Was yet to be heard,
So down in the pit
Came limitations of that bird.

One hunter peered out
Through a cover of straw,
And spoke to the others
Of what he saw.

The geese came winging,
Their way to the field,
Not knowing of death
That was there concealed.

The hunter still peered,
Not seeming to tire,
When the geese came closer
He shouted "Fire".

Their shot guns roared
Three times for each,
While they had reloaded
The birds were out of reach.

Excitement ran high,
And not hiding their mirth,
They counted the geese
That had been shot to earth.

So in the fall of the year
When the hunters leave dance
Take out your old shot gun
This is October romance.

F.U.A. Newsletter

● Many Alberta weekly newspapers are using the material, information and editorial comment made available to them through the FUA Newsletter. The FUA is pleased to be able to provide this service. The FUA would like to take this opportunity to express thanks to these many publications for making space available to it. As the purpose of the FUA is to serve the interests of the Alberta Farmer, the chance to present FUA information, news and comment to the readers of these papers is greatly appreciated by the FUA membership.

● Nearly 3000 U-Day Membership kits have been sent out to the FUA Locals from Central Office. These kits will be used by canvassers in the "U"-Day drive for membership. This year, the goal is to obtain 30,000 farm unit memberships. Unit membership costs six dollars a year, twelve dollars for two years and $100 for a Life Membership. Some FUA Locals are ready to start their canvassing. They intend to take advantage of the good weather. In many areas of the province canvassing will have been completed before Nov. 12.

There are about 1000 active Locals (counting FWCA's) in Alberta. These count nearly 54,000 individual members. It has taken over a week for Central Office to complete the mailing of U-Day kits.

CREDIT – A Useful Farm Tool

OTTAWA, Oct. 8, 1963 — "Credit, handled by a competent operator at the right time, can be the most useful tool on the farm", says the Farm Credit Corporation in its recently revised information pamphlet: "Credit for Profit".

The FCC points out, "A few years ago, credit was regarded as something to be avoided and farmers took pride in being able to get along without it. However, mechanization and other technological developments in modern farming require greater investment and operations, the result being that today's operators must boost their income to meet mounting costs.

"In 1900, a farmer fed himself and six other persons. Today, he produces enough for his own needs and 25 others.

"This increase in efficiency is due to technological advances and because capital is gradually replacing labor. These changed conditions have made credit vitally important."

The new FCC booklet not only outlines the provisions of the Federal Farm Credit Act but provides timely and useful hints on the use of credit in today's farming operations.

It points out that credit can be used effectively to acquire productive land and livestock, bring existing equipment high-utility buildings and many other essential improvements. However, farmers are advised against using credit as a substitute for income and warned to avoid using it to cover losses or to refinance debts caused by unprofitable farming — unless the weaknesses are corrected.

The FCC says common miscues of credit are:

● paying too much for land and buildings;

● buying unproductive land and livestock.

● purchasing unnecessary equipment.

● constructing costly buildings that lack convenience and utility.

● inadequate or unwise use of short and intermediate term credit in financing productive farming operations.

The FCC stresses that for credit to work profitably it must be supported by efficient operation and management.

Farmers considering the use of long term mortgage credit are urged to plan carefully to ensure that they have selected the most profitable way to operate the farm in line with the credit available. Sound judgement with respect to probable production and market trends will play an important part in making these planning decisions. The Farm Credit Corporation has a staff of trained credit advisers ready to help farmers with their planning and credit problems.

Corporation lending in the current fiscal year continues to set a record pace according to FCC Chairman George Owen. Loans approved to September 30 numbered 5783 and amounted to $71,120,500 — an increase of 28.5 per cent over the $55,296,000 approved for 4615 farmers during the corresponding period in the previous fiscal year.

Farmers wishing the FCC's booklet "Credit for Profit" can obtain a copy from local office, Farm Credit Corporation, 150 Kent Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

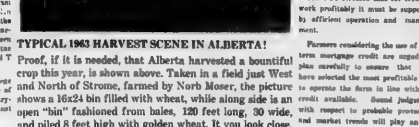
SPORTS

The Central High Rams closed out their 1963 season with a 35-0 defeat at the hands of Alberta College Pioneers at Kinsmen Park in Edmonton last Saturday.

Alberta College went ahead in the first quarter on an unconverted TD and three singles for a 9-0 lead. In the second quarter the Rams put on the pressure, only to be stalled back by some very original calls by the head referee. Alberta College went further ahead when they knocked down a Ram pass, kicked to the Ram 10 yard line to be given possession of the ball. Shortly after this the College attacked, with the ball carrier being pushed into touch between the Ram 5 and 10 yard line, for the referee to award them their third TD and a 22-0 lead at half time.

During the second half the College added to TD's for a final score of 35-0. The Rams did not give up trying, and showed great spirit against their jovvier opponents.

After the game both teams went to Alberta College for supper, with the Rams taking in the Eskimo-Calgary game before going home.



TYPICAL 1963 HARVEST SCENE IN ALBERTA!

Proof, if it is needed, that Alberta harvested a bountiful crop this year, is shown above. Taken in a field just West and North of Strome, farmed by Norb Moser, the picture shows a 16x24 bin filled with wheat, while along side is an open "bin" fashioned from bales, 120 feet long, 30 wide, and piled 8 feet high with golden wheat. HALLOWE'EN!

This morning the Community Press hit the streets. This evening both young and old will be celebrating the occasion of Hallowe'en. We all know that Hallowe'en is celebrated the evening of October 31, and we all know just how it is celebrated; but how many of us know why it is celebrated? Late October 31st is the evening preceding Allhallow or All Saints Day. In many countries including our own the occasion is celebrated with merry making. According to the dictionary, the event also calls for playful ceremonies and charms to discover future wives and husbands. Just how this latter is accomplished is not explained by the dictionary. Below (in the dictionary) is the word "Hallowmas", which is the feast of All Saints or Hallowmas. Associating the 2 words would lead one to believe that (originally at least) the celebration was intended to be modest and somewhat sacred in scope.

Using this then as a basis for argument we must admit that modern civilization has fashioned the historical event to suit its various whims and passions. Perhaps more so than on any other occasion during the year this particular evening has been turned over almost entirely to the children and youth of the world and just how they have fashioned the event to their own desires has been witnessed over the years by older and now more prudent citizens. Years ago the evening was spent having barrels of fun at a party, after which the more daring and reckless of us went about making a general nuisance of ourselves and creating as much property damage as was deemed necessary in order to square accounts with those for whom we held a grudge, real or imaginary. At times these escapades had painful and lasting results which, combined with the age advice of our elders finally had the desired effect of forcing us to turn our activities over to the rising generation.

That put us out of the picture and gradually brought about another and new phase of the traditional celebration of Hallowe'en.

The present generation has turned its activities from property damage to a great extent, and concentrated on the modern version of extorting from us a share of the good things to eat, or causing us to suffer the indignity of having our carefully-laid building plans smashed to pieces. We at least have a choice now. You may call these young folks gangsters if you will and hoodlums if you must, but all in all things are much better today than they were twenty years ago. Give us another hundred years and you will wake up on November 1st to find that these little fairies have split and piled up your winter's supply of wood.

What Is Thrift?

The mistaken assumption often is made that thrift means merely saving money. It is true that money saving is a sign of thrift, but a little thought will convince one it is just as important that we exercise prudence in the conservation of our time, and conserve our health and energies as it is they we lay aside money.

There must be a very marked difference between simply saving money, and hoarding it. The miser is a menace to progress. There are business concerns that have failed to make advancement due to the practices of their directing executives. The same is true of towns and communities. The saving or earning of money at the serious sacrifice of health is not real thrift. To save money also through the development of habits that are so narrow and miserly they arrest development and make us a stumbling block in the path of others is not within the meaning of real thrift.

True, thrift is a character tonic and a man who indulges in it not only grows more independent in a material way, but is better equipped mentally, morally and physically to take his rightful place in the progressive affairs of the world.

Every possible encouragement should be given to those who are starting out with the determination of saving money and getting ahead, but they should bear in mind at the same time that thrift is not limited merely to saving of money. Progress, success and happiness will come to those who husband their financial resources. If they are equally thrifty in matters of time, health and energy, their progress and success will be proportionately more satisfactory.

Generally speaking, the saving of money leads to the development of kindred virtues, but it is not amiss to bear in mind continually that real thrift means vastly more than simply putting money aside for a rainy day.

The Queen's English!

I often wonder if there is anyone who, at one time or another, has not had a curse for the English language and its little inconsistencies and idiosyncrasies. For those who have here is a little verse written by Bob Turner that should cheer you up a bit:

"We'll begin with box, the plural is boxes, But the plural of ox is oxen not oxes. One foot is a goose, but two are called geese, Yet the plural of mouse is never meese. You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice, But the plural of house is houses not hice. If the plural of man is always men, Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen? If I speak of a foot and you show me two feet, And if I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet? If one is a tooth, and a whole set are teeth, Why should the plural of booth not be beeth? If the singular's this and the plural these, Should the plural of kiss ever be keese? We speak of a brother and also of brethren, But though we say mother, we never say mothren. Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him, But imagine the feminine, she shis and shim. So what? Cheerup —— you might have been a blacksmith.

WHAT OTHERS SAY!

BROOKS BULLETIN — What Canada needs is more production. Needed are new products, new industries, new laboratories, new sources of world trade. Production at competitive costs will provide wider markets and a better balance of Canadianeconomy. Promiscuous promises by politicians will not achieve the desired end.

PONOKA HERALD — There are good grounds for believing that education in Quebec has been deliberately designed to make Quebecois youngsters think there is nothing much beyond their borders but hatred and hostility toward them. That keeps them home and ready to blame the rest of Canada for whatever is not right in Quebec.

WAINWRIGHT STAR-CHRONICLE — It is going to be a little embarrassing for the teachers who were on strike to instil in their students the desirability of such things as respect for government & constituted authority, and even for the democratic way of doing things, if they are going to achieve their own ends by the naked method of striking.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Curbing The Emperor!

OTTAWA — The wheel of history may soon have turned full circle.

It was 14 years ago that Harold Chamberlain Banks, a man with a criminal record that earned him a 14-year sentence in San Quentin penitentiary, was brought to Canada from the San Francisco waterfront with the support of the Canadian shipping companies, the Canadian labour movement and the Canadian Government to drive out the Communist-dominated Canadian Seamen's Union.

After one of the bloodiest inhour conflicts in Canadian history, Banks succeeded in driving the Canadian Seamen's Union from the waterfront. In its place he put the Canadian section of the Seafarers' International Union.

Now the Canadian labour movement, Parliament and the Federal Government, if not the shipping companies, some of which have played along to escape "trouble", are engaged in a concerted effort to drive Banks from the Canadian waterfront.

Before they have succeeded—and with the backing of an entire nation repelled by the monster that has been created, they will eventually succeed—a lot more blood may well be spilled.

The question then will be what steps can be taken to ensure that not for a third time is the power of a trade union put into the hands of corrupt men to serve their own ill purposes.

It is really part of a larger problem that faces North America in the 20th century. In the last century, society was faced with the necessity of devising ways to prevent the economic system being ruthlessly exploited by the great robber barons to enhance their own wealth at the expense of the ordinary men and women.

In no small measure it was the efforts of these men and others like them to exploit their workers that led to the development of trade unions on this continent. Today the robber barons are a thing of the past, although corporate power is still something with which to reckon. Today a more pressing problem facing society on this continent is that of curbing the unbridled and irresponsible use of great power by a small number of unions.

In Canada, the Seafarers' International Union has become the symbol of corrupt unionism. Through a variety of devices, Banks has created all power in his own hands. Those who challenged his authority were at once put out of a job by the control he exercises over the union hiring halls. Sometimes they were brutally beaten if they happened to represent a rival organization that sought to loosen the SIU's iron-fisted grip.

While the whole power of the State is now slowly being brought to bear in order to get rid of Banks and his aides and begin the slow and painful process of attempting to instil an element of democratic unionism in the SIU, it may take time and courage.

Last week the union president openly flouted Parliament and defied the Federal Government when he pulled his men off the ships and ordered a march on the nation's capital to protest against legislation imposing public trusteeship on all 8 maritime unions despite a demand from Labour Minister Allan Mac-Eachen that the seamen return to their jobs and end their illegal strike.

Some 2000 members of the SIU answered on the lawns of Parliament Hill beneath the shadow of the Peace Tower waving banners and placards condemning the trusteeship legislation which Parliament only a few days before had approved almost unanimously. Banks himself demanded from a more stylish Cadillac he is style up and down the walk in front of the Parliament buildings like a Roman emperor.

In the House of Commons, Prime Minister Pearson declared that the Legislation would be brought into force as soon as suitable trustees could be selected to take over the administration of the maritime unions. Outside, only shortly before, Banks had been telling his men to return to the union halls nearest their ships & consider where they would go from there. A quaint touch that suggested they had a democratic freedom of choice.

The following day that choice was becoming apparent. The unions would remain out on strike until the trusteeship legislation was withdrawn. The decision, if it is long abided by, presents the Government with a difficult choice of its own.

The Trusteeship legislation contains strong sanctions against anyone who hinders the operations of the trustees. There are penalties in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act and the Canada Shipping Act for illegal strikes and desertion. It might take a long time to pin anything on Banks and his cronies, but throughout have falsely consistently struck the pose that the seamen are acting individually of their own free will and without any direction from union officers.

In this case, the wheels of justice might grind especially slowly. In the meantime cricket movements of grain from the Lake heads to seven ports for trans-shipment to Russia could be held up until the Great Lakes waterways freeze over. The Government might intervene even more directly by appointing a receiver over all shipping, but would be sufficient to force men back to work who were prepared to defy the law?

There is a question, however, how long Banks himself can hold out in this showdown battle between state and union. There is no doubt that he is almost worshipped by some members of the SIU, that is he really is strong as he looks? As a show of strength designed to foster union support and display it to the world, the march on Ottawa by only 2000 men out of an organization which claims a membership of 16000, was not unduly impressive. How long could Banks maintain a strike before his support began to crumble, his members breaking away to join rival unions which in turn could lend to some pitched battles along the water front similar to those which first marked Banks' arrival on the scene.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE:

Prime Minister Pearson provided new evidence recently of the Government is considering abandoning the Canada Pension Plan legislation for this session, at least, as a result of opposition from trust and insurance companies. Another showcase piece is also likely to go on the shelf, the Canada Development Corporation. If this pace keeps up, the new Liberal Government will have precious little left in the showcase.

True halloween incident

(By Mrs. P. M. Cantlon)

Supper over, the men folks were sitting around the cheery kitchen, the boys discussing the day's happenings, Dad looking through the paper and Mother with her sewing present and never-finished mending. As it was too cold and miserable for anyone to go to town (it was Saturday night), Lynton and Peter were allowed to stay up for an hour or so later than usual.

Suddenly "Pep's" insistent barking announced that someone had come into the yard. "I'll get it," said Dan, as he got up from his game of checkers with his brother Andy.

"Good evening," said Tom, a farmer who lived North of C homestead some few miles. "Some Saturday night ah? I didn't think you people would be going to town on a night like this, so I thought I'd come over for a while. I get sort of lonesome over there by myself, especially now that my radio has gone on the blink. Dan hung up Tom's wraps while Dad pulled up a chair to the fire. It was late in the fall and real cold. "Listen to that wind," said Dad. "Seems like winter isn't faroff," he added as he re-pinished the fire. "Reminds me when I first started to batch on my farm back North," said Tom, "to be made himself comfortable," said pa Dan said, all set to give them one of his yarns. "Tell us" said the 2 little lads at once. "Oh well, it didn't amount to much after all, but I will tell you at the time I was scared".

They all settled themselves comfortably for they knew that Tom could tell of some pretty exciting experiences which had taken place in his lonely life. "Remember when I live on the old Barker place? It is North of my place. That was about 15 years ago." "Yes, I remember," said Dad "And I recal how you used to get those "blues" spells and come here on horseback and stay until a most daylight" answered Dad. "Well" continued Tom, "it was one of those times in the late fall, the work was done and the cattle were allowed to roam anywhere and everywhere. It had been dull for 2 or 3 days. It was sure getting me down so I decided to take a peak in on you folks and see how you were doing. I had sort of lost track of the date, so imagine my surprise when I got here and found it was Hallowe'en Y-e-s, Oct 31st.

I remember when I came into the kitchen, here were kids ducking for apples, and some of them trying different stunts, seemed like it was a party and one in my work clothes

"However, after lunch, we got settled around right here in this very room, an, part of us supposed to tell a wild ghost story. The time passed quickly and the first thing I knew it was after one o clock in the morning, so I decided I'd better get on home. Although I will admit, after sitting up so long I was feeling pretty yarns I didn't fancy going back to a cabin in the bush with no one to keep me company.

"I was now I started out, the moon was up and a clear thing was no bright I was so clear, made it jump up, and every sound gave me the jitters. I was pretty young then, only 17, and my nerves were jumpy at the best of times, get my self jumpy in the cabin and lets admit, did was making up my mind to go back to distinctly heard a noise like it was not my imagination either. I froze in my tracks. There it was again and again. What was I to do? It came from the direction of the house to What, or who could it be? I never did look my door whenever I went away, so naturally the first thing I thought of was that someone was in the house, sick or injured, or maybe even dying.

"It sure took a lot of gumption on my part, believe me, but I slipped up to the door pretty cautiously and listened. Yes, there was that awful moaning again. From where I was standing it didn't seem to be IN the house, but over on the side of the bedroom a ways. So I got a axe-m & investigated. When I got inside the house and struck a match, there was a tramp sprawled out on a chair, head on his chest, hands in pockets, and snoring away.

"I tried to awaken him, but he just grunted, so I knew HE wasn't the source of the moaning. The noise I heard was more like a groan, so I knew there wasn't any hope of him helping me

"The moaning continued, becoming more insistent every minute. There was an old empty bar, west of the house, so the first thing I knew I had was maybe someone had fallen in that hole. So, did the pecking go up and down my back. If there was someone down there I could do nothing alone Then I'd think of all those ghost stories, and my knees would start to shake. Then I'd think of spooks or no spooks, I'm going to the lantern in front of me I very soon powered over the edge of that hole. Sure enough, down in that old well, but still alive, her moans hoarse, growing weaker every minute now, was old Widow Johnson's old Mooly Cow.

"It sure was a relief to find that it wasn't a human being, although I did feel sorry for the poor critter so I ran still see those big pleading eyes looking up at me so pitifully. That finished."

"Did you manage to get it out alive?" asked Dad.

"It was some morning by that time," said Tom, "and I went over to a neighbors and got help. We used pulleys, worked until the middle of the forenoon before we got her out. She was still breathing when she came up but we had to shoot her as both front legs were broken. She was likely hurt inwardly too."

"That experience would us never a man much older than you were I'm sure" said Mrs. C. as she put the kettle on and made lunch.

LARRY MORIN

9715 - 156 ST., EDMONTON

When Larry was only twelve he learned he was a diabetic. He had to forego active school sports, baseball and football - all the sports a boy loves. This was quite a serious infliction on such a young boy. But far from feeling sorry for himself, Larry developed talents for helping other people.

His aim in life is to become a doctor specializing in the problems of diabetic children. A worthwhile goal - don't you agree?

He has done exceptionally well in school. He completed his Grade 10 with an "H" average. He is a Sunday School teacher, and an enthusiastic member of his church's Young People's Group.

During the past winter, sixteen-year old Larry toured Northern Alberta with the "Search for Talent" show. He is an accomplished pantomimist, and used his talent to help raise money for crippled children. He has taught himself to play the guitar and banjo, and has formed his own folk singing group "The Balladeers" which entertain in and around Edmonton.

Larry has been a counsellor at the Lake Isle Camp for crippled children and last summer worked with diabetic children.

Calgary Power joins with the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in congratulating Larry on his courage and determination to live a full life in spite of his handicap.

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledges the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mrs. Elsie M. Barnes of 5911 - 119 Ave., Edmonton and to the Editor of the Beverly Page, who nominated Larry for the award.

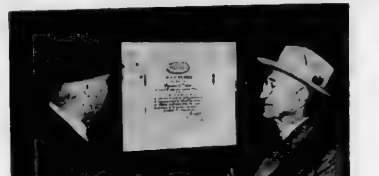
SERVING THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA



Hon. E. Plumer, of Bassano, long-time director of the Alberta Wheat Pool and president for fourteen years, unveils a small dedicating the Alberta Wheat Pool's new 140,000-bushel composite elevator at Wetaskiwin to the pioneer members who founded the association.

President G. L. Harrold (left) of Lacombe, looks on approvingly. This special opening was held as part of the celebration marking the 40th anniversary of the inauguration of Wheat Pool service in Alberta. The farmer-owned co-operative, which commenced operations on October 29, 1923, now possesses 546 country elevators and 3 huge terminals and has a membership of over 80,000 Bloomers.

capital to finance feed inventories & other expenses.

The average farm operation in the Red Deer - Lacombe - Olds Farm management group produced almost $28,000 worth of agricultural produce in 1962. The farm operator, however was only able to retain $8,600 for his own work and managerial responsibilities after paying all other expenses, including 5 percent interest return on capital tied-up in the Farm. The year of 1962 was considerably better than the last few years when operator's labor earnings were from $300 to $3000.

According to Mr. Peterson there is a large variation in operator's wage returns. In the Red Deer - Lacombe - Olds group they varied from a low of minus $9000 to a high of $20,000. Farm business analysis reports, sent out to participating farmers, attempt to explain the reasons for these differences. In many cases this enables a farmer whose returns are below average to rectify the situation.

FACTS FOR THE FARMER!

The advent of systemic insecticides now allows effective and safe control of warbles with one treatment.

ALBERTA FARM BUSINESS ANALYSIS PROGRAM!

The Alberta Dept. of Agriculture's farm management program offers farmers a business analysis service for a nominal fee to cover a portion of the costs. At the moment members of the Farm Economics Branch are concluding an analysis of 1962 records for a number of farmers participating in these programs which are supervised by district agriculturists throughout the province.

Each participant in a farm business analysis program is expected to enter farm record information on a standard analysis sheet at the end of the year. After the data is checked by the D. A. it is forwarded to the farm business laboratory in Edmonton. A report is then prepared, showing the farm operator how his farm compares with standards for the district.

All information is confidential. It is not revealed to anyone except the D. A. without the farmer's permission. Interpretation of business analysis sheets given the farmer a better idea of the strong and weak points in his operation and provides a guide for making adjustments to improve his income with the resources he has at hand.

Farm business groups from the Peace River District, Athabasca, Red Deer, Lacombe, Olds, Calgary, Arrowood, Claresholm and Strathmore are already making use of farm business analysis programs.

T. A. Peterson, Supervisor of Farm Management Extension, reports that farm business analysis yields interesting and useful information. For example, the average value of farm business investments for the Red Deer - Lacombe - Olds group in 1961 was over $86,000 per farm. Approximately 40 percent of this figure was invested in land and buildings while $21,000 and $18,000 respectively were invested in livestock and equipment. In addition, an average of nearly $15,000 per farm was needed annually for operating

It Started Back in '23

Western farmers faced economic ruin. Years of falling prices following World War I finally dropped the Alberta farm price of wheat to 65c a bushel. The speculative system of grain trading and marketing had finally come a cropper and the whole western economy was caught in the crash. Something had to be done. A new plan was needed to bring order and control to the marketing of grain.

The formation of a Wheat Pool had long been advocated by farm leaders. In October, 1923, with the encouragement of the provincial government, interested citizens and farm organizations the Alberta Wheat Pool was formed. Its first board of directors was, Back row, left to right: W. J. Jackman, Brenner; R. N. Mangles, Youngstown, Leo Hutchinson, Camrose; C. C. Jensen, Magrath. Seated, left to right: Ben D. Plumer, Bassano; H. W. Wood (chairman), Carstairs; O. L. McPherson, Vulcan Handling and storage of grain are vitally important to farmers. The first Pool elevator was opened at Leo in the fall of 1923. the Pool has exercised an increasing influence in maintaining handling costs at a reasonable level, to the benefit of all farmers. The Alberta Wheat Pool now operates 515 country elevators, 305 annexes and 3 large terminals.

Centralized selling through the Wheat Pools gave the grain producer a new deal and in spite of setbacks, greater security. The establishment of the Canadian Wheat Board in 1935 added stability to this vital Canadian industry. The wheat surpluses of the fifties, far exceeding available storage space, were a serious problem — but not the major disaster they would have been before the Pool and the Wheat Board

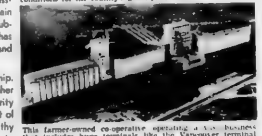
Life Begins at 40

The 50,000 members of the Alberta Wheat Pool can take pride in the achievements, through many adversities, of the last forty years. The Pool has built a successful enterprise. It owns and operates a vast grain handling system. It has distributed earnings in substantial patronage dividends for 27 years, and it has built reserve savings for its members' retirement and their later years.

Its benefits have been spread beyond its membership. The whole farming community has enjoyed higher returns for production, better facilities, greater security and a higher standard of living generally as a result of the Pool's labours and leadership. And a healthy agricultural industry has contributed substantially to Canada's prosperity and progress.

Co-operation has been successful. But co-operation is only strong as long as its people continue to work together. The co-operative Wheat Pool needs the support and patronage of every farmer to build for the future. Life for the Pool begins at forty. Much has been achieved. There is more to be done to preserve and improve the status and standards of farmers, to contribute to the progress of the community and to maintain throughout Canada the prestige and influence that our great industry deserves and needs.

In the good years it is easy to forget that good crops alone have not guaranteed prosperity. What has been accomplished is the fulfilment of years of pooled effort by farmers working together. Co-operation will continue to be a major factor in the maintenance and improvement of trading and living conditions for the country's grain producers.



This farmer-owned co-operative operating a vast business that includes huge terminals like the Vancouver terminal pictured above, is a good example of Canadian ownership of a vital Canadian industry. The Pool not only provides dividends and other benefits to its members and patrons, but improves marketing conditions for the whole farming community and strengthens the entire Canadian economy.

The Pool belongs to the cities, too. Its formation was encouraged and aided by citizens. Its success brought prosperity to the country and city alike. The modern office building that houses Pool headquarters in Calgary is a symbol of the mutual dependence of city and country, of farmer and citizen, in the building of a good life for all.

HOSPITAL COMPLEX

Auxiliary Hospital Dist.

The Flagstaff-Beaver Auxiliary Hospital District No. 20 came into being on February 14th, 1963, with the passing of a Provincial Order-in-Council incorporating the board. This action of the Government was taken after the Councils representing a majority of the population of the Municipalities included in the district had approved the program previously drawn up and submitted to them, and had forwarded to the Government names of persons nominated to be members of the board of the district.

Municipalities comprising the district include: M. D. of Flagstaff, Baysland, Strome, Killam, Sedgewick, Lougheed, Hardisty, Alliance, Galahad, Forestburg, Hubbles, the County of Beaver No. 9, Tofield, Ryley, Holden and Viking.

Members of the Board named in the order are: A. Rande, Alliance (Ward 1); A. P. Stotz, Baysland (Ward 3); A. L. Gilson, Holden (Ward 5); J. H. Nesbitt, Viking (Ward 4); R. F. Fee, Killam (Ward 5), and A. F. Kenaghan, Viking for (Ward 6). The board elected R. F. Fee as Chairman and A. Rande as Vice-Chairman, and appointed S. James of Killam as Sec.-Treas.

The schedule accompanying the order suggested that planning and construction of the Auxiliary Hospital and the new Killam General Hospital proceed simultaneously.

Joint meetings were held with the administrative and advisory boards of the General Hospital throughout the planning and construction period. Diamond-Clarke and Associates of Edmonton were engaged as Architects for the entire Complex, construction of which commenced one year ago.

It is generally agreed that the main objective of providing well integrated units designed to give facilities for a high standard of patient care in both hospitals without excessive duplication of services or departments has been achieved.

A view of a typical double-room in the Auxiliary section of the Complex, showing one of the modern steel beds, the twin cupboards and lockers, and washroom facilities. Rooms are also equipped with bathroom facilities and comfortable loung-sitting arrangements. The pictures were taken using the natural light provided through the large clear-view windows, which afford ample sunshine and fresh air for the patients.

A brief history of the Killam General Hospital

Hospital services have been provided at Killam for the past thirty-three years by the Sisters of Saint Joseph. This Congregation was founded in LePuy, France, on October 15th, 1650. It is one of the oldest congregations in Canada, and certainly in the Canadian West. The aim of the community is direction of works of charity, as Orphanages, Hospitals and Homes of the Aged & Poor, along with the Christian Education and instruction of youth.

The present Sister Superior at Killam is Sister M. St. Bride, a graduate nurse from St. Joseph's Hospital in London, Ontario. She was appointed in July, 1958.

In 1929 the F. E. Nichol residence in Killam was purchased by the Sisters, and a small band of them from St. Joseph's Hospital in Oshkosh opened the home as the Killam General Hospital. It contained 9 hospital beds and 4 bassinettes. In 1946 they built an addition to the hospital providing an additional 16 beds and service areas, bringing the rated capacity to 27 beds.

Following the start of the Provincial Hospitalization program, and with the increasing complexity and organization of hospital business, an Advisory Board of district men was formed in 1950. The membership of seven has assisted in negotiating with the Government with respect to approval for new constructions, as well as assisting and advising with general business.

The Flagstaff-Beaver Auxiliary Board was formed after approval for a new 30-bed General Hospital had been given. Construction was delayed for a year however while the Auxiliary was planned. The two boards have worked closely together during the entire planning and construction period, dealing with plans, financing, equipment purchasing, etc.

The completed Complex comprises the 30-bed Auxiliary, the 30-bed General, with the shared service area and the Sisters' Convent and Chapel. Provision has been made for intercommunicational services in the Auxiliary, serving both hospitals. The shared services located in the active treatment hospital, and serving include, Dietary, Laundry, X-Ray, Laboratory, Pharmacy, Stores, Business Offices and the Staff Cafeteria. Occupational Therapy and Physiotherapy services are located in the Auxiliary.

The boards have appointed a joint Administrator, responsible for the operation of both hospitals, who is assisted by a unit manager (director of nursing) for each hospital.

Administrator- Sister Lourdes

Sister Mary Lourdes, the Administrator of the new Killam Hospital Complex, is a registered Nurse and a graduate of the Grey Nun's Hospital at Regina, Saskatchewan. She also is a graduate of the course on Hospital Organization and Management, is a Registered Medical Records Librarian, holds Certification in Nursing Unit Administration, and is a recent nominee on the American College of Hospital Administrators.

Sister Lourdes has been serving at the Killam General Hospital since 1947, with the exception of a two-year period between 1955 and 1957. Her immense knowledge and experience in all the various departments of hospital function has been of the greatest benefit in the planning and equipping of these hospitals, and she has been of particular assistance to the Auxiliary Board.

The entire Hospital Unit is heated by propane fuel provided from the giant storage tank shown above, situated the regulation distance from the building area.

A FEW HARDISTY FLAKES

(By Poste)

A month must have passed since I last sat down to pen out a few lines for this column. I'm either getting lazier or mellowing with age, hence I find less to sound off about. One thing is certain, I can find no cause to complain about the weather. I've never seen anything to match it at this time of the year. It usually dishes up anything but good weather when the farmers have a hefty crop to take off. Not so this fall. Everything went along perfectly, so we all have much to be thankful for.

I finally got around to taking in a football game at Central High last Saturday, and although our boys came out on the short end of a 35-0 score, I thought that they played a whale of a game, from a spectator point, and deserve much credit for standing up as well as they did, to offensive and defensive lines much heavier than they were. I could feel the jars out on the sidelines. Just keep up the good work boys.

This week saw our annual Award Night presentations, and I would like to extend congratulations to those students who worked so hard last term and qualified for awards. I do, however, find one thing to complain about in connection with these awards, and this is the fact that they are not made in the presence of the whole school; that is to say that the awards should be made during school hours, so that all students from grade 1 to grade 9 could observe 'em being paid these award winners. It could even spark a little more interest from the pupils on the way up. Could result in a better effort in the lower grades. I do hope that the H. and S. Assn. will give this suggestion some thought. It may create a problem or two but it may also have some merit.

I seldom plug the Legion in this column, but at this time of the year I feel that some mention should be made of the Remembrance Week observations Nov. 5 to 11 inclusive. You will be asked to support the Poppy and Wreath sale campaign to your town. At Hardisty the service will be held at the Rec on Monday, November 11th, the time 10.30 a.m. Please give those very worthy Legion observances your support.

I have another date to remind you of and that is the Harvesters' Dance at Rosyth Hall on Nov. 1st. At the dance the calf raffled by Hardisty Elks will be finalized and some ticket holder will be in the stock business. Keep the date in mind.

The Arena and Curling Club Assn. held a meeting on Tuesday, I managed not to attend but am informed that a nominating committee was appointed and when they come up with a slate of prospective officers, an annual meeting will be called. This should take place soon. I've not been able to garner any information with regards to the 1963-64 edition of the Stampeders, but it could work out that there will be a shortage of players. If so this points out the need for an overall hockey organization, thereby insuring a continual supply of replacements. We could be guilty of having got too much support below and neither hockey club.

Well readers, I must scram & get on with something else. I've certainly wandered from one topic to another this time around, but then's the way it usually turns out when I sit down to do a column and have no particular subject in mind. Oh, by the way, town fathers, what became of the dog by-law? It's an bad as ever now.

HOSPITALITY PLUS

One year during the first of those depression years, the wild fruit was not as plentiful as usual, that is in the sheltered parts of the bush where the wind and frost hadn't touch it the bushes. And one hope to find any berries at all. However, we decided to go "berrying" around one day, and if we did not find much fruit, at least we had a sort of "picnic" of it, and balance me in those days parties were few and far between.

So off we went one morning, the 4 children, a couple milk pails, as well as smaller pails, hanging from our belts, happy, hopeful and hungry. It was some time after we had eaten our lunch before we finally ran across a fairly good patch of Saskatoons. We were hot and dust full, and were thinking we had better start for home, when we saw a few baking-powder biscuits, so do just set a few minutes longer.

When we sat down to the table (bare, scrubbed boards, with no cover whatever), she straightway apologized for her scanty fare which consisted of baking-powder biscuits, plain butter and coffee (the latter usual from scorched wheat). Yet, she presided over this as if it were food fit for a King.

She explained that her husband was in the T. B. Sanitorium and had been for nearly a year now, and, although she wasn't too well herself, she added, "But me and my babies here are doing fine, at least (with a smile of pride at her boys) I still have my children, and my Man will be home, then everything will be O. K."

Optimism? Faith? Trust? Good Stuff? Call it what you may, but that poor little wife and mother really "kept the home fires burning" while waiting for her Man to return from the Sun.

Best of all, she put forth a smiling face to out-siders, although it is almost certain that when the family was all sleeping, she allowed herself a few tears. With her outlook on the grim realities of life, she couldn't be human if she didn't cry at times. We offered her our berries, thinking perhaps they had not been able to find any, but she refused them, saying, "Me and the lads can find some later".

As we went home, I felt so ashamed of my oft complaining at my lot, which was so much better than that of our hostess, and I resolved, then and there, to try to see the silver lining, and, above all, to be more thankful for the blessings which were mine.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

What a difference a few weeks can make in this country! It is no wonder that Canadians carry on a sharp, lingering, tongue-in-cheek, love affair with their native land.

And they do. Believe me they do, although you'd never know it from casual observation. They may sniff to Florida and Mexico and Europe, but most of them would be and beyond endurance if they were suddenly told they were to be banished forever from Canada.

About eight weeks ago, we drove out to visit friends at their cottage. It was high, bouncy end of summer, and the evening air was tropical. We slowed to cross the bridge, and the ever-present, ever-intent anglers peered with patience at the black little river, and the birds dart led and the frogs brumphed.

Along the bank, golden girls swilled, and brown urchins paddled, and fat ladies slumped in deck chairs and town agers looked sophisticated, and dogs ran over sleeping old gentlemen, and people waved and water lapped and motors roared and hot dogs smelled good.

When we arrived, our friends, about a dozen of them, sprawled under a vast, sighing pine tree, drinking chilled cantaree and eating dill pickles. Their children and dogs, from toddlers to hostess delinquents, prowled and squabbled and begged bits of pickle and demanded one another's ears, and laughed and cried & wet their dippers and bothered their mums.

Out over the lake, the sun, almost gone, had moment of hysteria, flushing color across the sky with the fervency of a Van Gogh. And the water, darkening its blue, looked up long ingly, and the sun flung across it, distantly, a few scarlet and gold streamers.

And we lounged in shorts and bare feet, shirtless and wordless, too lazy and content to get up and go in, even when the sun took a deep breath and went down like like a bomb, away out at the end of the water.

Like good Canadians, we accepted the splendor of the evening with decent restraint. Nobody sang a sonnet to the setting sun. Nobody was impelled to sing a dirge to dying summer. It was admitted upon the urging of a couple of the more flamboyant types, that it sure was a swell night, before we gathered the kids and went home.

Just the other night we went back to the same bench for dinner with some friends at their cottage. The air was fairly curdling. The city heat we felt good. When we reached the little bridge, there were no fishermen, but we stopped to look at the late gold sun on the little black river. And high, away up, went over a wevery V of geese, a lovely sight.

Along the bench there was no sign of life. Slowly water around green clumped islands. Silver mist. Black and blue sky. Cottages bordered up and blank-faced. It was lonely and bleak and beautiful.

When we came to the cottage away down the shore road, and saw the lights shining, it was a good feeling inside there was a great, glowing fire, a warm welcome, friendly faces, and the good, rich smells of rye and turkey and perfumed women.

And again, like decent Canadians, nobody made any crude remarks about what a beautiful evening it was, how lucky we were to live in this demi-paradise, or anything at foreign and sentimental as that. We just stuffed ourselves with food and drink, and went home.

Maybe we all had too much Hiss Caesar, William Wilfred Campbell and Archibald Lampman, when we were in school. Maybe we're just undemonstrative. But surely there is no nation on the face of the earth that loves its country so much and sings about it so little.

That's why I'm going to sing out now in a while, wherever crushed the voice, or corny the tune, or bor ed the audience. Maybe I can invite enough people to form at least a quartet.

Farm t.v. program to be shown

"This business of farming"

The Alberta Department of Agriculture will co-operate with those of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in producing the 1964 version of "This Business of Farming", a farm education short course which was initiated in Manitoba two years ago, and which this winter will become a regional show.

"This Business of Farming" will be telecast by fourteen television stations on the CBC prairie network during the winter, from January 19, 1964, from 10:30 - 11:30 a.m. Course content will include soils, forage crop management, and beef cattle production. The fifth and final day of the course is being produced as a provincial show. On this day, the Alberta department will feature "Farm and Home Management", and improved family living. This program will stress the role of the farm family in making major decisions affecting the operation and management of the farm.

The television course is planned to supplement and not to change its positics. Farmers, provincial agriculture specialists, University staff members, Canadian Department of Agriculture experts and others will pool their talents to present the latest information and trends.

Department of Agriculture officials say that the medium of television has provided a means of reaching more people and extending their educational programme. They state that the content of "This Business of Farming - 1964 has been planned to be of interest to a wide audience.

Audience research in 1962 proved that over 50 percent of Manitoba farm operators watched the show with a total of from 19,000 to 22,000 adult viewers each day. Course officials expect a third of a million viewers in 1964.

Capital Hill

Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh has emphatically denied newspaper reports that the Canada Pension plan has been shelved. She said in the House of Commons the intention is to proceed with the pension plan at the present session of Parliament. But if that proves to be impossible because of the amount of work before the present session expected to rise before Christmas, then the Government will bring forward the Canada Pension measure early in the next session. It is a "basic promise of the Liberal administration" said Miss LaMarsh.

ARMISTICE!

"Consider the lillies" growing in simple splendor, undefiled, the emblems of purity, and "there's rosemary, that's for remembrance," or again, the laurel leaf, evergreen emblem of victory. All down the ages flowers have been our symbols of the better things of life, emblamatic of the loftiest ideals to which we humans can aspire.

For many years now we have been wearing at this time of year a scarlet poppy, replica of that crimson flower which grows in such profusion on the fields of France and Flanders. Blood red in hue it is at once symbolical of sacrifice and emblamatical of indomitable courage and endurance.

What does that little flower mean to us? At this anniversary time it reminds us, undoubtedly of some one near and dear who with high heart journeyed forth to war and whom we saw no more, and perhaps we are reminded of thousands whose names are cut in everlasting stone on the Memorial piles that dot the countryside of France, or are emblazoned in bronze on our own Memorials. But does not that little flower mean more? Should it not mean more than that. They gave their lives for what? For a moment's adventure? For material reward or personal glorification? It so, what of their adventure? Where, to them, is their glory? No, consciously or unconsciously, they gave their all that wars should vanish from off the face of the earth.

And has war vanished? A perusal of the daily press answers that question. All major countries are investing millions of dollars in modern, technical devices for waging war, and for defence; all bidding for equality. Have wars and rumors of wars vanished from the earth?

Pointing the blame, fixing the responsibility for this state of affairs gets us nowhere — to you and I, belongs the guilt if succeeding generations know not of everlasting peace. For, in spite of all the othere theories to the contrary, it is the will of you and I — the desire of common people, that triumphs in the end. Mothers, wars are not inevitable, if you will only think so. Fathers, peace has problems far greater than any war in the world's history has ever solved. Why think in terms of strife? Give an ear to that impassioned cry that goes out from the hearts of all those thousands upon thousands who are pleading for peace.

"Consider the lilies" and their implications of simplicity, purity and peacefulness, and give these implications a chance to work their mission amongst us, because great has been our material progress, but our civilization has failed morally if we allow sacrifices of that "silent army" to go for nothing.

The Dutch remember, do you?

PLAIN CANADIAN TALK!

(Guest Editorial — Ponoka Herald)

Decision by the Canadian Government to place the Seamen's International Union and other maritime unions under government appointed trustees appears to have the approval of the majority of Canadians. Certainly the move has the wholehearted support of Western Canada.

It should be noted that this radical move to purge Canadian Labor ranks of racketeer tactics imported from the United States was approved by the Parliament of Canada — not merely the Liberal government of Prime Minister Pearson. All parties approved the move — after each group had put forward its own particular views on the matter.

This distinction between full parliamentary approval and approval by the party in power is significant. It is a clear warning that Canada will not submit to being hushed around by Labor racketeers — especially those who take their orders from some boss in the United States.

There are good grounds for believing that the rank and file of Canadian labor are also secretly pleased by the firm stand taken by Prime Minister Pearson and his Liberal government. Mike Pearson will lose no votes as a result of his move.

Canadian Labor is not suffering any hardships. Few, if any, serious injustices remain against Labor. The pay is generally good for the hours, physical effort, and education asked of union labor. Many farmers would feel they were only playing if they put in the same hours and physical effort that organized Labor does.

The crux of this show-down with the Seamen's International Union is not wages, hours or working conditions. It is the question of whether big unions in the United States are going to be left free to take over control of Canadian unions by force and gangster tactics, then operate them as dependent slave groups.

The phrase "slave groups" is not so much of an exaggeration as you might think. Men are sent in from the U. S. to "organize" Canadian maritime workers. The investigation by Mr. Justice Norris established that these invaders used physical beatings, intimidation and other hoodlum tactics to gain control of this group of Canadian labor.

Once organized to the satisfaction of the U. S. Labor bosses, the Canadians were told when to work, when to strike, when to protest, who to vote for, how much of their wages they must pay over to their new masters and how loud they should cheer whenever Hal Banks, their new tyrant deigned to drive by in his white convertible.

This may not bother the rank and file of U. S. citizens, who seem to tolerate such czarist activities south of the border but it makes Canadians fighting mad. We sincerely hope it always will.

Now that Canada is aroused and doing some plain, blunt talking, it should be clearly pointed out to our U. S. friends, from the White House down to the Street Cleaners' Union, that we will gindly cooperate with them but we will not be bossed.

What is more, Canadians are convinced that co-operation involves give and take by both sides.

In recent years the U. S. idea of co-operation has sometimes been: "Now here is what we want and we are sure you will co-operate by doing it."

This is not an anti-American blast. It is just plain, straight forward talk.

What Others Say!

BROOKS BULLETIN — In Canada from Cape Race to Nootka Sound there is intense interest in the prospect of huge exports of wheat to overseas countries. The surplus of our big 700 million bushel wheat crop is likely to disappear by the time the crop year ends July 31st, 1964.

CAMROSE CANADIAN —(On Rustling) Many farmers are viewing with alarm the comparative lack of concern felt by the courts, and cite as more or less typical a recent case where a group of men, caught red-handed with stolen beef, were given suspended sentences when they appeared in magistrate's court.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Delicate and Distasteful . . .

OTTAWA— Espionage is something that all freedom loving countries must guard against.

But in seeking to protect itself from the operations of enemy agents within its borders a democracy must proceed carefully lest it infringe on the freedom of its own people in striving to ensure the freedom of the state. It is a very difficult and delicate problem in a democracy.

More than once in the House of Commons Members of Parliament have raised their voices in protest over cases where they were convinced that a Canadian had been dealt with unfairly and in contravention of his civil rights. But in that same House of Commons the members were shocked less than two decades ago when one of their own number — a Communist M.P. — was accused and found guilty in the famous spy trials.

Those spy investigations triggered by a Russian cipher clerk fleeing from the Russian embassy in Ottawa shook Canada and the free world. This country along with many others became acutely security conscious. Subsequent developments in other nations, such as the United Kingdom, the United States and France have demonstrated again and again, how a democracy must be constantly on guard against Communist subversion.

More than once it has developed that the Communist espionage system has depended upon Government employees providing it with vital information. Consequently the anti-espionage operations have emphasized the need for keeping a close check on Government workers engaged in sensitive jobs.

But aware that there have been mistakes made in screening members of the armed forces and Federal employees the Liberal Government initiated changes, and so important did Prime Minister Pearson regard the changes that he announced them himself.

Security is both essential and distasteful. He recognized, said Mr. Pearson, that most Canadians would prefer it if they could ignore the necessity of security and do away with the procedures and precautions it imposed upon the administration.

It was the responsibility of the Government to ensure that every reasonable precaution was taken to protect the security of the nation in all its aspects.

First there was the physical safety of the secret, classified information. This the Government must provide by devising effective regulations for its proper handling and storage. However, physical security in itself was of little use without the added assurance that the people handling the material in question are people in whom the Government could have full confidence.

It is in the area of personnel security that most of the Government's difficulties lay. If Canada's security policies ignored, or did not take sufficiently into account, the basic rights of the individual, they could operate not to defend but to destroy the liberties which are the Government's first concern. The reconciliation of these competing responsibilities and these competing obligations was not easy. The Prime Minister warned that there is no solution that does not entail some risks both to security and to individual rights.

But the Government has now wrestled with the problem and come up with a new procedure. In future where members of the armed forces or Federal employees are branded as security risks they will be told of the accusations against them. They will be given a chance to tell their side of the story to a secret board of review.

This should do away with miscarriages of justice such as occurred in the case of Gordon Knott. He is

The people of Strome, Killam and districts were shocked and saddened last week when news of Dr. Carmichael's sudden death was circulated. He passed away from a heart attack in his car as he was starting on a professional trip to Daysland.

The Killam High School Union held its election of officers on the 23rd of October. President is Lorna Norenne; Vice, Marie Stebner; Secretary, Audrey MacEwan; Boris', Frances Van Hees; Editor, Joan Osenberg; Sports, Bill Morgan; Advisor, Mr. Larson.

A freak accident occured last Tuesday when the car owned by Mr. J. Hertle lost both front wheels on the way to town. The car which went into the ditch, came to a halt in a large snow drift. Fortunately none were hurt. Other passengers were Misses Lucy Dilai and Eileen Oliver.

We wish to congratulate Miss Gertrude Stewart who was one of the Victory Trio who took second place in the Amateur Programme over CJCA on Monday night.

Evelyn Arntzen Wed at Bethania Lutheran

SEDGEWICK — On Saturday the 12th of October at 3.00 p.m. in Bethania Lutheran Church, Sedgewick, was the scene of a lovely autumn wedding when Rev. Magee united in marriage Evelyn Marie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvik Arntzen of Sedgewick, and Donne Henry, only son of Mr. Henry Bradley of Derwache, B. C., in a double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with beautiful autumn flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of nylon over taffeta skirt and bodice of lace and sequins, with lily-point sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a crown of sequins, and she carried a bouquet of roses and fern. Her only jewellery was pearl earrings, gift of the groom. Her gift to the groom was black diamond cuff links and tie tack.

Attending the bride as Maid of Honor was Miss Diane Noelstrom of Edmonton. Acting as bridesmaids were Twyla Dueck and Elaine Jacobsen. Junior bridesmaids were Glenna Canita and Susan Mostrey, nieces of the groom. They all were identical dresses and hats of red velvet, with white accessories and carried bouquets of white and yellow mums and roses. The groom was attended by Lorne Meiers of Aquadell. Terrance Solberg, brother-in-law of the groom Austin Arntzen, brother of bride, were ushers. Mr Stanley Sorenson sang, "O Perfect Love" as the young couple knelt at the altar, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Rolf Jacobsen was the organist.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Arntzen chose a two-piece dress of brown and silver brocade with pink accessories, and pink roses corsage.

A reception for 85 guests was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake beautifully made and decorated by Mrs. Richard Lowther.

Rolf Jacobsen was M. C. and also proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Telegrams were read from Norway, New Westminster, Prince Rupert & Lloydminster. During the reception Mrs. Magee sang "When Song Is Sweet" and Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Jacobsen sang "Each Step I Take." Miss Mary Ann Djos was in charge of the guest book. Open house was held at the bride's home that evening.

The happy couple left later for a wedding trip to Southern Alberta & Montana, the bride wearing a two-piece double-knit dress and corsage of yellow mums. Upon their return they will reside in Lloydminster.

Out-of-town guests were from Edmonton, Clyde, Viking, Hay Lakes, Camrose, Aspendell, Calderbank, Derwache, Gouldtown and Chaplin B. C.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Recently, I have attended two funerals. This is about two more than my usual 10-year quota.

I don't know why I have avoided funerals all my life. It hasn't been a conscious thing, but more a matter of inertia. And it always seemed foolish, making a fuss over the clay when the spirit had fled.

Well, I've changed my mind. I didn't know what I was missing. There is something intensely satisfying in the human drama involved in a funeral service, and I hereby promise all my friends that I will attend their funerals, if humanly possible, from it on. If I don't beat them to the punch.

Both of these services I was to were for people I admired and respected, but there the similarity ended. One was for an elderly lady, a simple Lutheran service in a small church. The other was for a cosmopolitanly young man, an elaborate Roman Catholic service in a large church. Each had its dignity and, at times, beauty.

Incidentally, I learned something at both. The Lutherans sing sitting down and pray standing up. And there isn't much of my high school Latin left, so that I welcome the news from Rome that R.C. services will be conducted in the native tongue.

But there's a lot more to a funeral than the church service. There is the slow filling up of the church with everyone taking a crafty look around to see who thought a visit to the funeral home would be enough.

There is the mysterious organ music that puts you in the right mood. There is the quickening of tempo as the minister or priest rustles in. There is the outward, touching pretension of relatives of the "deceased," some weeping, some white-faced with strain, some confused with the unaccustomed attention.

And then there is the entrance of

BRIAN SWITZER

R.R. 2, WETASKIWIN, ALTA.

Do you remember when you were sixteen? The teens are great years - full of carefree days at school and play.

But being sixteen means something else to Brian. Living on a farm ten miles from Wetaskiwin, he was like any other rural teenager until last year when his mother became ill. Her illness culminated in a serious operation last June in Edmonton.

Taking complete charge of a household is a big job. Helping your father with meals, housekeeping, the outside chores and looking after your sister, brother and farm helper may be fun for a weekend, but for a whole year it's not much fun. Brian has done all this for over a year with cheerfulness, competence and amazing good humour.

Brian has had a busy year at school too! He is enrolled in the matriculation program at Wetaskiwin High School and passed into Grade 12 with a good standing.

And, he hasn't forgotten his extra-curricular activities. He is an active 4-H worker, and has continued with this worthwhile work all year.

We join with the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in congratulating Brian, and other responsible teenagers who contribute so much to family and community life.

This is one of six announcements about the 1962-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledge the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to Mrs. Morley G. Werner of Box 429, Wetaskiwin and to the Editor of the Wetaskiwin Times who nominated Brian for the award.

the coffin, gliding soundlessly on its wheeled frame, surrounded by six good men and true. This is the moment of truth for the spectators, as they realize with a jolt that this is the end of that person, and that this is the end to which we all shall come.

Spirits lift slightly with the bouncy of the chants, and plunge close to the mandlin when we are asked to join in "Abide With Me," and leave apart beyond reason, throats develop lumps as large as golf balls.

When it is all over, I think everyone feels cleansed and uplifted, rather than depressed. There is an imperceptible awakening of life, an eager turning to discussion of the weather, though we retain, for a decent interval, our mournful looks.

Everyone feels like a cup of tea or a good, stiff drink.

There is a lot to be said for giving a fellow human being, who entered the world in a rather strumply fashion, and did the best of which he was capable, the dignity of a decent sendoff.

Personally, I would rather go to a good funeral any day than to a wedding, which often degenerates into giggling and general silliness.

There is a great deal of criticism over the cost of a funeral today, and undertakers are frequently relayed over the coals for catering to the excessive demands and bad taste of some of their clients. I don't think this is quite fair. Undertakers are just that: caterers. If you want the blue plate special, you can get it. And if you want the seven-course delivery, they'll give you that.

I used to be one of those just-put-me-in-a-pine-box and throw - some dirt-over me fellows. But not any longer.

When I go, I want the works. Have open row of weeping friends and relatives. Lots of wreaths. A full choir, "Abide With Me," and everybody breaking down hopelessly about the middle of the second verse.

And a great big reception back at the house afterwards!

One more request. I know it would be difficult to arrange, but I'd like to be buried sitting up, so I could enjoy it all.

ALBERTA'S PESTICIDE POLICY

The Alberta Department of Agriculture does not plan to ban the pesticides dieldrin or aldrin at the present time. Officials say pesticide residues do not appear to present a problem in this province.

The Department has been checking feed samples in the province for pesticide residues since 1961. In addition, a Feed Residue Committee was set up within the Department earlier this year to keep a close watch on the residue situation. The Committee is made up of D. H. McCallum, Dairy Commissioner, A. N. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner and Dr. E. E. Ballantyne, Director of the Veterinary Services Branch. They represent the Department activities most concerned with the pesticide residue problem.

Commenting on the Manitoba move regarding dieldrin and aldrin, a Department of Agriculture official said he interpreted it as a restrictive measure rather than a complete ban. The use of pesticides in Alberta is already restricted. For example they cannot be used on forage, pasture or any feed crops which will be used for milking cows or slaughter animals. Dieldrin is not allowed to be used for grasshopper control on cereals after the crop is in the shot blade. When cereal crops are in this stage of maturity all dieldrin sales at both the Department and Municipal levels are off.

There is also a Pest Control Advisory Committee in Alberta which makes recommendations on the safe use of pesticides. It consists of University personnel, Federal and Provincial Department of Agriculture officials and representatives from the Department of Lands and Forests.

Dieldrin is still the most effective and economical chemical for grasshopper control according to Department of Agriculture officials. Up to now there does not appear to be any reason why grain farmers without cattle should not continue to use it. However, the Department is promoting the use of dimethoate for grasshopper control as it does not present a serious potential residue problem as dieldrin or aldrin.

CATTLE OUTLOOK

From the "Meat Packers Council of Canada"

Lower average prices for slaughter cattle in 1964, are predicted in the Ontario Farm Business Report. Beef prices in the U.S. are expected to be under pressure from increased supplies. With current U.S. prices running well below those of a year ago, it is unlikely that U.S purchases of feeder cattle from Canada will equal those of the past two years.

The larger numbers of beef cattle in Canada, together with fewer exports, will mean Canada's beef supplies will be up sharply in 1964 and more than offset a continued high consumer demand for beef. Thus cattle prices will be likely lower compared to maintain 1963 levels, particularly in the latter half of the year. Feeder cattle prices at the present time would appear to be on the high side relative to beef price prospects.

CONTROLLING EARTHWORMS

Dr. N. D. Holmes, head of the entomology section at the Lethbridge Research Station, gives the following advice on the control of earthworms (including dew worms) in gardens and lawns.

Earthworms may be controlled by several insecticides including lead arsenate. The lead arsenate is mixed with soil or sand and spread evenly on the lawn at the rate of five to ten pounds of insecticide per 1,000 square feet. The lawn is then watered heavily. Follow the precautions in the label on the container as lead arsenate is a poison. Keep children and pets off the area at least until it has dried.

n Lake Cowichan, British Columbia youth who was dismissed from the Royal Canadian Navy as security risk. His case was raised in the House of Commons by the New Democratic Party. When it was investigated, it was discovered that false information received by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police had led to the dismissal of the youth.

Justice Minister Chevrier made a public apology to the youth. The Kmoti security file was ordered destroyed. The Mounted Police had erred.

The New Democratic Party group urged in the Commons that personnel should not be branded as security risks simply because of the beliefs or activities of relatives. But Prime Minister Pearson and Justice Minister Chevrier pointed out that it is a fact of modern day life that Communist agents are known to bring pressure to bear on a person because they have uncovered damning information about a close relative. Those with relatives living in countries behind the Iron Curtain were open to terrible emotional pressures. Threats could be made against the safety or welfare of the relatives if the person under pressure to provide security information did not cooperate.

Espionage as it is practised today is a ruthless, dirty game. Those seeking to learn secret information of the democracies will stop at nothing to gain their ends. Human emotions cannot be expected to be proof against the possible anguish of a loved one. The brutal fact is that such anguish may be imposed by those who are ptiless in getting or trying to get what they want. These are harsh and unpleasant facts said Mr. Pearson. But be cautioned that they did not go away. Just because Canadians would like to pretend that they did not exist.

He was confident that the new procedures the Government was adopting would assist it in making judgements concerning loyalty and reliability in a manner which would protect individual rights as well as national interests. He added that it would be "quite impossible" to make the new regulations retroactive. Reopening one case would "rush" reopening them all.

Hospital Complex Opened

KILLAM — "These Are My Sheep," care for them, was the theme of the address by the Hon. Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Provincial Minister of Health and guest speaker at the official opening of the modern Killam Hospital Complex on Wed., Nov 6th.

An estimated 1800 plus residents of the local area and distant points in Alberta, were taken on conducted tours of the hospitals, said by Provincial authorities to be one of the most modern and complete active treatment hospital units in Alberta, and most certainly in rural areas.

Dr Ross in his remarks stressed that because of the Drive creation that we are, more than physical care is needed, and that this has been amply taken care of in the Complex. He lauded the Unit as a place where active as well as long-term treatment would be offered to the ailing, and stated that it is the Government's intention to provide such facilities as will give the best efforts of the medical profession the best possible opportunity. It is the taxpayers' money that is being used and the government has the responsibility of seeing these funds as wisely as possible The co-operation of the general public will assure the success of such projects as the Complex

Hundreds of people crowded the school auditorium for the afternoon program of addresses of welcome & statistical reports on the project, from the planning stage to the opening of the buildings to the public.

Mayor G Bilker brought greetings from the Village of Killam and paid high tribute to those responsible for the forward move in health facilities in the area of the province.

Rev Mother Julia of London, Ont. who was among those present 33 years ago when the first hospital was opened at Killam, complimented the Board, the Planners and others who were instrumental in completing the project She paid especial tribute to Sister Mary Lourdes, who has been appointed Administrator of the new Complex.

N. A. Hereford club holds annual meeting

SEDGEWICK — Hereford breeders from numerous points in Alberta began to gather early last Monday morning for the annual meeting of the Northern Alberta Hereford Club, which this year was held at Sedgewick on the invitation of the Sedgewick District Board of Trade.

The roar of bowling balls and the shouts of "sweep" echoed through the new Recreational Centre as the members were entertained at bowling and curling from 9.30 a.m. to 11.00 a.m. by the Village of Sedgewick and the Board of Trade. This was followed by a "hospitality hour", and at 12 noon the 130 odd members and their guests adjourned to the Community Hall for the banquet catered to by St. John's W. A.

During the course of the banquet the large crowd was entertained by the antics of a clown, who constantly kept things stirred. Entertainment in the form of a trio and soloist was provided locally.

The luncheon program consisted of greetings brought from the Alberta Dept. of Agriculture by Mr. A. E. Edwards, D.A., Mayor Smith was presented with a Hereford tie by the Club President L. Kallal of Tofield. Mr. Smith welcomed the Club to the Village and presented the presidents' with a "key" to the Village. Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. A. Edwards were presented with corsages, and Mrs. Edwards, in turn, presented a corsage to the Hereford Club secretary, Mrs. Joyce Francis.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mr Fred Miller, Assistant Manager of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, who spoke on the trends in agricultural marketing. Some of the pertinent facts about the Livestock Industry in Northern Alberta, as revealed by Mr. Miller were, that according to the Federal Government Marketing Services and Provincial statistics, Toronto is the largest Canadian Livestock Marketing centre, Edmonton is second, Calgary third, and St. Boniface a close fourth. By 1980, according to Mr. Miller, Edmonton would rival Toronto for first position. In 1962 livestock to the total value of $121 million was marketed through Packing Plants and the Stockyards, representing 1,663,000 head of livestock, in Edmonton alone

Mr. Miller also reported that there are large increases in hog and poultry production in this area. Grain farms are getting larger and small ones smaller, and there are fewer farmers, and while the trend in livestock may be slowed by recent grain sales, he predicted that it would still continue to increase.

ANNUAL MEETING

President Lawrence Kallal took the chair for the annual meeting and a minute of silence was observed in memory of members who had passed away during the past year.

The president reported Club activities of the past year, commencing with last year's annual meeting held at Tofield, where the Herfordette Club was organized. He urged members to attend the Assn. annual meeting in Red Deer on Dec. 9 and 10. A survey of the Edmonton Spring Bull Sale shows that buyers are local to the Club area, and that the Bovaina purchased 190 head last year from the Club area. The membership drive showed a fairly good increase in the membership. In closing he thanked the members for their co-operation, paying special tribute to Mr. Lester Berg, who convened this year's meet.

Secretary Joyce Francis gave her report for the year, including a final picture of the Club.

Other reports included: Club Tour, by Mr. H. Pahl; 4-H Report by Mr. J. Moore; Edmonton Exhibition Cattle Committee Report, Mr. H. Pahl; Alberta Hereford Assn. Report, Mr. J. Duggan; Futurity, F. Adby.

Eight Directors were elected from the floor as follows: L. Kallal, Lessard Berg; Jack Duggan, F. Adby, A. Link, John Moore, Oscar Peterson, and Howard Pahl.

Following a coffee break, Mr. F. Gattey of Consuel, Vice-Pres. of the Western Stock Growers Assn. spoke briefly.

The Directors held an executive meeting following the main convention, to finalize plans for the coming year.

"WELL, DON'T BLAME ME . . ."

District 7 Shows Highest Yield!

The final crop report of the Alberta Wheat Pool for 1963 is highlighted by the disclosure that Alberta's 1963 wheat crop was the largest in history. While this has now become common knowledge to readers of the Community Press, what is not so well known, if known at all locally, is the fact that the largest per acre average for wheat this year in Alberta was reaped throughout Crop District No. 7, which includes all the area served by this paper. The average of 33.7 bushels per acre over the entire Crop District, was the highest in the province. This disclosure by the Wheat Pool, while only mentioning conditions that existed during 1963, does not of course mention anything else pertaining to the area locally and District 7 in particular. The District covers a large area, as anyone interested may discover by a glance at the crop areas map, and it embraces a section of the province which has for a good many years produced its share not of only of grain, but a large and varied number of livestock and poultry. It also includes a portion of the province that has maintained its economic equanimity even though tried over the years by all extremes of weather conditions. That is why I find it difficult indeed to understand why the numerous agricultural, economic and social writers over the years have almost completely ignored this section of Alberta. Perhaps those of our population who do their work well & maintain the status quo fail to merit attention, but those same people are disinclined to "pull off" the sensational just to attract the plaudits of the high. The area served by the Community Press is among the most fertile in Alberta, and great and important strides forward have been made in recent years, in the area of production, not only of farm products but in other essentials as well.

Many daily papers and farm magazines have roving reporters who visit portions of Alberta, describing the district and relating its assets, but in our opinion they are missing out on one of the most stable and productive areas in the province; a section of Alberta that steadily produces its fair quota of wheat, cereal crops, livestock and poultry products. An area that has never experienced a complete crop failure. An area that has never been declared a disaster area. An area that has steadily contributed to the economy of Alberta and of Canada. We invite these roving reporters to pay us a visit, look over our towns and farming areas, and see for themselves what an enterprising and industrious people are doing.

Amazing! We Say What We Mean!

U. S. politicians, government officials, business heads and so on, often complain that Canadians are terribly blunt and plain spoken. May heaven help us become more so. Passage by Parliament of the measure to provide government trusteeship of irresponsibly-led unions should be plain and blunt enough talk for any U. S. citizen to understand.

We suspect that our long record of friendly understanding with the United States is based to a large extent on this Canadian characteristic of speaking plain by and bluntly. It probably confuses Washington no end when it has to deal with Canada. Every other country gives it double-talk and a run-around the mulberry bush. Washington simply cannot bring itself to believe that Canadians mean exactly what they say.

If this plain talking should spread to other countries, the U. S. government would have to train a whole new diplomatic staff—and reduce its numbers by about 75 percent.

At present a U.S. representative meets and talks with the representative of Lower Slobovia. Then he makes a detailed report of what was said. This is handed out to a whole squad that tries to guess just what Lower Slobovia was really thinking —what his words were hiding. This interpretation squad will come up with several different versions.

These will be passed to higher echelons for evaluation. The Central Intelligence Agency will probably have to give an opinion on the matter, a board of economic advisors will have to study it, hundreds of copies will have to be filed under "Top Secret" and eventually some group up in Washington will decide what it. The man from Lower Slobovia really meant when he told a U.S. diplomatic attache in Nigeria: "Ise hot like frying pan. Let's have a drink. You buy or me?"

Recent releases from Washington have indicated that government red tape has been loosened enough so that the poor attache in Nigeria need not wait for a reply from the White House before having that drink with the Lower Slobovians. A number of attaches at distant outposts of the U.S. eagle are said to have died of thirst under such circumstances while Washington pondered their "top priority" communique about having a cold drink. — Ponoka Herald.

HOW TO HAVE SUCCESS AT DOING NOTHING!

The following 10 point are essential for any committee intent on doing nothing about a problem:

1. Profess not to have an answer. This lets you off the hook.

2. Say that we must not move too rapidly. This avoids the necessity of getting started.

3. Say the problem can't be separated from other problems. Therefore it can't be solved until all others are cleared up.

4. Discover there are dangers in any formulation of a conclusion.

5. Appoint several subcommittees.

6. Wait until an expert can be consulted. Where do you find one of these?

7. For every proposal, set up an opposite one and conclude that the middle ground represents the wisest course.

8. State in conclusion that you have all clarified your thinking. This obscures the fact that nothing has been done.

9. Point out that the deepest minds have struggled with the problem. This implies that it does you credit just to have thought of it.

10. Close the meeting by stating it has stimulated discussion, opened new vistas, shown us the way and challenged our inventiveness. — Shelby (Ky.) News.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Unwanted Bequest

OTTAWA — The Gill report, the first and only common sense and comprehensive effort to take a humane unemployment insurance fund off the back of the taxpayer, is an orphaned and unwanted child.

It was conceived under fire of a Diefenbaker regime which promptly left it in the doorstep of the new Liberal Government. Now its new foster parents are finding it no less of an embarrassment and its future is uncertain. During the '30 May and June days of decision it was near the top of the program for the session and had been given prominent mention in the Speech from the Throne.

While low summer unemployment and a consequent excess of contributions over benefit payments gave the fund a seasonal surplus a committee of officials was put to work to draft the legislation.

But in his recent outline to the House of Commons of pre-Christmas business Prime Minister Pearson listed it, in company with the Canada Pension plan and the Canada Development Corporation as measures that could better be handled at the next session.

This means a period of nearly 3 years from the time that a Government decided that something should be done until something is done, if, indeed, anything is done at the end.

It also means more borrowing from the Treasury to keep the fund solvent during the winter months. At the moment it has a balance of about $75 million compared with $110 million at this time last year. While these are treated as loans, they are loans that, quite reasonably, will not be repaid.

Finally, it means another winter of paying seasonal benefits from Dec to May to thousands whose regular benefits have been exhausted. Today these seasonal benefits are paid even to fishermen, who, even after a profitable season, get their $26 cheques each week through the winter.

As a result the fund which in 1956 stood well above the $800 million mark had dropped to below $20 million last spring. Faced with heavy unemployment and the choice of increasing Finance Minister Fleming s deficit by several hundred million or "lending" a fund built up of contributions of employers and workers, the Diefenbaker Government picked the latter.

In July 1961, however a committee was appointed under a Toronto accountant K. C. Gill to investigate the fund and recommend how it could be restored. The committee was ready to report in May of 1962 but at that time Mr. Diefenbaker and his party couldn't have cared less about bankrupt funds. They had a tough election campaign on their hands as well as a dollar crisis. The committee was directed to stall along.

When June ballots dropped Conservative followers in the House of Commons from 208 to 116 there was less reason to hurry. A good summer of employment had given the fund a reprieve and, in spite of frequent needling from the Liberal opposition about delay, the report did not make its appearance until December.

When it did, the reason for delay was obvious. It was a ponderous hoax of political horrors. The committee had not stopped at recommending the end of seasonal benefits and the elimination of fishermen who were to be given a separate fund. It also cut the period for regular benefits in half and, suggested a plan for "extended benefits" to be paid by the taxpayer which would put thousands of present unemployed beneficiaries on special assistance with a "means" test, a dirty word in the dictionary of any politician.

Recommended measures were included to eliminate abuses such as drawing of benefits by married women during pregnancy and by retired persons not looking for jobs. And, to make it all more politically acceptable the committee warned that if any Government tried to sort out the popular recommendations from the unpopular and failed to implement the whole report as a package the state of the unemployment insurance fund would only be worse.

If there was one bright spot in the clouds of defea, that surrounded Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues on April 8th, it was the pleasure, they must have experienced in handing this unwelcome bequest in the young Liberal Government.

Net operating loss of Ottawa's agricultural stabilization board was $12 million in the year ended March 31, 1963, compared to a loss of $22 million for the preceding year.

Quick Canadian Facts

Capital Hill

Justice Minister Chevrier may find it difficult to satisfy the Conservative opposition that he had any legal authority for delaying the arrest of Hal Banks for 10 days after a Montreal court has issued the warrant. But if the procedure proves a little irregular Canadians generally will forgive him. The first thing was to get back to work the men Banks had ordered off the ships to march on Ottawa, their living up the grain movement. Only Banks, at that moment could have done this. The second step was to give the lawyers an opportunity to get their feet under their desks. The Government chose when instead of haste.

Finance Minister Gordon has invited national organizations such as the C.M.A., C.L.C. and the Canadian Tax Foundation to submit briefs next month, or at the latest, January, to help him in his budget making. The move is significant on three counts:

1. It perhaps means some small degree of budget secrecy may be sacrificed in order to feel out reaction in advance.

2. It gives some indication of the timetable for the next budget. Meetings of the budget committee will begin in January making a budget day possible at theend of March, or in April.

3. It would seem to indicate no change in the finance portfolio. Mr Gordan is to be given a chance to recoup his losses and those of the Government as a result of June fiasco.

Western farmers will not be discouraged by Ottawa from sowing another 27 million acres of wheat next year. While in the long run Trade Minister Sharp feels there should be diversion to other crops, prospects of wheat sales between now and 1965 means marketing of all we can grow.

REV. RUSSELL HERIFORD

Paratroop combat veteran of World War 2, has been a full-time evangelist in the Church of the Nazarene since 1953.

At first Mr. Hertford preached from a wheel chair, but he is now able to stand and move freely behind the pulpit by means of his new invention, the "Stand-alone," which he now manufactures and distributes through a sales organization.

PARKS FOR CANADIAN CENTENNIAL

(By Stanley Zaozierchenk)

What does Canada's Centennial mean to you? Is it an occasion for frivolous celebrations? Is it a year of re-dedication, or what?

Varied plans for commemoration of Canada's Centennial are being made with increasing rapidity. Now is the time to critically evaluate, select and put into effect the most fitting ideas.

The Canadian Audubon Society has recently proposed a national park acquisition program for Canada's hundredth anniversary. This is indeed a unique opportunity to demonstrate our gratitude for our heritage and recognition of our debt to the future.

Each year there is a greater demand upon our parks system. How long can our parks hold out? It has been estimated in the United States that by 1985 visits to parks beyond the day-travel range will be 50 times more than it was in 1956. This will mean added pressure on our national parks. In Canada's national parks the average annual rate of increase of attendance is 12 p. c., as opposed to 8 percent in the U. S. A.

Figures show that 96 percent of our present national parks were created over thirty years ago (A very lamentable fact). Now is the time to assess our nation's park area while opportunities for selection still exist.

It is of extreme importance that both land types and location of Canada's parks be kept in their proper perspective. At present 35 percent of the national park acreage is in the west, where only 26 percent of the population resides. Likewise, certain geographic features are not represented in our national parks. Example: there is no true example of the once vast prairie grassland.

The Province of Quebec, the Yukon, and the Northwest Territories as of yet have no national parks.

Evidence of lack of public interest or apathy in park acquisition is evident in the fact that only 4 national parks, representing less than 6 percent of the total acreage, have been set aside in the last 23 years. Surely there is a desperate need for a resurgence of public interest in this regard.

What could be more fitting than a chain of living monuments to our original landscape, to the people who knew it, and to posterity?

MARLENE HERNBERG

BRETON, ALBERTA

Imagine the terror of a twelve year old girl, awakened in the early morning by her mother's muffled cry for help. Imagine the presence of mind it took to see what she could do for her mother - to call the doctor, and make breakfast for the family - and to nurse her mother through the long weeks after she suffered a heart attack.

This is what Marlene Hernberg did!

Now, imagine yourself only twelve - with complete charge of a household - you're cooking, cleaning, washing and ironing. You're looking after your father, brother and blind grandmother - and nursing your mother back to health.

It was three months until Marlene's mother was able to resume any of her household responsibilities. During this time Marlene proved to be a most efficient nurse, housekeeper and cook.

With all this overpowering responsibility you'd think something would be neglected. But Marlene missed only one day of school (the day her mother suffered the heart attack) and maintained her grades just as though nothing were wrong at home.

We join with the editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers in congratulating Marlene Hernberg and her parents on her outstanding performance under adverse conditions. Truly a "Junior Citizen of the Year".

This is one of six announcements about the 1963-63 Junior Citizen Award winners. Calgary Power Ltd. gratefully acknowledges the active participation of Alberta's weekly newspaper editors, whose enthusiasm has done so much to make the Alberta Junior Citizen program possible. For this winner our special thanks go to the Editor of the Thorsby Western Messenger who nominated Marlene for the award.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

There's a new television series on the air that is giving me an inferiority complex about the size of a giant squid. Maybe you haven't seen it but it's called Mr. Novak, and it holds me breathless, and makes me watch for one hour every Sunday night.

It's a sort of Dr. Kildare with classroom and chalk dust and psychology instead of surgery and blood and psychology.

Mr. Novak is a blond, handsome, young, idealistic teacher of English in a high school. That's enough to flatten a balding, homely, middle-aged, realistic teacher of English such as I before the opening commercial.

But it isn't this sort of thing that is eating away my self-confidence. It's the environment of Mr. Novak's life that makes me feel like something the caretaker forgot to sweep out on Friday afternoon.

Every week he gets involved in the dandiest situations, and emerges smelling of violets and looking like Jean of Arc. And every week I get involved in the dandiest situations and emerge, Rarely.

Mr. Novak wanders through the halls of his school in his well-cut gray suit, buttering up the principal and looking dedicated. Mr. Smiley scuttles through the halls of his school, avoiding the principal, and looking harassed.

Every week Mr. Novak tangles fearlessly with some impossible situation and solves it. Every week Mr. Smiley tangles fearfully with eight impossible problems and by the time he's finished, he has 16 impossible problems.

In the last few weeks Mr. Novak has outdone himself. He has squelched an outbreak of racial prejudice. He has caught a colleague cheating and forgiven him. He has encouraged a colleague with an alcoholic wife. He has pulled the principal out of hot water.

In the last few weeks Mr. Smiley has undone himself. He has barely lived through an outbreak of 'flu. He has caught a colleague trying to make off with his rubbers. He has encouraged a colleague with an alcoholic mother. He has got the principal in hot water.

You can see why this program makes me feel pretty insignificant. Mr. Novak leaps joyously from one crisis to another. Mr. Smiley totters desperately from one anti-climax to the next.

Take this week, for example. I'll bet you that right now, that Novak is rehearsing an episode in which he defies the school board on a matter of principle, saves a hairy personal problem for one of his students, and pulls the principal out of a nasty situation.

Right now I'm trying to write my column. My wife is downstairs teaching a piano lesson. My son is across the hall practising the piano. My daughter is in the bathroom, roaring out the lines of her oral composition, to be delivered tomorrow, and wailing to pounce on me and make me help it.

Five moments ago the phone rang. It was a colleague wanting me to tape an interview for the Air Cadets. Tonight I have to go to night school, German, and haven't my homework done. After that I have to go out canvassing for the YMCA.

Tomorrow I have to help my students get the weekly newspaper columns ready, give my son a driving lesson and get rid of the squirrels in the attic. Thursday I have a church board meeting. Friday there's a department meeting, followed by the Friday Afternoon Club meeting, followed by a blast from my wife for attending it.

Friday night, if I can shake off the 'flu by then, I have to go deer hunting for the weekend. In the meantime I have to arrange with MGM for a showing of the film they let, out with O'Keefe Centre for a trip for 160 kids, four buses, to see My Fair Lady. Somewhere in there, I must mark 120 tests and obviously never essays.

Gee, I wish I could just go around Sunday nights, looking dedicated like Mr. Novak, instead of going around all the time looking desicrated, like Mr. Smiley.

St. Andrew's U.C.W.

St. Andrews UCW held their regular meeting on Nov. 7 at 8.00 p.m. in the church basement. Many thanks go out to all who helped make the recent tea a success, realizing about $50.00 clear. Remembrance devotion was prepared by Mrs. Orval Preloit, and given by Mrs. Agnes Wright.

Members will be taking turns at cleaning the church in the absence of a caretaker. A gift of appreciation was extended to Mr. H Hurst who had been caretaker at the church for 40 years, and is now residing in Flagstaff Lodge.

Gifts are being sent along with members of the W. I., to the Mental Health Assn. for the patients there.

A resume of the book "The Rim of Asia" was given by Mrs. Lewis.

Next meeting will be the annual, and will be held at the usual time & place.

Albert Elmquist Retires from the C.P.R.

HARDISTY An enjoyable get-together was held at the home of Albert and Myrtle Elmquist on November 8th, to celebrate his retirement from the C. P. R. after forty years of service.

His career as a railroader began in France during World War I when he joined the 4th C.R.T. with the Canadian Army. In 1923 he joined the C. P. R. in Hardisty, when he worked from engine wiper to fireman until the 1940's when he was promoted to engineer. He was due to retire this November, but due to illness and supervision was not able to make his last trips, so there was no "meeting the train" on the anticipated last run. Instead, his many former railfellow employees, their wives and relatives gathered at his home where a buffet lunch and a variety of refreshments was served. Maurice Madden was in charge of a guest book which was signed by forty plus.

Presented to Mr. Elmquist was an inscribed wallet which contained a gift of money, and Mrs. Elmquist was presented with a beautiful silver rose bowl from the Brotherhood of L. E. Another gift of money was received from fellow employees. On this list of well wishers were many names of former associates who now reside elsewhere. Relatives also presented him with a variety of other gifts which included a mixed hors quet, chocolates, gifts of money, the guest book and a railroad lamp that will help him remember the old railroading days.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from Agent R. Semple and staff of Hardisty, and the train dispatchers E. Legg, C. Dye, J. Lee, M. O'Brien, D. Stewart, P. Schwartz & J. Cranston of Sutherland and Saskatoon. A congratulatory letter was received from Supt. T. H. Alexander, Saskatoon, who said in part, "I would like to congratulate you on the good record, and again wish you a speedy recovery to good health".

Mr. Elmquist plans to live in Hardisty and devote his time to his hobbies, and visiting friends and family

APPLYING FERTILIZERS IN THE FALL?

The fall is a very good time to fertilize stubble, hay and pasture fields. Fertilizers can be broadcast even when a few inches of snow are on the ground.

A. W. Goettel, Asst. Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control, recommends fall fertilizing for several reasons. Fertilizers applied in the fall have the benefit of moisture from winter snow. There is little danger of phosphoul loss by run-off or leaching except perhaps on steep sloping land which is sandy and low in organic matter.

Another point in favor of all fertilizer applications is that most fields are too wet in the spring to support the necessary equipment. Low areas either have to go unfertilized or the fields are left in a badly rutted condition from the used equipment. The spring brings a rush of chores which have to be done in a very short time. Fertilizing in the fall spreads the workload more evenly between the seasons.

According to Mr. Goettel, hay and pasture land, as well as land covered with heavy straw can be successfully fertilized in the fall by broadcasting a nitrogen or nitrogen-phosphorus fertilizer. Whenever possible heavy straw cover should be worked into the land before the fertilizer is applied.

Between 30 and 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre (equivalent to between 90 and 150 pounds of 33-0-0) is the suggested application rate depending upon the amount of straw cover. The additional nitrogen is required to offset a temporary nitrogen deficiency caused by a large amount of organic matter or straw being incorporated into the soil at the time and to replace that being depleted available nitrogen.

Fertilizer recommendations for hay and pasture land depend upon the soil zone and the forage mixture. Information on this subject can be obtained from D. A's. and from the publication "Fertilizer Recommendations for Alberta" available from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Ag. at Edmonton.

Mr. Goettel says there are seven types of equipment for broadcasting fertilizers. Among these are spreaders of the seed drill type which give an accurate and even application. Old grain drills can be converted but they must be thoroughly cleaned and oiled after they have been used for this purpose. Other broadcasting equipment includes machines which use a cyclone principle. These do a good job provided corn is taken to overlap sufficiently for an even job. It is extremely important to see that all fertilizer equipment is calibrated so correct rates are applied.

OBITUARY

OTTA ARMSTRONG

Otta (Knudsion) Armstrong was born in 1898 at Bode, Iowa. She lived for two years as a young girl in Norway. In 1912 she moved to the Ryley Alberta district where she resided until her marriage to Norman Armstrong in 1921. She lived with her family in the Holden and Sedgewick districts until her death on October 16th, 1963 at the University Hospital in Edmonton.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her loving husband Norman; three daughters, Mrs. Ernie (Olive) Good of Holden, Mrs. James (Gladys) Clarke of Sedgewick, Mrs. Ole (Viola) Clark son of Edmonton; one son, Edward of Edmonton. Also surviving are 4 sisters and 2 brothers.

Mrs. Armstrong was well known and respects in the Sedgewick district where over the past years she won the affection of a large circle of close friends. The large number of floral and memorial tributes were silent testimony of the esteem in which she was held.

The funeral service was held in the Sedgewick United Church on October 19th, with the Rev. Don Lewis officiating. Fee and Sons were in charge of arrangements. Pall bearers were nephews of the deceased. Interment was in Sedgewick Cemetery.

A TIME TO REST. Former British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, following his operation, shuns the turmoil of politics and takes a well-earned rest. He is seen relaxing in a London park with his wife, Lady Dorothy.—

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —
PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!
IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period of time . . . you've got to win their confidence and be convincing.
CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

After the tables were cleared, guests were welcomed for an evening of music and dancing. At the lunch hour, the draw was made for the Auxiliary raffle. The greenhamper was won by Mrs. Ethel Thompson, while the linens went to Mrs. Cibert Br.

The sale of Poppies was exceptionally good this year, with $124.65 being realized on poppies alone. The Poppy Fund, as no doubt all know, is held for relief of any needy or ill Veteran and his family.

Edmonton mayor to be B of T guest

There are some important matters to come before this meeting, and it is hoped there will be a big turn-out.

Tell it not in mournful tones, That our Board of Trade is dead; That they ever lost a bunch of goose With a stuffed shirt at its head. They never do a thing that's right, Their methods are all wrong, Their labors every meeting night Make such a dreary song. Why not come out and join with us, And then if you belong, Instead of making such a fuss You'll help us roll along. Our old home town will boom again, With this you will agree,

If Killam means as much to you As Killam means to me.

A REALITY!

When this picture was snapped the new Lougheed Curling Rink was in the above stage of progress, but at you look at it, visualize the shell with sheeting and shingles in place. Volunteer crews have advanced the structure that much further, and the Lougheed Club will be operating out of this new home this winter. — C. P. Photo

20,000 miles on horseback

HARDISTY — Rev. C. G. Kitney, M.A., B.D., gained the attention of the Junior High School at Hardisty by opening his address with, "I'm the only person in this room who has travelled 20,000 miles on horseback." From this mode of travel during his eleven years in the Peace River area in the 1920's and 1940's, to Trinidad, encompassed two widely divergent ways of life.

In Northern Alberta stretched the wide acres of farmland and forest. In Trinidad, where Rev. Kitney has spent the last 16 years in preaching and teaching, 880,000 people are crowded in an area of 35 by 60 miles.

It is an interesting arena of race contacts which has stood the test of 70 years. When Africans who were imported as slaves, were granted their freedom, they did not choose to labor on the sugar plantations. So they, in turn, imported East Indians to perform this menial task. Whitmen, though in a minority, ruled until the last few years.

Now the majority of the government is of African origin. They are proving capable and even generous. When Queen Elizabeth announced the New Year honor list, Bindasy Grant, grandson of a United Church Missionary received a Knighthood. This was on the recommendation of the Trinidad Cabinet.

Higher education labors under inadequate support. Of the $2,000 students who take the Cambridge University standard of matriculation and qualify, only $200 can be enrolled at an institution of higher learning.

The average wage is $780 compared with $2200 in Saskatchewan.

Rev. Kitney was introduced by the Rev. G. Zwicker, and thanked by Mrs E. Hill, president of the United Church Women, under whose auspices 23 people heard him on the evening of Nov. 14th at St. Paul's United Church in Hardisty.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES TODD
Alexina (Tedd) Livie was born at Lethen Angus, Scotland, on Sept. 1, 1884. She came to Canada in 1910, arriving in Strome on November 4th. In 1911, she married James Todd.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband Jim, three sons, 7 daughters, nine grandchildren, one great grandson; a sister in Scotland and a brother in Montana, U.S.A.

She passed from our midst on November 4th, 1963. Although the end was sudden, it was not unexpected. She passed from this world the way she hoped to, being no burden to anyone. Faithful to the end, she never complained. She was well liked and respected in the community. This was shown by the large crowd that came to pay last respects.

Interment took place in the Rosslawn Memorial Gardens, Camrose, the Rev. K. Morris officiating. Pat and Sons were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Pallbearers were Cliff Robbins, Norman Rowe, Earl MacDougall, Maynard Hill, Douglas Clark and Glen Cair.

CONTEMPLATION!

If concern shows on the features of Sister Mary Lourdes and Mr. Edward F. Fee, it is because they were deeply involved and concerned with the many little details connected with the smooth details of the opening of the Killam Hospital Complex. — C. P. Photo

A Wonderful Climate!

Cold weather! Those two words represent the most undesirable and dreaded aspects of winter in Alberta. Let us think of Alberta weather, first in regards to its disadvantages, or, more correctly speaking, its undesirable features.. in order to make the point we are going to attempt, thoroughly clear, the best method is comparison.. We must think of the bad features of anything in order to get a clear grasp of the good features. We are thinking primarily of cold weather.

For about three months in Alberta we have cold weather, that is weather so cold that we have to exert ourselves in order to keep warm. We require warm clothing and warm domiciles along with exercise in order to ward off the effects of the cold. Now, we have said all that can be said of disadvantage during the Alberta winter. We hear and read of tropical climes, where two or three crops a year are possible; where the cost of clothing is practically nil and where the cost of living is comparatively small, but by comparison of citizenship of the warm countries to those of northern latitudes, we find that in those countries where exertion is unnecessary, other adverse elements enter in to reduce the natural advantages. In Alberta a kind Providence has supplied us with timber, coal, furs and an abundance of food-producing areas, while the cold weather drives away poisonous insects, malaria and other adverse elements.

We are in the last week of November, with little or no snow, and we can remember New Year's Day arriving with not enough snow for sleighing. We have no blizzards in Alberta, to speak of, and inasmuch as the man who does not hustle should not gain, the man who does hustle in Alberta can do so every working day of the year.

Do Your Bit! Do Your Share!

There are certain things in every community that every person should help. Certain public matters such as the provision of schools and public roads are not left to the voluntary emotions of the populace for their support. The question of whether or not there should be a school in the town or community is not even brought up for consideration at meetings — it is simply taken for granted that schools must exist, and that in order to exist, must be maintained, not by voluntary contribution, but by a direct tax levy upon residents and property holders. There is too, in the midst of every locality sufficiently populated, one or more churches, and there is not a single reputable person in a community who would attend a public meeting, and after advancing reasons why the church is not needed in the community, would stand up and vote for the churches to be removed or discontinued.

But while few people would take an active or definite step to close up the church there are yet many people in every community whose passive attitude is almost as effective as their definite and spoken attitude against the church would be. It would seem that if a person would recognize that the church is a good thing, and that it costs money and energy and time to maintain it, that it would only be the part of consistency to contribute some element of support and encouragement to it. Every good citizen in the community should help some church in every way possible. If unwilling to attend church and lend encouragement in that way, they should come forward with financial support, and do it with a spirit of duty, not charity. Some people stay away from the church in order to avoid being asked for any assistance. The non-church attender should do his share toward the support of a church, and do it voluntarily.

Friendship!

Friendship improves happiness and abates misery by doubling our joy and dividing our grief, and a man should always be careful to keep his friendship in constant repair, for friendship is that which stands between a yearning heart and the great outward void that you try in vain to warm and fill. If a man does not make new friends and acquaintances as he passes through life, he will soon find himself alone.

The average man is interested in comparatively few people in his whole life. He is interested in those with whom he comes in daily contact — his family, a few business associates, and a small circle of friends. Outside of this little world those with whom he comes in contact are strangers about whom he cares little, and, possibly about him, they care less. He simply regards them as people with some habits and inhibitions similar to his own, and is willing to let it go at that. He does not realize that the laws of friendship are great, and eternal, of one web with the laws of nature and of morals. Are these assertions to be doubted? Then observe the aloofness of the passenger on the bus, the social gatherings where liquor has not let down the bars of reserve, the faces seen in the daily traffic in cities. It is all too true. And yet a lively and sincere interest in our fellows as we journey the years will give us an education that will broaden us and give us greater tolerance, more compassion and make for a much richer life.

Those whom we contact or see daily as we wend our way. Each and all are human as beings with problems, with backgrounds drab and sordid, or pleasant and admirable, with heartaches, and with personal qualities that, if we did more than merely brush against them in passing, without even speaking, would stir the hearts of those among us who perhaps pride themselves in being hardboiled.

It is a fine thing to have a wide acquaintance, especially with those who know men, understand business, and can give good advice when needed, but the thing that most of us need is "the human touch". Abraham Lincoln had it, and his face showed it. He will live forever just because of it, while so-called aristocrats of his day, in their more narrow orbits, have long since been forgotten. Some say that the world has grown hard and more unfriendly, but the hunger for a kindly word, for a bit of personal interest, still gnaws in the millions of hearts today as never before.

Our gifts for cheerfulness, and friendliness were not bestowed upon us only to be shown in our own homes, but also to be shown outside, to guide and cheer others on their journey through life. By doing this, and living a broader life thereby, we not only get more out of life ourselves but we also give more to humanity. "We can live completely only as we share our lives with others," so look up and observe what is going on around you.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Pitchforked to Prominence

OTTAWA— The man who has moved front and centre on the parliamentary stage is mild mannered and soft spoken Allan MacEachen, Minister of Labour in the Pearson minority Government.

In recent weeks he has undergone a baptism of fire far beyond any concentration of headline making headaches to confront his predecessors in the tough portfolio. Almost overnight he became one of the best known members of the Liberal Government, pitchforked into prominence on the front pages of the nation's newspapers and on the national television screens by the recent longshoremen's strike and the showdown with the Seafarers' International Union.

He delivered the understatement of the year in the House of Commons recently when his estimates were under consideration in replying to questions about the introduction of new labour legislation.

Mr. MacEachen said that he might mention that in the past several months the energies and activities of the Department of Labour had been almost entirely absorbed in problems of Industrial Relations. In fact, the Department of Labour has in recent weeks carried the heaviest burden in this field that is has ever been called upon to assume since the war years.

The Labour Minister under questioning in the Commons promised that a National Labour Code would be introduced by the present Liberal Government, possibly at the next session of Parliament, expected to get underway after the New Year.

"We are working actively on this matter at the present time," he disclosed. "I should like to be able to assure the House, but I am not in a position to do so, that this problem would be dealt with at once."

But he said the question of a National Labour Code was not being neglected. It is under consideration not only by the Labour Department but by the Government as a whole at the present time, the Minister declared.

During the consideration of the labour estimates the Liberal minority Government was called upon to introduce a labour code and thereby carry out the promise it made to the people of Canada. The Liberal Party is on record in this respect as declaring that a new Liberal Government would introduce a national labour code for industries under Federal jurisdiction and work done under Federal Government contracts.

"This would establish a minimum wage, maximum working week, pay for vacations and statutory holidays and national standards for health and safety and other working conditions," it was set out in the Liberal Party's platform before the last two elections.

Stanley Knowles, New Democratic Member of Parliament for Winnipeg North Centre, argued in the House that there should be a National Labour Code set up as soon as possible. He said it should include at least five things:

(1) Legislation respecting minimum wages. (2) Legislation governing maximum hours of work. (3) Legislation on a maximum week work. (4) Vacations with pay. (5) Statutory holidays with pay. These five major points were the minimum elements of a national code Only one is now on the Federal statutes, namely legislation for vacations with pay. It was put on the statutes while the Conservatives were in power, Mr. Knowles pointed out.

The Labor Minister said he shared the M.P.'s enthusiasm — expressed from both sides of the chamber — and interest in a national labour code. He agreed it should cover most of the items enumerated by Mr. Knowles. He said they were also in his mind as the principle ingredients for such a code.

Mr. MacEachen is highly regarded both inside and outside the House. He is now generally conceded to be one of the top ranking members of the Liberal administration.

He is comparatively young, at 42 years of age, but he brings to his difficult job a wealth of training. He is one of three sons of a Cape Breton coal miner. He graduated from St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, Nova Scotia. There he later taught Economics and headed the Department of Social Science after receiving a Master's degree in Political Economy from the University of Toronto. While at St. Francis Xavier he studied Industrial Relations and Economics at the University of Chicago.

The new Labour Minister decided to enter politics when he was completing two years of study for a Doctorate degree at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He returned to his home riding of

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir—

Recently I was asked by a hometown resident if I had taken part in recent demonstrations by U. of A. students and professors at Edmonton's city hall. I was taken aback! Suddenly I realized that these incidents were widely publicized, that the University's public image could be considerably damaged at home by misconceptions about these incidents.

First I should mention that the demonstrators were protesting on moral grounds that Mr. Hawrelak should not be Mayor of Edmonton. They deplore the decision of the majority of Edmonton voters. Through disregarding their own impurities, the demonstrators feel better qualified to judge issues than the average man. Granted they could be, but in a democracy the majority rules, right or wrong.

Though the University of Alberta has unfortunately been dragged into this affair, they can be washed clean of any responsibility for it. The professors involved were acting as private citizens, having absolutely no authority or support from the administration. Only 4 or 5 "fly-out" English professors were involved from among the hundreds that teach at this institution, certainly a minority. Meanwhile 25 students at most protested at city hall. I was among the other 8,000 students who find that for present it is more profitable to engage in studies — a much more worthwhile investment in our future lives than acrimonious city politics.

FENCE POST PRESERVATION:

Be careful if you are buying posts or lumber which have been treated against rot and decay. The quick dip and paint preservative method of treatment are both most unsatisfactory.

J. L. Reid, Extension Engineer with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports he has come across several places in the province where fence posts and lumber, treated by one of the above methods, are being offered for sale.

Here neither the quick dip nor the paint preservative penetrate any of the cracks in the wood. It is left open to the action of fungi. The fungi cause rot and decay to set in.

Mr. Reid recommends commercially pressure treated poles, posts and lumber. This type of treatment offers the most effective and lasting protection against rot and decay.

When fence posts or lumber are treated on the farm, the cured wood should be soaked for at least 8 hours in a solution of pentachloro phenol, copper naphthanate or other oil based preservatives. Eight hours is the minimum time it takes for the solution to penetrate sufficiently.

Detailed information on the pentachlorophenol and other methods of treating fence posts is contained in a pamphlet entitled "Fence Post Preservation". It can be obtained from District Agriculturists or from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture Edmonton.

MUNICIPAL SEED CLEANING PLANTS:

In 1962 Alberta's Municipal Co-operative Seed Cleaning Plants cleaned well over 10 million bushels of seed which represents just under 25% of the farmers in Alberta.

F. S. Goddard, Supervisor of Special Projects with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports that 11,155,220 bushels of grain were cleaned and approximately 10,260,741 bushels of seed were treated. The difference was made up of about 846,000 bushels of malting barley, separations and dockage cleaning

The average number of bushels cleaned per plant rose again for the fourth successive year, says Mr. Goddard, and now stands at 238,840 bushels. Once again Mortsville, with a total of half a million bushels, cleaned more seed than any of the other 47 plants Although the largest plant cleaned the largest volume, slightly more than half their 542,240 bushels was dockage. Mr. Goddard reports that only four plants out of the 48 cleaned less than 150,000 bushels which is considered the minimum for successful financial operation.

Two new plants were built this year, one at Gibbons and the other at Grimson, making a total of 50 plants now in operation. Although the building program is slowing down as the saturation point is being reached, it is quite likely that two more plants will be built again next year

The three local plants did very well in 1963. The Strome Plant cleaned 247,041 bushels, Alliance cleaned 341,228 bushels and Lougheed cleaned 177,686 bushels. The managers and board of these plants encourage the continued patronage of the Seed Cleaning Plants, making use of the cleaning and treating facilities. The earliest possible booking to clean your seed is encouraged to make use of the lower rates up till January 31st, 1964 and avoid the rush in April and May.

James - Olsen Vows at Bethania Church

SEDGEWICK — Baskets of beautiful fall flowers graced Bethania Lutheran Church for the wedding of Joan, Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Olsen, and John Clarke, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke James, all of Sedgewick. Pastor C. W. Magee performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of wedding music played by Miss Carol Taylor. For her wedding, Joan chose a gown of white nylon chiffon over satin, featuring appointed neck line, with lace appliques, lily-point sleeves and a bustle bow at the back of the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil misted from a seed pearl and rhinestone tiara. She carried a cluster of red roses centred on a white satin covered Bible, that was her mother's Bible. The groom's gift to the bride was black diamond necklace and earrings.

The bride chose as her attendant her sister Shirley as maid-of-honor, and Mrs. Doris Patten of Buck Lake as bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of blue satin covered with matching crystalline. Their headpieces were of net centered with a blue matching fabric flower & blue ruttens. They carried nosegays of white carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Robert and his uncle, David Muirhead. Guests were ushered by Terry Olsen, brother of the bride, and Gordon Muirhead, cousin of the groom.

As the young couple knelt at the altar, Mrs. Audrey Grevisink sang, "Hold Thou My Hand". During the signing of the register Mrs. Barry Gascoyne sang, "When He Gave Me You".

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Olsen chose a wool crepe sheath in cranberry shade with white accessories and yellow roses encorage. Mrs. James, mother of the groom, was attired in a jewel green wool sheath with brown accessories. Her corsage was also yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Prince of Peace Chapel. The bride's table was laid with a hand crocheted table cloth, made by the bride's god-mother Mr. Lind Olsen of Camrose. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake and by the bride's mother and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Sedgewick.

Master of Ceremonies for the occasion was Mr. Einar Brandinger. Mr. Eric Breiland of Wetaskiwin proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

During the reception Mrs. Lloyd Olsen sang "Thou Art My Own," and Mrs. Magee rendered the lovely "Always." Special recognition was given to the bridal couple's four grandmothers, all in attendance, as well as two grandfathers.

Open House was held at the parental home when many friends and relatives called. Miss Marilyn Taylor was in charge of the guest book at the reception and the open house.

For a honeymoon trip to Calgary and Banff, the bride changed to a beige all wool suit and corsage of pink carnations. The happy couple will reside in Red Deer where both are employed.

Out-of-town guests were from Calgary, Edmonton, Camrose, Wetaskiwin, New Norway, Buck Lake, Strathmore and Red Deer.

MACDUFF

Inverness-Richmond and ran as a Liberal. He won, But in 1958 in the Tory sweep he lost by 16 votes. He stayed on in Ottawa as Special Assistant to the then Opposition Leader, Mr. Pearson. He studied parliamentary rules and procedures and helped write some of Mr. Pearson's speeches. In 1962 he ran again and was re-elected.

Mr. Pearson during the difficult job of selecting a Cabinet decided after some consideration to put Mr. MacEachen into the tricky labour slot. Recently in the House Mr. MacEachen spelled out what he considered to be his responsibilities.

He said that the Labour Minister had the responsibility of reporting to the Commons on the level, character and source of unemployment. He also had a primary responsibility, working with other groups, for the development, adaptation and efficient utilization of manpower resources and effective measures of this kind can contribute to the promotion of employment and to the prevention or reduction of unemployment.

In addition he said the Minister and his department can help contribute to this reduction or prevention by encouraging short run measures to create employment opportunities. These clearly were responsibilities falling on the labour department.

However, primary responsibility to promote long term economic growths rested with the Government as a whole. Several major Government measures to help stimulate the economic growth of the country have been already discussed in the Commons.

This then is the man, who has who has taken on the powerful Hal Banks and his C.S.U. His political career could well depend upon the outcome of that desperate struggle, as indeed might the future of the present Liberal minority Government.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

SUGAR and SPICE

I think you'll agree that we all have problems. If you don't you're either dead or rich, and in either case have no business reading this column.

Wouldn't it be grand if we voters could solve our problems as easily as the government does?

When an ordinary person has a problem—too many bills, Mother hitting the bottle, children getting lippy, storm windows not on yet—he has to do something about it, either positively or negatively.

That is, he finds a solution to the problem or he doesn't. He stops paying his bills, tries to get Mom off the bottle and eats the bingo games, gives the kids a belt on the ear, and talks his neighbor into helping him put on the storms.

Or, if he's another type, he pulls his hand into his shoulders and hopes. He hopes that he'll win a sweepstake, that Mother will join AA, that the kids will stop bullying him, and that it'll be a mild winter.

Either way, he has to make a decision whether to act or hope. Not so the government. Municipal, provincial or federal, it has a much nearer way out of dilemmas. It appoints a body to look into the matter. And in this case, body and corpse are often synonymous.

Ask a municipal council for new street lights, adequate sewage disposal, or patches for the potholes. It listens politely, and promises to "refer the matter to the proper committee". Six months later, when your fine fire of indignation has flashed out, the council announces that the request would cost too much.

Ask a provincial government for more bonne outlets, for bigger highways and smaller schools, and it immediately appoints a commission. After studying the matter for two years, the commission announces that, having weighed all the factors, it has decided that the best solution is an increase in the sales tax.

Ask a federal government to do something about unemployment, segregation or culture and it appoints a Royal Commission. It sounds more imposing than the town council's "committee," but serves the same function.

After four years of intensive study by the top men in the land, the commission states, in a 784-page brief, that unemployment is bad, or that segregation is silly, or that culture is good.

You think I'm exaggerating? Tell me, then, why the Government has appointed the Bilingualism Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism. Because it didn't know what to do about all the fuss the people of Quebec have been making? Your right.

I wish the commission nothing but the best. But I am certain that its public hearings will do more to increase French-English irritation than I can. And I am equally certain that its findings will be no stimulating as a tapioca pudding.

After all, everyone agrees that Canada has no culture at all. And here we have a commission to investigate two cultures!

And anyone in his right mind knows this country is not bilingual despite all the night school classes filled with people really "taking" conversational French. But never mind, we have a commission to look into the matter, so all is in safe hands.

However, all this is none of my business. I'd love to be bilingual and bicultural, but I just neither, have and I daresay you also neither, neither.

All I wanted to say here was that I find this commission idea fascinating. It's the solution to every problem that promises to be awkward.

Jack, next time your wife says she simply must have new drapes to match the new rug that she has to buy to match the new chesterfield, just cool her off with, "I've appointed a commission to look into it."

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Zazelenchuk)

Traditionally, hunters and fishermen have been regarded as the only groups of importance using wildlife. As a result the term wildlife has become severely restricted in its meaning. In the minds of many it has become synonymous with "game."

It is indeed lamentable to restrict the term "wildlife" to creatures so consider edible or to creatures that affect us directly or indirectly, financially. The "Resources For Tomorrow" Conference in 1961, suggested the following definition of wildlife: "Wildlife consists of all species of mammals, birds, reptiles, amphibians and fish, and the concept can also include invertebrates, and floral aspects of the environment". Here is a realistic definition of wildlife, and one that calls for a second look at who uses wildlife.

Today in North America, as never before, vast numbers of people are seeking the outdoors. Why? Is it the increasing affluence of society, or is there an intrinsic value? Trends from rural to urban living are constantly increasing, the result being a greater surge to rural landscape for recreation. With shorter workweeks and longer wages, the influx to the outdoors is bound to increase manyfold.

What have these outdoor enthusiasts found? In natural sciences they have found photography, rock hound ing, bird watching, fishing, insect collecting, hunting, and a host of other activities that require and encourage skill and knowledge. From these skills and knowledge can come real satisfaction.

While general interest in wildlife is impressive, the specialized users are even more impressive. One of the largest and best known of the specialized groups are the bird watchers or "birders". Bird watchers have among their midst professional ornithologists, amateurs and others known simply as "Naturers". These people are completely enthused over the variety and beauty of birds, the excitement of a rare bird, the satisfaction of learning how a certain species fits into the scheme of things.

Included among the birdwatchers are people of all walks of life, from a member of Parliament to a Hollywood star. They are an active lot, inspired with a happy kind of madness. They rise early in the morning, and spend many hours tramping through fields and woods or wading marshes.

The number of birdwatchers is constantly increasing in North America. One estimate puts the number at ten million. Possibly this is a bit high if we are talking about people with birds as a hobby, but it is certainly far too small to include all the people with genuine interest in birds.

Undoubtedly birdwatchers are the continent's greatest users of wildlife. While borders are a large and rapidly growing group, they certainly are not alone. Birds are not the only living things to inspire people to activity.

This continued stampede to the outdoors will have many ramifications.

Request approval to borrow $200 thousand -- by-law 11

Bank of Montreal Issues Annual Statement

SEDGEWICK — New high levels are reported in nearly every phase of its operations here, throughout Canada and in six countries abroad are reported by the Bank of Montreal in its 146th annual statement. The figures were provided by Clyde Clark, manager of the Sedgewick Branch.

Commenting on the statement for the year ended October 31st, he said It of M assets rose by more than $200 million to a record $6,375 million. At the same time, loans of all kinds, to individuals, businesses and municipalities totalled $2,419 million.

Total deposits at $5,261 million, included Canadians' personal savings of some $1,937 million, which showed an increase of $103 million in the year.

Record Earnings

Earnings of more than $60 million at home and abroad, also reached a new peak at $16,747,025, the managing reported. The figure is $733,516 more than in 1962. Provision for taxes is $18,204,530.

The bank's more than 22,500 shareholders are receiving dividends of $2.18 per share, or a total of $18,001,250.

The manager said that "quick" assets amounted to $1,906 million, representing 48.4 percent of the bank's liabilities to the public, against 47.8 percent last year. This reflects the bank's traditionally strong liquid position, he added.

The volume of bank premises is shown at $69,091,403, compared with $64,378,133 in 1962 as indication of the bank's continuing programme of branch modernization and extension in this province and elsewhere.

As late fall and early winter make their annual debut, nature combines with the elements to gown the native foliage in cloaks of silvery white frost. Such scenes as this were typical last week just before the first heavy snowfall of the season.

Masonic lodges 50th anniversaries

SEDGEWICK — Harmony Lodge of Sedgewick, Burning Bush Lougheed and Excelsior Lodge, Daysland, A.F. and A.M., joined together on Wednesday, November 20th to celebrate the fiftieth year of their institutions. Members of the three lodges met together in the Sedgewick Lodge Room, along with visiting members from lodges extending from Edmonton to Provost and Calgary to Wainwright.

The evening opened with a banquet attended by some 85 members of the Craft, and catered to by the members of the Order of the Eastern Star. Distinguished visitors in attendance were, the Grand Master, Sam Hardin of Vegreville; the Deputy Grand Master, Jack Collett, and the Grand Secretary, Ned Rivers of Calgary; the presiding D. D. G. M. of District 8, A. Fraser of Forestburg, and several P.D.D.G.M's. At the conclusion of the banquet the members were addressed by the Grand Master.

Lodge convened at 8.00 p.m., and following introductions and receptions a Service of Thanksgiving was held. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a Fifty-Year Jewel to E. Lash of Harmony Lodge, by the Grand Master. W. J. Haynes, also a member of Harmony and now residing in Edmonton, was unable to have received his 50-year jewel, but was unable to attend due to illness. Another highlight was the presentation of a set of three Gavels to each of the Lodges, by the Grand Secretary, Ned Rivers. The hardwood gavels were hand-made by a member of the Craft in Edmonton, the wood being from a chair which survived the Frank Slide early in the century.

Guest speaker of the evening was Morley Hanson, Past Grand Master, and former Mayor of Wetaskiwin.

All three lodges were instituted early in 1913, and since that time have enjoyed the acceptance of hundreds of candidates. The only surviving Charter Member of the three is W. J. Haynes, of Harmony.

The President Is Dead!

For the fourth time in the history of the United States, a President has been murdered by a fellow citizen. President Kennedy is dead due to man's inhumanity to man and as a consequence countless thousands are in mourning. At this time it is impossible to determine what engendered the heinous crime, and the one who is guilty of the foul act has in turn been cruelly murdered. Indeed the world may never know the motive. Was it political, Racial, Religious? Was it for ideological reasons, or was it purely and simply the act of a simple and perverted mind? Whatever the reasons way be, there will be a need for cool heads to prevail, calm reason to hold fast and diplomatic caution displayed, to hold the line against the impulsive minds of trouble promoters.

While it is understandable to some extent, it is useless parade to talk of human rights, human dignity and freedom for man to choose his way of life, and then when disaster strikes, cry for revenge in a way that destroys the rights of those who are innocent. Suggestions to "burn Dallis to the ground" and threats to form lynch mobs, decide nothing except the admission that man has advanced very little down through the years in the area of spiritual and mental behaviour. Most of the heart-rending affairs that parade before our eyes today are conceived because mankind still fails in his obligations to society. The onus for these conditions lies on the shoulders of all of us, for in our neglect of the minor dignities we have allowed the great wrongs that our thrust upon us. Surely it is true, that the sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children.

The western world has lost an outstanding leader. One it can ill afford to have removed. A man who endeavored to help bring about equality for all men and remove poverty from the human race. His death was untimely and his people mourn. But the world will go on, indeed must go on, and upon other shoulders will be the burden to carry on the work left undone.

Lets Get Back On The Ground!

Splinter parties, those small groups of some off-shoot philosophies, who are not satisfied with the status quo, and are continuously attempting to gain power by heckling in order to implement their pet theories, have an advantage which time-sensoned parties do not possess. They have never gained power, the power they have so long sought, and actually entertain very little hope of ever doing so. And like the jackal they prowl in the shadows, on the outerrim, waiting for their more powerful counterparts to make the initial move, and then they move in to tear apart whatever may be left. Not having the power to make the kill, they content them selves with belaboring almost every move made by others.

Recently Mr. Fisher, M. P., took the Federal Cabinet members one by one and took it upon himself to tear them apart, and in the process set himself up as a supreme judge. Not only was he content to do this, but he and others of his party, along with members of another party, consistently attack the economic system, the financial set-up, and castigate with impunity all attempts at social welfare. All this while accepting their juicy increases in pay without dissent.

Mr. Fisher and his followers are Socialists, and as such adhere to the theory of social welfare in its extreme. They cry for more and more, knowing in their own minds that to follow the theory to its conclusion would make our public debt far more intolerable than it now is.

The country is steadily moving to the point where governments will be doing even our thinking for us, and the saddening thing is that we are becoming content to let them do so. Governments should never do for people what they are capable of doing for themselves, and the sooner we awaken to this fact, the sooner we will return to the stable industrious people we once were; The sooner we will return to self-reliance, a necessary talent if Canada is ever to become the great nation that she should be destined to become. It's time we got our feet back on the ground which we left beneath us when we started reaching for the pie in the sky.

The Defenders!

Law enforcement officers, policemen, rigidly trained and imbued with a deep sense of justice and fair play, are one of the most valuable assets society has today. They work diligently and tirelessly at their job of trying to keep mankind honest with himself and with mankind as a whole. There was a time when officers of the law were accorded the utmost in respect, and were held in awe and sometimes even fear by the public. But today the situation is becoming dangerously close to the opposite. Policemen are looked upon today by a large percentage of people, as a necessary evil, an intruder, as something to be tolerated only, but never respected.

Ever since the devil tempted Adam with the apple, mankind has had the burden of disrespect, evil and wrong doing to bear. Not satisfied with the weight of the burden, he has added to the load a sort of innate hatred for those who compel him to abide by the rules which society has established for its own protection.

Law-breakers, crooks, thieves, peddlers of dope and assisins use whatever devious means they can contrive to outwit the, law, escape detection and get away with whatever misdemeanor their evil and unbalanced minds may conjure to cheat society. Law enforcers, on the other hand are restricted by almost every obstacle that man can place in his way. He has rules which he must follow under pain of reprimand or even dismissal.

For some time now discussions, waxing hot and cold, have divided us on such matters as the use of "taps" for uncovering the nefarious nocturnal activities of suspected crooks; the use of ghost cars to apprehend speeders and other offenders on our highways. People who are opposed to these methods lose track of the fact that crooks know no rules, neither do they apply any of the acts of decency in performing their dastardly deeds. How can any person who is law-abiding deny police the right to employ any legal means to bring in dope peddlers and other criminals who after all are a menace to society.

What would your reaction be if your daughter was fed dope thereby becoming an addict? Would you scream aloud for police protection??

These issues were brought again to our minds last week when the Premier of Alberta, who is also Attorney-General and well acquainted with the situation, tried to put across to the Social Credit Convention, the need for "Taps" on the activities of known crooks, and ghost cars to run down traffic offenders. The convention turned down the idea, for what logical reason I don't know.

If your child was killed by a drunken speedster, would you cry aloud for police protection on our highways?

The trend today seems to be to jump to the defence of the law-breaker, and restrict the activities of the police. What good solid reason can anyone offer for aiding and abetting those who endanger the physical and economic welfare of their fellow men?

Police should be given all the assistance that we can possibly render; should be retarded in no respect, and should be allowed every freedom in performing their various duties, that do not infringe upon the sacred rights of law-abiding citizens.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

A Wolfe In Sheep's Clothing?

OTTAWA— The Right Honorable John George Diefenbaker, former Prime Minister of Canada, has found the material with which he hopes to fashion his return to power.

Ever since his defeat in April, this indomitable politician has been grinding towards some simple, yet powerful issue which would evoke the same response in many Canadians as his "Vision of the North" did in 1958.

This search continued even as those close to him conceded that the Conservative Party had little chance of returning to office under John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker's dream of a renewed mandate may still be illusory. But it is a whole less so now. It could take on the appearance of reality as the Opposition Leader develops his concept of Canadian nationhood, and if the Liberal Government continues to trade away its pride and position in apparent Quebec.

John Diefenbaker's major issue from now on will be to exploit the cleavage in Confederation. In other words, he considers that the Pearson Government's alignment, with increasing Quebec demands on Confederation, has left some high ground unoccupied.

Who is defending the position of the Federal authority? Who is defending the concept of a united Canada from coast to coast? No one, replies John Diefenbaker. Hence, I will! There are dangers in this equation, and Mr. Diefenbaker knows it. It could widen the dangerous split between English - speaking and French - speaking Canada. Against this is the conviction held by Mr. Diefenbaker and many other Canadians that in the so-called dialogue with Quebec, that province is doing most of the talking.

Mr. Diefenbaker intends to stand against the right of Quebec or any province to employ policy for all Canada, or to change unilaterally the terms of Confederation.

In brutal campaign terms, the charge will be that the Pearson Government has sold out to Quebec. If this were mere political opportunism, it would be reprehensible in the extreme. It could raise the race cry to an even higher pitch.

But there is considerable evidence of a growing belief among English-speaking Canadians that the Pearson Government is indeed moving too subsissively towards Quebec, and in the process is leaving its Federal supports undefended.

Mr. Diefenbaker has not yet stated this new issue if nationhood in explicit terms. He hopes to be able to do so without being responsible for impassioned and possibly dangerous reactions in Quebec and elsewhere.

In the coming months, however, and Mr. Diefenbaker has acknowledged this, he will move forward onto this new ground. At the time of the Conservative annual meeting in February, when he will seek a vote of confidence in his leadership, he may have developed the theme to the shape and texture he desires.

Like many political issues, this one of pan-Canadianism has its reverse in a simple and easily comprehended line and place.

Mr. Diefenbaker's first upon stair ment of the issue came in the House of Commons on November 19. The matter before the House concerned Canada's centennial celebrations in 1967. The National Centennial Act was being amended to change, among other things, its title to the Centennial of Confederation Act.

The resolution was in Prime Minister Pearson's name, but Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne introduced it. He explained quite casually that the title was being changed because Quebec Premier Lesage objected to the use of the word "national". It was Mr. Lesage's view that Canada and the Quebec nation had existed long before Confederation and that the 1967 celebrations could scarcely be termed "national".

Mr. Diefenbaker retorted that no one wished to forget the history of Canada's prior to 1867. "But we were not a nation then," he declared "This is a national undertaking," so insisted, speaking of the centennial celebration. "The Premier of Quebec does not like it, but surely we are not going to determine the course for all of Canada on the basis of the objections of the premier of any one province".

This was a small but important incident. The Liberals denial of the word "national" is bound to be an insistent campaign theme with Mr Diefenbaker. It will appeal, no doubt to every red-blooded Canadian bigot. But it will appeal to many other Canadians as well who are come to the end conclusion that the Federal authority is being weakened to an undesirable degree by the present Government.

It is possible, in this day and age, to hold the view that significant changes are essential in Federal-Provincial fiscal relations. The provincial administrations, or most of them, are forward-looking and expansion-minded. Many fields of jurisdiction pre-empted by the Federal Government could be fruitfully returned to the provinces with increased access to tax resources. Means must be found, and offered, to French - speaking Canadians to play an equal role in the development of Canada.

But throughout all this, any Federal Government is duty-bound to

Dear Sir:

As we leave Sedgewick and community for another field of Christian endeavor, it is with a feeling of regret, as we know that we are leaving behind many a dear and valued friend. The six and one half years that we have been among you have been rich with experiences and blessings. It is our prayer that we have accomplished some good in the work that we have tried to do. We have appreciated all the kind co-operation that you have given us. defent the Federal authority, without which any kind of nationhood would be meaningless.

Mr. Pearson's conduct so far, whether right or wrong, has left no opening for Mr. Diefenbaker to step in as the champion of the one-nation concept based on Ottawa. Can Mr. Diefenbaker play this role without arousing perilous hostility in Quebec? Can he revive in Canadians the conviction that he has a new workvalid vision?

Probably not. But he's going to try.

Feeding Stations For Our Bird Friends

What better way one you find to study and appreciate our feathered friends than to invite them to your feeding station? When snow covers the ground and bitter north winds howl, birds will appreciate your thoughtfulness in erecting a feeding station. An artificial food supply will form the center of activity for a large number of birds, which will repay manyfold by devouring hibernating insects, and their eggs, and in consuming large quantities of harmful weed seeds. Should a countersen should all natural food supplies, artificial supplies may save many birds from starving.

The feeding station should be located in a sunny, sheltered location, preferably near shrubbery and evergreens. Locate it several yards from any cover whence an enemy might spring on the feeding birds. At first small quantities of food might be placed at strategic places over a comparatively large area. These so called baits may be removed as soon as birds locate the main feeding station. A constant supply of food must be made available once the birds establish feeding at the station for even a brief interruption will cause the birds to wander.

Most forms the basis of most winter foods for birds, as it furnishes the best producing substances needed. Both insect-eating and seed-eating birds take to it readily, it is cheap, it is easy to handle, and does not deteriorate with time. The meal may be fed by tying lumps of it to tree trunks, placing it in string bags or small wire baskets.

Other foods besides meat may be used. Meat scraps and meaty bones may be used in the same manner as suet. Seeds should be provided for the seed-eating birds. Grain screenings, sweepings from granaries, and other similiar waste materials are useful. A host of other foods might include: grass seeds, weed seeds, buckwheat, sunflower seeds, rolled oats and other coarse cereals; dried bread and cake crumbs; nuts of many varieties. Observation will soon show what foods are preferred and you may adjust your food supply accordingly.

To prevent loss of food by either falling or being thrown to the ground, the feeding station should be covered or the snow packed hard with shovels.

Visit the feeding station periodically, and also after every storm to replenish the supply of food.

If you haven't started your feeding station, do so now, the satisfaction you'll reap from your enterprise will certainly warrent its maintenance.

Quick Canadian Facts

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Attended a fighter pilots' reunion last weekend, and am happy to report there's still a lot of fight left in the old fighter pilots, although I am forced to confess that a good many of us were not as young on Sunday morning as we thought we were Saturday night.

I shuddered deeply when the long-distance call came through, and the familiar voice chortled, "Hullo W'tie. Dutch here."

Each time Dutch calls, which is every two or three years, I whisper gaily to myself, "Oh, dear." I know perfectly well that when or he has in mind will be interesting but exhausting.

We have a peculiar relationship. He taught me to fly Spitfires about 20 years ago in England. Ten years later, he walked into a hotel in a Canadian resort area, grinning broadly, and said, "Hullo, Willie." I had not seen him in the meantime. Next day, I went off with him on the most unusual fishing trip I've ever experienced.

He's an Australian of great charm a certain ruthlessness, a fantastic energy, and an extreme individuality. Add to these a keen mind and a rare flair for the wild caper, in some moods, and you have most of him.

Except that he's a barbaler, and doesn't have to cope with women and children and responsibilities and all that rot, when he comes up with one of his hair-raisers.

The infuriating thing is that he always acts as though one of those ordeals he gets me into is purely mechanical, a issue rather than a man killer. 'Twas so this time:

"Fighter pilots' party in Montreal! Tought it would be good for you. I've booked tickets for tomarrow's flight. Should be a good bash."

I groaned into the receiver in early fashion, as the devil's advocate went on, and my mind whirled through the domestic and economic obstacles between me and the reunion. With half-hearted promise to what I could do, I hung up.

"That was ..." I began lamely, to the Old Battleaxe "Why does' you go?" she queried. "It would be good for you." So help me, I haven't been so shaken since the day I found myself over Holland, at 8,000 feet, with no engine.

"You're kidding!" I finally blurted. "That was Dutch, and he wants me to ..."

"I know. We can't afford it, but you should go. You'd enjoy it." This is like a preacher telling me he sees nothing wrong with sin. My first thought — and I was immediately ashamed of it was that the old lady was having an affair with the milkman or somebody, and wanted to get me out of the way for the week end.

I felt a little more comfortable about the whole thing when she made me promise to take out insurance in that air travel insurance. The kids were unashamedly fascinated

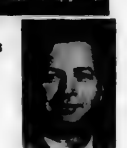
Teen Town Talk

HARDISTY — The Nov. meeting of the Hardisty Teen Town was held in the Catholic Church basement. It was moved that we have a Christmas party with our families invited, in the parish hall on Dec. 16th. D'Arcy Broughton resigned as Junior High Rep, and Liel Landry was elected to replace him. Play practice is now being held on Tuesday nights. Following the business Mrs. Stang, our leader, gave a talk on group co-operation.

At a recent meeting of the Teen Town executive we had a representative from the CHED EXCELS program. It was decided to sponsor a big dance with the EXCELS playing, on Nov. 30 in the Hearth hall.

The winners of the Teen Town whist drive on Nov. 18 were, Mrs. I. Nelson, Mrs R. Watkins, Ron Mastyre and Gordon Rogers. Those four will be the champions at our next whist drive in December.

In the most recent year of record, 1959, manufacturers contributed 54.7 per cent of the total net value of industrial output in Canada; construction ranked second at 19.9%; agriculture third at 18.4%, and the combined output of forestry, fisheries, trapping, mining and electric power was 16%.



How your Savings Dollars went to work in 1963

Clyde Clark, Manager Sedgewick Branch Bank of Montreal

This is my personal report to the customers of my branch on the use the Bank of Montreal made of the money you entrusted to us in 1963.

Nearly one-half of the total deposits of $3,964,675.039 at the Bank's year-end on October 31st, 1963, were the personal savings of our customers. From this total deposit figure—highest in our 146 years of operation—loans totaling $2,469,627,136 were reported.

Much of the money you deposited at the B of M went to assist people in financing the purchase of things that materially improved their way of life—cars, home improvements, household goods of all kinds. A substantial amount was also invested in loans to small and large businesses encouraging them to expand and employ more people.

Your money helped create new industries and new jobs...assisted farmers in improving their farms...built new schools and brought higher education within the reach of students...constructed new roads and supported all kinds of community projects.

Virtually every community throughout Canada was aided directly or indirectly by the money you put into your Bank of Montreal account.

Your savings dollars did a man-sized job for many people in 1963. And, accumulating at interest, they are growing steadily as a sound investment in a better future for you.

For the Bank of Montreal and for myself, may I say "thank you" for your trust and for the assist you are giving us in helping to build a more prosperous Canada.

Safe Driving Week

DECEMBER 1 TO 7

For the 8th consecutive year, Safe-Driving Week in Canada will extend from December 1 to 7 inclusive. The Canadian Highway Safety Council will again sponsor this all-Canadian safety campaign with increased cooperation from provincial and community safety organizations and the media. Endorsed by the Prime Minister, cabinet ministers and federal and provincial government bodies, Safe-Driving Week will stress the problems connected with winter driving and walking, with the accent on the responsibility of the parent for instilling safe habits in children through example and safety education.

A new note will be introduced in the campaign with the distribution, through provincial safety councils, of lapel badges reading "No Thanks, I'm Driving!". The aim is obvious. The drive will also serve to hold into the notion-wide December-long campaign against Holiday Hazards promoted annually by federal, provincial and local law enforcement bodies.

During Safe-Driving Week 1962, 79 people died in traffic across Canada. This was a considerable increase over the same period in 1961, when 54 perished in traffic. However, of the 43 Canadian cities with populations of 40,000 or more, all but 10 completed Safe-Driving Week without a single road death and were cited by the Excellency the Governor General.

The Council is issuing an urgent plea to everyone concerned with reducing fatalities, injuries and accidents on the streets and highways, to give their full and active support to the campaign.

CALF SCOURS AND NUTRITION:

The way you feed your cows now will determine what kind of calves you will have later on. Nutritional deficiencies are more often than not the primary cause of calf scours, according to Dr. H. N. Vance, Assistant Director of Alberta's Veterinary Service Branch.

Although scours are usually infectious and frequently a symton of other diseases, the animal probably picked up the disease because its resistance was lowered by lack of adequate nutrition. A calf can be born with a low resistance to disease or its resistance can decrease after it is born.

It is during the gestation period that many calves first get behind in their nutritional requirements. In fact experience has shown that the last two-thirds of the gestation period is the most critical from the point of view of set-backs. In these cases vitamin requirements must be met after the calf is born or he will not develop normal resistance to scours and other diseases.

Calf scours can be responsible for heavy losses in horned cattle, particularly on dairy farms. This condition is probably caused only to measure in response to deficiencies are most serious in the late winter and early spring. It seems the longer the cows are without green grass the worse the problem becomes.

Vitamin A deficiencies are common in Alberta cattle because of our long winter feeding period. It has been shown that vitamin A deficiencies in brood cows are a very important factor in the development of scours in young calves. Really good hay with lots of colour in a good source of vitamin A. However, a great deal of hay in this province is deficient in this vitamin by late winter due to the long storage period. This means that most cattle rations should be supplemented with vitamin A. About the easiest way of doing this is to add it to the grain.

Dr. Vance says there are no antiserums for calf scours because there is such a variety of organisms causes. Since the calves are usually very young when this condition occurs, vaccines are no help. The calves would not have enough resistance to holdout until the vaccines took effect. The only source of antibodies or immunity the calves have to fight disease and infection is their mother's first milk.

Sanitation is also important. Many cases of scours can be directly attributed to unsanitary pen or feeding equipment. The addition of new animals to the herd is another source of potential infection. For this reason Dr. Vance strongly recommends isolating these animals indoor for several days after they arrive.

ACUTE AND CHRONIC NITRATE POISONING:

What are the causes of nitrate poisoning? Dr. J. G. O'Donoghue, Assistant Director of the Field Division of the Alberta Veterinary Services Branch, says nitrate poisoning is a type of toxicity that develops when animals, particularly cattle, have eaten a large amount of feed containing nitrates or have drunk nitrate contaminated water.

The chemical is absorbed by the animal and goes into the blood stream destroying its oxygen carrying ability. So you can say that an animal suffering from nitrate poisoning is actually suffering from suffocation.

Under what conditions is acute nitrate poisoning likely to occur? Acute poisoning is most likely to occur in cattle eating oat hay or pot cereal containing nitrates. The oats are capable of concentrating by large amounts of nitrates if they are grown on soil which is rich in this element. The same thing can occur in certain weeds. Water wells are another source of nitrate poisoning. Surface wells in barnyards where drainage from manure can seep in are particularly dangerous to both humans and animals.

The type of situation where you find acute nitrate poisoning is where cattle are eating at the butt of an oat straw stack. Those animals can become sick and die within hours or even minutes if action is not taken. Usually they were alright the night before but two or three are dead in the morning with the rest staggering around with very laboured breathing. An animal suffering from nitrate poisoning usually has very dilated pupils and the visible membranes turn a dark blue. Dr. O'Donoghue advises removing feed and water from animals suspected of having nitrite poisoning and calling a veterinarian immediately.

Chronic nitrate poisoning is a condition whereby the nitrate concentration has not been sufficient to seriously interfere with the normal functions of the blood. Animals on a ration of good quality hay with adequate protein will be able to withstand feed that contains nitrates in quantities that are considered toxic without any real effect. The same amount of nitrates being fed to animals on subsistence rations would probably give rise to serious ill effects. Consequently good quality feed with a high protein content seems to be the best way of combatting chronic nitrate poisoning.

Livestock men who are worried about the nitrate content of their feed can submit samples to the Feed and Soil Testing Laboratory at the University of Alberta in Edmonton. Forms are available from district agriculturists. Water can be sent to the Veterinary Laboratory for testing. The appropriate tissues from dead animals can also be sent to the Veterinary Laboratory, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

SUGAR AND SPICE

by the idea. "You mean, if you crash, we'll be rich?" Hugh wanted to know.

Well, it was a good bash, and I did enjoy it. Most of it was a bit chaotic, with names and speakers mixed up in a series of delight as old friends spotted each other. But a few signatures stand out in my mind.

There was the old fighter pilot whose thirsty wife had packed a lunch to be shared by the paper boy as to a life-raft through the lunch reunion and the afternoon reception, and I've never seen anything finer than the sheer, rather courageous with which he doggedly attacked the thing at 4.30 in the afternoon.

There was the real, live Spitfire. Chaps had assembled it at the Lake-shore and had flown it down for the occasion. He put on a show in what is probably the last flying Spitfire in the world, and the eyes of the old boys, majority of whom had been a-top one, were wet with nostalgia and home as they watched the little lady go through her paces.

There was the astonishing exhibition of hair-fine precision flying and cold nerve of Canada's famous Golden Hawks. With the old pros looking on the boys really put on a show that made most of us glad we'd been born 20 years before there Jets.

Having strayed from the main group, as I so often do, I watched the air show with a little French kid, shrilly excited, who spoke and stood beside me. He spoke no English, I only a little French, but we had rapport. He said "WOW!" together every time the jets seemed certain to collide. He shook hands gravely when he had to leave "pour le repper."

My only regret is that the fighter pilots don't meet every year, instead of two or three. But, as one of them explained to me, if there was an annual bash like that one, in a very few years there wouldn't be any fighter pilots left. They couldn't stand the pace.

1908 — FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR — 1963 SEDGEWICK, Alberta. THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5TH, 1963 Volume 54 — Number 33

Fred Sagan New B of T President

KILLAM — Mr. Fred Sagan, proprietor of the Killam Sports Hotel, was elected president of the Killam and District Board of Trade, at the annual meeting held November 27th. Mr. Sagan succeeds Mr. Dick Kinzer as head of the Board.

The annual meeting was kicked off with a turkey dinner attended by 30 some residents of the town & district and catered to by the Hospital Auxiliary. Following the dinner Deputy Mayor A. Saunders brought greetings from the Village and expressed the appreciation of the Council for the co-operation the Board had always given. Mr. Tony Schoettler thanked the ladies for dinner.

Hawrelak Fails To Show

Mayor Hawrelak of Edmonton who was scheduled to be guest speaker, failed to show up due to an emergency commitment in Calgary, and Mr. Ed Borth very cunningly introduced Mr. Edward F. Fee, who substituted as guest speaker.

Mr. Fee chose to speak on the Hospital Complex setup at Killam, and went back to 1958 who the first Advisory Board was set up with a view to renovating the General Hospital. He traced the various steps, through Hospital Accreditation to the receiving of permission to erect a new building. It was at this point that the government decided on a program of Auxiliary Hospitals, and in 1963 this became a reality with the erection of the Killam Complex. Mr. Fee went on to outline the 4 major fields of the provincial program of Active, Auxiliary, Senior Homes and Nursing Homes, for the complete care of Alberta's citizens. He detailed the functions of each, explaining that the Nursing Home program is not yet in operation.

Business Meeting

The business meeting opened with president Kinzer giving a report on the past year's activities. Speaking on such items as the Arena, Highway 36, Artificial Ice, etc.

The financial statement was reviewed, showing steady progress in debt reduction, and favorable activity in all fields, although the arena receipts were down due to the shortness of the season last winter.

Election of Officers

The new slate of officers is as follows, for the 1963-64 year:

President, Fred Sagan; Vice, Eddie Borth; 2nd Vice, Ray Manning; Sec. Treas., George Pettifer; Directors: Tony Schnettler, Mel Passen, Mick Baker, L. Lagroix and J. Lagasse.

It was decided to invite the public to Board meetings rather than have them just for the executive.

Fully Modern School

For some two years, when plans were first instituted to improve the facilities at Central High, operations were delayed for various reasons, and it was not until this year that the final go-ahead was received from the Department in Edmonton. Construction work started late last spring on the erection of the new portion of the educational centre, and as school activities permitted, renovations to the old high school went ahead. Supply delays and minor changes in construction plans further delayed completion, which was originally planned for early November.

A visit to the schools on December 6th will convince everyone that the new plans is utmost—ner and modern respect, with the capabilities of extending to students courses which are usually only obtainable in much larger centres.

You are invited to attend the official opening and view this new and modern high school.

A gift of 5 mass offerings were received from the CWL. Telegrams from the Queen and F. Manning were received, also a scroll from J. Percy Page, and letters of congratulation for Mr. Cliff Smallwood, Mr. J. Hillman, the Apostolic delegate in Ottawa, rejoicing the Holy Father Pope Paul 6, Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker.

A buffet supper for the immediate family and Rev. Fr. McCarthy was held at the home of the bride & groom. The family presented them with a purse, an electric kettle and many other gifts and bouquets of flowers. An enjoyable evening was spent with the grandchildren, when Mr Kinzer, who is 88 years old, demonstrated his talents of dancing and doing a jig.

The happy couple are most grateful to everyone who helps, made the day such a wonderful one.

Winter Dangerous Fire Period

We are now approaching the extreme fire danger period of the year says Austin Bridges, Provincial Fire Commissioner. Buildings will be closed tightly to keep out winter winds. The building and its contents dry out and become more susceptible to rapid fire spread. It is time for management at all levels to take stock of fire protection defences. High value stocks should be protected by approved automatic sprinklers. Dormitories, hotels, homes for the aged and many other high occupant load buildings need approved automatic fire detection systems. Without them management must be prepared to provide hourly supervision around the clock and particularly during hot days and weekends. If our fire loss record for Alberta is to be improved, November, December, January & February have been in past years high fire loss months. Surely in the face of increased fire danger this need for extra fire alert precautions is evident. Large fires usually have very small beginnings, but through lack of teamwork to combat it the fire ends up with a high toll of property and often loss of human life. It is a good time to examine our teamwork. Could we block the advance of fire in our store, our factory, our institution, or our home? Have we the right type of han fire extinguisher and have our team members been instructed on how to use them? Have we an A-1 condition report on our heating plant? Have we the necessary electrical circuits and proper wiring to prevent electrical fire? There will be special fire danger points in retail and wholesale operations. Are the watchmen partnership instructed in these areas, so what to do in case of fire?

One of the most important preparations in our teamwork planning against fire is to know how to call the fire department. The fire department is the strong reinforcement ready day and night to back up our fire protection teamwork. Post that Fire Dept. Emergency call in clear bold letters because this one act of preparation which only costs a few cents could mean the difference between life and death; being in business or out of business. In a way we are forcing to prevent electrical fire. There will be special fire danger points in retail and wholesale operations. Are the watchmen partnership instructed in these areas, so what to do in case of fire?

A Matter of Interpretation!

Any question which comes up for discussion, whether it be in the field of human relations or any other area, has two sides to it, else it ceases to be a question. Any problem which arises between individuals or groups of individuals must have more than one angle to it or it ceases to be a problem. Likewise any law or regulation set forth by man is subject to the various interpretations which mankind chooses to put on it or which his intellect allows him to place upon it. This situation has presented itself on various occasions concerning our so-called Canadian Bill of Rights. It could well be that when our economic or social welfare is threatened in any way, our interpretation of Human Rights is biased, and we arrange it to suit our situation and our need. A good case in point is the recent Trusteeship imposed upon the seamen's unions operating on the Great Lakes. The Canadian citizens Mr. Hall named the Trusteeship as the most "reprehensible" condition that has ever been placed on trade unionism in the Western Hemesphere — losing track of, or choosing to ignore altogether the fact that need for Trusteeship was founded in the U. S., where the precedent was set some time ago when restrictions were imposed on Hoffa's Union, once their undesirable activities were disclosed, and it was established that their actions infringed on the human rights of others.

But to get back to the idea of individual interpretation!

It can become extremely dangerous because individual need or desire can bias the interpretation and suit it to the need. It may be so far away from the founders' intention that the results of the act itself becomes negligible. Mr. Banks has chosen to take the path that endangers his position and those whom he rules, while completely and intentionally ignoring the fact that some positions he has taken, and dictates that he has laid down infringe on the rights of other human beings, and endanger the economic welfare of the Nation. Mr. Banks ignores the basic rule of democracy that individuals must remain peaceful subjects in a land that affords them protection and must not palliate disloyalty.

An alien who threatens to carry his grievance to the highest authorities in a land where he is a squatter, while he himself has broken the laws of that land, and those in his native country, a proven criminal, makes a comic actor of himself on the stage of life. And when he states that his fight will be subject to the laws of the land, he makes a farce of human dignity. His past actions clearly indicate that his respect for the law is a front only, and in reality, that he places himself and his unions above the laws of the land. His rather childish threat to picket Canadian vessels in U. S. ports may have more serious results than even he anticipates. Citizens of this country will not forever stand by and tolerate such men as Hal Banks, nor interference by other nations in our domestic affairs.

The very laws that afford Hal Banks domicile, and bestows upon an alien the full measure of protection, might well be changed and any technicalities that allow such a man to remain, removed, that he may forthwith be expelled as an undesirable alien.

An Age Of Opportunity!

Sometimes young people today are heard deploring what they are pleased to term the fact that in these times there are not the same opportunities available to amass wealth, or of making a place for themselves in the world, as was the case years ago, and that they must perforce remain the servants and employees of others. These, to me, are mere excuses to cover up their own deficiencies, lack of initiative and energy. The truth is that in no previous era in the world's history were there as many and as promising opportunities for young men and women as are presented to them today. The trouble is that too often, as the youth of today, we want the pleasures and the luxuries of success without being willing to first undergo the sacrifices and self-denials through which success can be won. Youth is impatient of the day of small things, of the slow but gradual building-up process. They demand the impossible — immediate success without effort and arduous labor.

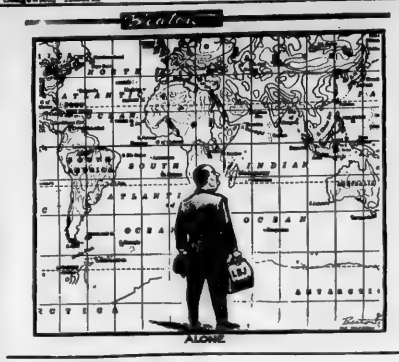
For the earnest, painstaking worker, possessed of initiative and courage, the present is indeed an age of golden opportunity. There are still undeveloped fields of endeavour awaiting ambitious youth, just as great with promise as were the unknown spaces in the years when the Fathers of Confederation dreamed their dream of a Dominion stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific and the pioneers first began to develop the prairies of the west.

WHERE DO YOU LIVE?

How would you like to have to go to the nearest city for a pound of sugar, a yard of cloth, a spool of thread, a cigar? How would you like to make the trip for a prescription when sickness is pressing some one in your family? You'd make quite a fuss wouldn't you? You'd say, and justly so, "that a town in which you can't buy these things is not worth living in". Yet your merchant can only afford to keep these things for you as long as you buy other things from him. It is not doing your town any good to buy the little merchandise there and then chase away to the city, or send to a mail-order house when you want something the local merchant has a chance to make a dollar on. Neither is it doing anything for the community. I am not telling you something you don't already know, I am simply refreshing your memory, and hoping that you will realize that a town worth living in, is also worth trading in. That's all.

RESTRICTING TRADE!

Pressure for a common front of NATO to restrict trade with communist countries has come from the U. S. Secretary of State. He asked for a pledge not to give credit to the communist beyond 5 years; Canada has refused. Canada needs foreign trade, particularly for her agricultural products. If she were to yield to U. S. pressure, there is no compensating advantage. There may be good reasons for refusing to sell strategic materials to the Russians and Chinese, although when sales are analyzed it is difficult to draw a line between strategic and non-strategic goods. Wheat, for example, may be considered non-strategic when it is sold, but if it were stockpiled by the buying country in preparation for war, it would certainly be strategic. Giving credit to communistic countries is a matter of judgement. Cuba is probably a bad risk; China and Russia are still good paying customers for our wheat surplus. — Letter Review.



★ MACDUFF REPORT

Pressures, Politics and Pensions!

OTTAWA — The Liberal Government has bowed to political pressure and announced it will ask Parliament to approve payment of a $10.00 increase in the old age pension in October, to be financed through a boost in taxes.

The taxpayer will be forced to dig deeper into his pockets to fork over the $116 million to meet the costs of raising the universal old age pension fro mits present level of $65 a month up to $75 a month. This is a backdoo by the Liberal minority government from its previous position that it would not raise the pension to $75 without linking it to the Federal contributory Canada Pension plan and providing the increased amount out of contributions paid into the plan by all Canadians.

Meantime a Federal-Provincial conference on the proposed Canada Pension Plan concluded after 2 days of technical discussions. A communique issued at the close said there was general agreement among the participants that a national contributory pension plan is desirable. Federal and Quebec representatives will now work out the inter-relationship of Federal and Quebec plans and Federal and Ontario representatives will meet and recommend how the Ontario legislation on pensions and the Canada Pension Plan can be reconciled.

Prime Minister Pearson announced the decision to change the Government's policy and pay the pension increase out of the treasury, when the conference opened. He attributed the policy change to the fact that Quebec had made it clear it was not going to participate in the Federal plan.

Without contributions to the Federal plan from the people of Quebec it would have meant that the $10 increase in the universal pension would have to be paid out of contributions from all the other people in Canada outside of Quebec. In fairness the $10 increase in the universal pension could not be paid to Quebec pensioners out of contributions made by non-Quebec residents and accordingly the additional $10 also be paid out of the present old age security fund.

The fund is built up through contributions made on the basis of three percent of taxable personal income, three percent of corporation taxes and three percent of the sales tax. The Government made it clear that it was premature to forecast firmly what taxes would be raised. However, it is understood that the sales tax would not be changed as the Government feels it is high enough now, and Finance Minister Walter Gordon is also on record that the Corporation income tax was at its peak and should not be raised. Thus the Government may decide to go for a one percent personal income tax increase.

Government authorities, including the Prime Minister, emphasized that apart from the increase of $10 in the basic pension the Canada Pension Plan relates benefits to contributors. The other financial features of the plan will therefore not be appreciably affected by the absence of both contributions and benefits from Quebec which has said it will operate its own plan.

Meantime the representatives of the provinces attending the conference — B. C. and Manitoba were the only two without ministerial delegates — were given detailed information on the operation of the proposed Federal scheme. It was clear that the pension plan will be a particular boon to those men past middle-age who are not too far away from retirement. However young men who will be making contributions for 40 or more years, at rising rates of contributions, will carry a heavy load.

Under the Federal scheme virtually all workers, aged 18 or over, with "employee" status, will be required to participate. For administrative reasons certain "employee" groups such as agricultural laborers and individual domestic servants, & some classes of casual workers will not be required to participate.

For constitutional reasons, employees of Provincial Governments will not be required to participate, unless agreed to by the provinces. With the main exception of members of the armed forces and persons under 18 years of age, almost all the workers in gainful employment who are not required to participate under the plan may participate on a voluntary basis.

Early in the Federal - Provincial conference Premier Roberts of Ontario gave assurance that his province would co-operate to the fullest extent to make the Ontario pension program conform to the Federal one. It is expected therefore that within a few years the pension picture in Canada will be appreciably altered.

In Quebec a public and universal plan will be in operation accompanied by arrangements to make the Quebec plan and the Federal scheme mutually transferable.

In the rest of Canada a universal contributory plan will be in effect. Practically all employers and all employees will be contributing 2½ percent of such employees earnings to the Federal plan. Private pension in existence will be co-ordinated with the Federal scheme or absorbed. By 1974, after a contributor has been paying into the Federal plan for 10 years, he may retire with a maximum pension of $180 a month, if he has reached the age of 75. This would be augmented by the flat rate pension of $75 per month.

That is the picture that will develop in Canada providing Ontario co-operates with Ottawa in putting into operation the Federal plan. The Federal government brought at the outset of the conference that it had assurances from Premier Roberts that his government would co-operate.

But as the conference progressed, Premier Roberts left it early to resume his provincial electioneering — it became less clear as to what extent Ontario would co-operate. The Health Minister Judy LaMarsh told a press conference at the close of the meetings that she wasn't quite sure where Ontario stood. She explained that she placed one meaning to words but had learned during the conference that others place "different meanings". She added somewhat acidly, "Right now I don't know why, exactly, Premier Roberts came to the conference, although I do perhaps have a pretty good idea".

It appeared that the Ontario election campaign was in full swing and that the pension plan was an important issue. This had had considerable impact on the discussions that took place between the Federal and Provincial governments representatives in the closed doors.

It was obvious at the close of the two-day conference that the future of the Federal Government's proposed contributory pension plan rests in the hands of one man, Ontario's Premier Roberts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor—

As a former resident, but now non resident, who has invested a considerable sum in the future of one of the communities on Highway 13 by establishing a business — and I believe every additional business improves a town or village — I comment as follows:

The average small town citizen would be completely disgusted if he had to drive fifty miles for a loaf of bread, quart of milk, tooth paste, cards for friends and many all or day to day needs. They take the local merchant for granted, and travel far afield to do the bulk of their shopping. If such citizens would explain his or her needs, every effort would be expended to supply the request. The demand is not large enough to carry every item of merchandise, but it can always be obtained, and prices are competitive with larger centres.

Few consider the and effect it would have on the community as a whole if every business place on a main street closed its door from the lack of support. So may I appeal to the citizens as a whole to please support your local merchant, especially with Christmas season approaching. Then in the new year when the business trend is at an ebb it will still be possible to obtain a loaf of bread, quart of milk, cigarettes, tooth paste, cards for friends, and many other day-to-day needs, from the store in the small community. — An Edmontonian Turned Small-Town Merchant.

HISTORY OF THE SEDGEWICK REC CENTRE

Back in the fall of 1959, the Sedgewick Village Council became concerned over the lack of good building lots in the Village. The members were so concerned in fact, that consideration was given to sub-dividing a part of the golf course to open up another full street of choice lots. At this time a few individuals got together, with the result that a Planning Group was set up consisting of Cog Beairsto, Art Edwards and Clyde Clark. This Planning Group waited upon the Village Council, asked for, and received permission and approval to investigate and look into a futuristic planning idea for town development. The ideas that this group came up with were discussed in conjunction with the Village Council, along with suggestions as to what use should be made of the Provincial Recreational Grant. This was again thoroughly discussed with the ratepayers at the annual Village meeting in February, 1960. Proposals from various groups were discussed. Among these proposals was one presented by Mr. Garry Meadus

The story of the Erection of the Recreational Centre is shown here in picture form. At the extreme left is shown a bulldozer making its initial trip to level off the building site. Picture 2 shows work commencing on the basement for the heating equipment, ice machine, etc. Pictures 3 and 4 display the construction work being carried out on the four sheet curling rink. Construction on the new Arena, something new in Sedgewick, is shown progressing nicely in pictures 5 and 6.

A Recreational Committee was set up, and in September of 1960 this committee presented a plan to supply future building lots in the Village, embodying in the plan a Consolidated Recreational area. This was approved by a meeting, and in October the plan was submitted to the Village Council and approved.

During the spring of 1961 the Village purchased a number of acres of land in the North-West of, and adjoining the Village on which was to be erected the buildings necessary for the project, with area enough to lay out four baseball diamonds, football field, tennis courts, racing track and small sports and picnic area, with border area left for tree planting, shrubbery and flower gardens. The entire area was seeded to grass, after being levelled, in preparation for outside activities to commence.

The Curling Club felt the need for a new rink, and was busy laying plans for a four-sheet artificial ice plant, and at a further public meeting, Mr. McKay of the Provincial Town Planning Board outlined methods for proceeding with the project. The meeting voted to proceed at once for a Consolidated Recreational Area where all sports activities of the village, the district and the schools could be carried on in one concentrated area situated in the vicinity of the local schools. Garry's idea seemed to fire the imagination of those present, and it was decided to look further into the idea.

with the construction of the Recreational Complex.

It was in January of 1962 that plans were finalized and agreement entered into with Western Archiribs. Plans being approved, arrangements were made to brief the citizenry prior to calling for a public vote on the issue. In the subsequent vote the ratepayers voted overwhelmingly in favor of the Recreational Centre, and also paving of seven blocks of Village streets.

Application was made to the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation to borrow the necessary funds for the two projects. A delegation visited Edmonton, outlined the plans, and received the loans in less than two weeks. Construction work commenced immediately, and at this date a four-sheet curling rink with artificial ice, heated and insulated is in full daily use; a covered skating and hockey arena has ice and is presently being used. There is a three-lane bowlodrome where nightly there is a waiting list of anxious bowlers. The large, well-lighted waiting room is equipped with a modern kitchen in stainless steel, with counter, and upholstered booths. There are modern bathroom facilities, including showers with hot and cold water, and adequate dressing rooms. The manager of the Centre, Mr. Ken Yates, has a private office from where the activities of the Centre are administered. The entire Complex is well heated and lighted with modern equipment, and the entire area is serviced with a public address system installed by the Kinsmen Club.

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Zaslenchuk)

INTRODUCED ANIMAL SPECIES

Have you ever wondered to what extent our animal species are exotic? How they came to inhabit this new land? and how they fared?

Early colonizers who settled in far reaches of the earth were not satisfied to transplant themselves, but were anxious to take with them some fauna as reminders of their native land. More than 200 species of mammals, several hundred more species of birds, and an unaccountable number of species of plants have been transplanted all over the world.

Not all introductions were intentional. During the early stages of colonization, most exotics were imported unintentionally. Among these are many old World rats and mice which came as stowaways on ships.

The Norway Rat now occurs almost everywhere. This rat not only causes tremendous economic losses to man by devouring agricultural produce, but it has also caused total disappearance of some of our native species.

Although the majority of introductions of animals have failed, those which succeeded have proved detrimental to man's interests.

Possibly the most striking case of a misintroduced species is that of the European Starling, which was first released in Central Park, New York in 1891. Since then this bird has spread over the entire U. S. A., as well as the southern portions of Canada. Although the obnoxious roosting habits of the starlings have probably received the most attention this bird causes serious damage in fruit crops, as well as drive off the more favorable bird species.

An example among fish is that of the European Carp, which was introduced in the 1880's. While in Europe this fish is highly valued as a food, it is hardly eaten in North America. It's widespread presence here causes millions of dollars worth of damage to the vegetation. The list of unfavorable exotics can be extended indefinitely.

Some unfavorable aspects of animal introductions are: Disease importation of which exotic species are the source. Animals, lacking immunity and if exposed may be totally wiped out.

Introduced species may differ greatly in their habits from existing members of a community. This may result in serious changes in the environment.

Genetic or behavioural changes may occur in a species after introduction to a new habitat.

Undesirable hybrids may result from transplanting one form into the existing ranges of another form of the same species.

Lack of natural control measures may lead to population explosions.

Occasionally an exotic species fits better into the altered environment than any one of the native species. In such an event the introduced form will add greatly to the game supply. This is true for two species, namely the European Hare "Jackrabbit", & the Pheasant.

Have we learned from the many mistakes incurred in the past? Let's hope so. Let's learn to appreciate our native fauna more, thereby reducing the urge to bring in exotic species to satisfy our demand for recreation.

NO WAY TO HELP. Vancouver tug Sudbury stands by helplessly, unable to prevent the Canadian barge Island Maple from breaking up and sinking in heavy seas near Cape Flattery. Two weeks earlier, a ship owned by the same company as the Island Maple floundered on almost the same site.—

Tea Well Attended

The tea and bake sale held by the CGIT was well attended in spite of the cold weather. The lovely Afghan made by Mrs G. Scott, was won by Mrs E. Manning of Reetta, while the doll was won by little Sharon Ewen of Hardisty.

Mrs Nels Peterson and children are visiting the Cliff Nockleby home while Nels is working in Camrose.

Several people from Hardisty attended the funeral of the late Mrs Lewis Spencer at Amisk.

Howard Matthews visited with his parents for a short time this week. He attended the Grey Cup game in Vancouver, after which he goes to Fort Nelson where he will be working for the winter.

Mr and Mrs R. Matthews, with sons Bill and Howard spent a few days with relatives at Duhamel and Ohaton.

Mr and Mrs Vince Ranshaw celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Saturday evening when a number of relatives and neighbors surprised them with a party. Good wishes accompanied the lovely gifts presented, and the social evening was greatly enjoyed by all.

A Few Flakes

(By Postie)

Methinks that I had better hammer out a few lines as this may be the last chance I will have before this Christmas.

This week I am straying from my usual line of writing about some matter affecting me one way or another and selecting a topic which I feel concerns each of us. I have been very careful about stating away from church issues, but I would beg your attention for this one home and adhome people of all faiths.

We have just completed a very fine harvest and are now entering the Yuletide season. Both are times of the year when we should take stock of ourselves and our churchmanship or lack of it. We have much to be thankful for and I do wonder how many of us show our thanks in any appreciable way. I know that my churchmanship leaves much to be desired but I at least make an effort, and I wonder how many of us even make an effort; or do we leave it for Joe Blow to do. There are many ways in which we may practise churchmanship, the first being to attend the church of your choice, offering your services to the various groups and committees within the church, and attending meetings when they are called.

The world shaking events of the past week have given us much to think about, and these conditions do not exist in the U. S. only, and I am referring now to the article in last week's Weekend regarding the F. L. Q. And further we do not have to go out of our own community to encounter lawlessness, etc. I have to agree with a group who are concerned about the general lowering of moral standards in the world today. It seems impossible to take a centre of the road stand on any matter, as one will encounter the extreme late both right and left. It would appear that this trend runs parallel to a lack in churchmanship.

It would appear also that the more prosperity hits us the more self-centered we become, and forget about our neighbors and our fellow men. Gone are the days when times being tough, everyone put a shoulder to the wheel and pulled together. In other words it would appear that when times are tough we think and turn to our respective churches and show more interest in our fellow man than when we have those extra coins to jingle in our pockets.

In closing I would point out that this is the time of the year when most churches are making their annual visitations and canvasses, in order that they may plan a budget and work for the coming year. I ask you to think this matter over, and if you are asked to support the church of your choice, be prepared to welcome these workers in their visitation program, and even better still, volunteer for a visitation team.

There was an old saying that goes It is better to give than to receive, and some of us have more reason to read: It is better to receive than to give.

I am afraid that I have not expressed myself as well as I would have liked to, but maybe in the jumble of words you may get the Mail early and then enjoy a Merry Christmas.

IT'S SHARING TIME AGAIN
The Church must minister to society even as Christ did when He walked among men. Jesus was ever reaching out to others with compassionate hands, beckoning the weary and heavy-laden. He healed the afflicted, lifted the fallen, protected the mistreated. He taught followers to care for the wounded stranger on the Jericho road. Whenever there is a broken heart, a twisted spirit or a naked body, the Christian is not a mere spectator, but finds it a challenge, and becomes a participator

At this time of your members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church will be calling on their good friends and neighbors in this annual humanitarian endeavour to assist those in need. 33 1 c

The average profit in the Canadian manufacturing industry in 1962 was 5.1 cents per dollar of sales.

The landed value of the catch of Canada's non fisheries was $154 million in 1962; landed value of the catch of the inland fisheries is about $20 million annually.— Quick Can. F deals with fan ventilation because natural-draft systems are not effective and are difficult to regulate.

The best systems for medium to large units is a small fan and one or more larger ones. The small fan runs continuously and supplies as much air as is needed during the cold weather while the larger fans operate on a thermostat which keeps the inside temperature from fluctuating too much. The amount of air needed depends upon the outside temperature; the colder the outside temperature the less air needed.

Proper ventilation and insulation in livestock buildings can mean the difference between substantial profits and losses. Although adequately insulated buildings are more expensive than some others, the savings in feed alone can quickly pay for the extra cost.

"Ventilation of Dairy, Poultry and Pig Buildings" (Publication 1128) can be obtained from the Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture in Edmonton.

Knox Hi - C Group Debates Biculturalism

MRS. DOUG KINZER, REPORTER
Knox United Church Hi-C Group held their first meeting in the church basement with 24 attending. A debate was held on Biculturalism. The young people decided in Canada for the elderly citizens as last year, on Dec. 23rd. Four delegates attended a Regional Conference in Camrose over the weekend. It was decided they would Bowl as a group for their next meeting. The Hi-C Group assisted by the combined choirs of Strome and Killam, are preparing a Pageant in five Tableaux entitled: "And So They Came To Bethlehem" on Dec. 24th at 8.00 p.m. in Killam United Church, under the direction of Mrs. Morris. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr and Mrs Claude Richard from Edmonton, Mr and Mrs Geoff Busse and family of Camrose spent the week end at the J. Busse home.

Mr and Mrs Hank Vandeman and family of Camrose spent a few days with Mr and Mrs Joe Schmeiler.

Mr. Gordie Engberg was the lucky winner of the hog that was drawn at the bingo in the R. C. parish hall.

Mrs J. P. Kisner entertained last week in honor of Mrs Denham, who was visiting in Killam a few days.

Mr Jim Schmeiler who has been employed with the Hopkin Construction at Lacombe, is home for the winter months.

Mr and Mrs Charlie Manning and Stanley Brodie were in Drayton Valley for a few days.

Mr and Mrs Gilbert Bergerson were in the city for a few days trying to do some shopping.

Mr and Mrs Sid James & family have moved into their new home, the former Nurses' Residence.

Earl Wetsuba, Allen Berzulk, Melvin Nelson, Doug Kisner and Eugene Lafantaisie went big game hunting and got 3 Elk and 1 Moose.

A shower for Mrs. Claude Richard (nee Barbara Busse) will be held in the United Church basement on Fri. Dec. 13th at 8.30 p.m.

Albert Child and Dave Pritchard were also big game hunting and returned with a Moose.

Mr and Mrs Dick Kisner, Pat and Candy were in Edmonton last Friday and brought home a new Ford milk in your cows during the winter months? This condition may be due to unbalanced rations or unknown causes, but in a good many cases it is brought on by severe chilling of the cow's mammary glands.

As a preventative measure against this situation, A. J. Charnetski, Livestock Supervisor, strongly urges pig producers in this province to use artificial heat in their farrowing houses. Cold clammy conditions are extremely hard on both sows and the new born pigs. A temperature of 70 degrees is recommended for farrowing houses.

Mr. Charnetski also suggests putting heat lamps in each pen for baby pigs. Straw bedding is important too. Banks of straw are a very efficient way of preventing drafts from reaching the new born pigs by lying down. The bedding should be changed or added to keep it dry.

As in past winters large numbers of reports have reached Mr. Charnetski's office regarding lack of milk flow and complete absence of milk in newly farrowed sows. Several cases indicated a total loss of offspring. This seems a loss of over a ton of feed consumed by the breed saw that could by with some production.

When suckling pigs seem restless the sow's milk flow should be checked to make sure they are not suffering from lack of food. If the milk flow is not sufficient, they belong it down with a hormone injection. If this treatment is not successful, the owner should immediately get some sow milk replacer from one of the

Sow rations should always be re-

New Church dedicated by Edm. bishop

SEDGEWICK The 15th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John was chosen by The Right Reverend W. Gerald Sherk, D.D., Bishop of Edmonton, in addressing an overflow congregation at the Dedication Service of the new St. John's Anglican Church at Sedgewick on December 8th.

Bishop Sherk laid emphasis on the four main points of the chapter, Life, Love, Happiness and Friendship. The Lord is the Vine and apart from Him we, the branches cannot enjoy life, and cherish in our hearts the Love for Him and for one another, which leads to Happiness within ourselves and the ability to pass on that happiness to others, which binds us in true Friendship one with the other.

It was in February, the Bishop commented, that he received word that the Sedgewick church had been destroyed by fire. He enjoined the congregation to remember that the church was not really destroyed, but only the material edifice, for God is the Builder of all things. He paid tribute to all those who were responsible for the erection of the lovely new House of Worship.

The Bishop and his Chaplain were admitted to the Sanctuary in acknowledgement of three knocks on the door of the church, and upon entering was handed the keys of the building and requested to enter therein and dedicate the church.

The Bishop, with his Pastoral Staff, traced the Sign of the Cross upon the floor, together with the Alpha and Omega, saying, "I claim this place for Christ Crucified, who is the First and the Last and the Lord of all. In the faith of Jesus Christ we dedicate this church of St. John to the Glory of God, and in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

The First Lesson was read by the Rev. Canon G. A. Crawley, Rural Dean of Wainwright, and the Second Lesson by The Venerable G. W. Wilson, Archdeacon of Edmonton. The Apostles' Creed was led by Capt. David Bloom.

Following the service a reception was held in the church hall, at which time greetings were brought by Archdeacon Cole, former Rector at Sedgewick, Archdeacon Wilson, Canon Crawley, Rev. Don Lewis of the United Church, Rev. James Bennett of Lloydminster, Rev. Barrett for St. George's, Killam; E. Butcher for All Saints at Lougheed; Jack Thorp of St. Mark's at Hardisty, Mrs. Gordon for Hughenden, Calvin Beairsto for St. John's and Mayor Smith for the Village of Sedgewick.

During the service Bishop Burch dedicated a Bishop's Chair in memory of Edgar and Bessie Hooper, the beautiful West Window, given by Life Members of the Diocese and St. John's W.A., and a Light Fixture given by Dr. and Mrs. Pervin.

Others seated in the Sanctuary were Capt David Holmes, Lay Reader of Barrhead, Wm. Pooks, Lay Reader of Fawcelhurst, Rev. Donald Lewis of the United Church, and Robt. Wells, Lay Reader of Hardisty. In a service preceding the dedication, the latter was licensed by the Bishop as a Lay Reader.

New Central High School Opening Attracts Crowd

SEDGEWICK — Over 1500 people from various points within the School Division were present on the evening of December 6th, when the new addition to the Central High School and the renovated and modernized old building were officially opened.

Mr. Russell Grant, trustee for the area, presided at the ceremonies and in his opening remarks outlined the building program of the Board during the past year or two, when additions and alterations were carried out at Alliance, Heisler, Dayland and Sedgewick, with a total expenditure of $401,000, financed by $257,000 in debentures and the remainder from general funds. Mr. Grant noted that the Division now gives high school instruction to 642 students, and stressed the importance of education, with equal opportunity for all. He wished teachers and students every success, and hoped the facilities would be satisfactory for the steps of up progress.

The M. C. introduced the members of the Board present, along with the office staff and the Superintendent, Mr. Alfred Rands, Reeve of Flagstaff M. D. was also introduced.

Mr. T. Clemson long-time member of the Board, remarked that it was 20 years ago that the idea of a Central High School at Sedgewick was first conceived, with Strome, Killam, Sedgewick and Lougheed as participating school districts. Mr. Reid was his hope that the new attractive school with the latest facilities would prove conducive to the better education of the students.

Mr. J. C. Hillman, M. L.A. spoke briefly, and said that in 1926 the Alberta Government was spending $ 1 ½ million dollars on education, while today it spends 92 million. Over the past 11 years some 625 million dollars has been allocated to education. Mr. Hillman said that in his opinion it was money well spent, and he wished the school every success.

Mr. Alfred Rands brought greetings from the Flagstaff M. D., and in a humorous vein said he hoped that people would not hold it against the Municipality as the body which must collect the taxes.

Mr. J. Williams of Briden Construction thanked the Board, Architects, Teachers and Students for their co-operation during build-

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening was the Hon. Mr. A. O. Aalborg, the Minister of Education, who was introduced by Mr. M. Bruce, Supt.

Mr. Aalborg congratulated the Board on its decision to remodel the old high school, which had been found structurally sound. He stated that it takes more than a brand new building, well equipped, to make a good school, but it does become so when you have students eager for learning, teachers dedicated to responsibility and parents with a sense of co-operation and understanding. Also necessary is people willing to serve as trustees to manage the educational affairs of the Division. All these things combine to make a good school. Mr. Aalborg emphasized the importance of Centralization for better facilities, better service and better high school education, the latter to equip students for University, Technical or Vocational Schools.

The Minister, on behalf of the Alberta Government, presented to Mr Stuve, Principal, and to the school a picture to be hung in the building.

Mr. Stuve thanked Mr. Aaalborg, for the picture and presentation he brought in having him present. He invited all present to enjoy coffee and lunch, and tour the various rooms of the school.

Mr. Graves, Architect, outlined the preliminary work before construction began, and said that the old high school was structurally sound, and with the improvements made in 1959 should be good for another 30 years. He said the present school is equal to any school in Alberta of equal standard population. In closing Mr. Graves presented the keys to the building to Mr. Grant.

The evening was pleasantly interspersed with chorus selections by students under the direction of Mr. Chipman.

Hon. O. A. Aalborg

Shown here is the new Strome Curling Rink which is now being completed. It is situated in the North-East corner of the Sports Grounds and presents a neat addition to the Village. The Poison of Overspending!

From the day that mortal man first saw the light of day his first rule has been self-preservation. That rule has not only been applied where his life and physical welfare are concerned, but also in other areas of his activities. As life on this old planet extended in years and man developed in his thinking capacity, his scheming mind has contrived all manner of means to broaden the scope of this basic rule, and his fertile mind conceived areas of selfish aggrandisement unheard of a few centuries ago. Truly man has developed almost every aspect of "taking care of himself" sometimes even to the detriment of his fellow men.

This developing idea of looking after our own welfare has burst the bonds of individualism and has become so entangled in collectivism that even governments are strangling their financial purses in an icreasing endeavor to do something for people that they should be doing for themselves. The increasing strain on federal and provincial budgets can result in only one of two things. We will either return to a sensible outlook on so-called give-away welfare programs, or we will have to conclude the necessity of digging into our pockets a lot deeper for the wherewithal to meet the budget. The minute this latter course is adopted man will revert to his ancient character and cry loud and long to "hit the other fellow but leave me alone". Yet we must all surely realize that the deeper we go into such things as welfare, defence and general over-spending in nearly all fields, the more money (or credit) it will take. Deficit financing cannot continue indefinitely, for as sure as night and day, the reckoning will come.

And so it came as a pleasant antedote to the poison of over-spending, the announcement that the federal government is to trim our defence budget to the tune of some $75 to $100 million, by eliminating some services altogether, and streamlining others. The Pearson government will not be popular in some quarters, especially where the move will affect individuals who have been occupying "cushy" jobs in non-essential fields. In fact the howl of protest has already reached Ottawa. It is our hope that the government will remain steadfast and prevail against the assault.

The closing of Nonsuch Navy Station in Edmonton is a good example. It is to be closed, and I daresay no logical argument could be advanced as to why it must not cease to operate. Such activities may well be better carried out in coastal areas. We have no extra money for drydocks.

The steps taken to trim the defence bud get were overdue, and the federal government has at last started a move which should be carried through into other fields. There is room for trimming right in Ottawa. The Civil Service personel could be trimmed by hundreds with a little stream-lining and a bit of imagination. The membership in the House of Commons could be cut. We are over-governed. The Senate could be cut in half and still function ably. The federal government could well get out of those areas of business which could be run by private enterprise more efficiently and economically. A good case as an example is the federal commercial printing plant, which has been proven as wasteful and extravagant.

It is to be hoped that the federal move in the defence field will indeed be carried into other fields, and that the trend will activate provincial governments to "go thou and do likewise".

Breaking The Chains!

Habits of all kinds, good, bad or indifferent, are part of the equipment of all normal human beings. The indifferent ones, such as the routine one follows in dressing, putting on the left or the right shoe first, shaving different areas of the face in the same order every day, may be the most important. The actions become automatic and leave the mind free to pursue a train of thought or, more likely in the early morning, to drift aimlessly. If one thought about each routine action as it was performed, the process of dressing would take one at least twice as long and the final result might be less satisfactory.

The chains of bad habit, most people will agree, must be broken. This only requires will power. The word "only" is invariably used in that sentence by those who have been successful in giving up smoking or drinking or staying up too late. Those who are still in the chains may well believe that the word makes the sentence a deplorable understatement.

There is one aid to acquirement of the necessary will power. If one analyses the habit one wishes to break it will usually be found associated with a good or innocent habit; if the first cigarette of the day is associated with the breakfast cup of coffee, one can omit the coffee and the craving for the cigarette will vanish. The habit of watching those old westerns may be conquered by immersion in a good book. Altering good or indifferent habits may return unexpected rewards. If one is accustomed to going to lunch at one o'clock, for example, one will meet the same persons at the club or restaurant every day. Alter the time to half an hour earlier or later and one will see a whole new set of friends or acquaintances whose lives are bound by a different chain. — The Printed Word.

Black Spade A Red Heart!

There was a day when a spade was called a spade and a jail was called a jail. Not any more. A black spade has become the red bleeding heart and a jail is a correctional institute. Prison bars no longer make a jail. Prisoners are no longer jailbirds, criminals and law-breakers, but are guests of correctional institutes. Are we getting away from the old-fashioned idea that a law-breaker is a law-breaker and as such owes a debt to society? Are we feather-bedding his punishment and making his period of confinement a thing of beauty instead of a thing of shame?

True enough, rehabilitation is a necessity in this day and age when people have to be forceably reminded of the difference between right and wrong. Correctional lessons in human relations are a fine and noble thing, but let's continue to administer them in jails and not in correctional institutions. The trouble with our society today is that the criminal is not made aware of the fact that he has done a misdeed in such a way that it is impressed on his mind enough to govern his future actions. Pmpering of law-breaker, and treating him like a child with his hand in the cookie jar, has not proven itself, and it will not hasten the day when neither jail nor correctional institute is necessary in the life of mankind. A far greater need today is for society to respect the truly repentent and when he is released to accept him as a possible valuable asset to society. Such treatment will do him far more good than verbal spankings and pay chintry.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Pensions Pass A Test!

OTTAWA — The 1963 Federal-Provincial Conference had been built up in advance as the testing time of Confederation. It turned out to be nothing of the sort. It was much the same as any other Federal-Provincial conference with nothing settled and not too much agreement. However with the exception of a lengthy blast from Saskatchewan's CCF Premier, the Hon. W. S. Lloyd who may be fighting an election before this time next year, there was no violent disagreement.

Premier Manning from Alberta, Dean of these functions described it as an opinion on record and Mr. Manning should know. He was in attendance as Industry Minister in 1940 when the late Mitchell Hepburn stalked out and returned to Toronto to launch a lasting feud with Mackenzie King. He was there in 1946 when Mr. Duplessis walked out, declaring that he had better things to do at home and adding a touch of irony by leaving the Quebec Legislature Building address with the secretary "just in case anyone should want to reach me". That conference broke up in angry stalemate adjourning sine die and there was no further meeting until both Mr. King and his Finance Minister, Mr. Ilsley had passed from the Ottawa scene.

But this year the sweetness and light of co-operative - federalism shone over the proceedings. A start was made on setting up permanent consultative machinery between the two levels of government. All provinces agreed to accept their share of a higher allowance under the old age assistance as well as blind and disability pensions. The increase to a $75 a month ceiling will cost the Federal Government $35 million a year.

If anything had a testing time it was the Canada Pension Plan. It was the appropriate moment for Premier Roberts of Ontario to plunge his knife into it. Instead he was sufficiently co-operative to raise Federal hopes that it would survive, though in modified and substantially changed form.

The Federal Government has laid down an eight-point platform upon which it is determined to stand:

1. The Pension Plan must have provision for voluntary participation. Some provinces, notably Saskatchewan, would shave it compulsory for self-employed as well as wage earners.

2. It will apply to the average level of earnings with contributions and benefits escalating with these levels.

3. Combined with the $75 flat pen sion it must provide a modestly adequate income for those who are unable to make other retirement plans.

4. Disturbance of present private plans will be kept to a minimum.

5. It must have a "moderately short" maturity period. The original plan put this at 10 years which could mean virtually no reserves for investment. This is likely to be extended to 15 or 20 years as a concession to Premier Roberts.

6. There must be a pension available at 65. This is one of the costliest features of the present plan, but the Government is determined to retain it.

7. There must be a relationship between pensions and earnings at the time of retirement.

8. It must provide safeguards against the cost of the plan being increased to the detriment of other savings by contributors.

Within these limits the Federal Government is ready to discuss changes with Ontario and Quebec. With Quebec, which is planning its own Provincial pension plan, it will be a matter of dovetailing the two schemes and particularly providing machinery for portability for those moving in or out of the Province.

The problem with Ontario is basically a problem of funding. Premier Roberts has never been just frank enough to admit that his so-called pension plan is two for the economy of the Province and less than one for the pensioner. Unlike Premier Lesage who is building a government pool of investment for Quebec industry, Mr. Roberts' objective is to protect private insurance company funds and other sources of investment for Ontario development.

The national plan with its lower contributions and higher benefits than could be matched by any private contract is a grave threat. To keep the private companies in the picture the Government will have to make its plan less attractive. The simplest means is to extend the period before maximum benefits are available without lessening the contributions or increasing the benefits. This would build up a substantial pool for investment which, with Quebec out of the picture, could be allocated between the other provinces.

Chopper Takes Tower Line Lightly

A helicopter has been in use since the beginning of November to transport and place completely assembled aluminum transmission towers into the bush and muskeg of the Rutsenea country south-east of Edmonton. Adaptation of air-lift technique is new in this part of the world.

This 240 kv. line will link the Big Bend hydro plant to the Calgary Power Ltd. system through the recently completed high voltage line between the Wabamun steam plant and Calgary. The new 70 mile line running from Big Bend to Benalto, is scheduled for completion by mid 1964.

Completely assembled aluminum towers are being used for the first half of the line, combining necessary lightness with structural strength. Heavier conventional steel construction will be used for the second half which is located in the cultivated agricultural area between Rocky Mountain House and Benalto.

Component parts of the aluminum towers were delivered by truck directly from the Alcoa factory at Vancouver to six assembly areas located at strategic points along the transmission line right-of-way. This single carrier delivery was one notable feature of the overall operation.

Notable too, individual structural members were die cut to design specifications at the factory; no drilling and refitting was required in the field. Aluminum Company of Canada was the prime contractor for the job. The aluminum parts comprising each tower were extrusion-formed at their factory in Vancouver.

The 89 foot aluminum towers were airlifted from assembly to placement by a Sikorsky S-58 helicopter supplied by Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. The air operation was ground supported by two picked crews from McGregor Telephone and Power Construction Company, Edmonton. As sub - contractors the company is responsible for assembly, erection and stringing conductor for this section of the line.

As recently as 1963 Calgary Power used a similar technique to erect a wood pole line between Banff and Lake Louise. In this first instance, however, the structures were only partially assembled. Both helicopter construction jobs have provided valuable information and experience as to costs and feasibility for future line construction projects of this nature.

MILK MUST BE KEPT FREE OF RESIDUES!

Did you know that a dairy farmer can be heavily penalized if even trace amounts of an antibiotic or a pesticide are found in the milk or cream he ships to Alberta's Dairy plants? The presence of these chemicals at any level in milk or cream constitutes an adulteration under Federal and Provincial Acts.

Penalties for this offence range from the milk being suspended by the dairy for a short time, to the producer being prosecuted and fined or suspended for a long period of time. In either case a man who finds himself in this position is likely to sustain a great financial loss.

To avoid such situations, Dr. V. W. Kudis, Director of the Alberta Dairy Branch Laboratory, recommends that dairy farmers pay very strict attention to the following:

Milk from animals which have been treated for mastitis or other infections with antibiotics must not be shipped for at least 72 and preferably 96 hours following the last treatment, or for the period indicated on the label of the drug. If an antibiotic is administered by a Vet his advice must always be followed very carefully.

Some pesticides can eventually find their way into milk or cream when they are sprayed on the animals or on the walls of the barn, great care must be taken to use only those sprays which have specifics by recommended for dairy use by public health officials or other reliable authorities.

For the same reason it is very important to see that feed and forage are free from pesticide contamination. Dr. Kudis stresses that dairy farmers should not use manure or sugar refinery wastes for cattle feed unless they are absolutely certain that these products are free from pesticide residues.

DAIRY HERD REPLACEMENTS!

Providing suitable replacement females for the milking herd is an important part of the dairyman's enterprise. Most dairymen should raise rather than purchase their herd replacements. When this is done there is less danger of disease and a definite breeding program can be followed.

Calf raising is expensive and because of the large turnover in the milking herd (18 to 20 percent per year) a large number of the female calves must be raised. Between birth and calving, losses of female calves amount to about 20 percent. Calves chosen for replacements should be healthy, thrifty, and should meet the standards in appearance and be weighing required by the dairyman.

Experiments conducted at the Lethbridge Research Station have indicated that healthy dairy calves can be raised by following these very simple rules:

Have clean, well-ventilated, draft-free accomodation for young calves.

For the first three days allow the calf to suckle the dam or provide colostrum.

Feed 6 to 8 pounds of whole milk a day depending on size and breed.

Feed a calf-starter (cereal grains 45 lbs., bran 15, oilmeal 26, molasses 8, minerals 3) to a maximum of four pounds a day and good quality hay from one week of age until 12 to 14 weeks of age.

Wean from milk when calves are eating 1 to 1 1/2 pounds of starter a day. Usually 4 weeks of Holsteins and 6 to 8 weeks for Jerseys.

From 4 to 12 months of age, feed 4 pounds of a grower ration (cereal grains 60 lbs., bran 16, oilmeal 20, mineral 3) and good quality hay or pasture. If the pasture is of good quality less concentrate can be fed.

From 8 months until calving, good quality pasture or roughage is usually sufficient for normal growth.

Provide water and minerals at all times.

Deburn and calfhood vaccinate at appropriate times.

Breed heifers at from 15 to 17 months of age when they should weigh approximately (Jersey 650, Guernsey 800, Ayrshire 675, Holstein 800).

Herd replacements are the milk cows of the future and should not be neglected but managed to provide good health and growth.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE!

Finance Minister Gordon admits that Mr. Kruschev has pulled Canada out of a nasty hole. We are still dependent on borrowing in the U.S. to close the gap between funds we send out of the country to pay our bills and money we receive. By virtue of the Russian wheat deal that current account deficit is running well under $500 million compared with $862 million last year. But until they know what tax if any they will have to pay on purchase of Russian securities under their interest equalization plan — which may be for some months — American investors are not interested. In July, August and September the influx of U. S. capital had dwindled to a rate of only $100 million a year, less than a quarter of what we will need even with the wheat sale.

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Zaslavchuk)

Bringing Nature To Youth

Have you ever asked yourself "What can I do to help my child enjoy and appreciate nature more? Before you or not interest at identifying plants and animals does not mean you cannot contribute to a child's interest and fascination in nature.

Discovering names of plants and animals is only a small part of nature interpretation for the average person and for children an even smaller part.

Suppose you are out with the children on an outing such as camping or some other outdoor activity. The enjoyment of the occasion would be enhanced considerably if you would help the children enjoy their environment, help them to greater use of their various senses.

Let's take a common tree to illustrate our point. Although tree probably won't interest a child as much as other forms of nature it has its advantages. Trees are not frightened into hiding as are other forms of wildlife, if you need to see some rechecking, you can. You can observe trees through the seasons. All this makes a tree a favorable stepping stone for other forms of nature.

Now suppose you are an expert identifying plants and animals and you want to enrich the children's enjoyment of their environment. You lead the children to a tree and tell them its a Balsam Poplar, then you point to some other tree and tell them it's a Trembling Aspen. Would this be very meaningful to the children?

On the other hand suppose you weren't an expert in identification, you couldn't name any of the trees. You could point out the differences in the bark of each tree, that one is rough and pitted, while the other is relatively smooth. By doing this you would be accomplishing much more than by just mere identification. You would be helping the children to use their eyes, and to realize a tree isn't just a tree.

Help the children observe all the characteristics of any new tree. Depending upon the season, have them feel, smell, and observe its bark, leaves, buds, and fruit.

A dead tree, especially one with insect tunnels or one with a woodpecker hole in it, provides an excellent opportunity to illustrate to the children the interdependence of nature. You might explain that a woodpecker might be living inside, also ants and beetles. By doing this you would be getting across the idea that the dead tree is home for many different types of animals.

Ask the children what will eventually happen to the old tree. Though intelligent guided questions lead the children to see that the tree decays to form soil from which will spring new plants.

Your measure of success in aiding the children to greater enjoyment of their environment will be the response and enthusiasm shown by them.

Today, children need someone to help them use their eyes and ears more effectively to gain more from nature. This is especially true of city children, whose senses are restricted to traffic lights, car horns and the like.

Children will long remember the person who took the time to explain, inform, and guide them to a greater appreciation of nature. What better way to spend your energy?

F.U.A. Newsletter

● In 1957 the FUA suggested to the Provincial Government that the piano bond private livestock and produce dealers were required to carry at that time, under the provincial marketing legislation was too low. More than that amount is required to $10,000, although the FUA had suggested the bond be in proportion to the dealer's yearly business. Last week evidence came to light that even the $10,000 bond is too low. One of the largest livestock buyers in Northern Alberta has applied for a declaration of bankruptcy. According to rumors, the amount outstanding to farmers in MSF cheques now stands at over $200,000. This means that some farmers may face the prospect of receiving only five cents for every dollars' worth of livestock they sold through this particular dealer.

● Railway branch line abandonments are in the spot-light this week in the Prairie Provinces. The Saskatchewan Government called a meeting of people concerned by this issue for Nov. 22nd in Regina. Mr. Ahearn Anderson, FUA executive member, is attending. The FUA is following closely the developments in the abandonment issue. FUA policy on this question is that no lines should be closed until considerations has been given to all implications this would have, to the communities served by the line, and to the others interested in the service the railroad provides. So far only two lines have been cut - the Alberta. Several are now operated on a reduced schedule.

● Results of the FUA's U Do, drive are not yet complete, but so far they appear to be well ahead of last year. According to Ed Belzner, president, the results so far indicate that increasing the cost of membership from five to six dollars per unit has not caused any decrease in the number of Union members. On the contrary indications are that more will be joining this year

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

CAMPING IN THE EARLY 20's

It is a bit late in the season to be talking about camping, I know, but one of the redeeming features of a nice holiday is mulling it over in one's mind afterwards; reliving those wonderful, lazy days, again and again in our mind's eye, the beautiful scenery, hearing the lapping of the lake water against the shore, or the bubbling little brook, dipping over the stones on its way to a lake, and even hearing the song-birds waking us up much too early, all worked into the beautiful pattern of our memories of our holiday.

A letter received from a daughter who lives in Southern Manitoba, caused my memory to thrust its way back through the dim corridors of yesteryear, when as a young mother with 3 youngsters (and I might add very young youngsters) we used to camp for about a week on an every year at one of the many beautiful lakes, which is situated amongst the hills in that part of Manitoba. There were always two or three other farm families, neighbors, who camped with us. This particular camp was about 20 miles from our district, and of course in those early years there were no conveniences at camps such as there are now (milk deliveries, stores, bake shops, etc.) therefore when a family the size of ours decided to go camping for at least a week, before we, it took some getting ready. Days before we left, we baked bread, buns, cookies, cake, etc., anything and everything that would be wise to take to a place like a camp; churned a 10-Lb. crock of butter, roasted chickens, beef, and maybe a ham. As there were no refrigerators in those days, all of this had to be done very shortly before we left. Sometimes I found myself wondering if all was worth while, as by the time everything, including the clothes was ready I would be home-tired. However when one of young these things soon fade, and we were as anxious to get away as the youngsters.

You see, how we managed to keep all o this food, once we arrived out at camp? There was a locality, we called spring, close to our campsite grounds. It trickled down the hillside and meandered along through the meadow, and it made an ideal place in which to set crocks of butter, pails of eggs, wooden boxes in which was placed the meat (with a padlocked lid), etc., all weighted down with big rocks.

I recall one night there was a flash flood (this part of the country as I mentioned, before is quite hilly). As we lay in our beds in a tent listening to the clouds pouring buckfulls of rain down on the tent-top, we had no worries as our tent was rain-resistant and all the food was safely (?) ensconced in the "Spring" (except the bread and smoked meat which was packed in a tin trunk in the tent). At daylight we happened to glance over in the direction of the tent flap just in time to see our resident bear's rear-end scooting away through the tent flap and away. You can imagine our reaction when we found that not any OUR tent, but every tent in the camp was minus, in a big pond. My husband, who was the first to discover the disaster, pulled on a pair of trousers, rolled up the legs and yelled to the other campers. What a reception (the youngsters immediately wanted to go wading).

Our precious food, which we were so confident was safe, had all been washed out to the lake. There wasn't sight nor sign of it. In fact the little (?) stream had become a young river, rolling and foaming its way merrily out to the lake.

Lucky, every family had SOME food in watertight, mould-resistant containers, but it was also packed until some of the stores drove out to town 10 or 12 miles and bought enough to supplement the inviter's the balance of our stay at camp.

As all the cars at camp were Model T's (you recall they didn't have very much power) those men had their own time pushing the cars up out of the valley, through all that mud (there were no roads of any description, just prairie trails).

However by the evening of the next day, the little (?) stream had settled down to the babbling brook stage, and the men had dug trees low to drain the water out of the tents. Things were settling back to normal. The sides of the tents had to be rolled up and tied so the sun could dry the inside. We women were standing around in rubbers, while the youngsters were having the time of their lives wading in mud and water in bare feet. Did that dampen our enthusiasm for camping? Never.

(Kelowna Daily Courier)

Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Curtis, of Summith Road, Rutland, Celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on October 29th and were the recipients of the good wishes and congratulations of their family, neighbors and friends on this happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were married at Ilenborough, in Buckinghamshire England, October 29th, 1903. Both were natives of the County of Bucks, as it is usually called, Mr. Curtis having been born at Chenies and Mrs. Curtis whose maiden name was Edith Sarah Goodson, was born at Chanlea and moved to Chesham with her parents in 1883.

Mr. Curtis celebrated his 82nd birthday on Feb. 19th last, having been born in 1871, and Mrs. Curtis is now in her 87th year, her birth date being Dec. 12th 1876. Mr. Curtis went to South Africa in 1900, as a young man of 22, and worked on a railway construction there for four years. On returning to the Old Country and his old home at Ilsborough he met his future bride there in 1899, and five years later they were married. Their son, and only child, William Frank Curtis was born in 1905. Farming was Mr. Curtis' occupation in England, and when in 1911, they decided to come to Canada, it was to take up land in the Sedgewick district of Alberta, where he farmed for 34 years.

During the First World War he served four years with the Canadian Engineers, most of that time being spent in France. He came to B. C. in November 1953 to retire and join his son Frank who had purchased the former Scarnich farm on the east bank of Mill Creek.

The family held a Diamond Wedding Anniversary dinner at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Edward Tarasevich, in Glenmore on Tuesday evening, which was attended by the immediate relatives. In addition to their granddaughter the couple have three grandsons, Kenneth, Edward and Gary Curtis. A Diamond wedding cake, made by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Curtis, centered the table at the dinner.

Charity at Christmas!

The Christmas season is again upon us, as evidenced by snow, a super-abundance of sub-zero weather and the numerous demands on all sides for Yuletide requirements without which Christmas would not be Christmas. At this season of the year the great majority are concerned with the material phase of life. The business man endeavors to increase his sales and practically everybody has in mind the idea of receiving and of giving material things, intended of course to promote happiness. One idea at Christmas time which finds ready response is that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and the Yuletide is the one time of the whole year that people yield most readily to injunctions of that nature. But the world needs something more, something different than a brief annual recognition of the time-honored custom of short duration, even though it is credited with the most laudable spirit of giving, and of making others happy. Leaving aside that phase of the giving and receiving of Christmas presents as between friends and relatives, the wider aspect of "giving" at Christmas time to those who are objects of charity, supplies material for serious consideration. Giving to those in need and in distress at Christmas time may add to a degree the charitable propensities of the giver, but the brevity of such satiety on the part of the recipient must cause the latter to wonder why discrepensies in society permit one class to be charitable and another class the objects of charity. No virile human being wants to be an object of charity — not even at Christmas time, and if society is in such a state as to compel virile manhood to be an object of charity at Christmas time, it most certainly does so at other seasons of the years as well. In a world of plenty there should be no necessity for charity at any time of the year. Those unfortunates in every land who are deficient mentally or physically to such an extent that they are incapable of supporting themselves, and those dependent upon them, should not be classed as objects of charity. There are enough normal people in the world to support that element and the world literally "owes them a living" not as charity but simply as a humanitarian duty. It is a sad commentary on our boasted civilized and advanced state by moral standards alone. All those citizens are today compelled to subsist entirely on relief, and we cannot believe that the teachings of Christianity will ever, alone, rectify such a state of affairs. As a basis of all social progress there is no substitute for Christianity, but a practical world will never reach an idealistic state by moral suasion alone. All men recognize that while the spirit is willing the flesh is weak. We have men in our legislative departments who acknowledge that every piece of legislation requires the support of the judicial and executive to make legislation effective. The edicts of Christianity appeal only to one department of man's intellect and intelligence, and a great many people in the world have no such department in their intellects. It is not possible to make Christian teachings applicable to society, but it is possible to base all our laws on Christian principles, and then enforce these laws. Today this is not being done. Today any appeals to charity are not made to governments, but are directed to individuals, and comparatively few people respond. Those who do respond are often far less able to do so than many others.

Reformers and Critics!

Society as it functions today, has been brought about, to a large extent, by the activities of Reformers, and down thro' the ages there is one error that nearly every critic of Reformers is guilty of. The error consists in asserting that a reformer is inconsistent unless he straightway puts into effect the particular matter under consideration. If critics will look at such criticism from every angle they will see how utterly foolish such criticism is. For example a reformer believes and advocates that every man has a right to manufacture, say, liquor, and to sell it. But how can a man do this thing with our laws as they are? He can advocate all he likes, but unless and until that man's idea is made into law he cannot make liquor, and sell it today without being a criminal. A hockey player or baseball player may formulate a new set of rules for either of these popular sports, but such a player would not get very far on the ice or on the diamond if he tried to put his new rules into effect all by himself. He can advocate and suggest all he wants to but when he plays either game today he must play according to today's rules. This same course of reasoning applies to our lawmakers & politicians. If it did not, we would see each candidate outlining the planks in his own platform and he would run "independently". But politics has a set of rules to go by; a man may advocate a change in the rules, but here again he has to play the game according to today's rules. In this connection we see a veritable barrage of criticism aimed at those who advocate reforms in the political economy.

Many people today are trying to get away from the practice of putting political representatives into office by the power of money. They believe a whole lot of other things in the way of political reforms, and are advocating them; but until these reforms are put into law, they must play the game today according to today's rules, right or wrong. The old shibboleths are that a man must have money in order to be classed as a success; the politician must have money in order to get elected. But inconsistently we are told, from more than one source that if a man belives in equity, in justice, in honest elections, in a fair distribution of jobs, of salaried positions, he must put these beliefs into effect right away, and right in the face of opposing elements that have no regard for anything in the way of progress and reform.

Traditions of Right and Wrong!

(From the Brooks Bulletin)

The government of Canada is not going to legalize the holding of sweepstakes on horse races. Prime Minister Pearson has so stated. He did mention, however, that any province whose legislature approved of such a plan would be given the legal right to go ahead.

So far the majority of the provinces have expressed opposition through their political leaders to venture into sweepstakes. Premier Manning of Alberta was quite decisive in his opposition. Quebec is the most likely province to adopt the idea.

There has been a great deal of discussion for & against the scheme of government approval of the holding of sweepstakes. It is not our intention to enter into argument. But we do believe that there is something insidious in any government's approval of such an idea, notwithstanding the apparent financial success of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

In so doing we may be accused of adhering too closely to the "ancient, outworn, puritanic traditions of right and wrong."

Question Marks

OTTAWA — The Nation's Capital was deeply stirred by two events late last month that could have momentous consequences for Canada in the days to come.

The first was the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, which aroused greater shock and grief in Ottawa than almost any other part of Canada. Here, where the influence of everything Canada is the constant centre of attention, there was a deep appreciation of the role being played on the world stage by the young and dynamic man who occupies the White House.

The second was the beginning of an historic series of Federal-Provincial conferences aimed at establishing a new and firmer basis of Confederation as Canada prepared to enter the mid of the first one hundred years as a nation.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson acknowledged that Confederation faced a time of severe testing, but he remained optimistic that the test would be passed and in the process a new chapter written in Canadian history. The mood of the first conference provided some indications that there was reason for his optimism, but it still remained too early to tell whether or not the apparent progress made was illusory. In the end, only the people of Quebec could answer that question.

The death of President Kennedy raised question-marks, if not doubts about the future of Canadian-United States relationships.

In his address to a joint meeting of members of the Senate and House of Commons in 1961, Mr. Kennedy himself underlined the broad and intimate association between the two countries at almost every level of life. Canada's economy alone is close by inter-connected with that in the United States is not only because of the massive volume of trade between the two countries, but also because of the impact of U.S. policies generally on the world economy.

The policies of the United States are the product of many men, but in no small measure they bear the imprint of the chief of state. Mr. Kennedy was a good friend of Canada. As a New Englander he had a long and sympathetic awareness of its problems. Equally important, he shared a deep friendship and respect with Prime Minister Pearson, two elements that were notably absent in his relationship with the former Conservative leader.

These two factors combined helped in the re-establishment of a healthy relationship between the two countries earlier this year, a relationship which survived despite the barking that went on across the border over such controversial issues as the Canadian auto tariff incentive plan, wheat sales and the Seafarers' International Union.

It is not likely that there will be any sudden change in U.S. policies under President Lyndon Johnson. All reports indicate that he will keep about him most of the key advisors to President Kennedy for some time to come. By force of circumstances, President Johnson would be inclined to be sympathetic to Canada's point of view. But as a Texan, he has never had any particular reason to be much aware of Canada, except as a competitor for oil producers in his home state, and he has only a casual acquaintanceship with Canada's personal leaders.

Only time will tell whether it will be possible to establish the same close and understanding ties with his Administration as Canada briefly enjoyed with that headed by his predecessor.

Mr. Lesage could not be too strongly blamed for his position, since he was being impelled forward by the strong nationalist forces inside his own province. His determined to have got him unless he moved with the flood tide.

What was remarkable about this

Editor Community Press

Dear Sir:—

I am prompted to write you with regards to Killaren's vandalism perpetrated on outside hilltop in the Town of Hardisty. I would point out, to begin with, that I do not condone such destructive pranks, but I find myself wondering, after 11 years of water and sewer service here, why the Council has not taken steps to see that these health menaces were removed long ago. It would appear that there are two sets of regulations in connection with the Plumbing Act here. If one does install the services, everything must be recorded in the minutes of Council, one takes the attitude that he will not put in these conveniences, no action whatever is taken, and the remainder of the town's population has to put up with these eyesores and threats to public health. I fail to see how my taxpayer offering services to or entering to the public, can erode the responsibility of providing clean washroom facilities. I've heard various points of view expressed as to why this issue has not been enforced, but I think that after all this time some concrete decision should have been made. I again point out that I do not condone vandalism, but maybe the solution is for the pranksters to have removed them all from the town. — Hardisty Resident.

SABERS WIN FIRST GAME

SEDGEWICK The Sedgewick Sabers Juvenile Hockey Team won their first league game of the season when they played host to Camrose Lutheran College Vikings.

In a fast rugged game the Sabers opened the scoring at the 21 seconds mark of the first period, and added another at 13.27, before the Vikings got on the score sheet at 17.30. The first period ended with the Sabers ahead 2-1.

The second stanza featured some very rugged play with the referees handing out five penalties, three to the Vikings and two to the Sabers. There were six goals scored in this period, and at the intermission the Sabers were leading 6-3.

The last piece of the first two periods was showing in the third frame and play was at a slower pace. Even so the Sabers came up with 3 more goals and the Vikings 2, for a final score of 9 to 5 in favor of the hometown Sabers.

Scores for the Sabers were: Don Ronenough with 3, David Ronbough with 2, Bill Drever, 2 and Clinton Anderson and Fred Kusher 1 each.

Foundation Studies Teenage Drinking

Teen-age Involvement in alcohol use is receiving increasing attention from The Alcoholism Foundation of Alberta. Foundation specialists feel that, insofar as the teen-ager may be considered a living commentary on the generation that rears them, a searching examination of teen-age attitudes & behavior with regard to alcohol is of paramount importance.

The suggestion that considerable under-age drinking is occurring among Alberta's youth was frequently put to The Foundation during the inception a decade ago. Some observers attributed this primarily to rural youth, others maintained that the problem was rife with teen-age drinking problems.

J. George Strachan, Executive Director of The Alcoholism Foundation of Alberta pointed out that the development of effective social science techniques has taken much of the guesswork out of questions into what the teen-ager thinks and does about

"Seen in its legal context, drinking in Alberta is prohibited to all under 21 years of age, with the exception of members of the armed forces. This legislation is aimed at protecting juveniles and is soundly based on empirical evidence."

"As in every other learning experience, drinking holds hazards for the novice. These include impulsive behavior, impaired judgement, slowed reflexes, plus a variety of often unpredictable results from drinking even small quantities of alcohol. A combination of lack of knowledge about alcohol effects coupled with lack of experience can be — and often is — lethal", Mr. Strachan pointed out.

In summary, The Alcoholism Foundation's studies of teen-age drinking in Alberta have yielded the following facts:

1 Most teen-age drinking falls into the 'tasting' rategory. As an institution of adult behavior this is more or less a part of the normal learning process.

2 First drinking experiences usually occur at home — often with adult approval and limited brevity to exper-imentation. When this r- forth is ca, such experimentation often takes place elsewhere

"We all know that many of our teens have under-age drinking parties," Mr Strachan said, "and the overwhelming drinking by minors are no exception. 18-year olds can marry and undertake the responsibilities of having children before they are legally permitted to drink. The age of 21 has been accepted as marking the transition between infancy and adulthood. For some, maturity occurs much earlier, but the law has to choose an age for all, rather than a few, and 21 has long been prescribed by common law. This age prevails throughout Canada except for the Province of Quebec where 20 is the legal drinking age."

A study of the prevailing sentiments about the legal drinking age among a sample of 662 persons — including college and high school students, nurses, police, inner-work, adult groups, Foundation part-time groups and others — revealed that the majority of persons favored 21; 21% of the under 21's admitted to alcohol; 78% of the over 21's used alcohol. This indentes that under age drinking is almost as frequent as legal - age drinking.

Arguments favouring lowering of the drinking age were: a person old enough to drive a car, to vote and get married, to serve in the armed forces, etc. should also have the right to drink. Since the majority of persons under 21 drink despite existing regulations, it is illogical to retain the present law. Legal prohibition encourages teen-agers to drink for the thrill and prestige of participating in the forbidden. Therefore, lowering the age limit would reduce these 'side' lines.

Contrasted with these views, those favouring the present legal drinking age of 21 maintain that: the right to vote neither proves nor requires maturity, and since this is a variable, 21 is as logical as any other evidentiary point. Frequent violation of the law is not in itself a sound reason for repeal or revision, but could be construed as an equally valid argument for more effective law enforcement. Finally, teen-age drinking for 'kicks' pseudo adulthood, etc. is in itself evidence of immaturity.

More 16 to 21 year olds are working than are attending schools at the present time. Since the group is not organized and therefore difficult to survey, it has not as yet been explored, and The Foundation is sharply aware of the need for such an investigation in the future.

"It is a sound principle for all working in the treatment of A.dictions to be equally concerned with its prevention", Mr. Strachan concluded. "For this excellent reason, The Alcoholism Foundation of Alberta will continue to engage in research and education to prevent the basic evil of alcoholism and the occurrence of problem drinking in the young."

"I am happy to say with confidence, that Alberta's youth are not an effective yet to the problems inherent in drinking. Many have come to The Foundation over the years for help with their own drinking problems or with the need to find help in coping with an alcoholic parent. We receive constant requests from groups of young people for films, speakers and discussion groups. This lively concern on the part of our young people to gain more knowledge is a reassuring token of their good mental health."

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

[illegible] reporters' descendants will eat turkey until they resemble purple pigs, while the descendants of Mindy, who have managed to hang onto the manor house only by taking tourists through at a shilling a shot, will dine, in the only room of the big house they can afford to heat, on a single bit of brisket, and bread sprouts.

However, that's not what I started out to say. Well, despite all the wailing and throwing of hands in the air at the paganism and commercialism of Christmas today, I feel that we haven't quite managed to ruin Christmas.

I'll warrant our children know just as much, and maybe more, of the story of Christmas, and the coming of the Christ-Child, as their counter-parts of 100 years ago did. And I'll bet we are not as smug and selfish, despite our much-touted materialism, as our Victorian great grandfathers were.

Witness service clubs scurrying about town with Christmas baskets for those less fortunate. Witness groups of youngsters singing carols at homes for old people. Witness high school kids selling Christmas cards for UNICEF, to feed little, starving children abroad.

So gird up your loins, plunge into your shopping and debt, grow fat the joy of giving, be happy in the family reunion, go to church on Christmas day, stay away from the hard stuff, and don't be a hog with the turkey, and just don't go too far wrong!

AN EASY TAN. With the coming of the grey overcast skies of the Canadian winter, it's almost impossible for a young lady to get a healthy tan. Welsh beauty Paula Williams suggests one solution—use a spray gun to coat your skin with a golden color.—

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Zanetschuk)

WILDLIFE PREDATION

An owl is about to swoop down and make a meal of a rabbit. Do you harbour a feeling or resentment or hatred toward the owl? If so, you shouldn't, the owl is simply getting his food.

In every animal community we find herbivorous, carnivorous, and omnivorous animals. A herbivore feeds on vegetation, this is the beginning of a vital food chain. From here on the food chain simply becomes succession of predations.

Someone has likened animal interdependence to a spider web. Each thread is connected with other threads, so that if way part of the web moves, the entire web is affected. Similarly in nature, every animal is connected with every other animal or plant.

Some people believe in a "balance in nature". This balance means that, in a natural situation, animals and plants tend to check each others numbers. However, it is important to remember that no fixed balance, with fixed numbers exists.

Every area is limited in its ability to produce and carry wildlife. Any surplus population is reduced by predation. Predators tend to hunt where food is plentiful and take the prey that is most easily caught. If too many predators appear, nature has her own way to reduce their numbers.

Each year considerable sums of money are expended on predators as bounties. Whenever man's interests are affected, by an animal's food habits, it is referred to as a pest and mass killing of the species occurs. Could we not invest more wisely, perhaps by protection and improvement of habitat?

In his time we re-examined our views on wildlife predation and did away with sentimentality and prejudice regarding predation. Lets learn to appreciate the value of predation, as it cuts the weak, diseased and stupid of a species.

MOTOR OIL CLASSIFICATION!

There are three main systems for classifying oils in use today. These are S. A. E. Numbers, A. P. I. Service Designations (including M. S. Sequence Tests) and Government Specifications.

To help operators choose the right oil for each motor powered unit on the farm, Alberta's Extension Engineer J. L. Reid has outlined these classifications as follows:

1. S. A. E. Crankcase Oil Classification: Is a means of identifying oils by their viscosity ranges. The classification has no bearing on the quality or performance of an oil. Each viscosity grade is represented by an S.A.E. number and are based on the viscosity at 210 degrees F., S.U.S. Viscosity numbers with the additional symbol "W" are based on the viscosity at 0 degrees F., S.U.S.

Multigrade Oils: If an oil can meet more than one S. A.E. grade classification its viscosity index (resistance to viscosity change with temperature) is high. In other words, an oil with a very high viscosity index (V. I.) is one that does not become too thick when the temperature is low and it does not become too thin when temperature is high. For example, an oil with a very high V.I. (180) may meet the S.A.E. 10W specifications and also the SAE 20 specifications. It will be classified as a 10W-20 oil. It will also meet the intermediate specifications, therefore an SAE few-20 can be considered a few-10W-20W-20 multigrade oil.

The following list summarizes the A.P.I. crankcase oil service designations:

M L (Motor Light) — For old engines overgines in poor condition; for diesel engines where manufacturer specifies a straight mineral oil.

M M (Motor Medium) — For older model passenger cars and where high way driving predominates. For such trucks as are on light loadhighway service.

M S (Motor Severe) — For buses and trucks on high-speed heavyload highway service. For buses and trucks on stop-and-go delivery service. For passenger car city driving.

D G (Diesel General) — For all diesel engines except supercharged Caterpillar, burning a fuel with low sulphur content (less than 0.4 %) in normal service.

D M(Diesel Medium) —For overage diesel engines operating under severe load or hot conditions or burning fuels with a medium (0.4-0.9 % sulphur content).

D S (Diesel Severe)—For Diesels burning high sulphur fuels. For supercharged caterpillar diesels. For diesels in severe stop-and-go service such as city bus or delivery operations.

2. Government Specifications: A system of specifications set up by the U. S. Government and by engine builders. These involve three performance specifications. MIL-L-210-4B, Supplement 1 and Series 3. Oils to be classified as such must meet certain requirements as to gravity, flash point, V. I., viscosity etc., and also meetpass U. S. engine tests.

Most new farm tractors operating on gasoline under heavy loads in the field should use a motor oil classified as M S. Motor oil's classified as ML will in most cases be satisfactory for farm diesel tractors operating under average field conditions.

Refer to your operator manual for the manufacturer's crankcase oil recommendations for viscosity number and A.P.I. Service designation.

INDUSTRY SHOWS GREATER DEMAND FOR SILVER

MONTREAL At current rates of production and consumption, the world supply and demand of silver is not in balance at the present price and this would still be the case even if no silver were being used for coinage, according to the Bank of Montreal's Business Review for November, just issued.

"Other things being equal, so, the discovery of a major new source of silver could in the long run act to fy the growing demands of industry for this metal which has in our day become precious in a sense that was not imagined by our ancestors" says the Bank of Montreal.

Earlier this year the price of silver rose sharply to the point where for the first time in over 40 years, coins in some countries were in danger of being melted down. However, a further price rise was prevented when the U. S. treasury released some of its stocks.

Although "there has been little obvious connection between the price of silver and changes in its output in Canada," the combined effect of lower Canadian dollar and a higher world price, with a favorable long term market outlook are "beginning to re-awaken interest in exploration and development" the B of M says.

The prospects for world production and consumption of silver and its price cannot be foreseen beyond the immediate future, but the present rise significantly alters the U. S. as long as silver is available at that price from the U. S. treasury stock. "About 1.6 billion ounces of silver will become available as silver certificates are gradually retired, and this is equal to ten times the present annual gap between production and consumption."

SILVER HOARDED

Unknown quantities of silver being hoarded in Japan, India, Spain and China, might also have an effect on the availability of silver, the bank comments.

"In addition, some countries now using silver for coins may cease to do so or the silver content may be reduced," the B of M says, adding that the firmness of Canadian coinage reduced and a nickel five-cent piece was struck following a demonstrable rise in the price of silver in 1919

"Since about a billion and a half ounces of silver are tied up in U. S. coinage at present any move in the U. S. to reduce the silver content of coins or to replace some of the subsidiary coins by alloys of base metals would, of course, have a profound and pervasive influence on the total market situation for silver" the B of M. Review states.

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period of time . . . you've got to win their confidence and be convincing.

CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

Cards Of Thanks

The members of St. John's Anglican W. A. would like to thank all those who have so willingly helped them during the past few months. Especially they wish to thank those groups who have so readily loaned their kitchen facilities, and have so kind with their assistance at all times. The kindness received will always be remembered by the members of the group.

We wish to thank the Amisk Fire Dept. and all our friends and neighbors who helped us during the recent fire which destroyed our home. Without all the kind assistance we could not have established our home so quickly. — Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ference and Family, Amisk. 35 1 p

Fire conference was the fact that Mr. Lesage made a decision to a tempt to move back from the extreme position in which he had placed himself. Both he and Prime Minister Pearson have made it clear that no such step will be given.

Under the present revenue sharing arrangements, the federal government takes four per cent of personal and corporation taxes and 50 per cent of succession duties, whereas the provinces collect, on the average, 100 per cent. Quebec is asking for 28 per cent of personal and corporation taxes and 100 per cent of succession duties. Furthermore, it is called for a revision of the tax collection formula that would provide for the payment of grants to bring the per capita revenues of the low-income provinces up to the level of the wealthiest provinces.

In the event Prime Minister Pearson agreed to provide for higher equalization grants that would give all eligible provinces approximately $75 million more revenue. But he suggested an increase in the provincial share of tax revenues would have to wait some solution of the related question of taxing back to the provinces full responsibility for programs in which both levels of government now shared costs. Accurately, Mr. Pearson was stalling for time in order to prevent this delicate issue being used as an excuse by the Federal treasury in the coming fiscal year.

While Mr Lesage indicated he was reluctantly prepared to accept this position, which represented no small accomplishment on Mr. Pearson's part, the question that remained to be answered was whether or not the Quebec people would accept it. The Quebec Premier finds himself caught between two powerful forces (the province's nationalist resurgence, which has given rise to the separatist movement that he is very conscious of ignoring, to grow at other parts of Canada, a reaction that may be fanned by the very attempts of Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker to capitalize on it.

It may be that Mr. Lesage will find his efforts to steer a middle course made more tenable as a result of the gradually emerging view of Federal Liberal members from Quebec to take to the public platform and do battle with the separatist elements in their own province for the first time.

The Essence of Christmas

(By Grenfell Zeicher, Minister of Hardisty Pastoral Charge, United Church of Canada).

About a decade ago, when that learned and saintly man, the Rev. C. H.Matchett, M.A., B.D., was president of Manitoba Conference, he used a sermon illustration which I remember to this day.

"In a town in S. Prance a section of the working population went forth every summer morning to gather rock salt the valley below the town. As they mingled afterwards with other people in the town, they could be distinguished by a faint perfume so that all knew they had labored in the Valley of Roses."

Most of us are revered and some are harried as we strive to celebrate Christmas. All of us want to experience the essence of Christmas.

Now As Recently As A Perfume

From the hearth there floats the smell of baking. In the living room hangs the fresh smell of evergreens.

We should ask whatsoever arises from my life, my soul? After December 25, when I turn off the Bethlehem Road, will the people with whom I mingle know that I have walked with the wise men? Will they know that His Blessed, who was just and devout, I long for the consolation of Israel? That I really want a more just and humane social order?

Because Reason Nature!

There are three kinds of nature, Divine, the World of Nature, and Human Nature. In the Nativity, the three natures combined to produce sweet harmony. God spoke through His prophets centuries ago: "The Lord Himself will give you a sign. Behold a young woman shall conceive and bear a son and shall call his name Immanuel (God With Us). His name will be called Wonderful Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace (Isaiah 7,9)

God spoke in nature. The wise men were led by a star. "When they saw the star they rejoiced exceedingly, with great joy!" In the case of the wise men, the response of human nature was a generous one, for we read in Matthew 2:11, "And going into the house they saw the child with Mary His mother and fell down and worshipped Him. Then opening their treasures they offered Him gifts, gold and frankincense and myrrh.

No human canestimate the extent of healing and hope, which gifts to Jesus and the Church, which is the body of Christ, bring, for it is beyond human calculation.

Because Means Fundamental Doctrine!

The fundamental doctrines of Christmas is "God so loved the world," the world as it was and the world as it is. He loved and loves the good and the bad. As long as we believe this essence we can never give up hope in ourselves or for the world.

Lastly, Because Means Fundamental Facts and Conclusions!

In Luke's story of the Nativity we read, "and suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly host praising God and saying:

Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace among men,
With whom He is pleased!"

Unfortunately, even in so-called Christian countries there are many with whom God is not pleased. While the choirs of the churches, both old and young, youngsters sing sweetly: O Holy Child of Bethlehem
Descend on us we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in,
Be born in us today,

many others, working for the war departments, sneer at the followers of the Prince of Peace.

While Ministers and lovers of Christ are happily involved in magnifying the Lord, by song, story and deeds of kindness, military men and politicians are urging the spread of devastating weapons.

Take heed blind men!
O hush your noise, ye men of strife
And hear the angels sing.

But we must not despair.There is hope for them, and all mankind, if we turn from the raw road of disappoi nt on which we are travelling, to the true and living day.

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16).

Premier Sends Christmas Greetings

(Honorable R. C. Manning)

With the approach of the Yuletide season it is with real pleasure that I extend to all warm and sincere Christmas greetings and best wishes for a Happy New Year. May the goodwill and new hope of this Christ mas season be felt in every home and every heart. No matter what else this time of year brings to us, it always gives the opportunity to rededicate ourselves to the fundamental principles of our Christian faith.

Many shadows still prevail in our troubled world and in the hearts of many there is anxiety and uncertainty as to what the future may hold for mankind. Only through unalloyed personal allegiance to Him whose birthday we recognize at Christmas can we ensure the secure future we all desire. All those who do rededicate their lives to Him on this anniversary of His birth will receive a real measure of faith and strength to carry forward into the New Year.

There are manifold reasons why we in Alberta should couple our observance of Christmas with the gratiful acknowledgement of those things with which we are blessed.

On behalf of all members of the government, I extend our very best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a purposeful New Year.

(J. Percy Page, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta)

Memories of former Christmases always come crowding upon us each passing year. We think of all the jolly times we had when we were young, when we were in our teens, and when we entered the world of grown-up people. Most of all, we remember what we learned as little children about the first Christmas and the heavenly host that heralded the birth of Jesus in a stable at Bethlehem, almost two thousand years ago.

It is a strange and wonderful thing that, all through history, Christmas has always been associated with gatherings of friends and families, of singing joyful carols and sharing our gifts with those less fortunate than we.

From the early days of settlement in Canada, our pioneers always celebrated Christmas in typical fashion. They had little to share but good wishes, but the spirit of Christmas was always present.

Well, Edmonton and Alberta have lift some way since those pioneer days. We are becoming strongly urbanized, and the outward signs of Christmas are perhaps more gaudy than some of those described by early writers. But the inward things remain the same, for Illumination is unchangeable. Deep in our hearts we know it is the birthday celebration of Jesus, a time of family gathering and goodwill among men.

Let us remember that as we mark the Christmas season this year, the love of God and the love of our fellowmen. This is what the great Charles Dickens meant when he had one of his characters, Bob Crachett, say:

"A Merry Christmas to all my dears. God bless us every one."

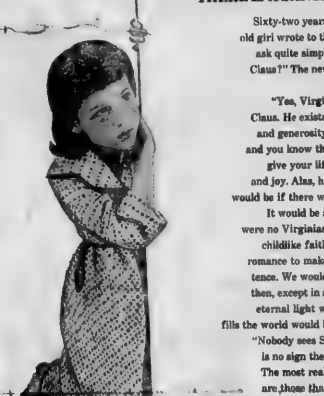
"YES, VIRGINIA, THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS"



Sixty-two years ago, an eight-year-old girl wrote to the New York Sun to ask quite simply: "Is there a Santa Claus?" The newspaper's reply was, in part, as follows:

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound, and give your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary the world would be if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We would have no enjoyment then, except in sight and sound. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished . . .

"Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children or men can see . . . .

"No Santa Claus? Thank God! He lives, and lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood."

HOLY DAY OR "HOLI-DAZE"

"Christmas isn't what it used to be," said the man on the bus. "Now when I was a boy ....."

"Christmas is getting to be a bit of a racket," muttered the harrassed mother as she looked in her slender purse, trying to figure out a way to get some of the things her wee ones expected from Santa.

"Christmas is just give and take," cynically declared the footsore young lady as she pushed through the crowds around the counters.

And perhaps Christmas isn't all that it used to be. For the first Christmas was a holy day, when the Christ Child was born in a manger in Bethlehem. Over the years the celebration has lengthened by days and weeks, until now the Christmas season starts early in November, when Santa Claus makes his first appearance, and extends almost into the New Year.

In many towns the holy day has become a series of "holi-days". A mixture of last minute shopping, home celebrations, office drinking parties (on which there has been a justified crack-down in recent years), distracting holiday sights and sounds can lead to this tragic state.

But Christmas IS still a holy day. It is the anniversary of the birth of a Man who came, not to sing carols, eat turkey or trim Christmas trees, but to give the world one gift — the gift of love.

Why not make this Christmas a holy day in your home. Have fun, enjoy your gifts, your children, the feasting and all that goes with a family Christmas. But take a minute or two from the day's festivities and consider our Christmas hope for the world as we approach a New Year which, in itself, brings suggestion of courage and of hope. A new prayer for the New Year:

In mercy Heavenly Father, hear.
The former things are passed away,
Make all things new for Thy great day.
Give us the best Thou hast to give,
By which alone we still may live—
A new heart and a new birth
For a new heaven and a new earth.

CHRISTMAS 1963!

It is not an easy matter at this time to reconcile the usual Christmas spirit with the cold hard fact that every day and every night human beings made in the image of their Creator, are still, in this advanced year of 1963, hunting each other out and shooting each other down, under and by the power of the most modern implements of destruction that the ingenuity of man is capable of devising and perfecting. The people of those nations seeking only for freedom feel that they are in the right and that the right will eventually prevail regardless of the price being paid.

As Christmas day draws near once more, this one thought, that these people fighting for the right, fighting to uphold what all free people hold most dear, with God's help, cannot fail, sustains us in the conviction that God is in His heaven and all is right with the world.

But thanks, that in a world of bewilderment, worries and work, we still have Santa Claus and what he symbolizes. For in Christmas there is all the reality of comradeship, all the happiness of sharing, all the healing peace of a truth that is as old as the earth and as new as tomorrow. With this glad hope, we wish you a Merry Christmas.

The year 1963 has seen many steps taken which could tend to eliminate the differences between men and nations. The year 1964 could be the year for world-wide unity and tolerance. With this fond and cherished dream ever uppermost in our daily thoughts, we extend to you our hope that you may face 1964 with hope, with courage and with determination.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Line-up

OTTAWA — Customers are lining up at the Wheat Board's door in Winnipeg to buy Canadian wheat.

The Wheat Board has made so many sales and commitments to deliver on long-term agreements that when the Communist Chinese unexpectedly changed their minds and decided to buy 1,500,000 tons after Feb. 1 instead of the 500,000 tons they were under contract to take, the Board had to say regretfully that they could not deliver. The Board was booked to capacity for this period & could not undertake to deliver the extra 1,000,000 tons.

Mainland China when it bargained with Canada last summer for a wheat deal held the cards. The Canadians held nothing but wheat. It was pouring out the elevator doors. The longest scrap ever was in the making on the Prairies.

The Canadian negotiators were in the market to sell wheat. But the Chinese were hard bargainers. They agreed finally to a three-year deal and would take 500,000 tons in the first period of the contract up to January 31st, 1964. They indicated that in the second contract from Feb 1st to June 30, 1964 they would take [illegible] tons.

But when the Chinese negotiators arrived in Winnipeg this winter to make arrangements for the second contract they had changed their minds. They wanted 1,000,000 tons. However, the wheat situation had undergone a radical change. Now it is a seller's market, not a buyers'.

In the interval since the Chinese first signed the three-year agreement Canada's regular wheat customers together with a number of countries from behind the Iron Curtain have been placing orders. Canada's capacity to ship wheat is now stretched to the utmost.

The long-term agreement negotiated with China was followed by the largest single sale of wheat in this country's history, to Russia. Under that deal the USSR has agreed to purchase 387,000,000 bushels of wheat or flour.

Then followed other orders in rapid succession. Bulgaria has signed a three-year agreement to buy 3,-700,000 bushels annually. This is the first time Canada has sold wheat to Bulgaria. Czechoslovakia has signed a five-year agreement for the purchase of 44,000,000 bushels. Once a sporadic buyer, she is now a long-term customer.

Poland which has been a regular customer since 1956 has signed an agreement to take 44,000,000 bushels in the next three years.

In addition the Wheat Board has been selling wheat to Canada's regular customers such as Britain and Japan and others in steady quantities. The sales to our regular customers are expected to also reach a greater total in this current crop year than a year ago.

The Wheat Board before it made its major sales to China and Russia set aside quantities to meet demands from our old customers. It has followed a policy of protecting Canada regular customers on both quantities and prices. In this policy it has the strong support of Trade and Commerce Minister Michael Sharp, a policy that has been endorsed by all political parties in the House of Commons.

Before 1961 Eastern Europe and Mainland China had been absorbing only about 1.5 percent of all Canadian exports. Because of the new trade and wheat agreements and the huge shipments of grain, Canada's exports to these countries are expected to reach 10 percent of total Canadian exports in 1964.

This raises to a new dimension the magnitude of business between Canada and the Sino-Soviet nations. It brings our sales this year to these countries up close to the extent of our sales to the Commonwealth, including Britain. It means that the USSR and Mainland China will rank in 1964 within Canada's first six foreign markets.

There has thus been a fundamental shift in the pattern of trade largely because of the great need in China and the USSR for Canadian wheat. Both Russia and Mainland China show signs of becoming permanent importers of our wheat, on an extensive scale. These demands for Canadian wheat mean that the Wheat Board is going to be able to sell every bushel of wheat and every pound of flour that can be moved through Canadian ports before the end of next July. The more that can be moved the more Canadians can sell. The customers are hammering on the door. All that limits Canada's sales is her ability to move and ship the wheat.

Mr. Sharp has forecast that Canada's wheat and flour exports will total about 550,000,000 bushels. That is around 150,000,000 bushels higher than the previous all-time record & 179 million bushels higher than the year recently ended.

But the Board is keeping its figure crossed and hopes to be able to exceed even that high figure.

It hurts the Wheat Board to have to turn away business. When the Chinese say they want $180,000,000 worth of wheat rather than the $35, 000,000 worth they were committed to take in the second contract, the Wheat Board reluctantly has to say "No, thanks."

However, the situation holds out the hope that in the crop year 1964-65 the Chinese may be ready and anxious to take large supplies of Canadian wheat. And by that time, the Wheat Board may be in a position to deliver. So the future looks rosy for the Prairie wheat farmer.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

It's late to be commenting on the assassination of President Kennedy. Most of the words associated with the act of violence — tragedy, shock, horror — have already been used.

But, as an average Canadian, I cannot refrain from remarking that the people of this country seemed just as deeply affected by this moment in history as their friends [illegible].

We learned of the shooting with horrified disbelief. Our reaction was that of a man who learns that the member with whom he has argued over minor things, with whom he has visited, with whom he has fought against brutality and tyranny, has been killed by a sneak thief.

People are a pretty casual lot, and Canadians are no better than the next in this respect, but there was genuine sympathy, real grief, in this bereavement and death. Across the nation, women wept and men looked sad and sober.

I've said this to tell the many American readers, and remind the host of Canadian readers of this column, that we are neighbors, and we are friends.

We have more things in common, probably than any two neighboring nations in the world. We have a common heritage of language, law and literature. We have the same basic moral values. We are both young and brash. We are both inclined to be lonely.

Think of us as brothers. The United States is the big brother, grown up, wealthy, powerful, past rebellious nature of his youth, but still containing the burning violence which told the old man to go to blazes, and made it stick. The older brother is ready to settle down, raise a family and enjoy what his strength and hard work have created for him.

Canada is the younger brother, a little more cautious, just beginning to feel his man's strength, but just as determined to be rich and successful, just as bound he's going to take nothin' offa nobody. He, too, has cut the family ties and is going it alone, but he is envious of his brother's big spread to the south, and he is resentful of the help whom he has argued over in a somewhat ambivalent attitude, and he is adamant that people recognize him as a person, not just a kid brother.

When somebody else picks a fight, the brothers find themselves on the same side, slugging it out with all they've got. When it's peaceful, they can't help but envy each other, on both sides since the beginning of time.

And the older brother is astonished at the younger brother's cruelties. And the younger brother is furious at the older brother's patronizing attitudes.

Whatever we are — friends, neighbors, brothers — we have a relationship that is unequalled in the world. We exchange visits, gifts and citizens. We even exchange epithets. But we never exchange blows, and cruelties and treachery.

Perhaps that is why Canadians were staggered by the death of a man who represented the strength, decency and idealism of the United States. Perhaps that is why they were so deeply moved by the lonely courage of his wife.

Christmas Concert!

(By Mrs. Claude W. Magee)

There appeared last year in "The Western Weekly Supplement" a series of articles "Milestones" by Fran Fraser, which I appreciated very much. One was "The School Fair". It brought back a rush of memories, and not a little nostalgia when calling to mind a little girl, with all the enthusiasm of a ten to thirteen year old, spending many golden hours in preparation for the Autumn School Fair. Another beautiful memory is that of the annual Christmas Concert and once again I am in that little school house, the centre of all community activity. The season has changed, and outside a sparkling white blanket covers the Saskatchewan prairie, and the sound of sleigh bells, gay laughter and friendly greetings break through the starry stillness. It is "The Night". Once more I see a group of rattled, bright eyed youngsters, crowded around a tired and harassed teacher, who suspects that her popularity in the community for the next few months might well stand or fall on the success of tonight's performance. There is a tall tree, gaily bedecked with sparkling tinsel, and daisy chains fashioned recently by inexperienced little fingers of construction paper and copious amounts of glue. There are cranberry and popcorn garlands, strung by the older pupils, threatening lighted candles, and O Joy, the red and green mesh bags bulging with promised goodies. There are gifts under the tree for each child, and of course, one for teacher; this after much controversy on the part of senior students and well-meant direction from interested mothers.

Little girl's ringlets which have been tightly wrapped in rags all day, are now released, and gloriously exploding from excited and bobbing little heads. They are privileged also to wear their "good" dresses, usually a home creation by mother's deft fingers. Young boys, exhibiting the general male behavior at such a time are punching and elbowing, unable to conceal their excitement although some what uncomfortable in unaccustomed polished shoes, white shirts & bow ties (the latter to find a hiding place in trouser pockets at the very earliest decent convenience).

But now the school piano sounds a tinny chord and we are off! School concerts represented a variety of talents, for not a child was left without some sort of contribution. Perhaps it was a recitation, or a part as a fairy or brownie in a drill, a solo, a character in a play. Remember the Christmas Acrostic? The grade one and twos, minus two front teeth nearly filled his pretty little number. Large red letters, displayed one by one (C is for Candy It is for Holly, etc.) until they finally spelled out "Merry Christhmuth". All this was the result of much faithful and tiring rehearsal. There was little of course which was in keeping with the real meaning of Christmas, although sometimes a nod in recognition of the First Noel found place in the sweet rendition of "Silent Night, Holy Night" by some of the older girls who would cast shy glances at the rear of the school room, quite aware that some local swain would applaud with bashful appreciation.

And then the lovely performance is over, and suddenly (how he managed in time it is perfectly was always a mystery to me) but here he comes, with a jingle of bells, and a Ho! Ho! Ho!, he stumbles in, the jovial old Santa himself. Little ones gaze in wide-eyed wonder. The more sophisticated children whisper behind ruffled hands (could it be teacher's boy friend?). The gifts are distributed by the Old Gentleman, aided by the teacher and older students. It has been such a lovely and exciting evening.

With the exception of a few isolated cases, the Christmas concert is a thing of the dear past, forever lost in the Centralized Schools, organized sports and achievement days. Now it is largely a Sunday School effort, rightly honoring the birth of our Lord and Saviour, and while it truly expresses the real meaning of Christmas, the quaint of the school concert is missing. This is to be expected, for time spent in preparation is necessarily short; teachers are busy mothers, snatching a few minutes after Sunday School classes for the [illegible].

There is the absence of the school spirit that we once knew so well. Love is not the opportunity for close comradeship, and these legations cannot be fostered in children who are housed long miles to and from school, many of them scarcely knowing each other's names. Busy teachers are not such an intimate part of the community that they once were.

In this "do-it-yourself" age, children actually do very little themselves as far as providing their own entertainment, or stimulating interest in events is concerned. Instead they are being entertained. I do not know if this is a good or bad thing. I do know however that there was a "something" about school fairs, and school concerts in which the old adage "do it yourself" attitude prevailed, and there was a spirit that we could well use more of to-day.

2nd Instalment of "Campies".

As there were none of the farmers who could take a week off in those days, and just be 180 percent idle, we always went to camp during July when the berries were beginning to ripen.

So every day, while maybe some of the men would decide to go fishing, one would stay at camp & babysit, taking turns at that job), we women, loaded down with pails, picked saskatoons, chokecherries, wild plums, etc., being careful to pick them really on the green side so they would not be too ripe by the time we got home. (We never left the berry patch, though, without first picking enough saskatoons for supperarch night, those being the riper ones). Then we didn't feel very guilty at taking a week or so off, combining work with pleasure.

When we did get home to the farm again, and were bone-tired from the tramping around on soft ground all day, sleeping on bumpy straw ticks (no springs of course), picking berries day after day and eating at all hours, we felt it was worth while. Being in such close contact with nature,enjoying the beautiful outdoor we thanked Him who gives us these blessings so freely (and I'm afraid so many of us take too much for granted) as our just due. Right?

It has been over 40 years since I last camped in that site. I feel as inadequate in describing it, that I feel I could do no better than to quote excerps from my daughter's letter she wrote to me after she had gone to see it again, also after over 40 years of absence.

"We went away back North the other day, on little-travelled prairie trails, just for the sheer fun of it. I told my two girls, who were with us, how I used to go "Buggy-riding" along these same trails, and one of the girls, (aged 7), asked, "What's a BUGGY, Mom?

Then we went up a fairly steep grade now well gravelled and wide, where your Daddy and I ran well remember having to PUSH the old "Model T" to give it the added "Horse-power" needed, to make the grade.

We then went on down to the old Camp grounds. That old house is empty now, with the blinds drawn and rugged. The grass is tall and weedy, the trees, many of them, have decayed and fallen over, altho' some lovely old pines are as straight and green as ever.

The little Brook still "Tinkles" along as it did 40 years ago, (and probably 4,000 years before that.)"

Then, altho' we grow older, people change, and every day excels even to be moving at such a terrific pace, it is almost impossible to keep up with things, the beauties of Nature remain the same. We would repeat the Psalmist, "Oh, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, AND FOR HIS WONDERFUL WORKS TO THE CHILDREN OF MAN".

So, I repeat, isn't it nice, these cold winter days, to look back on our Summer Holidays, not only of last year, but even the ones we had years ago, and re-live those most wonderful, care-free days once again.

A rash of goals in the second stanza saw the Indians score five times on counters by Miller (2), Grant, Poole and Thomas, while W. Josephson hit the net twice for Viking.

On Wednesday, Dec. 18th the Hardisty Stumps travelled to Irma to take on the Aces in the second regular B. R. scheduled game.

At 7.47 Anderson scored again with his assist going to G. Anderson, to put the Sabres ahead. At 19.02 R. Orebroki received a minor for elbowing and at 19.35 Drever set Grant up to make it 4-2. Late in the second period G. Grant received a minor for charging.

In the third period Meier scored with H. Hubman assisting to make it 4-3. A rash of penalties were rained out in the third frame, with Larson of Irma and Sorenson of Sedgewick getting match penalties at 7.02. Other Sabre penalties went to Mirhead, Sorenson and D. Rombough. During the last five minutes of the game the Irma club had many shots on goal but were unable to score. Final score 4-3 for the Sabres

After the game the league executive held a meeting and decided to adopt the proposed league rules, to be distributed to teams.

MINISTER RETIRES

Heber G. Jenson, Deputy Minister of the Department of Lands and Forests, retired from the Alberta public service on November 1, 1963.

Mr. Jensen is a native of Cardston, Alberta; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jensen are residents of Cardston; they came to Southern Alberta from Utah in 1897.

Heber Jensen received his formal education at Cardston and at Normal School in Calgary. He taught school at Aetna, Hillspring and Cardston between the years 1912 and 1927. He became principal of Cardston School before resigning to accept a Magistrate's appointment in 1927.

In 1946, Mr. Jensen was appointed police court magistrate in Calgary. The following year he became the sole Provincial member of the newly formed Eastern Rockies Forest Conservation Board. In 1951 he accepted the position of Deputy Minister of the Department of Lands and Forests, the post he is relinquishing twelve years later.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen reared five children, three daughters and two sons. Four are married; there are seventeen grandchildren. The Jensen family are members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and both Heber and Mrs. Jensen have been leading participants in church affairs. Mr. Jensen is a director of the Canadian Forestry Association and has worked actively with the Boy Scout movement in Canada. He has served on executive committee of both National and Alberta Provincial Scouts associations.

Mr. Jensen's successor is Mr. Eric R. Hoestis, Alberta's Director of Forestry.

Mr. Hoestis was born in Nova Scotia and came with his parents to Alberta in 1903. Completed his formal grade schooling in Edmonton and graduated to the University of British Columbia for his forestry training.

Mr. Hoestis commenced seasonal work with the Dominion Forest Service in Alberta in 1923. He became assistant forest superintendent of the Crowsnest Forest in 1926. He later became Superintendent of the Clearwater Forest and served in that capacity at the time of the transfer of natural resources from federal to provincial authority in 1930.

Mr. Hoestis was appointed acting assistant director of forestry in the Alberta Department of Lands and Mines in 1940. He received an additional duty under an appointment as Fish and Game Commissioner in 1941. By 1947 he was Assistant Director of Forestry and Fish and Game Commissioner. In March, 1949, he became Director while retaining his fish and game responsibilities.

Under pressure of growing forestry responsibilities, Mr. Hoestis relinquished his fish and game duties in 1950. His appointment to Deputy Minister of the Department of Lands and Forests is effective immediately.

Construction Starts On New Post Office Buildings

OTTAWA — The Honourable Paul Deschatelets, Minister of Public Works, has announced the award of two contracts to the Greenfield Construction Limited of Edmonton, Alberta, for the construction of Post Office buildings at Killam & Sedgewick. The contract price for the Killam building is $19,600 and for the Sedgewick project $20,320.

The firm submitted the lowest bid of two in each case in response to advertising for public tenders which closed on Nov. 28th, 1963. The highest bid for Killam was $20,953 and for Sedgewick $21,635. The work in each is scheduled for completion in four months.

Construction work on both projects commenced this week.

Both buildings will be identical in construction and each will be 32 by 55 feet. They will be one storey with out basement, with concrete foundations and frame construction. The exteriors will be in brick and the interiors in plaster board and plywood with linoleum covering on the floors. Heating will be by oil burning furnaces. A truck yard and loading platform will be at the rear of each. The Killam building will be located on Dufferin Street and the Sedgewick on MacDonald Street.

Plans and specifications for each were prepared in the Edmonton District Architect's office of the Department of Public Works. A. Cook, District Architect for the Department at Edmonton, will be responsible for supervision of work.

TV Course Starts Jan. 6

Soils, forage crops, beef cattle production and farm and home management are the topics to be featured on the television short course entitled "This Business of Farming". It will be carried on all CBC stations and their affiliates between 10:30 & 11:30 a.m. from Monday, January 6th to Friday, January 10th.

Soils, soil zones and the importance of grass in their development and improvement will be the topic of Monday's program. Erosion control, the use of moisture and the effects of cultivation on the soil will be discussed.

Tuesday's program will deal with forage crops. The value of forage crops for pasture, hay and soil improvement will be stressed as well as the various aspects of good management from the point of view of profitable economic returns.

On Wednesday prairie livestock specialists will discuss the economics of beef cattle production with emphasis on management practices often neglected by small operators. Methods of improving the herd will also be outlined.

The Thursday program will be focused on feeding beef cattle for marketing. It will cover various aspects of cereal, sources of cattle, facilities for finishing, feedlot health and marketing.

Friday's program will be a provincial production. In Alberta, emphasis will be on the Farm and Home Management Program of the Department of Agriculture. It will show how Peace farmers in the Olds area have built up their farms and increased their annual production as a result of keeping records. The program attempts to show the reasoning behind the decisions made by these farmers and how these decisions are related to long term objectives for the farm and for family living.

The three Alberta farm families who play a vital role in Friday's program are Mr. and Mrs. Mel Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chant, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Finnigan. Viewers will see how better farm and home management has enabled them to get more satisfaction from the farm in terms of income and family life.

"This Business of Farming" is certainly well worth seeing. It should provide some of the answers to the question of how to make the farm a good place to live as well as how to make farming a good business.

Flagstaff Scout Council Meets

SEDGEWICK — The regular meeting of the Flagstaff District Scout Council was held at Sedgewick.

Minutes and treasurer's report were read and adopted.

The Junior First Aid Course was discussed. Anyone who has had the St. John's Ambulance First Aid Course would be able to give the necessary instruction for this course. The mileage rate was discussed. It was voted to raise the rate from 6c to 8c per mile.

Reports were given in regards to the activities and progress of the various groups. All seemed to be satisfactory. The Heider group committee was presented with their certificates and cards.

Denny May explained a new deal in Scouting. Further information is to follow later on this.

It was suggested that where Scout ing was temporarily suspended, that the boys be interested in Lone Scouting.

Lorne Fox, A.D.C., gave a talk on Public Relations. Alex Hirsch, D. C. omy. This progress has resulted from the continued orderly development of our natural resources, the labors of our farmers and workmen and the important contribution made by our technical and professional personnel. New export markets for our surplus grain have improved the buoyancy of our farm economy.

In the midst of this sound growth and encouraging progress, it is important that we do not overlook the seriousness of established trends in taxation, public debt and general price levels. This is one of the most important tasks on which governments at all levels must concentrate with the full understanding and support of the people they serve.

On the international scene many major problems remain to be solved before men and nations can know in actual experience the peace and security for which they crave.

Where we consider the state of the world today, we must be convinced that some greater contribution by all of us to the good and welfare of mankind is essential if our world is to move from the dark shadows into the light.

Materialistic progress has proven ineffective in solving the problems of man's inhumanity to man. We must seek the answers from another source — a source higher than the wisdom and efforts of erring men. Christianity's message of supernatural spiritual regeneration has demonstrated its power to transform the lives of men for good. Through its application on an individual, national and international scale, the realization of peace on earth still remains possible. The year ahead affords to us a new opportunity to pledge our lives to a greater, more complete allegiance to the God of our fathers, that He through us can demonstrate this way to a better world.

Personally and on behalf of the Government of Alberta, I wish you God's richest blessings throughout 1964.

As we stand on the threshold of 1964, the best wish I can think of for all my fellow citizens is that we move into the New Year with the same determination and will-to-win as we moved into the New Year 20 years ago.

In 1943 our fortunes were at a very low ebb. Thousands of our fighting forces had already given their lives to defend this country of ours, and the way of life we like best, while the dark clouds of war were casting gloom over all of us at home.

And yet, inspired by the courage of our forebears and our allies, we refused to bow down to the misfortune that threatened us. Instead we rallied behind the men behind the guns. Together, we emerged free, and triumphant from disaster.

I believe that, after one of the most momentous years in our history, a year of tragedy and fateful happenings, we need to summon courage once again to meet the future with hope and confidence.

The year just passed brought us new developments in science and in the pattern of education. It brought into being new nations and shattered the early aspirations of some others. But the tragic death of President Kennedy, among other leaders, cast a shadow over the bright spots.

Now, I believe, we should let our fellow Canadians overseas, the service personnel, the civilian workers and all, know that we are determined to make 1964 a rich and rewarding year of achievement. This is also my personal wish to each one of you.

New Year's Message

(By Honorable E. C. Manning)

On behalf of the Government of Alberta, I extend to all citizens of our province every good wish for a happy, prosperous and purposeful New Year.

Nineteen sixty-three was marked by a substantial measure of further progress and development in almost every phase of our provincial economy. As the fastest growing province in Canada, we have successfully maintained our position of leadership in social progress, industrial development and economic expansion. This progress has resulted from the continued orderly development of our natural resources, the labors of our farmers and workmen and the important contribution made by our technical and professional personnel. The Year A. D. 1964!

Another year has come and gone, and all that remains of 1963 is what the memory may retain and history books record. To western Canada, and to Alberta in particular it will probably be remembered as the year of the "Big Sale" with markets for grain opening up as never before, absorbing one of the largest crops in the history of the west. To others it will be recalled as the year when the Gross National Product reached an all-time high, and the corresponding "spending spree" of individuals and governments kept pace with it. Still others will look back on 1963 as a year when the map of the world changed dramatically, with new nations surging forth in national birth.

Great and moving progress was made in the fields of medicine, of science and in technology. Inspiring moves were attempted in social science, unfortunately with little real results. Great strides were made in medical science, with a glimmer of hope emerging that soon we shall win the fight against diseases of long standing. Yes, 1963 was a great year in some respects.

We are winning the battle with disease, also with scientific knowledge, and with space travel and explorations. We are extending the life span of man with medical science and foods, but little or no progress was made, teaching man how to get along with his fellow beings.

May the year 1964 bring some prospect of a break-through in the darkness that beclouds man's treatment of man. Then, and then only will man reach his intended destiny on this earth.

While Nero Fiddled!

"The Nation Does A Slow Burn While Ottawa Dithers"

(Guest Editorial from Farm and Ranch Review).

Simply by the law of averages NDP leader Tommy Douglas is bound to make the occasional sound statement. Alas, we find ourselves agreeing with him, over a very sad subject indeed — the current state of affairs in Ottawa.

During the recent inane debates over seating the rival Social Credit factions in the House, he confessed: "We are making a ludicrous spectacle of Parliament — the Canadian people are not concerned about how we got into this mess; they are concerned about how to get out of it."

The people were not just concerned, they were becoming a trifle fed up. While the politicians, like Nero, fiddled, Canada lans did a slow burn over the unfinished national business. The public expects at least a little action between elections. Why is it not forthcoming may be explained by these few examples of official dithering.

Where once the daily oral question period in Commons took but 15 or 20 minutes it now regularly consumes up to an hour-and-a-half. The nation's business was delayed once when a member had the Postmaster General explain why a public telephone was removed from some small branch office in Saskatchewan. An hour and a half out of the short 5 and a half hour Commons workday for such minutiae hardly beggars a pay increase for M. P's.

Parliament voted to sit longer hours to get on with national affairs and then wasted a full day in an embittered acrimonious wrangle over where some of its $18,000-a-year members are to sit. And even then it wasn't settled.

Like sorority sisters who have had a falling out, Real Caouette and his twelve break-away Creditistes refused to sit with their former friends. The House thereby frittered away a full week of debate without passing a single piece of legislation.

When the NDP Member of Parliament for Skeena, B.C., Mr. Frank Howard, wrote an ordinary letter of inquiry in English to Quebec Resources Minister Rene Levesque, Mr. Levesque wrote the reply in French. Mr. Howard couldn't leave it at that. To show something or other, perhaps the superiority of NDP leadership, Mr. Howard wrote Mr. Levesque again, in Iroquois. Not to be outdone in lowering the tone of the whole exchange, Mr. Levesque replied, in Eskimo.

Surely we don't need a Royal Commission on Biculturalism to put an end to this kind of silly nonsense!

First the Diefenbaker government came out with its National Productivity Council; then the Pearson government announced its Economic Council of Canada. Both of which were supposed to invigorate the nation's economy which in the long run provides all our material benefits. But so far the public has seen little action beyond further depression of the economy by increased government taxing and spending.

The public expects, awaits and deserves something a little more concrete than weighty pronouncements and mighty exhortations.

When it comes to milking cows, Agriculture Minister Hayes takes his hat off to no one, at least to no one in Parliament. And he bluntly said so before the House.

The subject might have been dropped for more weightly issues there and then but for Mr. Arnold Peters, the NDP member for Timiskaming, who apparently has time hanging heavily on his hands. Mr. Peters considered this a challenge, and wrote the Minister a letter (on Government stationery no doubt) suggesting that they both drop everything to hold a milking contest. He even went to the trouble of working out some terms of the encounter, naming the place, suggesting a referee and a judge.

If this side-show ever gets off the ground(! it's a safe bet that Messrs Arnold and Hays may not be the prettiest but will certainly be the highest-paid milkmaids in the land!

Everyone in Commons agreed that the federal government should co-operate more with the provinces, and showed it by approving the principle 187 to 0. Never theless they had to do it the hard way. It was the NDP leader who first introduced the motion, and when Mr. Pearson's Liberals supported it, obstructive Mr. Diefenbaker claimed that this Liberal support was admission that it had not previously fully co-operated with the provinces, and it was thereby a non-confidence motion.

This is what happened: the government moved the House go into a committee of supply. The Conservative opposition tried to amend the motion into one of non-confidence. The NDP moved to amend the Conservative amendment to make its original motion into one of non-confidence. The Prime Minister called it a simple affirmation of principle instead of non-confidence, and therefore could support it. The NDP motion was approved by NDP, Liberals, S. C. and Creditistes over Conservative opposition. The Conservative motion, now stripped of censure by the NDP motion was passed unanimously.

So everyone wound up with what they wanted in the first place — unanimous support for federal co-operation with the provinces.

This might have been the sort of thing Prime Minister Pearson was referring to when he said that Commons was wallowing by conducting its business according to rules that "had very great meaning in the 18th and 17th centuries".

To the average citizen it amounts to little more than 20-odd weeks of political in-fighting, bickering and general top-level dithering.

WELL, IT WAS BETTER THAN NO YEAR AT ALL . . .

Slicing The Population Pie

OTTAWA— The twelve thousand people in Quebec's Iles de la Madeleine send one member to the House of Commons in Ottawa. Toronto's York-Scarborough, with one hundred and seventy thousand people, also sends one member to the House of Commons.

This enormous variation in the population of ridings, the disparity in the weight of a vote depending on where it's cast, should be evened out in the forthcoming redistribution of seats and re-drawing of riding boundaries.

The next election, unless it comes within two and a half years, will probably be based on a redistributed House of Commons.

In other words, it will probably be a larger House of Commons. Some provinces will have fewer seats in it, others will have more. Some ridings will have disappeared completely, new ones will have been created, many will have their boundaries changed.

No operation is closer to the hearts and minds of politicians than this re-shaping of the boundaries of their ridings.

The redistribution of seats, by law, is to take place every ten years, following the year of the census. The general guiding principle is representation by population. One vote should be as strong as another, no matter where it is cast.

So many exceptions and compromises have been made to this general rule however, that at best any redistribution merely succeeds in alleviating some of the most obvious inequities.

The next redistribution may just change that record. In the first place, it will probably be carried out for the first time by an independent commission, instead of by the flimsily partisan Parliamentary Committees which have done the job until now.

Parliament has already passed one bill establishing the post of representation commissioner, and conferring it upon Nelson Castonguay, the Chief Electoral Officer. If that officials and immensely talented government cannot bring some reason and order into Parliamentary representation, no one can.

Second bill, establishing boundary commissions to carry out the actual work of drawing up new boundaries, is to be introduced in the new session of Parliament.

This Commission, however independent, will be dealing with some of the most sensitive political problems of the day. Population statistics, for example, make it plain that with the present number of seats, Saskatchewan, Quebec, and Nova Scotia will lose seats while Ontario, Alberta, and British Columbia will gain seats.

This is distasteful enough to the losers, of course, but if there were any tradition of adherence to representation by population, that would be the end of the matter. This admirable formula has never been followed however. Rules and regulations have been pressed into service to make sure that the principle cannot operate at its fullest.

No province, for example, can have fewer Members of Parliament than it has Senators. Prince Edward Island shall therefore have a minimum of four members, even though its total population is little more than half the riding of York-Scarborough in Ontario. New Brunswick has ten members now, and cannot have fewer because of the Senate rule.

When the 1962 redistribution was carried out, some additional rules were introduced to protect Saskatchewan. That province, under strict population considerations, would have dropped from 20 members to 15 members.

This seemed to the then Liberal Government, which happened to hold a majority of the Saskatchewan seats, to be an unconscionable decrease in Saskatchewan representation.

An amendment to the British North America Act was passed providing that no reduction of more than 15% at any one time could be made in the number of members assigned to any province.

Saskatchewan could lose only 3 seats under this formula, and therefore got 17 seats in the Commons. It now stands to lose even more. But one of the biggest brains still currently be fought on just how many more it should lose, and how the 15 per cent rule will apply.

Another provision is that no province's seats can be reduced to a lower number than that given to another province which has a smaller population.

The permutations and combinations of this almost impossible system will be the problem of the independent commission when it is set up. Parliament, of course, will have to approve the commission's report, and every member of Parliament can then be expected to make sure that his personal and political interests are not being trampled upon.

As always, redistribution is going to hurt some politicians. But it's going to make the House of Commons much more representative than it is now, or than it ever has been.

It will be some kind of crime if the independent commission hasn't been able to carry out redistribution for the next election. Even now the House of Commons is composed of constituencies based on population figures that are 12 years old.

Parliament should move without further delay to give the independent commission life and to let it get to work.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of my husband, Joe Konopecki, who passed away on January 1st, 1962.
Two and and lonely years have passed
Since my great sorrow fell;
The shock that I received that day,
No one can ever tell.
Dear Lord forgive a silent tear,
And a constant wish that he were here
Others were taken, yes, I know,
But he was mine and I miss him so.
To you the loving husband,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see his vacant chair.
Always remembered and sadly missed by: His Wife Rose. 37 1p

In loving memory of our Father, Joe Konopecki, who passed away on January 1st, 1962.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf,
A loving thought, a silent tear,
A beautiful memory of you, dear.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by: Husband Wife, two Sons, and Families. 37 1 c

SUSPENSION
Paul Dion of Hardisty Stampeders has been suspended for the next three games, effective Dec. 27th.

KILLAM INDIANS HOLD LEAD BY TAKING STAMPS 7-6

The Killam Indians, showing good conditioning and lots of desire, held onto their league lead last Saturday night by edging the Hardisty Stampeders 7-6, in a see-saw battle that saw the scoring lead change hands several times. Only a small crowd partly filled the big Hardisty Arena to watch what at times was a rather ragged game, showing only the occasional spurt of fast team-effort hockey.

The Stamps took the lead after 5 minutes of play when Hendricks put the puck in the net assisted by Dennis. At 6:40 Sorenson tied it up with Potts assisting. Dennis for Hardisty and Graeme (Miller) closed out the initial period at 2-2.

The second frame showed an outburst of goals, with raggedy defensive play on both sides. Hendricks, Goltz (Robinson) and Adams hit the twine for the Stamps, while Sherwood (Guir) and Miller (Graeme) notched counters for the Indians, the score: 5-4 for the Stampeders.

The final stanza speeded up and saw Killam score 2 times, Guir from Grant, Christenson from Sherwood, and Graeme from Christenson, while the Stamps notched twice, Miller from Hendricks and Dennis from J. Goltz. Final score: 7-6 for Killam.

Feelings got to running a bit high, with one near fight, and another with several blows being struck.

FUA Again Sponsors Annual Burns Night

SEDGEWICK — The Sedgewick F. U. A. Local is again sponsoring its annual Burns Night, which this year will be held on January 24th.

This year the committee has come up with something new, and of high calibre in the way of entertainment. To be featured on the program will be Dolores Rose, Senior Soprano, and Ermanna Mauro, Operatic Tenor.

Dolores Rose, while attending University, discovered that she was being overpaid by the Canadian Institute for the Blind, and while thus employed has continued with her studies in music and singing.

Dolores Rose and Ermanno Mauro both belong to the Edmonton Professional Opera Assn., and recently placer second in Metropolitan Opera Trials for Western Canada.

Also featured on the program will be Walter Muir, Piano Soloist and Heather Muir and Caroline McNeal. Mrs. Anne Ferrier will give the program a local touch.

Local Boys Attend Tuxis Parliament

LETHBRIDGE— The Tuxis and Older Boys' Parliament of Alberta held its 44th annual session in Lethbridge from December 26 to 30th.

Elite Sergeant of Sedgewick represented the youth of Lougheed and Sedgewick.

Representing Hardisty at the Parliament was Henry Hays who will give a report on the Boys Parliament to the St. Paul's United Church, Hardisty, on Sunday Jan. 5th at the 7:30 p.m. Service.

The Parliament, a Christ-centered model legislative assembly, had as its theme a portion of the Great Commission, "Into All the World." Legislation considered during the session relates to the responsibility of every Christian to proclaim his beliefs.

Issues included the Indian Problem, teachers' right to strike, open Sundays, and ban of tobacco products.

The 95 members of this session represent Baptist, Presbyterian, Anglican, and United Church congregations in all parts of Alberta. They are Christian young men quer tioning but invite about their beliefs. They seek the character imbibed that the Parliament offers, implied in the scriptural bases of the organization, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man." (Luke 2:52)

During the session, members participated in various worship, social, educational and recreational activities. Senator J. Gladstone, the only Indian in the Canadian Senate, spoke to the members in a plenary session concerning the Indian Problem resolution.

It was announced during the session that a National Conference for the Leaders of Boys' Parliaments from across the country will be held here in Alberta sometime in 1967. The Parliamentary movement has spread to all the provinces since its inception in Ontario in 1917, as an offshoot of the old interdenominational Tuxis-Trail Ranger youth training program.

The Parliament will meet in Calgary next year during the Christmas holidays for its 45th Session.

Evangelist To Hold Local Meetings

Mr. Nels Pederson is an evangelist and Bible conference teacher for the Lutheran Evangelistic Movement, which will be carried on a program of evangelism in our Lutheran churches for the past 20 some years.

Mr. Pederson began his evangelistic work with the L E M in the summer of 1954, after having devoted 6 years to doing similar work on an independent basis.

Mr. Pederson grew up on a farm in southern Minnesota. At the time of his conversion at a Bible camp in 1938, he was employed as an auto mechanic. He later gave up his secular occupation to attend the Luther an Bible Institute for 2 years, after which he served churches of the Augustana Lutheran Church at Paton and Siren, Wisconsin. Since beginning his work with the Lutheran Evangelistic Movement, he has traveled extensively in the Middle West, the Pacific Northwest, and in Canada, speaking at Bible conferences and evangelistic meetings sponsored by that organization.

Wedding Bells

On December 28th at 8.30 p.m. a quiet wedding was performed in the Pinebow Creek United Church by the Rev. Dormer, for Mr. Gerald Reginald Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett of Killam, and Miss Diane Phyllis Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young of Calgary.

The bride wore a white wool dress with black accessories. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hammond, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

After a wedding supper the happy couple left for their home in Big Piney, Wyoming.

LOUGHEED —With the price of farm land soaring in recent years, more and more farmers are clearing and breaking the extra pieces that have been under brush. This picture shows a "cat" owned by Austin Sorken of Killam, at work on the land of John Birchill, north-east of Lougheed. It is the first time we've been close-up to one of the machines at this type of work, and it was amazing the ease with which it "walked" through 8 and 10 inch trees like so many match sticks. — Community Press Photo.

Course In Jurisprudence!

The super-abundance of activities that abound today to attract the young people, and the souped-up pressures that confront parents, make it doubly difficult for the two factions to get together to study, or at least talk over some of the problems that confound society in this day and age. One of these problems is our system of jurisprudence. According to the Canadian Corrections Association, the lack of information on this subject has a lot to do with the continuing rise in serious crimes among the young adults of our nation. Of course the cliche that ignorance of the law is no excuse, holds true in the basic sense, but because people, and especially young people, are not interested enough in matters of law to acquaint themselves with it, it also holds true that the ignorance is present. While this will not help them in any way once they become involved with the law, that same ignorance may be the net cause of them ending up in the clutches of law-enforcement agencies.

There is a newly published text-book entitled "Youth and the Law," which may well be introduced to every teen-ager in our land. In fact it has been suggested that this book be used as a basis for a course to be introduced into grade nine in our schools. It is a proposal that certainly should merit the endorsement of all parents, and should be considered by the Departments of Education. The booklet relates the historical evolution of the law on into the birth of democratic institutions; the criminal code is explained; the functions of police officers and the courts are outlined. Perhaps more important are sections which deal with adolescent offences and why they are committed; on penal institutions, rehabilitation and how to avoid trouble with the law.

It is becoming increasingly evident that steps must be taken and taken soon to curb the continuing rise in crime. In 1961 there were 7360 convictions on indictable offences concerning people between the ages of 18 and 21, across Canada; a rise of almost 35 percent from 1957 This was about three times the population growth in this age category. Carrying these figures a bit further we may ascertain that one criminal out of five in Canada today is what may be termed as a "young adult".

As already mentioned, not many parents have time, or take the time, to instruct their youngsters in what the law is and how it functions. In fact a good many parents are not well enough versed in the matter themselves to instruct anybody. But such teaching is implicit today, and grade nine in our schools is a good place to begin. We have courses less worthy.

Slow Start, Fast Finish!

The first session of the present parliament ended with a number of long sittings in order that the members might get home for Christmas. Opposition parties put on a show of trying to discuss and criticize the estimates seriously, but they were more influenced by their desire to conclude their business quickly than by their duty to the taxpayers. They had no noticeable effect on the broad policy of government spending.

Unfinished business included the Canada Pension Plan, which still requires a few major changes if it is to be passed at all. One change in the pattern may be the transfer of Miss Judy LaMarsh from her present portfolio of health and welfare to a ministry in which she will have less power and less opportunity for making public speeches. The prime minister to date has maintained a discreet silence about the possibility of such a development. Some other cabinet changes may be due to occur in the new year. Disclosure of patronage in the department of the postmaster-general has made him an easy target for attacks from opposition members. Political patronage is probably no worse under the present administration than it has been under administrations of the past, but it always offers an opportunity for a show of righteousness by members who have no chance of dispensing patronage themselves.

The minister of finance, although his performance has been disappointing to friends and foes, will probably retain his portfolio because the prime minister will not yield to pressure for his removal and because there is no prominent Liberal to replace him. Mr. Pigergsill, who answers in the house for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, has annoyed Toronto members of his own party by his refusal to interfere with the C B C's decision to make one of its two Toronto outlets a French-language station. Toronto is now cosmopolitan in language and many cultures are represented in it by sizable minorities, most of whom find it convenient to learn English for doing business with their fellow-citizens. The new Canadians whose native tongue is not French, would prefer to see the CBC station go to Italian, Ukranian of Finnish, if a change must be made, but they have apparently been quite content to listen or refrain from listening to English broadcasts. Like the English-speaking majority they resent the French language being forced upon them in the sacred cause of bilingualism. — Letter Review.

EASIER CAMPAIGNS!

The probability of shorter election campaigns is indicated by the government's authorization of a study of the adoption of a permanent voters' list. At present the Canadian Election Act requires a minimum of 49 days between the issue of election write and the actual polling date; in practice, to permit the enumeration of voters and corrections to the list, the minimum is about 59 days. It is possible that a permanent voters' list, at an estimated cost of $8 million a year to maintain could cut the required preparation time in half.

As far as the electioneering is concerned, four weeks would seem quite adequate in these days of travel by airplane and automobile, comprehensive news coverage, and speech-making on television & radio. A shorter campaign would certainly ease the physical strain on party leaders, and the financial strain on all candidates.

Shorter campaigns would be a lot easier on the public too — not only in the matter of having to pay heed to all the embellishments that are added to party platforms during an eight-week campaign, but also in the matter of having to pay for all of the promises of higher spending that are pinched into the platforms over the long haul. — C.J.H. (Clip Sheet).

LOOKING AFTER HIS OWN!

No doubt the Liberal Government at Ottawa and the Hon. Mr. Hellyer, anticipated the proposals for cuts in defence spending would bring forth loud howls of protest across Canada. That this proved the case then came as no surprise. If there was any surprising element to it at all, it was in the fact that individual M. P's, intrested only in serving their own constituents, cried aloud against any part of the program that would cause any degree of unemployment, or harm the economy in their own back yards. Oh, they are for economy, theoretically, but want any such program to be borne by some other section of the country than their own. Nontheless Mr. Hellyer indicates that more cuts are on the way, so look for every instance to bring forth loud bleats from M. P's. The attitude still seems to be, confound economics if it confounds me.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Happier Days Ahead

OTTAWA — Having survived an early barrage of the slings and arrows of political fortune Finance Minister Walter Gordon may be in for much happier day in 1964. His June budget last year was the most disastrous ever delivered by a Finance Minister. Even its conception came under fire after the Bay St. reports were disclosed.

It had two objectives, to encourage Canadian investment in Canadian industry and to work towards a balanced budget. Of the first there is nothing more than a skeleton left. The second vanished into thin air when Mr Gordon's Cabinet Colleagues refused to swallow an 11 percent tax on building materials and machinery used in manufacturing.

With a resulting loss of $115 million in revenue Mr. Gordon's plan to undercut his predecessor's $700 million deficit went out the window. The current deficit will be under one million only by virtue of Mr. Knowlan.

With the record shattering exports of wheat resulting from the sale to Russia, Canada is assured of a gross national product in the neighborhood of $40 billion or about 6 percent above 1962. This means a very sizeable increase in Mr. Gordon's revenues, already beginning to be reflected in income tax collections.

But more important than the impact of wheat sales on 1963-64 revenue will be the effect in 1964-65. By far the largest part of the 220 million bushels will be delivered this Russian hands between the opening of navigation in April and the end of the crop year in July or in the next fis-al year.

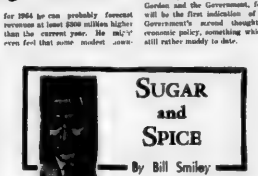
Indeed for the next two years at least the Canadian economy can feed on wheat. After looking after domestic needs and export sales now estimated at 76 million bushels Canada will end this crop year with only 466 million bushels in the bin, the lowest carryover in 10 years. Between commitments to Iron Curtain Countries and normal requirements of Canada's regular customers one is assured of wheat sales of 946 million bushels in the crop year 1964-65. But European needs will not be normal by the next crop year. Even with agreement among Common Market countries on grain prouction which is still doubtful, Western Europe will need large quantities of Canadian wheat. An export of more than 970 million bushels is a reasonable forecast which means there will be a second record crop with not elevator in the pipeline.

These are the prospects towards which Mr. Gordon can look as he sits down with his budget makers toward the end of this month to prepare his financial statement for the Spring. And there is no longer much doubt but that Mr. Gordon will prepare & deliver it. It was only the loyalty of a close friend, the Prime Minister, that prevented the June effort being his first and last budget.

In admitting mistakes to his House of Commons Mr. Gordon himself indicated the uncertainty of his tenure. "I have made mistakes and I may make more mistakes if I stay" he said and he has stayed.

On the basis of another certain increase in the gross national product for 1964 he can probably forecast revenues at least $300 million higher than the current year. He might even feel that some modest downward adjustment in rates were in order.

All of which merely proves that one budget does not make (or break) a Finance Minister. But the next will be an important one for both Mr. Gordon and the Government, for it will be the first indication of the Government's second thoughts on economic policy, something which is still rather muddy to date.



SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Wading through the snow to the garage this morning, climbing the snowbank thrown up by the plow, and picking up my shovel to commence a typical Canadian winter day, I couldn't help feeling sorry for poor old George Cadogan and wife, Elda, who are wintering in Spain. The cowards!

Newspaper people who are taking a year off to write, they are settled on the island of Mallorca in the Mediterranean, with two cats, a dog and daughter Kathie, 14.

Anyway, so I took a deep breath of that crunchy polar air, and started coughing, my heart went out to them. Here I was, a victim of the true north, red blood pumping in practically every vein, nose running freely, heart thumping sporadically, battling the elements to begin another day's hunt for meat for my little family.

And where was George? At that very moment, he was strolling indolently down the hill in Palma de Mallorca, on his way to the bakeshop to buy some of those crusty little rolls, hot from the oven, and take them back to the apartment where he and Elda would sit on their balcony, in their shorts, and have breakfast, looking at that same old monotonous scene — the Mediterranean sparkling in the sun.

And as I thought of this, I was so overcome by pity for them that I started to cry. At least, I think that's what made me commence weeping. At any rate, I was still sobbing when I got into the car and found it wouldn't start.

Think of what they miss! There's the happy family jaunt to the Christmas tree lot, and the delightful, dem

The Hardisty Ladies Curling Club held a meeting and elected Mrs. A. Kobluk as president, and Mrs. Margaret Harper as Sec.-Treas.

Hardisty's hockey team is giving a good account of itself this season. On Dec. 27th a game was played at the arena against Killam, the score being 6-3 for Hardisty. On Jan. 3rd, Hardisty defeated Sedgewick 8-7.

The Sedgewick Fire Dept. had another blaze to fight when fire broke out in Irma's Beauty Shop just after midnight on Christmas Day. The fire was quickly put out, although considerable water damage resulted.

INDIANS PAD LEAD IN WIN OVER VIKING

KILLAM — The Indians hosted Vikings entry in the B. R. League on Saturday night, and added though a 5 to 1 victory.

The first period was fought on an even basis, with Evans assisted by Josephson opening the scoring for Viking at 3.10. The Indians came back at 9.10 to even the count at 1-1 for the period.

Miller scored on an assist from B. Gaume at 4.30 of the second frame to give Killam the lead. This proved to be the only goal of the period.

The third period opened fast with Killam scoring three unanswered goals, Miller from Gaume, Pentz assisted by Gair, and Gelz from John Muirhead. The final count: Killam 5, Viking 1.

Three penalties were handed out by referees Spiller and Heinse, two to Viking and 1 to Killam.

CLASSIC FORM. It looks more like a ballet dance than a hockey game as Toronto Maple Leafs' Eddie Shack glides gracefully over the ice with eyes closed and knees high. But Shack changed his pose and scored the final goal in this game against New York Rangers, with the Leafs taking it 3-2.—

Why not make this a "LOOK-BEFORE-YOU-LEAP" YEAR?

Just because 1964 has a February 29 in it, there's no reason to go leaping into anything. Certainly not into the financing of important purchases like a car, a major household appliance or a TV. Before buying something you hope to enjoy throughout the whole bright new year, take a good look at the Bank of National Family Finance Plan. Indians Win At New Years Tourney

KILLAM — Three close and keenly contested games featured the New Years Day hockey tournament held at Killam before a full-out crowd.

The weather was warm, and while this was probably responsible for a large crowd, it didn't do much to make ice conditions conducive to the fastest of hockey.

In the first game the hometown Indians took the decision over Daysland North Stars to the tune of 5-3. Ice conditions were the best for this encounter and play was fast and rather rugged.

With the ice pretty well cheesed up, the second game between Viking and Foresburg was slowed down considerably, the puck being controlled only with difficulty. The final count was 2-1 for Forresburg.

There was standing room only for the final game between Killam and Forresburg. Puck control was almost impossible, with the ice well cheesed up; stick-handling was impossible.

The final score was Killam 3, and Forresburg 2.

Stampeders Cop Home Tournament

The first annual New Years Day Hockey Tournament held in Hardisty was most successful, with the seven records enjoying the three days of games during the afternoon and evening.

A handsome trophy, to be competed for annually, was presented by the following pipe-line boys: Cliff Moody, Bill Baldwin, Walter Szabo, Chuck Broughton, Lorne Morrison, Harold Morrison, Milt Sims, Dan Hooper, Darrell Goodridge, and Leo Hendricks.

In the first game, which proved to be the fastest of the day, the Stars took a close one from Irma 3 to 2.

Macklin, Sask. and Wainwright hooked up for the second encounter with Macklin winning 8-2. The win due to warm weather, was heavy for this game, and slowed the action to some extent. A feature of the game was three goals scored by Macklin within 57 seconds of the opening whistle.

The final game saw the Hardisty Stampeders take the measure of the Macklin squad to the tune of 6-4.

The prize money of $240.00, was awarded as follows: Hardisty, First, $100; Macklin, Second, $50; Wainwright and Irma each won $25 for their one game efforts.

STAMPS TRIM IRMA IN SATURDAY GAME

HARDISTY — The Hardisty Stampeders drew into a three-way tie for third spot in the league standings on Saturday night by virtue of a 6-2 win over Irma. Statistics are not in on the game as yet, but unofficial reports have it that the game was fast and clean, and was actually a better contest than the score would indicate.

GREEN ACRES

by A. E. Edwards, B.A.

FAMILY CAR LIABILITY:

Liability insurance on the family car automatically ceases upon the death of the owner. This appears to be the case even if the car is being driven by a wife or child who has always been in the habit of driving the deceased's car.

The above statements are contained in a Canada Trust Bulletin recently referred to by Alex B. Weir, Solicitor with the Alberta Department of Agriculture. The publication goes on to describe a recent judgment in the Supreme Court of Ontario where this situation arose.

In this case the automobile had been owned by a woman who carried liability insurance. Following her death, the woman's daughter, who was executrix for the estate, allowed a friend to drive the car. The friend was involved in a serious accident and a law suit was filed against her. It was assumed that if the driver and the estate were liable, the insurance company would pay the claim.

However, the company refused payment on the grounds that the insurance contract for indemnity against third part liability was a personal contract between themselves and the deceased. Consequently the contract had terminated upon the death of the insured person named.

This contention was upheld by the Ontario Supreme Court with the result that the estate and the driver were liable for the full claim of $31,402.06. This court case shows that very serious implications can arise in an accident under similar circumstances.

CATTLE SHRINKAGE:

Watch the shrinkage in your cattle, warns Alberta's Livestock Commissioner W. H. T. Mead. Remember the highest price per pound does not necessarily mean the highest returns per animal. This depends upon the total number of pounds that are paid for and the weighing conditions set out in the deal.

Mr. Mead reports tests, conducted in Alberta, showed the weight loss sustained by cattle after they had been trucked approximately 25 miles was 2.5 percent of their weight when they left the feedlot.

Research work, conducted in the United States has shown that the weight loss in fat cattle is greatest during the first two or three hours of travel. Based upon gross weight, this shrinkage can amount to over 5% in the first five hours. For the next 25 it works out to approximately .17% per hour. Thus, a 1200 pound steer would lose about 35 lb during the first 5 hours of its journey and about 42 pounds on the following 25 hours. To keep this weight loss to a minimum it is very important to provide adequate feed & rest periods when travelling time exceeds 12 hours. Since the feed and rest period will restore from 20 to 30 pounds of lost weight, the cost of the feed and yardage will be more than covered by the extra amount of meat sold.

Other practices recommended to minimize shrinkage include condition ing cattle before shipping. Never deprive them of water before they are shipped. This can be done by reducing the amount of salt and rich feed (green feeds, silage, etc.) and increasing the hay ration. Animals should be kept off feed and water for several hours (not over 12) before they are shipped.

Good sturdy corrals and loading equipment will ensure that marketing preparations and loading are accomplished with the minimum amount of stress and excitement, both of which take their toll in weight losses.

When practical, separate the heifers from the steers. Also, calves which are going to be marketed immediately after weaning, should be left with their mothers until the last possible moment. A very considerable weight loss will be sustained before they even leave the farm. If they are left for a day or two huddled along the corral fence bawling for their mothers.

Choose the type of transportation best suited to your needs and conditions, says Mr. Mead. When shipments are large it will pay to send an attendant with the animals to make sure they are properly fed and watered during rest periods and at the market itself.

THE "CALDERS"

In one district, when we were raising our "bread" there were about 13 families, all living on farms a mile or so apart, and no family very far from a neighbor (possibly a average two miles apart).

During the years of from 1928 to 1945, about two-thirds of these families were quite big, one having 14 children, one 10 and one 9. The other 11 boasted (?) of one or two.

Now-a-days, big families are looked upon, more or less, with pity bordering on disgust, but THEN, if you could call problem by another name than "good, wholesome fun" you were wrong and feel sorry for you.

There was one family in particular, the mother and father of which, lived not very far from our home. For obvious reasons we shall call them the "Calders". Frank the dad, Martha the mother, and 9 little Calders rang ing in age from a few months up to ten years.

I will not dwell too deeparagraphy on poor Martha's house-keeping. We who have all the conveniences for making our work lighter (and poss

MEMORY LANE

Martha had none, haven't the slightest conception of how difficult the work on a farm can be without those conveniences (except the old-timers of those same days of course).

It didn't seem to bother Martha in the least, it si maybe around 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon she noticed she was short on bread. She just reached a pot of potatoes, mixed the water in which they were cooked, set her bread (no quick-rising yeast in those days) and if luck was with her, by 11 or 12 that night she had 12 or more beautiful loaves of bread.

Because she was so, should I say all-round, as that word fits what I am trying to say, the word system was a foreign word to her. I recall so vividly one time when the school children, along with about 250 others from the Hilly country stood where the old Calder children went, had told the people repeatedly to be in front of the town school not later than nine that morning (they were to start to march at noon 9.45. Knowing the Calders' bad habit of always being late at everything, she told them repeatedly to try and be on time.

Well, wouldn't you know it, every child was there in plenty of time, but not a Calder in sight. That poor distracted mother. Finally at about ten to 10 a rattle-trap of a model T came snorting up, and jerking to a stop, dumped the lot of Calders. One by-stander was heard to remark, "What Orphanage is that?" As that little model T Ford was 16 years old that year, it was really necessary that every one be there to march.

Later I asked Martha (poor little distraught, sloppy-looking, never-the-less happy Martha, just what happened that they were so late "Oh" she said, "when I started getting the children ready I noticed Stewart's others bath out of his good shirt, so I had to get busy even at that late hour and finish one I had started for him last week. It took me so long to make those button holes and sew on the buttons".

She said she knew she would be late, but she also knew the parade wouldn't start without her 6 youngsters who were in it.

(Next week: "The Calders Come to A Party 'En Masse'".

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE:

The great battle between city and country will be staged soon after Parliament reconvenes in February. The electoral boundaries bill setting up 10 provincial commissions to redraw Canada's constituencies on a "rep by pop" basis has been introduced. It will be a long time yet before it becomes law, if indeed it ever does it its present form. Rural areas have been organized to resist this move to rob them of their dominant and decisive voice in Parliament. Of the 265 members of the House of Commons, 125 represent rural constituencies with a population of less than one-third of the Canadian total.

How Long Did It Take To Court Your Wife?

Did you just happen to see her, walk up to her, ask her to marry you and call in the minister . . . right on the spot —

PERHAPS NOT . . . it probably took a lot of calls, and trips, movies, flowers, candies, and a lot of putting-your-best-foot forward tactics. You had to "sell" yourself. She had to know all about you!

IT'S THE SAME WITH ADVERTISING . . . you can't "woo" customers with one Ad . . . you've got to "Call on Them" over a period of time . . . you've got to win their confidence and be convincing.

CONSISTANT ADVERTISING wins the customers if it's truthful, if it gives helpful information, if it saves shopping steps, if it is backed up with intelligent, courteous and honest values.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Louis Johnsgaard, who passed away on January 14th, 1963.
Since my great sorrow fell;
The shock that I received that day.
No one can ever tell.
Dear Lord forgive a silent tear,
And a constant wish that he were here
Others were taken, yes, I know,
But he was mine and I miss him so.
To you who have a husband,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache
Till you see his vacant chair.
Always remembered and sadly missed by — His Wife, Clara Johnsgaard. 38 1 c

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE:

The French Embassy is in avid colour these days with the Government. For months it had been organizing a campaign designed to force T.C.A. to buy Sud Aviation's Super Caravelle to replace Viscounts and Vanguards. Lobbying is usually considered to be the proper function of a diplomatic mission at any time but the French have done even more than this. They have used the actual time and French and English speaking relations in Canada to further their own ends. It would not be surprising if the present Ambassador, M. Raymond Bousquet, died or leave too long a sojourn in Canada.

Project Discovery

The neo-government independent survey of the needs and opinions of farm people throughout Alberta will get going in Survey District No. 6 on January 20th, when about twenty-six volunteers will attend a one day training session at the Chesslain Cafe', Vegreville, before going out to interview farmers in the district.

These volunteers, all with farm backgrounds, will average about 10 each interviews apiece. The interviews in this district, which includes the Counties of Beaver No. 9, Two Hills No. 21, Strathcona No. 20, the Municipalities of Minburn No. 72, Lamont No. 82, and Improvement District No. 07, will be part of a province-wide poll. Nearly 2,000 farmers will take part, either asking the questions or answering them.

Purpose of the survey which is sponsored by the major Alberta farm organizations who work through F. U. and C. D. A., is to discover the needs of farmers and the ways in which farm organizations and co-operatives can serve more effectively to fill those needs.

Dr. L. B. Doscher, Ph.D., is in charge of designing and directing Operation Discovery. By having an independent research consultant in charge of the project, the farm organizations will get the important overall picture without knowing what any individual farmer says. All replies to questionnaires will be confidential.

A SHORT WELCOME

For Whom the Bell Tolls!

Campaigns that are going on today seem to stress the urgency of the moment, leaving an almost sadistic impression that time is running out in a lot of areas of human endeavor. The current campaign by governments urging industry and business to put men over forty to work, leaves the impression among those younger that a man on reaching the ripe old age of forty becomes a derelict like some of the old ships Paul Hellyer has destined to the scrap heap. Not true, not true, says the man over forty, the bell has not yet tolled the knell of parting activity. There are so many areas of human activity today where the man of forty plus is better suited that space here forbids enumerating. Governments are at last recognizing this fact because they no doubt have encountered the same situations that industry and business has been battling with for some years. The fact that young people today are not trustworthy in the areas of stick-to-it attitudes, punctuality and a desire to give out with sixty minutes of effort per hour, is causing second thoughts among the employers today. They know that the man over forty has the knowledge, the capability and the pride of accomplishment to suit him for many positions, but he is only now learning that his steadiness and desire make him a better risk than the very young who is here today and gone tomorrow.

It is a satisfying thing to those of us over the forty mark to know that business is at long last recognizing our potential, and it is only too bad that others in our human relationship can't also see the light.

Take wives for instance. Why is it that they simply will not admit that the old man isn't dead just because he celebrated forty birthdays, or even a few more? He is admonished if he wants to lace on a pair of skates and frolic around the ice palace, yet she'll give him blazes if he doesn't empty the garbage where he daily stands in deadly peril of slipping on an icy walk and breaking his neck. He's considered a foolish old fogey if he tries to climb a light pole on New Year's Eve, yet the spouse will chase him up a rickety old ladder to clean out the chimney.

Man was born to activity, and action he must have even at forty plus. He wants to go out in a blaze of glory with his boots on, not in a wheel chair with a glass of warm milk and a bottle of aspirins alongside. So all we ask is a little patience, a bit of understanding, and time to try and work out our own destiny, in so far as it is possible. The "Do It Now" campaign says in part, "Spring is for the birds, do it now." That's what we want to do. We're ready, we're able, and we want to do it NOW.

Political Cowardice!

As a new year begins it is customary to cast a look back to the past and forward to the future. Canadian taxpayers who attempt this feat will run the risk of becoming cross-eyed and may develop severe headaches. As far as the past is a clue to the future, the indication is that the lot of the taxpayer is bound to grow even worse. Except for token economies in defence spending, which will be subject to modification if member whose constituencies are affected can howl loudly enough, the Ottawa government seems ready to let the report of the Glassco Commission on spending gather dust in the archives where so many other commission reports are filed. Provincial and municipal governments are preparing plans for increased expenditures on welfarism, with consequent increases in the number of civil service jobs. Some of the spending will come from present taxpayers. The rest, through borrowing, will be passed on to the taxpayers of tomorrow.

It is estimated that about thirty per cent of the gross national income now is appropriated by governments. This is well beyond the danger point of 25 per cent, which most economists agree is the most that should be taken if the country is to prosper, yet the people's representatives are not brave enough to take a stand against extravagance. Either they have been brain-washed into believing that whatever a government does must represent the will of the people, or they are afraid of their own chances of re-election if they do their proper job of protecting the taxpayers from legalized robbery. A political party dedicated to the purpose of confining government to its proper business and letting the taxpayers retain more money to provide for their own welfare might be astonished at the support it would receive. — The Printed Word.

A Word To Merchants!

At this time of the year local merchants take an inventory of their business and make a survey of how they can increase their sales in the coming year. It is an excellent idea. We might offer some helpful ideas, but instead we will pass on some advice whic happened some time ago in a Bankers' Magazine, published in the United States, which reads:

"No businessman in any town should allow a newspaper published locally to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean that you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned even if you do not use more than a 2-inch space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising.

"The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and to his town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but who refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising man."

We might add to this timely advice that there are many ways of advertising your business, but like most other progressive merchants, you will find putting your "store news" in the local weekly newspaper each week is the most effective way of reaching prospective customers. — Nanton News.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Quite A Year!

OTTAWA— Any way you care to look at it, 1963 was quite a year in Canada.

The national political stage, frequently a dreary arena, was a lively, vigorous place, made more so by the off-stage noises coming from Quebec.

In factories and farms across the nation the wheels turned even faster, producing a new level of prosperity for Canadians. By year's end, the economy was bent on one of the largest spurts in the postwar period, in contrast to the slowdown some had expected.

The year was still very young when the minority Conservative Government, wrenched by internal dissension over whether or not to acquire nuclear warheads for weapons already possessed, at a cost of some $700,000,000, began to come apart at the seams. First Defence Minister Douglas Harkness resigned, followed by Trade Minister George Hees and Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny. Those who remained in the fold were bitterly divided over the leadership of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

It was not many days later that Canada witnessed the rare sight of a Government defeated in the House of Commons by the combined weight of the Opposition Parties. Compelled to dissolve Parliament it take its case to the people.

And old adversary John Diefenbaker did just that, waging the greatest defence of a lifetime before a jury of his peers. Pleading for his very political life, he used every ounce of cunning at his command. He fanned the nuclear weapons issue to a white heat, inciting a usually phlegmatic nation to passions of which it thought itself incapable.

He resorted to an old dodge, seeking to arouse anti-American sentiments through charges of U.S. interference in Canadian affairs. As many of the major newspapers turned against him at home, he sought to link them with the shadowy figure of Big Business, suggesting that the vested interests wanted to eliminate him because he was a champion of the little man.

When the sound and fury died away and the voters had their say, Mr. Diefenbaker had lost his mandate a minority Liberal Government was installed in his place.

The end of the election campaign produced only a brief lull in the political fury. The Liberals came to power full of bright promise, a glittering array of talent apparently available to fill the cabinet benches and an equally apparent disdain to provide more mature and decisive leadership.

But great expectations were followed by disappointment as the Liberal Government strived desperately to live up to its unfortunate election promise of "sixty days of decision". Inevitably it began to stumble, one blunder being added to another. The first and worst was the budget brought down by Finance Minister Walter Gordon to take severe measures against foreign-owned capital and slap sales taxes on machinery and building materials. Under the force of public opinion, the Government was forced to make a sorry retreat.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh further tarnished the once bright Liberal image when she jumped into the Ontario election campaign over the pension issue. Postmaster-General Azellus Denis added nothing with the disclosure that indirectly he was restoring free-wheeling patronage practices in a department that never has been quite able to shake itself free of them.

Storm after storm swept through the House of Commons as the parties again took up their partisan battles. But as time wore on the fury began to moderate a bit. In a changing political climate, it became obvious that not only was the electorate not prepared to see the minority Liberal Government go the way of its predecessor, but it was also getting sick and tired of wrangling carried on for the sake of achieving narrow partisan advantage.

Then too all parties required time to lick their political wounds. The Liberals hoped the passing days would provide an opportunity to restore their lost sheen. The Conservatives continued to be in deep trouble, with deep divisions continuing over the leadership of Mr. Diefenbaker and the rift threatening to widen as the party approached its annual convention next February.

The New Democratic Party, which failed to make any significant gains during the election campaign, despite its new alliance with organized labour, required time to take a new look at its position. Within its ranks there were some who even concluded that the position was hopeless, the best alternative being to merge with the Liberal Party.

The Social Credit Party found itself very much under a disorderly group of French Canadian members broke away from the leadership of Robert Thompson to rally behind Real Caouette. Obviously for both groups time to rebuild was of the essence.

As the year came to an end, some of the issues which aroused the greatest passions were beginning to get off the boil. With a Government undertaking to accept atomic warheads and a report by a special Commons Defence Committee expressing qualified endorsement of this policy, the nuclear question was fast fading into the background.

The most critical domestic problem facing Canada was the growing alienation of French-Canada, which, threatened to drive Quebec out of Confederation. History may record that the flood tide reached its peak in 1963 and had already begun to subside. The notorious Front Liberation Quebecois was dormant, if not dead. More important, the voices of those of real power and influence in Quebec were beginning to have a more moderate tone, the result perhaps of the reaction to their strident demands in other parts of Canada.

When 1963 began, the long economic upturn that started early in 1961 showed signs of running out of steam. There were many who considered, on the basis of the cyclical

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

Well, chaps, I hope you got scarcely what you wanted on Christmas Day. And exactly what you deserved on New Year's Day.

Here we are, with the whole of another unpredictable year ahead of us, and even as rainy day tossed in. All those bright, shiny days, fresh from the mint of time, not a chip or a crack or a stain on a single one of them.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could wrap them in cotton wool, put them away in a safe place, and bring them out, fresh and gleaming, to use when we wanted them?

Wouldn't it be grand to unwrap 11 golden days without a tarnish on them, and spend them in one carefree sweep; or just look at their perfection; or give them to someone who needed them?

Wouldn't it be lovely, in some gloomy week in some bleak November, when the larder weren't rich and the taxes weren't paid, and the sun was making the bones melt, to reach into that secret place and pull out just one or two of those sparkling days without a blemish on them?

Wouldn't it be fun to walk through a hospital or a mental home or an old people's refuge, with a big bag of clean and sunny days, and scatter them among the inmates with a free hand?

Wouldn't it be glorious, when the winds howl and the snow flies and the toes ooze off underfoot, to reach into the hiding place, feel around carefully, pull out a pristine, silver day and exult, "Good old first of July! Am I glad I haven't spent you!"?

Wouldn't it be a treat, some day when the old lady was nagging, the kids were bugging, the work was behind, the phone was ringing, and the spirit was flagging, to reach down into the great pile of unspent days and come up with a fine Opening Day containing a glitter of sunlight, a hole in the air, a honey-dream, with the black ducks racing and the trout hitting like tigers?

Wouldn't it be thrilling, on some raw and roaring day in March, when your rubbers were leaking, your nose running, your feet freezing, and your only rich uncle just married a widow with seven children, to sort feverishly through the pile of unused days, & watch to your breast the whole of a golden June-bugging week, complete with blue skies, yellow sun, delectable foliage, a big turkey dinner in the even ing hours, and the party day walking the wood road as thick as pedestrians in Paris?

Wouldn't it be joyful to take the whole bag of days so carefully saved and place it in the hands of a dying child or a loved and aging parent, and say "Here, these are all for you. I don't need them?"

Yes, wouldn't it? It is terribly sad, but we can't save a single day of them. But perhaps it's just as well. Only misers hoard. We can build up a treasure of another kind, if we treat each of these untarnished days we are given as something precious, if we spend it with joy on something worthwhile.

Shall we?

HOG PROTEIN EXPERIMENTS:

Numerous experiments have proved that hogs cannot be raised profitably without a protein supplement in the form of skim milk, ara common really possesses concentrate.

A. J. Charmetski, Livestock Supervisor with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says removal of this supplement from rations during the growing period reduces gains and feed efficiency. It also reduces carcass quality to some extent. Effects are most serious, however, when it is left out during the very early growing period.

A recent farm demonstration at Lacombe, carried out by District Agriculturist W. L. McNary and Assistant D. A. Wiebe, showed a saving of $6.86 per pig for the group on 60 percent protein compared to another group which received only grain and minerals. The group on the protein supplement feed went to market in 187 days while the animals on grain only took 241 days.

Experiments conducted at the University of Alberta farm, and co-operative experiments with commercial swine producers all showed somewhat slow gains when the pigs were fed wheat, barley and oats or a mixture of the three without a protein supplement.

Although both minerals and vitamins were included in the rations, poor feed utilization was noticed from weaning to market weights with a large percentage of the pigs failing to reach market weight on the allotted rations. Carcasses of those which did reach 180 to 200 lbs. had smaller loin eyes than the average for animals fed proper protein levels.

In all experiments, skim milk proved to be at least comparable to a commercially mixed protein supplement. At the present price of the grains and supplements, skim milk is worth at least 50c per hundred lbs. on the farm and probably more when given to pigs immediately after they have been weaned.

When skim milk is available, Mr. Charmetski strongly recommends giving it to weanling pigs in preference to older animals which can make equally good use of commercial protein supplements.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELLING SCHOOL:

Mr. Wayne Ulrich, District Extension Engineer and Miss Dianne Hansmer, Home Design Specialists from the Alberta Dept. of Ag. will conduct a School on Home Building and Remodelling in Sedgewick on Wed. and Thurs., Feb. 5th and 6th.

The school will be held in the Anglican Church Hall starting at 10.00 a.m. each morning and running the day about 4.30 p.m. If you are planning to build or remodel your home in the near future, plan to attend this school.

We will have the program for this school in next week's column.

C. W. L. HOLDS MEETING

KILLAM - Twenty-five members and the director were in attendance at the January CWL meeting held in the parish hall. Members were requested to bring their used Christmas cards to the next meeting.

Plans were drawn up for participation in the Christopher Leadership Course under the direction of Fr. Heffernan, and names were accepted for the formation of the annual CCD discussion groups.

Mrs. A. Schaffer read an interesting paper on the history of St. Mary's Home for Boys in Edmonton.

At the conclusion of business Fr. McCarthy led in the closing prayers and bestowed the blessing.

Year Ender - Alberta Traffic Report

Alberta this year is bending toward the worst traffic fatality toll in its history, the provincial Safety Council said in a pre-New Year's report.

A total of 291 fatalities to the end of November plus a mounting toll for December may push the year-end figure past the record 310 established in 1960, said Council Manager Paul Lawrence.

As it is, official figures for the first 11 months show a 9.4% increase in fatalities over last year; a 14.2% climb in injury cases; and a 5.8% increase in reported accidents.

November followed that general pattern - accidents, injuries and fatalities all showed substantial increases. The fatality list jumped to 29 from 20, with 34 of them being reported by the R.C.M.P., four by Calgary Police, and one by Medicine Hat Police. Edmonton was fatality free in November, another a year ago when it had three.

Injury cases across the province totaled 784 (Up 62) for an 11-month toll of 7,220. Accident reports climbed 643 to reach 3,244, making the 11-month figure 27,795.

Multiple-fatality and multiple - injury accidents continue to characterize Alberta traffic, the council said. November's 29 fatalities occurr ed in 23 separate accidents and the 784 injuries occurred in 440 mishaps. Eighteen of the fatality victims fave drivers, 17 were passengers and 4 were pedestrians.

Death continues to ride with the young people on Alberta roads, the Council said. 31 of this year's victims have been between the ages of 20 and 24; another 29 have been between the ages of 15 and 19; and 28 have been aged 25 + 29.

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Leszkowlanchuk)

Just what does conservation mean? Have you really given it any timely thought? Conservationists defined as the wise use of natural resources. Soil, water, forests, grasslands, minerals and wildlife are all resources. Conservation prevents their waste and assures a supply for the future.

I have chosen wildlife conservation as my theme, however, we must remember that wildlife conservation goes hand in hand with soil, water, and all the other forms of conservation. No single aspect of conservation may be divorced from the whole.

Wildlife, like humans, must have certain basic needs met to survive. These basic needs are: food, water, and places to make their homes. Destroying the forests, marshes and the grasslands destroy their food and water supply and the places in which they live. Only a remnant of our original game supply now remains. Through the years we have lost the passenger pigeon, Carolina Parakeet, Great Auk, Labrador Duck and the Heath Hen. They are extinct. Birds in danger of vanishing include the Whooping Crane, the Ivory Billed Woodpecker, the California Condor, and several other species. Can we afford a still greater loss? Most species of wildlife are protected by law today from over-hunting and over-killing. But if their natural homes are destroyed they cannot survive.

Conservationists have established numerous wildlife reservations and game refuges. All national and provincial parks are wildlife refuges. Individuals, however, can do more than any government agency in rearing wildlife in the countryside simply by providing the animals with natural breeding places.

Bird and pipe fish unharmed provide retreats for Cotentails, Weasels and Mink. Marshes seldom make good cropland, however they do provide homes for Muskrats, Waterfowl and other marsh birds. Shelterbelts also serve as nesting places for many song birds. So by leaving the natural homes of wildlife undisturbed, and by providing additional homes, we are aiding ourselves.

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

It was during those unforgettable thirties that the older folks in our district had the bright idea of holding parties or social get-togethers as often as possible, mostly, of course, for the younger folks; but we older ones thoroughly enjoyed ourselves those evenings too.

With such a scarcity of ready cash for outside entertainment, these parties were welcome interludes to an otherwise rather drab existance.

As I have mentioned in previous articles printed in this column, our house was the most centrally located in that district, as well as having the big empty room for games, contests etc., so it was the people congregated periodically to have an evening of neighbourly entertainment.

We didn't need any specific reason for holding a party; just when some of the young folks seemed more ricentisified than usual with lot in life, and started to complain of the dull monotony of the endless long days, then, almost invariably, someone would ask "What about having a party at Cantlon's?" That was all that was needed to set them off. Although sometimes an incident would call for a party or social get-together. If this happened so much the better. Such was the occasion on which this true story is based.

Mr. and Mrs. Calder Sr. were to have the honor of being the guests of us this particular party. It being the occasion of their Golden Wedding Anniversary (60 years married this fall). Such an opportunity did not come to that part of the country so often, so we went all out to make it an evening long to be remembered, not only by the Calders, but by everyone who attended.

Upon enquiring we found that the old Methodist Minister who had performed the wedding ceremony was still living, was retired, and making home in Winnipeg (Rev. Riddell). So upon asking him if he could attend this gathering as a special guest as a tribute to those dear old pioneers, he readily consented. A committee collected enough money to buy Mr. and Mrs. Calder each an upholstered arm chair, which in itself spoke of the high esteem in which this dear old couple were held, as money was so scarce in those years that a dollar donated was a real sacrifice in most cases.

Our present postmaster's father, who had passed away some years before, had been real friends and neighbours to the Calders in the early years, so we got their son Austin to make the presentation speech, having typed it previously on gold colored paper and tied it with wide yellow satin ribbon. This he presented to them afterwards of course.

Frank, their only child, was to give the toast to his folks.

Parties in the country, unlike the town parties, started at around 7.30 to 8.30 p.m., and we knew Frank and Martha were aware of this fact, but we had mentioned this to them anyway ,imploring them to please not be late and hold things up. Well, 7.45, then 8.15 came and went, then 8.30. The older folks were going over by-gone days, and the younger ones were in the big game room unaware of the fact that we who were responsible for the success of the most momentous event were literally on pins and needles awaiting the arrival of the young Calders.

Just when we decided to start without them, in they trooped, the youngsters all sheepy-eyed and staggering (the yardstick) had all been sleeping on the way over. Frank and Martha each had a sleeping child in their arms. Two or three of us went on unwrapped the other children. The little lad I took charge of was about 5 years old, a wee darling, and when I took off his overshoes, here he had at least 12 or more red and white rubber-sealer rings all on one leg. "Watch the bloo bonny!" I asked? His mother glanced in my direction to see what I meant. "Oh, that's where all the other children's garters got to" she exclaimed. "We looked high and low for them". New elastic for garters just cost too much money for so many little legs, so sealer rings answered the purpose very nicely.

I could end this narrative with the time-worn phrase, all's well that ends well, as from then on, after we had all seen of the little Calders seated around their grandparents, but I cannot close without relating the final episode of a really pleasant evening.

As the evening progressed, first one, then another of those little children fell asleep. Martha put on their wraps, one by one, as they dropped off, whenever they happened to be, and lined them up on the floor, sticking a comfort in the mouths of three of them (seems I can still see them lying side by side, eyes shut, and sucking away at the comforts. The crowd real finally all gone home, the Calders, as always, the last to leave.

When the Calder wagon had pulled out of the yard, Mr. Cantlon put out the extra lights (2 gas lamps & several extra coal-oil lamps), and, as a precautionary measure checked the fire in the big room. Lying on the floor in a corner and still asleep, was a child. Of course we knew right away it was one of the Calder kiddies. Dad and to one of our older lads who was standing near, "Jump on horseback and catch up to them before they get all the way home".

When they returned Frank laughingly said, "Well, what do you know eh? So far we hadn't missed one, but likely would have when we start to unload. Guess I'll have to start calling the roll when we go places, eh? Well, well".

The "Galiant Nine" from Sedgewick held the Irma Imperials to a 5-5 tie on Thursday last in Irma. Led by Jack "Schnell" McBride's 2 goals, and singles by Curtis Bruce, Fred Kouber and Jacque Muirhead, the Sabres remain in first place in the B. R. Juvenile League.

Ramona Grove Wed at Trinity Lutheran

LOUGHEED - On November 9th 1963 at Trinity Lutheran Church, Mabel Ramona Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Grove of Lougheed and William Kinghorn, son of Mrs. Isabelle Kinghorn of Sedgwick were joined in holy matrimony by Rev. C. W. Magee.

Entering the church on the arm of her father the bride looked radiant in a full-length gown of white satin. The scooped neckline was accented with lace and the sleeves ended in lily-points. Her bouquet was of red roses in the shape of a cross. Her only jewellery was a string of cultured pearls with matching earrings, gift of the groom.

As maid of honor Miss Anne Babcock, cousin of the bride, chose a multi-length gown of blue organza over satin, with matching bolero. Miss Linda Grove was bridesmaid & chose a matching gown of pink organza. Both carried bouquets of white carnations. As flower girl Sheila Donna Cook, niece of the bride, wore a dress of yellow nylon & a white lace with matching headpiece. She carried a basket of assorted flowers. Attending the groom were Augus Grieve and Clifford Grove. Mr. Bill Baker and Mr. Carl Grove acted as ushers. Mrs. Kirste Bergseth was organist and Conrad Ingraldson sang the "Wedding Prayer" & "I'll Walk Beside You" during the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Grove chose a dress of blue crepe with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a green dress with brown accessories and corsage of pink roses.

After the wedding an open reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake and white candles. Conrad Ingraldson was M. C. and Herb Loonen proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Miss Sandra Lien was in charge of the guest book.

For her honeymoon the bride chose a beige sheath and matching jacket, with light brown accessories and a corsage of red roses. For the honeymoon to points in Southern Alberta, the happy couple are residing in Lougheed.

Redmen Still Winning

Punto, assisted by Thomas scored the only goal of the first period, at the 2.44 mark. No penalties.

In the second frame the Indians went scalp hunting and came in with four counters while holding Daysland scoreless. Gamme, Christenson, Ponto and Miller each tallied for the winners, with assists going to Miller, Haines, K. Grant, Gair and Gamme.

The game was fast, and as the pen alty sheet shows, was clean throughout. Referees: Spiller and Brown.

IRMA — Irma's Aces slipped down into third spot in the Battle River standings last week after taking two defeats at the hands of Killam Indians.

On January 8th at Irma the Killam club trounced the northerners to the tune of 6-0 before a capacity crowd of home-town boosters.

Miller put Killam in the lead during the opening stanza with two unassisted goals, at 5.30 and 19.45 and held 1 ma scoreless.

Killam added to the margin in the second frame, scoring three unassisted goals, by G. Haines, Gamme and Mike Smith, with assists going to Gamme and Vedrun.

In the final period Gordie Smith tallied again, assisted by Miller, to close out the game at 6-0.

Nine penalties were meted out by referees Jones and Spiller, three to Irma and six to Killam.

The Indians hosted Irma on January 11th in a return match, and barely squeaked through with a 4 to 3 overtime encounter which featured fast, clean checking hockey with only two penalties handed out.

2nd Sabin Oral Polio Clinic Program Dates

Dr. A. N. A. Smith, Director of the Communicable Diseases Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Health, holds a vial of the Sabin First Polio vaccine which is being stored at Redi-Pond Freezer Ltd. in Edmonton in preparation for the 1964 anti polio drive.

The gift of health and immunity from poliomyelitis for thousands of Albertans arrived in Edmonton on Thursday, Dec. 19 in the form of 60,000 individual doses of Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine for use in the provincial department of public health's continuing anti-polio program. This brings the total number of doses on hand to 160,000. A further 300,000 doses will be coming during the next 3 months.

This year's program will open in early January and last until the end of April. The program will be administered by the Communicable Diseases Branch under the supervision of Dr. E.K.O. Smith. Distribution will be through local health units and city health departments, and dates of availability will be announced by each clinic.

The Sabin vaccine will be given in two doses at six-week intervals and will be available only to persons who have already completed full immunization by Salk vaccine. The Sabin vaccine builds up and strengthens the immunity already conferred by the Salk Vaccine and confers almost certain immunity against the three main strains of polio. Alberta was the first province in Canada to institute the two-dose procedure, which makes the maximum benefit.

During last year's program, 307,000 people, or 69% of those eligible, received their first dose of Sabin Vaccine and 268,000 received their second dose. Those persons who only received one dose during last year's program will be able to take their second dose in 1964. For the past 8 years, all children have received Salk vaccine along with their regular vaccination as part of the province's regular immunization program for diphtheria. So effective has this program been that the incidence of polio in the province is now lower than that of diphtheria.

Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine Clinics will be held as follows:

MON., JAN. 27th: LOUGHEED, at the School. School Children 1.15 to 2.40 p. m.; Pre-School and Adults from 2.50 to 4.30 p.m.

TUES., JAN 28th: FORESTBURG At the School. School Children 10.30 a. m. to Noon; Adults and Pre-School, 1.00 to 4.30 p. m.

WED., JAN. 29th: KILLAM, at the Public School. School Children, 10.30 to Noon. All Pre-School and Adults, 1.00 to 4.30 p. m.

KILLAM SEPARATE SCHOOL Children at 8.00 a. m. to 10 a. m.

THURS., JAN. 30th: SEDGEWICK, at the School. School Children (Elementary and High School) 10.00 to 11.45 a. m.; Pre School and Adults, 1.00 to 4.30 p. m.

FRI., JAN. 31st: STROME at the School. School Children, 1 to 2 p.m., Pre-school and Adults, 2.00-4.30 p.m.

No Reinforcing Doses will be given at this time to those who have received two doses of Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine.

Contra-Indications — Acute Febrile Illness; Debilitating Diseases; Administration of another virus vaccine such as Smallpox or Yellow Fever within 21 days before or after.

In view of the successful result of last year's vaccine programme, it is hoped that all eligible persons will avail themselves of this proven means of defence against Poliomyelitis. It should be remembered that Salk Vaccine and Sabin Vaccine can plement one another and having both given the best possible protection against this disease.

Diefenbaker Likely Choice!

In spite of the fact that John Diefenbaker has managed to estrange many of his friends and supporters since 1960, he is still the likely choice as Leader of the Conservative Party at the convention to be held shortly. This is most likely simply because of the paucity of suitable material within the frame-work of the Conservative party. In 1957 Mr. Diefenbaker won power because the country was ripe for a change from the stagnant Liberal regime, and in 1958 his popularity swept him back into office with what looked like a sure long-term mandate. But since 1960 his personal appeal and his popularity has suffered to the extent that he will be fighting for his political life in attempting to retain the party leadership. This has come about mostly through placing himself above the party. However, outside of Mr. Roblin of Manitoba, there is a dearth of capable men in the party who would stand a chance of replacing him. As a result of strife within the ranks of the party, it is unlikely that even Mr. Roblin will forsake the security of his present position to seek an office he may well not succeed in winning. The Conservative Party might be well advised to seek a new leader, but until they can find one with a national reputation, they most likely will be content to go along with what they have.

Our National Game!

Long, and sometimes heated has been the argument over which game is Canada's National Sport, Lacrosse or Hockey. According to the staunch Lacrosse fan it, notwithstanding the fact that 100 people play and enjoy hockey for every one who takes part in or enjoys Lacrosse. The situation is quite likely to remain as it is simply because nobody will do anything about it but talk.

The one thing that could help most to keep Lacrosse an our number one game is the present trend in the field of hockey. The two games are becoming so similar in some respects that it matters little which is classed before the other. As I remember Lacrosse as a youngster, the weapon in the hands of players were frequently carried above the shoulders, and mayhem and injury often resulted. Today the hockey stick is not an implement of finesse, stick-handling, control of the puck and accurate placement shooting. It has become a weapon to be used for clobbering opponents, slapping and bang ing the puck and pounding in rage on the ice, boards and anything else in reach, including referees. It has become a lethal weapon in the hands of too many who were never trained in the attributes of sportsmanship, and is being used by some solely as an offensive weapon.

That hockey has deteriorated to a shinney-like exhibition of back-street brawling will not be denied by those who over the years have watched the fading away of the real stick-handler, the accurate shooter and the smooth passer.

If hockey cannot be brought back to a sane, sportmanlike game, where injury is an accident and not an act of intent & violence; to where the object is to play the puck and not use it to bash the clobber players, then by all means let Lacrosse remain as our national sport. Managers and Coaches have a big job ahead if ever hockey is to again become a game of skill and players are to respect the life & limb of opponents. Hockey needs a clean-up, and the men who are to head the teams will have to show courage in getting the job done. The only alternative is to turn the whole deal over to the Humane Society, whose business is to protect animals.

There is one thing that a man freeborn and of lawful age resents, and that is regimentation. When he is born he is given a name. He may not like it too much but he's stuck with it unless by the due process of law he gets it changed to something easier to handle. For the most part people are satisfied with given names. A person becomes an identity through it, and in most cases possesses something that is distinct. Unless he is one of the Jones boys he becomes a personality by virtue of his name as much as anything else. Therefore this proposed peace time registration of citizens coming out of Ottawa will not find too much favour with the public. The theory is that ever-mounting accumulation of social services, such as pensions, unemployment insurance and what have you, makes registration necessary. Cards are to be sent out to some four and a half million people, styled so that they may be processed by computers, thus enabling the government to better keep track of people. If that is the only reason, the expense is not warranted. Forgery will become the thing to practice among those who live on the shady side of life, for anything printed can be copied with changes. Perhaps man has advanced too far in the invention of computing machines, for if none were available more could easily be built, and retain a personality instead of being a number, with governments encroaching on his right to be himself.

Sex Education!

Many parents are lacking in a healthy attitude toward giving sex instruction to their families. Because such matters were not spoken about in their youth, there is a reluctance on the part of some parents to talk sensibly to their children about them. They try to pass on the responsibility to the schools which either pass it back, or on to the churches. It is evident that it is the parents' duty, and that instruction about family life should begin early, or just as soon as children are able to ask questions about it.

Dr. Ruth Sky, a physician who has given informal talks to the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations & to church groups, has said that parents should be able to talk to their children about sex and family life in a positive and unembarrassed way.

"Such education is not the school's job and shouldn't be," she said. "Parents and children can get information through good text books written on the subject for every age group."

As it is not every parent who is capable of presenting such important facts to the family in the best way for their conduct, it would be well worthwhile to invest in one or more of the best books available of this type. A healthier and happier parent-child relationship could develop from both parents and youngsters perusing such books. — Nanton News.

"I WAS GONNA CUT DOWN ANYHOW"

Weathervanes

OTTAWA — Two by-elections in Montreal on February 10 will provide the Pearson Government with its first opportunity since the April election to test the political winds. The Government could scarcely have chosen a safer place to make its tests. The riding of Montreal-Laurier, held recently by Justice Minister Cherrier, who has resigned to become Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, has been Liberal since 1961. The neighboring riding of Montreal-St. Denis, held since 1936 by Postmaster-General Denis, who is being named to the Senate, has also voted Liberal consistently since 1962.

On the surface therefore it would seem that the results of the two by-elections are foregone conclusions. It's extremely unlikely that any party other than the Liberals will be able to put together enough votes to win the ridings.

The Government naturally enough hopes the voters of Montreal remain true to form. The Liberals are for, short of a bare majority in the Commons. The loss of even one of them Montreal seats, besides being a shattering blow to the party prestige, would put the Government in an even more dangerous position.

The Liberals are not taking victory for granted of course. The candidate in Laurier is the man who helped to fashion many of Mr. Cherrier's victories. His organizational talents will be used to the full, this time on his own behalf. And Mr. Denis himself, perhaps one of the most effective political organizers the Province has recently produced, will do his best to see that the seat remains Liberal. It has been held by a Denis (first his brother and then himself) since 1921.

Liberal victories are therefore expected. But even so, all parties will be watching the results with intense interest. Only one of the parties represented in the House of Commons, Robert Thompson's Social Credit Party, is not contesting the by-elections.

The Socreds are leaving the field to the Creditistes, the 13-member group led by Real Caouette which broke away from the Social Credit last September. The Socreds, or the Creditiste strength in Quebec is said to be on the wane. No one of course, knows this for sure. But this could be one of the questions the Montreal by-elections will answer.

In the April 1963 election, Social Credit candidates came from practically nowhere to run second in both Laurier and St. Denis. Not that they came close to winning. Mr. Cherrier got 8,050 votes to the 4,282 garnered by Gilles Caouette, son of Real. And Mr. Denis' perennial poll of 11,707 was far ahead of the 4,575 votes of the Socred runner-up.

But fairly healthy votes also were necessary if the Creditistes were to run second in both ridings. All the Socreds and Conservatives need to do is to run second in both Laurier and St. Denis. Not that they mean them to winning. Mr. Cherrier got 8,050 votes to the 4,282 garnered by Gilles Caouette, son of Real. And Mr. Denis' perennial poll of 11,707 was far ahead of the 4,575 votes of the Socred runner-up.

But fairly healthy votes also were necessary if the Creditistes were

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantlon, Hardisty, Alberta)

The following true story took place in our district when my husband was on his farm. However, I have forgotten until several times, so I shall pass it on, as, to me, it seems quite an exciting episode.

Bill Bourne, a bachelor, lived with his mother in a shack log house about three miles from the Cantlon homestead. Although Bill did some grain farming, he made most of his money by raising cattle, which he shipped in carload lots to Winnipeg Stockyards. He always kept a hired man the year round, one who could (and did) ride the range herding the cattle, as, in those days with no fence the cattle would roam for miles at a time from the home place.

One day in the late fall Bill had shipped a carload of prime steers to Winnipeg, sending Tom, the hired man, along to sell them for him. Tom returned in a day or so with quite a handsky roll of bills, which Bill had deposited in the bank before he left town, after sending Tom on the train. There seemed to be a real rush of petty robberies going on in the country at that time, of not only money, but cattle, horses, tractors and even boats. Naturally Bill didn't want to risk losing such an amount of money, so he banked it then and there.

They had eaten their supper, Bill, his mother and Tom, and were sitting in the kitchen, Tom reading, Bill doing some figuring & Mrs Bournes knitting, when the dog barked. When Bill opened the door a man with h's hat pulled low and coat collar turned up, pointed a gun at Bill saying, "I want that money from those steers you sold in Winnipeg."

As soon as the man spoke, Tom ran for the stairs, shutting the stair door after him. There was a shot, the light went out, and in the dark Bill dropped to the floor (poor Mrs. Bournes seemingly was too petrified to move). As soon as the light went out, Bill said he heard the man leave on horseback. The moon was quite bright, and when Bill lowered his new a figure on a white horse tearing at break-neck speed, out across the prairie heading in a West erly direction.

The two older Cantlon boys were on their way home from a dance in that direction, and noticed this figure on a white horse tearing along at such a rate, and wondered if he were going for a doctor.

In the meantime Bill had "Collected his nerve", got a horse from the barn, and started out after the fugitive, not having much hope of ever catching up to him unless the robber's horse stumbled in a hole or some such thing. He soon met the Cantlon boys, and after hurriedly explaining the situation to them, the three lit out after the would-be robber, whom they could dimly see in the distance, due to the moon & the white horse. However, he eluded them eventually, so the three men went back to the house where they found Mrs. Bournes still sitting in her rocking chair, knitting just as if nothing had happened (those old pioneer women, they certainly had a lot of nerve).

"Where's Tom ?" asked Bill

"Still upstairs I suppose," answer ed his mother.

Bill opened the stairway door and Tom down, as if Tom's inert body rolled to Bill's feet, dead.

Evidently when the manager shot he aimed at Tom, but Tom had pulled the door shut a fraction too late, for the bullet hit him directly. The bullet went through the thin door hitting Tom in the back and killing him instantly.

Bill continued to live in that little log shack for a great many years after that happened. He started some years later, had 8 sons, the built a lovely new, modern home quite near the old log shack. But in all the years he lived in the old log house, he never replaced that door through which the fatal bullet went.

He loved to tell both young and old of that "hair-raising episode", and how the bullet-shattered door to prove his story.

Incidentally, so far as is known, that fugitive hasn't been caught to this day.

"Good! I'll send you my cheque today!"

Most people today pay for goods or services by cheque —because most people have a bank account. It's the simple, safe way to transfer money to any person at any time.

The next cheque you put in the mail, or cash at any branch of a chartered bank, will be one of one billion that pass through the banking system each year. These familiar slips of paper represent 90 per cent of all financial payments made today, and their fast, efficient handling by the chartered banks is essential to bank customers, indeed to the whole economy of the nation.

To handle the ever-increasing flow of cheques—and to maintain standards of efficiency in the clearings—the chartered banks have introduced magnetic ink encoding to be used in high-speed electronic sorting. This new method, called MICR, makes possible a faster, more accurate service to customers, and maintains your chequing account as one of the cheapest, most convenient basic banking services.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

THE COCKTAIL PARTY

We went to a cocktail party during the holidays where I went to four of them. In fact we even had one ourselves.

And, after judicious consideration, I state categorically that there is no form of entertainment half-alive, pensive of punishment that comes reasonably close to the cocktail party for sheer boredom.

Once upon a time, I suppose, a cocktail party was a genteel affair, a gathering of friends who sipped a drink, discussed the arts, and nibbled a canape or two, before going off to dinner somewhere. Urbane, sophisticated, the manners so polished as the glasses.

Nowadays, the cocktail party is a social monster with 44 tales and one great big fat head.

First, there's the guest list to prepare. This is a lot of fun, and takes only three weeks. It is interspersed with remarks like, "What the hell did they ever do to us?"; and, "Well, you may think she's terrific, but I can't stand her."

The list includes the names of all the people you "owe" hospitality to. This means the couple who took you for a ride in their crumby boat last summer and sashed you to the skis in the process. And the neighbors who called you over for charred spareribs one evening when they expected guests had enough sense not to turn up.

Also all the people who invited you to one of their cocktail parties during the last three years, and the couple who sent you a Christmas card and whom you had cut off your list, and the people down the block who looked after your dog the day you were at the wedding, and the couple you don't know but who look "interesting."

You now have eighty-seven names on your list. So you start scratching. This is a lot of fun, and it gives the ax become Joe always gets stoned Miriam and Elmer are down the drain because Miriam always starts a fight just because Wilbur is a bit of a girl-chaser.

Then there's the basic problem. This produces an agonizing session of elementary mathematics, which results in a reasonable figure such as fifteen double

And then there's the food bonanza. Food at a cocktail party used to be a matter of a few hors d'oeuvre, but now we're more of a dinner-type. Nobody's ever has gone to the trouble of getting a turkey and putting on his best at five p.m. on a Saturday afternoon, has any intention of going home until he has eaten thirty-five dollars worth of the only smoked oysters you've ever bought in your life.

But these are all on the surface, by-product kicks. The real delight of the cocktail party, as we all know, is the conversation. Where else do the girls get a chance to have their souls almost as thoroughly as their bosoms? Where else can you hear a chap tell the same story he told at the last three cocktail parties, and tell it even better?

Nature Notes

(By Stanley Zenkovchak)

THE BEAVER — THE ENGINEER WITHOUT A DEGREE!

What role did the beaver play in Canadian history? It was this animal that was largely responsible for the exploration and early development of Canada. It was his highly prized and much sought after pelt that drew coureurs de bois, fur traders and explorers into the interior of Canada. In this way the beaver helped open up land for the pioneer. Testimony to the beaver's importance may be seen in the fact that from earliest times the beaver has been portrayed on stamps and coins.

The general appearance of the beaver is familiar to all Canadians, since he is one of our national emblems. His general habits are also well known. He is often held up to the nation's youth as an excellent example of industry, ingenuity and perseverance.

The beaver is North America's largest native rodent. Only two species and twelve subspecies occurring in America.

Beaver commonly weigh sixty pounds, with occasional bucks going in the neighborhood of 100 pounds. The teeth of a beaver are deep orange in color and the incisors are self sharpening. Their long incisors continue growing throughout the life of a beaver and must be used constantly or their continuing growth may sometimes penetrate the skull and cause death.

The number of young, called kits, runs as high as seven or eight per litter, but average about four. The kits are usually born in June, and remain with the parents until one year old. Beaver are considered monogamous, but polygamy does exist.

The most desirable beaver food is the white poplar, with black poplar, willow and alder consumed.

As an engineer the beaver exceeds the capabilities attributed to him by man. The beaver dams are made of green poplar poles and branches, stripped of bark, and weighed down by mud and other debris. When completed this constitutes an extremely strong and durable earthwork, which man is hard put to surpass. These dams help to create ponds which play a vital role in conservation. Floods are prevented, top soil is kept from being washed away. Many forms of wildlife seeks refuge and build their homes in these ponds.

WHEAT! What Is It?

(Taken from the Community Press, issue of January 18th, 1934).

Wheat is a seed that is planted and grown in the West, to keep the producer broke and the buyer crazy. The protein varies in content and the man who can give assurance the strength of protein is called "Wheat Grader" by the public, and "Fool" by the farmer.

The price of wheat is determined at primary markets, and goes up when you have to sell, and down when you have bought.

A group of farmers sent a man to Edmonton to watch the wheat market, and after a few days' deliberation, he wired them to this effect: "Some think it will go down and some think it will go up. I do too. Whatever you do will be wrong. Act at once."

Wheat is planted in the spring, mortgaged in the summer, and lost in the fall.

"You can and you can't; you will and you won't. Be damned if you do and damned if you don't".

IF YOU ARE GOING TO NEED New Machinery next Spring, NOW is a good time to drop around and discuss it. Don't be delayed when spring work gets under way.

CANTLON In loving memory of our Dear Husband and Father, Ted Cantlon, who passed away on January 24th, 1956, at Hardisty St. Anne's Hospital.

Along the road to Yesterday,
That leads us straight to you,
Are memories of the happy days
Together we once knew.
And always, every evening
We seem to have a way
Of wandering back to meet you
On the road to Yesterday.

In loving memory of Ethel Culshaw who passed away January 26, 1955.

We watched you suffer, we heard you sigh,
But all we could do was just stand by;
For when the time came we suffered too,
For you never deserved what you went through.
God took your hand and we had to part,
He eased your pain, but broke our heart.
Although we smile and seem carefree,
Nobody misses you more than we.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by her Husband William Culshaw and Family. 40 1 p

Horsepower Race On The Praires

By WILLIAM JEFFERY
From The Financial Post

Canadian farmers, already among the most mechanized in the world, want bigger and better farm equipment.

For example, the tractor is becoming a status symbol, sort of a Cadillac of the Prairie.

In the early 1950s, the average horsepower per tractor sold was 35. Now it's climbing to 75 and higher.

This status symbol and the need for more horsepower apparently is bound on increased prosperity for western grain farmers and the trend toward larger farms.

But W. L. McGillivray, who farms 400 acres at Coaldale, Alta., and is president of the Canadian Aberdeen Angus Association, has this to say:

"There are a lot of farmers" he says, "who are both over-capitalized and overpowered. They have machinery they don't really need in terms of cost and horsepower."

Of the 25,815 tractors sold in Canada during 1962, 11,061 were over 50 hp and of this total 3,412 were over 70 hp.

At the recent Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto one firm displayed what it called its second-biggest tractor: it weighed eight tons, its rear wheels were almost 5 ft. 8 in. off the ground, it developed 170 hp and cost $10,700.

When asked whether the Canadian farmer needed such a big machine, the sales representative replied: "We'll sell the farmer anything his little heart wants as long as he can pay."

A spokesman for the J. I. Case Co. says, however, that horse-dry and horse-assist are as hard as concrete. "I've seen two 80-hp tractors coupled together and they were hitched to capacity to plough dry land near Medicine Hat."

Canadair Allis-Chalmers Ltd. says the trend is toward mechanization because of the trend toward bigger farms.

Last year, tractors accounted for 31.1% of all farm equipment sales in Canada. For the first six months of 1963, farmers purchased 13,972 tractors compared with 12,601 in 62.

For the same period, total farm equipment sales were up 12.4% to $119 million from $106 million in first six months/62.

With the recent big wheat sales abroad, it's estimated that equipment sales will be at least 10% ahead of the $279 million sales in 1962.

For example, in Saskatchewan farmers will pocket a record net income this year of $620 million — an average of $6,750 per farmer. This sum will be almost twice as high as the 10-year average of $323 million and considerably higher than the $501 million last year.

At the same time, farm cash income in Saskatchewan has risen to $747 million, 24.5% higher than the record $727 million set last year.

"The farmer out West is going to have more money to spend on equipment next year," a spokesman for Massey-Ferguson Ltd. says, "We expect many will want to improve their machinery position."

One large equipment dealer told FP: "Farmers are on extremely jealous lot. I've seen farmers in a neighborhood actually compete to see who could build the biggest and tallest silo.

"Just let one of them bring home a brand-new tractor and the next day the rest of them are pounding on your door looking for a new tractor — bigger and faster than the one Clem down the way bought."

A rural banker says almost the same thing. "Most of the farmers I deal with are pretty shrewd businessmen until it comes time to buy a new tractor. Quite often they buy one that not only is beyond their budget, but is not needed for their particular operation."

A LADY'S PREDICAMENT. Following the U.S. Surgeon General's study which has linked lung cancer with cigarette smoking, many a Canadian and U.S. smoker has resolved to cut cigarettes and switch to pipes or cigars. But pretty Carolyn Purdon is doubtful—a pipe or cigar will hardly enhance her charm! Seems the only thing a lady can do is quit smoking altogether.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

KILLAM — On Monday night 3 carloads of young couples from the Church attended the Interdenominational Young Couples meeting at the Vanderveuds home in Forestburg.

Rev. Grymoloski and Hestrley Heartberg attended the Alberta Baptist Conference meeting in Edmonton on Tuesday.

Classes on water baptism and church membership were held at the church on Tues. and Wed. evenings. A number of adults met with the Pastor and Deacons, following the Wed. night service, giving their testimonies and requesting water baptism and church membership.

The annual Fellowship supper was enjoyed by about 100 members and friends in the lower auditorium on Friday night. Following this the minutes were read and financial statements given by treasurers, as well as reports from the Pastor, S. S. Supt., and various departments. It was noted that $2,555.52 was disbursed in 1963 for Missions alone.

Sunday morning services were held as usual. A Baptismal service was held Sunday evening with four adults following the Lord in the waters of baptism. Eight adults were welcomed as new members of the Killam Baptist Church.

MINOR HOCKEY ROUNDUP

The Sedgewick Sabres remained in first place in the Battle River Juvenile League by virtue of their 5-2 victory over the Daysland Elks. Clinton Anderson's four goals, plus Wayne Wegenast's single, were the Sabre scorers, while Coward, Chemic and Teeling scored for the Elks. The game toward the end became rugged as both teams tired.

In exhibition play Sunday, Jan 12 Edmonton Del Ramblers edged the Sabres 6-5 in a fast crowd-pleasing game. Paced by the solid play of Irina Sawasson and Fred Kuober the Sabres showed for the first time this season a little promise towards the provincial playoffs.

Meanwhile the Bantams continued their winning ways with a 10 to 0 trouncing of Alliance, and a come-from-behind 4-2 victory over the fast improving Killam club. John Anderson scored 4 goals last Sunday and one against Killam, to lead the Kinsmen club towards the Provincial Playdowns. The Sedgewick club has strengthened its team by picking up six players from Killam.

The Sedgewick Execs beat Killam 5-4 Thursday Jan. 16 in a wide open game that provided goals and spills for everyone.

Minor Hockey Week is fast approaching so don't forget — Don't Send, Take Your Boy to the Arena.

IT'S A WINNER. This puck (circled) cinches Canada's Olympic hockey team's 5-3 victory over the Swedish National team in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Bob Forhan (right) fired the shot past defenseman Nils Johannsson and Goalie Leif Holmqvist. This vindicated the University of British Columbia Selects, who lost an earlier game to the Swedes in Kitchener, Ont., by 5-1. —

Community Hockey At Hardisty Arena

HARDISTY — A very interesting and hard-skating group of Farmers from 50 to 60 years have been practicing Community League Hockey in Hardisty Arena two nights a week.

On Sunday Dec. 29th the Bellshill Riders played host to the Healy Colts of Consuelo. The first two periods proved close and fairly fast, but in the third round the Riders, due to lack of practice, got bucked off and the Colts, still feeling their oats, kicked in 5 fast goals. Without our Stampeder assistance Bellshill would have been skunked.

After the weather cooled down again Bellsh. Riders travelled back to Consuelo on January 9th. Somebetter shooting was made in science of hockey, but the score climbed to 8-1 before the final bell. Some of the Riders found that what the referee says, he means. An enthused group of Bellshill fans accompanied the Riders which helps considerably.

Bellshill still looking for a win and a little gate receipts, invited Amish to Hardisty January 11th. Things went better as most admit. The Amish boys took the lead early in the first period and stayed one goal ahead pretty well to the final bell.

The gate receipts didn't amount to much. The Riders play host to Telhot January 16th at 8.30.

Wanted — Community League Hockey Coach. At least one year of experience. Strong voice, capable of giving orders. Not female. The wages, voluntary.

Delegates from nearly all the farm organizations in Canada, including FWUA will be represented. Former PUA president Ed Nelson, of Brightview, newly elected First Vice President o fthe Alberta Federation, is a director of the Canadian Federation. He, along with Paul Babel, PUA President and CFA director, and Mrs. J. R. Hallum, FWUA Vice-President and delegate from AFA, will be among the Alberta rep

Among the resolutions to be discussed at the annual C. F. A. meeting is Charlottetown are those calling for Canadian Wheat Board jurisdiction over Rye, Flax and Rape Seed; imported red meets to be stamped "Canada Approved Imported", along with the country of origin; farmers to be made "secured creditors" in cases of bankruptcies of firms handling or processing the farm produce; an investigation of the social implications of the proposed closing of railway branch lines in Western Canada.

Delegates from the Federations of Agriculture of the three Prairie Provinces met last week in Winnipeg to decide which policies and resolutions they will bring forth for study at the Charlottetown meeting. Delegates at this western conference took a look at the many resolutions being put forward, with a view to cutting down on any duplications in submissions. Among the ideas discussed was a proposed increase in the loan limits available through Farm Improvement Loans and thro' the Farm Credit Corporation. There resolutions propose reising F. I. L. loan limits to $10,000 and F. C. C. to Silence Is Golden?

A recent news release out of Ottawa, while revealing nothing that most Canadians did not already suspect, is nevertheless disturbing to thoughtful people. Reported by the Canadian Press the bit of information may be accepted as fact, and it is disturbing because it reveals the fact that our representatives in Parliament, the men we elect, regardless of personal convictions, do not speak out against any legislation or proposal that may cost votes. More disturbing is the suggestion that they will support any measure of there is a chance that it will gain some votes. Still more disturbing is that the CP report says that a number of our M. P's. "admit privately that they are opposed to lowering the voting age to 18 from 21 but are afraid to say so publicly." The Elections Committee of the Commons has recommended the change, and that, plus Liberal and NDP election commitments make it almost certain the idea will be put into law. The M.P's. who may be opposed, are fearful that if they speak out, the 750,000 or so newly created voters from 18 to 21 might seek revenge with ballots in the next election.

In all honesty we must admit that this question of arriving at a suitable minimum voting age is a perplexing problem that has been on the drawing board for some time. Some provinces, six in fact, grant the franchise at age 21. Alberta and B. C. give the right to vote at age 19, and in Quebec and Saskatchewan, at 18.

It is often argued that a youngster is considered mature enough to enlist in the armed forces at 17, and in such cases he is permitted to vote at age 18 in federal elections. Then again in the dangerous game of operating motor vehicles, which can involve grave responsibilities, he is permitted to drive at 16 in seven of our ten provinces (18 in Alberta for a class 4 license). Here the high accident ratio of young drivers disputes youth's sense of responsibility. For marriage the minimum age is 21 in seven provinces and 18 in the other three (with all ten permitting it below this age with parental consent). Few mature people will argue that teen-agers generally are adult enough for marriage. Then again we must admit that a great number of those in the 18-20 age group are gainfully employed and are making their own living. They are also, thus, paying some taxes. Even so, not very many of them would be required to use mature judgement or assume any serious financial responsibilities. There is serious argument against the theory that all in this age group deserve to have the franchise simply because they may be self-reliant in other fields.

The NDP of course favors the lowering of the voting age, simply because it has been shown that youth tends toward the left and will vote for that party. But it is disturbing that for political expediency, members of the House will not at least question whether the nation's laws should be influenced by young people who yet have little or no experience in life, and very little at stake in the community.

It seems to be the unanimous view of politicians that the minimum voting age of voters in Canada should be reduced to eighteen years. An elderly cynic has remarked that the purpose of this reduction in the minimum voting age is to bring the average mental age of the voters down to the average mental age of the politicians. — Exchange.

Facing A Nasty Fact!

(Guest Editorial from Ponoka Herald)

Sooner or later Canadians will have to fact up to a problem they have been dodging for many years. Politicians run for cover whenever it appears that this problem may be brought out into the open — escaping behind a smoke screen of meaningless platitudes. But they are not the only ones dodging the issue. It is one of those hard, brutal facts of world development and modern life no one cares to face.

Briefly the problem can be defined by two simple questions. Can we afford to continue subsidizing areas and groups in Canada that are unable to establish a productivity and income equal to more favorably situated areas and people? Must the more prosperous sections be obliged to provide a standard of living for areas that have no discernable hope of ever providing the standards for themselves?

It is not a question of the "haves" selfishly refusing to help the "have-nots." Instead it is a problem based on the fact that all parts of a huge country like Canada simply do not provide the same opportunities and never will. Must the rest of the country be held back by trying to provide its non-productive areas with the same high standards of living possible in the productive areas? Because a man insists in following an occupation for which there is no demand or future, in an area that can yield only a sub-standard living, must productive Canadians be forced to provide these people and areas with living standards equal to the best in the land?. One may be tempted to say yes in a spirit of charity and sympathy. Yet this charitable view is short-sighted and actually is not kind or charitable for it only prolongs the problems and misery of a situation that demands drastic surgery to eliminate. No one is to blame for these unfortunate situations. It seems reasonable that governments should help the people of such areas to locate and find occupations in some area with a future. It does not seem reasonable to undertake to keep the people of such obsolete areas in fairly comfortable circumstances for the rest of their lives.

Biting The Hand That Feeds!

That Russia and the communist world is in serious economic difficulties is more than evident in recent huge purchases of Western grain, materials for producing fertilizers, the stress on fewer guns and more bread, and the feelers put out for billions of dollars in long-term loans. Western civilization is too humane to deny a hungry nation the right to be fed, and too dollar conscious to deny its right to purchase but the fact remains that necessity is the mother of invention, and the purchases are dictated by the needs of a starving population. Other than this one stark, bare fact, the East would not be purchasing from the West, and we would not be enjoying the boom in prosperity that we are. Enjoying prosperity at the expense of someone else's misfortune is not a very satisfying adventure.

The granting of huge long-term cash loans to such countries as are sworn to "bury" us economically and physically, can be a sorry adventure also, for once the spectre of hunger and economic distress are overcome, these same countries will rise once more to bite the hand that has fed them. Anyone who doubts the truth of this has only to read the utterances that have spewed forth from the mouths of Mr. K and his ilk.

Out Of The Corridor!

OTTAWA — Something new has been added to the relationship between the Prime Minister and the press corps in Ottawa.

Throughout the hectic and colorful career of Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker as Prime Minister, he engaged in spontaneous question and answer bouts in the corridor of the East Block, with newspapermen. They walked for him on his way to a cabinet meeting and asked questions. He leaned off answers, sometimes angry retorts, often friendly jibes.

But this bit and miss arrangement for informal press conferences did not meet with Rt. Hon. L. B. Pearson's approval when he became the Prime Minister. As the old year ended and the New Year began, he established a system of saying little in the corridor. But he promised the newsmen that he would meet them after the Cabinet, in the office of his special assistant, to answer their questions. It has worked out well. The reporters are happy and apparently the Prime Minister is plan.

The short post-cabinet press conferences are a big improvement over the hit and run style of questions and answer that took place in the corridor leading to the Privy Council chamber. Now there is some order out of what was rapidly becoming chaos.

Just when the corridor conferences first began is now lost in history. Those who were around the Parliamentary press gallery in the days of Mackenzie King and R. B. Bennett recall that there was no room for the press in the corridor. Of course in those days there were not so many newsmen. Then too, radio and television had not invaded the news field as they have today. There were no TV cameras, tape recorders and electric cable complicating the situation.

But in those days Mr. King was not happy when he encountered the eager newsmen anxious to obtain his views on some development. He made carefully guarded replies, unless he was ready with a formal statement.

Louis St. Laurent gave the corridor conferences a try, putting up with the corridor meetings with the press as something he did not like but had to accept as part of the penalty of high office. He occasionally joked with newsmen, but more often he was annoyed at their persistence and said so. He frequently pointed out that he had taken an oath of secrecy and had no intention of breaking it to meet the convenience of a group of newspapermen. He rested vigorously if some reporter asked him to explain what he had in mind when a certain problem. Then with a waspish retort, Mr. St. Laurent would suggest that what he had in mind was his own business.

Mr. Diefenbaker on the other hand at first appeared to enjoy the corridor exchanges. He had learned how to handle himself in the hard school of the court room. He would turn aside a tough question with a quip. He would prod a newsman who had written something critical, with a barbed comment. He would breeze through the corridor in high good humor, usually entering the cabinet room laughing as he got the better of a reporter who was left without an answer to his carefully phrased questions. He handles them ably and easily.

A recent conference was typical. As it neared a close he grinned at the assembled reporters as he picked up a memorandum off the desk. Front of him. Gently chiding the newsmen he said, "you haven't touched on one of the things he thought I would be asked about," he said with a nod in the direction of his special assistant. The assistant looked uncomfortable, began to blush. Mr. Pearson chuckled at his discomfiture and the forty newsmen laughed. This is the way of the Prime Minister with the press. He has a free and easy manner when meeting the newsmen. He is frank, sometimes too frank.

Not only do the reporters have their notebooks and pencils at the ready in the corridor, his remarks, but there are tape recorders there to carry his exact words to the radio and television networks. In addition the cameras focus on his face. He sadly handles questions on a wide range of subjects. He is relaxed and confident.

As the question end, he smiles and suggests the conference close. The reporters scramble for telephones or race back to their typewriters. "Are we late with later deadlines stop to chat briefly with the Prime Minister as he moves across to his own office. The conference is over.

MRS. DOUG KINZER, REPORTER

Mr and Mrs Leo Manning & son of Camrose were weekend guests at the Ray Manning home.

Mr and Mrs Alvin Klinger and Brian spent the weekend with the J. Larsen family in Edmonton.

Mr and Mrs Roy Manning had as their guests on January 21st, the Don Hayes family at Strome, Charlie Manning and Gilbert Bergerson families. The occasion was Mr. Roy Manning's birthday.

Mr Doug Kinzer was surprised on Friday when 16 friends dropped in to wish him a happy birthday. How many 21st birthday can you have in a row?

We are sorry to report the passing of Mrs Gilbert Schulte's mother who passed away very suddenly in Nova Scotia. Our sympathy is extended to the family.

The J. Lindseth family took in the evening at the Ice Capades.

The Pee Wee hockey team went to Sedgewick last Friday and won 7-0. The Killam fanciers were host to Hardisty also on Friday and came out on top 5-3. Some very fast play was enjoyed by the spectators.

Mr and Mrs George Bennett have spent the past week at Spirit River visiting at Don Bennetts and Cliff and Odessa.

Mr and Mrs Larry Brioba & Miss Brian Swain of Edmonton spent the weekend at Bill Brodine.

Mr and Mrs Eric Holmberg from Alliance visited with Mr and Mrs Larry Bolanson on Sunday.

Mr and Mrs Porter O'Reilly have Lloyd of Alliance spent Sunday at the O. Klingens.

Mr and Mrs Bob Costall of Edmonton are spending the weekend at their parental homes, the Mr. Robsons of Killam and the Charlie Costalls at Morrin.

Mr and Mrs Gilbert Schulte and family spent the past weekend visiting relatives in Calgary.

Killam is justly proud of its Pee Wee hockey team, but what will it be five years from now? There are 60 enthusiastic youngsters clamoring to play hockey, but when a meeting was called to organize a Minor Hockey League, there were enough present to secure a president, a secretary-treasurer, 3 coaches, with 3 grandfathers left over. The 15 contributed executors for the boys and generous cash donations were received from the Legion and Oddfellows. Have these boys no parents? Yes, and the men trying to help them need your support and your encouragement. Your moral, if not financial support. An occasional pat on the back and cheer at a game, as they tend to make them work the harder, too. How about it? Would you rather have your boys running the streets, smashing gangway on T.V., or developing physically and learning co-operation and sportsmanship under the guidance of interested men?

Nature Notes

HAWKS LIVING MOUSETRAPS

Hawks are magnificent and remarkable flyers. Their aerobatic feats are among the most fascinating in the bird world. The physical attributes enable them to fill an important role in nature. However, despite all this, hawks still remain the objects of much indiscriminate killing. Many the Hawks remain a mystery, their hourly mating without a wing-clapper hunting, their lovemaking, their home life are all unknown. Occasionally this lack of knowledge concerning the habits of our Hawks is replaced by manufactured matters or fairies and even sometimes maligned. This spring resolve to acquaint yourself with these exciting birds. Then evidently evaluate the significance of Hawks as members of a wildlife community.

Hawks may be classified into three groups according to wing shape. The Broad-Winged Hawks or Buteos are the mouse Hawks. Members of this genus are recognizable by their large size, broad, rounded wings and short fan-shaped tails. They are birds of the open. Their particular delight is the top of a dead tree. These are the Hawks that one hour soon hour they sail with assured by a wing motion. They ride the air currents, taking advantage of warm rising air. It is a common sight to see a Hawk stay in one of these thermals and rise higher and higher until it is a mere speck in the sky.

This seemingly leisure activity is a vigilant search for food. Even from heights of several hundred feet a Hawk's eyes can detect the slightest movements in the field below. Somehow more are the stage food of Buteos — the Red Tailed Broad - Winged, Red - Shouldered, Rough-Legged and Swainson Hawk.

The second group of Hawks is the Short-Winged Hawk or Accipiters Those are birds of swift pursuit Their short rounded wings and long tails enable them to manoeuvre with amazing dexterity and speed. Once they have spotted their prey, the chase is on and their quarry must be in top form to escape. Members of this class include the Goshawk, Cooper's Hawk and the Sharp-Shinned

BLACKLEG AND MALIGNANT EDEMA!

Do you vaccinate your calves every year for blackleg and malignant edema? These diseases are so prevalent in Alberta that regular vaccination should be a routine practice on cattle farms.

The main difference between blackleg and malignant edema, according to Dr. R. N. Vance, Assistant Director of the Alberta Veterinary Service Branch, is that blackleg usually attacks calves between 3 to 4 months and a year old, while malignant edema can affect animals of any age. Blackleg comes on in the spring and summer months while malignant edema is much more common in the winter months. Hence it is often referred to as winter or stable blackleg.

Both diseases are transmitted through the soil, often gaining entry to an animal through its feet. Occasionally the bacteria enters via a wound which has been contaminated by the soil.

The bacteria, which causes these diseases, form spores in the soil. The spores are very resistant to the weather conditions. Ordinary temperatures and chemicals seem to have no effect upon them. Once a calf have had either blackleg or malignant edema on your premises, the chances are that the farm will be permanently infected. Dr. Vance says spores have been known to produce these diseases after having been dormant for 20 years. Probably they can last longer than that.

Lameness and swollen limbs are symptoms of both diseases. If you run your hand over the affected portion you can usually feel gas under the skin. Treatment is not usually successful in either case because the diseases hit so quickly and hard that there is very little time to do anything.

Preventative treatment, however, is the form of bacterins, is very effective when properly carried out. The two most common mistakes at vaccinating the calves when they are too young and vaccinating once. If you vaccinate calves before they are old enough, their systems are too undeveloped for good immunity to take effect. Dr. Vance recommends vaccinating calves at three to four months of age and then again when they are weaned in the fall. If you do this you will get very good protection against both blackleg and malignant edema.

Burying the carcass of any animal which dies from either disease is another important preventative measure. It must be buried so deeply that there is no chance of spore spreading in the soil or into water courses. The carcass can also be burned. Old tires and used oil do a good job there.

The main point to remember with any disease is to make sure of the one you are dealing with by having an accurate diagnosis from a Vet. He can usually prevent it from spreading to the rest of the herd by prescribing precautionary treatment.

T. V. SHORT COURSE!

The Agricultural TV Short course held two weeks ago has drawn many and varied comments. Generally speaking interest was good and it was well received. However a few things should be and regarding certain parts of the program.

The Tuesday program was on Forage Crops. The program was good as far as it went. However little of what was said about legumes, grasses and crop rotation really applies to this area. Like most of the literature available the information was primarily for the farmers in the Deep Black Soil Zone. Besides practically neglecting us in the Brown and Thin Black Soil Zone, the pro-

MINOR HOCKEY ROUNDUP

Several of the Sedgewick Hockey teams suffered defeats over the past week.

The Juvenile Sabres suffered the first defeat, at the hands of the Daysland Elks on Sat. January 25. The score of 6-4 was a good indication of the play, as the Elks seem to improve on each outing. They also posted two wins over Irma.

Sedgewick Bantams broke to a rude awakening Thursday night as the Custer Bantams held the team that hopes to go into the Provincial Playoffs, to a 4-4 tie. Scoring for Sedgewick were Hiker, Meller, Lewis & Anderson. We in this corner feel that some of the rockiness still probably have been knocked out of their nails and now they will put out a bit more.

The Killam Pee Wees beat Sedgewick Kees 2-1 on Friday, with Ron Bradley scoring the only Sedgewick goal late in the third period.

Custer Midgets downed the Sedgewick team a few innings as they handed Bob Gangre Club a 9-1 loss. The score was not indicative of the play, as Sedgewick did come up with a few new plays. Scott Truax with 2 goals and Larry Burden with a score for Sedgewick.

Scores in other games were: Sabres 6, Camrose Lutherans 2; Sabres 6, Camrose 3; Sabres 6, Atlantic Sensors 11, Sedgewick Midgets 5, Forestburg 4.

The next home game for Sabres is Thursday Jan. 30th at 7.30 when Irma Imperials come to town. One person close to the Irma situation quotes this writer that the Imperials will double the score against the Sabres, so everyone come out & see for yourself.

On Sat., Feb. 1st Daysland Elks visit the Sabres.

Don't forget, Minor Hockey Week for Sedgewick is fast approaching

Down Memory's Lane

(By Mrs. F. M. Cantion, Hardisty, Alberta)

FRIENDS

A year or so before my family & I arrived in Manitoba from the State of Minnesota (in 1910), another family from the State of Iowa had settled on a farm two miles West of the town in which we decided to live. For obvious reasons I shall give them fictitious names.

There were three girls and four boys, most of them half grown, as well as the mother and dad. They were desperately poor as for as money and material things are concerned, but had that determination to succeed that is so very necessary in cases like theirs with a big family. Coupled with that, they were hardworkers also by setting on a rock-strewn, soil-poor farm, with buildings that would discourage almost anyone

Mr. Mac actually was a no-good husband and father, as he spent every cent he could get his hands on in drink. For a few years the town were sure he'd be put of customers Fell Tax through the country, but the family stay very little, if any, of the money. I can still see them driving an old horse hauls of bones supposed to be a horse, hitched to such a disreputable-looking buggy, Mr. Mac sitting over at the one side making the old buggy look worse than ever, as he was a big man and weighed the seat down considerably. One could hear him urging that poor old horse along the road, a half mile away, saying (always the same) "Git up dear, ye old paley cuss"

Getting no little financial help from her husband, poor Mrs. Mac, who was too independent and proud to ever complain, had to resort to some real strategic straits to feed and clothe her big family.

I might add here, she had a few hens, sold eggs, and, that money, coupled with what the children made occasionally from helping a neighbor or doing a few chores in town, had to do.

Mrs. Mac had been a school teacher before her marriage, and appreciated the fact that a good education was a must if one was to get any where in this world. Thus she decided if it all humanly possible all her children would get all the education she could give them, after public and high school was over.

A stranger, sizing things up fro mevery angle, would come to the conclusion that there wasn't a chance in the world, not only to see that those six children finished high school, but Normal of University, well, it was ridiculous to even consider the idea.

Mrs. Mac was one of those good old Scotch Presbyterians; the sort who if they put their shoulder to the wheel, set a goal, through almost insurmountable difficulties, made that goal. So before she passed on she saw her heart's desire accomplished in her children.

Of course she had instilled that desire in each one of these children, almost from infancy, so it is no wonder that each one, as they finished high school, he or she would find a job or position, and give most, if not all of their earnings to the mother, who cashed it away out of sight, where she wouldn't be tempted to use it, to help the next one through.

The eldest, a boy, was the first to finish high school, and at the age of 16, got a position in the Bank in our small town, at $35 a month, the going wage for such a position. As his folks lived just two miles down the track from town, Jack walked to and from work every day, winter & summer, saving boarding in town.

Mrs. Mac took new heart now when at the end of each month Jack would hand her his pay cheque just keeping out enough now and again to buy a pair of socks, or maybe a shirt or some needed article, but never spending any foolishly.

You may possibly have read about or heard of, "The little old teapot, on the mantle or on the cupboard" where the housewife "hoarded" her spare cash. Well, as poor Mrs. Mac had no mantle, nor cupboard, not even a spare teapot, for that matter, she always put Jack's money away in an old honey pail, with lid, and carefully put it away out of sight where, as she said, she wouldn't be tempted to use any of it; also as Mr. Mac wouldn't feel the need to "borrow a few bills?" once in a while.

Just one instance of Mrs. Mac's resourcefulness. Once during an extra cold winter, the oldest daughter, about 14 then, simply could not walk to and from school any longer, wearing summer dresses (made from flour and sugar sacks which Mrs. Mac had purchased at 15 cents each, and dyed them). So, she cut the barks from the tops of a pair of ech-wise worn-out trousers belonging to Mr. Mac, and by pinning them together, made a warm shirt for Vera, who wore it, using her summer dresses for bloomers. This was at least warmer.

4-H LEADERSHIP COURSES!!

A series of 17 regional one-day 4H Leadership Courses are scheduled for Alberta. The 4H Leadership Course for this area will be held in Camrose on February 17th.

Mr. Les Usher, Supervisor of Alberta 4H clubs says each course is designed to bring new information to leaders, to allow for an exchange of ideas and to discuss programmes suitable for the area.

Foremost among topics on the agenda is a session dealing with delegation of leadership responsibilities. Tying in with this will be a self-evaluation and a discussion of the various ways leaders can better equip themselves for the job. Leaders will be taking a close look at the plans of awards in 4H and at other things of specific interest in their district. Leaders and Assistant Leaders of all 4H Clubs are urged to attend the course scheduled for their area. Registration is set for 9.45 a. m.

The Bible Today

"How to read the Bible in one year" is one of the themes of the Canadian Bible Society during the sixtieth anniversary of the Society in Canada.

A simple plan has been suggested by the Rev. Professor A. R. Cragg of Winnipeg which is recommended by the Bible Society for 1964.

In order to read the 1,189 chapters of the Bible in one year, says Prof. Cragg, each morning read one chapter and each evening through the year, read two chapters. On Sundays until the end of September two additional chapters should be read, that is, five chapters instead of the usual three. On the Sundays of the last three months of the year, four chapters a day should be read.

This plan is the result of many requests for suggestions as to how to read the whole Bible in one year. Other plans have been prepared such as: "Read three pages a day." There are approximately 1000 pages in the average Bible.

Many people regularly read the Bible from Genesis to Revelation each year. One successful man in Toronto has done this for some 20 years. A gentleman in Chicago after reading it through each year for seventeen of years decided to write the whole Bible out by hand in order that its message might impress itself more clearly on his mind.

Hawk. They seldom soar but alternately flap and glide. They are experts at staying hidden and are seldom seen. The Sharp-shinned, the smallest of the trio, preys on small birds. The other two take larger birds as well, chickens included if accessible. However villainous this may seem, let us not condemn these birds as blackguards. They are merely fulfilling a task, that of keeping the bird population in check. Overpopulation of an area brings starvation and disease.

The last group of Hawks are the Pointed-Winged Hawks or Falcons. These smart-looking birds with the pointed wings are famous for their amazing power drive. The Peregrine Falcon is credited with attaining speeds of 200 miles an hour during its dive. Grasshoppers beetles, drop on flies, small birds and semi-wild pigeons are their main foods

Let us hope that gradually the value of these beautiful birds to man and wildlife is understood and appreciated. We can then look upon their activities with respect and admiration, for we know that the Hawks play a vital role in the economy of the out-of-doors.

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

ON THE SMOKE WAGON

Well, I guess I'm going to have to quit. That last report on cigarette smoking, the big brutal one from the U. S., has finally broken my nerve.

The report says definitely that the death rate among smokers, as compared to non-smokers, is ten times as high from lung cancer, 60 percent higher from coronary disease, and 6 times higher from pulmonary emphysema.

I had no objection to passing away from a perfectly normal, respectable disease of the 20th century, like lung cancer or a coronary, but the pulmonary emphysema has me scared. It sounds nasty.

I started smoking when I was about nine, in the old manger in my home town. A group of us urchins used to gather there and puff a dry weed known as "monkey tobacco," rolled in toilet paper. By the time we were twelve we were well into "makings". Tobacco and papers pinched from somebody's old man.

My dad didn't smoke, so I was always borrowing, and soon became a persona non grata, as we used to say in the gang.

Then I made a glorious discovery. My father had a shoe store. In those days the shoe manufacturers put long rounded straps of a bamboo-like dried reed in ladies' shoes, to help them keep their shape. This stuff, when ignited, burned steadily, could be drawn through, and produced volumes of a blue, soaring smoke that peeled the skin off your tongue like acid. I was a social success until my old man discovered all the toes in her ladies' shoes were beginning to point to heaven.

In high school I worried about my wind, for track and rugby, and smoked only a pipe. At college I didn't smoke at all. Couldn't afford it. In the Air Force, I had the odd cigarette, but had no problem with smoking.

In prison camp, I took the monkey on my back, and he's been using it spare and hash ever since. Why? Food was scarce, but cigarettes, thanks to the Red Cross and relatives at home, were fairly plentiful. My fellow inmates told me smoking cut the appetite. I tried it. And since then I have been a happy duck-a-day man. The smoking scares have come and gone, and I went right on blowing rings. But no more. Not with that pulmonary emphysema around.

In a way, I'm glad it's all over. No more hacking and hawking a lot morning. No more of that wild, belly wrenching lust for a drag on the job, at the movies, in church. No more of that frantic scrabbling through all the vest, jacket, pants, pyjamas, and overcoat pockets, looking for a butt, on a Sunday morning.

And they tell me you can be quite like dried reed in ladies' shoes, straight jackets, after you get used to it!

Holy smokes! I've gone through half a pack while writing this column. Say, what is pulmonary emphysema, anyway?

The Wednesday night Bible Study and Prayer meeting was well attended. At the short business meeting, which followed, a motion was made that we purchase also tables for the church dining hall, and that they be free-will donations from anyone who wishes to do so. A motion was also made to write to the Evangelical Church Council of Calgary pledging our support of the Billy Graham Crusade when it comes to Calgary.

The monthly W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Art Bergersen on Thursday night with nineteen ladies present, and Mrs. Dorothy Hesterberg, new president, as chairman. Roll call was answered by the name of a Missionary and field represented. A film was shown by Rev. Grymulaski entitled "Up Yonder the Red Flag," followed by a solo by Mrs. Jeanne White. Plans were made for our participation in the World's Day of Prayer. A committee was appointed to select a pattern for Layette dolls which will be purchased for the kitchen. Thank You's were expressed for a number of Christmas boxes, fervs and gifts recently distributed.
